An interesting move has been made by the Ranelagh Club of England in the shape of the establishment of a new tournament for the "King's Coronation Cup," that title having received the approval of his Majesty the King. The cup is a $1,250 challenge trophy given by the club committee, with four souvenir cups to the winners.

It will be played for annually in July, and is open only to the winners of the Inter-Regimental Tournament, the Hurlingham Champion Cup, and the Ranelagh Open Cup, and approved teams representing India and the colonies and Dominions of the Empire.

Much interest is certain to attach to the King's Coronation Cup, more particularly should the Champion Cup and the Ranelagh Open Cup be won by different teams, as is frequently the case. The two sides could meet in the new tournament for a trial of strength.

The new tournament will take place during the county polo week at Ranelagh, and will give country players an admirable chance of seeing first-class polo.

New Zealand resembles Italy, not only in shape, but in size, climate and natural conditions.

PIRACY IN CHINA

The River Pirates of Manchuria are Numerous and Bloodthirsty

Piracy still flourishes in Manchuria, according to advices from Vladivostok. The Sungari river appears to be infested by desperate bands of "Chunchuses," whose raids on passing steamers are becoming a terror to Russian travelers.

Recently a bloodthirsty horde boarded a Russian steamer, overpowered all resistance from the native crew, which was somewhat feeble, and murdered two Russian male passengers. They were about to put a Russian woman and two children to death, but the Chinese passengers interfered, and the pirates contented themselves with robbing them of everything they possessed, even their clothing. After throwing the bodies of the two murdered men overboard, the pirates made off, and it is quite impossible to hope for any punitive action from the Chinese officials who are either terrorised by, or in league with, these marauders.

BEFORE TREATMENT

AFTER TREATMENT

He was surprised at how the sores healed—I took your New Method Treatment for a serious blood disease with which I had been afflicted for twelve years. I had consulted a score of physicians taken all kinds of blood medicine, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after discontinuing the medicines the symptoms would break out again—running sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, looseness of the hair, swellings of the glands, palms of the hands scaling, itchiness of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 8 years ago. I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks' time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the New Method Treatment for four months and at the end of that time every symptom had disappeared. I was cured 7 years ago and no signs of any disease since. My boy, three years old, is sound and healthy. I certainly can recommend your treatment with all my heart. You can refer any person to me privately, but you can use this testimonial as you wish. W. THE WHIPPERSNAPPER K. O. WHO COULD FIGHT

STORY of a Pomaded Warrior, Who, When the Emergency Came, Proved That All His Chatter of Battle Had the Real Courage Behind It

THIS story is told by a man once surgeon in the regular army who served for four years in the Philippines during the Spanish War and subsequent troubles and later was attached to the Philippine Scouts. For obvious reasons the author desires to remain anonymous and has concealed the names of the officers concerned. For the rest he gives a true account of a remarkable character and a great fight.

THERE we were, a company of us, tucked away in the jungle at Desmones, Province of Albay, Island of Luzon, surrounded by hills that crawled with little brown men, so frayed in the nerves that we ducked every time a stinging fly buzzed through the molten sunlight, thinking it to be a bullet.

Now I ask you, was that a time for soldiers to feel that they were commanded by a frivoling nonentity, a Dominatee Furiose in gold braid and pomaded mustaches?

Of course the lieutenants had known about it from the start, and I, as surgeon, had heard and seen enough a week after being assigned to the post. But the worst of it was that the men had heard the whispers. An officer may lack all confidence in his superior, believe him to be as hollow as a drum, and still do his duty. He has the training and the tradition of the service to back him, if nothing more. But men want to feel that they follow the orders of a captain who knows his business. And when they can't they go to battle with yellow lips and a chill in the pits of their stomachs.

And, besides, this wasn't battle. No heat of action and fury of strife for stimulant while we sulked about our wretched barracks. Corporal Dan was crossing the street with a shouted jest to a comrade on his tongue when a dum-dum whined in between the huts and his phrase ended in a gurgle. The company beat the woods about until sunset and came shambling back to stumble upon the bodies of two of their comrades in a thicket they had passed, stabbed and ripped and killed with never a cry. That takes the starch out of the rank and file, that sort of thing. And it calls for strong faith in Providence and the K. O., which latter we lacked.

Our K. O. was a volunteer. The department in its infinite wisdom may know how he came to be in charge on the borders of the Camarines, where Lukdon, the wiliest and most dangerous of robber chieftains, harried the country. To us who served under him it was one of the freak cants of evil fortune past explanation.

Captain B——'s military experience up to the time he received his commission had been gained as member of a light artillery company in Florida. Sounds well doesn't it? Speaking of light artillery, you get a mental picture of galloping steeds, jingling harness, pounding guns and carriages, all the dash and pageantry of the most picturesque arm of the service. But the Captain's light artillery had been a very different kind—sort of an exclusive little club, where popping corks supplied the circumstance of war and officers were promoted on the basis of the number of quarts they could assimilate.

Far from regarding this schooling as a matter too trivial for mention in the midst of a deadly, grim campaign, the Captain was inordinately proud of it. It gave him material for endless anecdotes. "When I was lef'nant in the light ahtillery, suh," was his favorite clutch on the conversation. It came to be sickening. To see the man stand there teetering on his toes and throwing out his little pigeon breast and endlessly twisting at his perfumed mustache while he told us tales of drinking bouts, and Lukdon's men picking us off like cattle the while, was enough to make one want to start an insurrection of one's own.

Well, the long and short of it was the men believed the Captain to be incompetent and cursed him soundly, and the officers thought they knew the Captain was a fool or worse and prayed that he might get in the way of one of those whining jungle missives. Looking back on it I can see that the post was well ordered and maintained throughout, though no one could have made me acknowledge it at the time. We had our opinion of Captain B——, founded on our observation of him, and nothing he did was right. His brisk insistence upon discipline we regarded as a sham and his high respect for himself and his abilities as offensive affectation.

The first incident that might have served to enlighten us happened on a breathless hot night when four or five of us had gathered at the Captain's quarters on the second floor of a decaying shack above the storeroom. We had come through no friendship for the Captain, but as a concession to etiquette and a sense of beer which he had managed to get through somehow. The shades to all the windows were thrown wide and we sprawled in our chairs, coats loosened and collars off, gasping for the breeze that never came. The beer was warm and flat, everything was sticky and humid and our tempers were raw edged. So we sipped and grunted and eyed each other suspiciously and suffered as we had learned to suffer in the steaming jungle.

The Captain alone remained chipper and satisfied. He had the floor to himself and he went bubbling along in his jovial way during moments of relaxation. We were not very attentive. I am afraid we yawned at him. When he rose by the table, glass in hand, under the swinging lamp and proposed a toast, we glowered unresponsive.

"Gentlemen," he began, "when I was lef'nant in the light ahtillery"——

Bang! Something hummed through the window. There was the sharp crack and tinkle of broken glass, and over all on the hillside the sharp report of a rifle. We heard the nervous challenging of the guards below. The Captain was still standing there with his head whirling. Little rivulets of beer were trickling down his sleeve and dripping from his elbow. The pallid had filled the top off his glass, leaving the base and the stem of two of rim in his grasp. We stared at him. He was twirling a little as he twisted his mustache, with his left hand.

"——and though he apparently has no mind to be so favored, I must insist upon the ceremony. Suhs, the enemy, a brave and worthy one, we must admit."

He finished as evenly as he had begun and without shifting from his position he swallowed the few drops the bullet had left him.

I don't know whether any of us gave the word or not, but I do know that we all sprang to our feet and drank with him. It was only later, when we broke up for the night, that we began to cast around for an adjustment of what we had witnessed.

"Damned little coxcomb," grumbled Lieutenant F—— to me as we crossed the street. "Just some more of his infernal posing."

"Yes," I agreed, "but it was pretty nervy, don't you think?"

"Nervy nothing!" snorted F——. "The thing had happened, hadn't it? And he wasn't hurt. No, he just saw a chance to show what an ill-fired ironside he was, and he played up to it."

"Gentlemen," He Began, "When I Was Lef'nant in the Light Artillery"—

"On Wheels."

Such was the opinion of the company when the matter was noised around. The time had passed when the men's conception of the Captain's character could be altered by such trifles. It was agreed that he had done the thing for effect.

"Tryin' to make out he's a reg'ler son of a gun on wheels," said Davis, the lanky private from Tombstone. And the phrase went the rounds.

Another occurrence not long after confirmed the impression and gave us many opportunities for further scorn and mockery of our commander. The wet season was upon us and for all our preparation we began to run out of dry wood. It rained ceaselessly and we lived in a constant bath. The condition was serious. We could do no cooking, and that meant cold food and bad water, with fevers and dysentery at the end.

The Captain had sent a requisition for stove wood to the adjutant of a post four miles distant. The wood was overdue and the Captain was in a fret about it all day. About midnight he broke out with a roar and dashed into the clerk's quarters where the telephone was. A line had been installed to the post in question and he rang the bell furiously. The clerk's quarters, it should be said, consisted of a cubbyhole in the barracks and the clatter of the bell woke the whole company out of its beauty sleep. This was what they heard at the telephone:—

"That you, Adjutant? Now, suh, where in hell is my stove wood? Hey?"

"Coming? Damn it all, suh, it's been coming these forty hours. I want it, you hear me, suh?"

"What's that? Don't like?—Damn it all, suh, what's that to me?"

"Suh? I have the hoosh to ask you to repeat that, suh."

"Back to bed, I believe you said, suh?"

"Very good, suh. Now, you listen to me. Owing to our position I am unable to proceed in due form. We will waive the ceremonies, suh. At six o'clock precisely you will mount your horse. I will do the same. Service rifles, suh. We will ride to'd each othah on the road and begin firing at sight. That should be satisfactory, suh. Do you agree, suh?"

"Hello, hello! Damn the man, he's gone."

The wood arrived before dawn the following morning, but we gave the Captain none of the credit for its appearance. We were too busy commenting upon his pompous absurdity.

Lukdon, the guerilla, had been doing about as he pleased in the province of North Camarines and along the border of Albay. He profited about this time by a strange error of the authorities. Proclamation was made that $15 would be paid for every gun surrendered by a native. The idea was that the insurrectionists would be unable to resist so good a bargain and would be willing to lay down their arms for the price named. All that Lukdon did was to turn in to the United States officials a choice lot of ancient muskets and worthless rifles, a picturesque lot of old junk. He received the money and promptly used it through secret agents to purchase a shipment of Remingtons. The net result was to strengthen him enormously.

There came a native to our camp one day who demanded to be led before the commander. He informed the Captain that he was an emissary from Lukdon. From his story it appeared that the bandit chief was tired of resistance and had it in mind to surrender. Desiring to open negotiations he had sent to our K. O. He would wait up in the hills, he said, and yield himself to any force led in person by the Captain. Questioned as to why Lukdon should have picked out a post in Albay wherewith to make his peace, the messenger answered that Lukdon had fought so often with the troops in North Camarines that he thought it fitting to seek a leader who had never opposed him in battle.

The Principles of War.

This was all very well, but most unlikely. As a dodge it was not worthy of the sly insurgent and I think that that thought was uppermost in the Captain's mind as he fumed over the message.

"Damn it all, suh," he said, "can't these rascals construct a better yahn?"

However, he announced that night, to our great astonishment, that we would march the next day with fifteen men. Lieutenant F—— undertook to remonstrate with him, diplomatically.

"It's a trap, Captain," he said.

"Of co'se it is," bellowed the K. O. "Don't I know it's a trap? Do you think I don't know the principles of wah, suh? Why, when I was a lef'nant in the light ahtillery we discussed all these matters. The' was a problem expounded:—What should be done if the enemy took to firing Lyddite shells. And the answer was, suh, to beat him at his own game and use fo'ty rod whiskey. Beat him at his own game, suh. Lukdon will think we're fooled, and so we will be until he tries to spring the trap. Then he'll know he'e caught a Tahtah, suh; a Tahtah."

Well, perhaps that didn't send Lieutenant F—— away with a flea in his ear. He threw up both hands. According to him the Captain was bent upon the destruction of the command. Led on by his conceit and vanity, this graduate of the light artillery thought that fighting a Filipino chieftain was as easy as letting the sizzle out of a champagne bottle. Lieutenant F—— was convinced that the end had come, and the other officers were in little better state. It really seemed as if the banquet soldier with his ruffings and posings was about to make a grave mistake.

When the word went out to the men, however, it aroused very different emotions. The K. O. had never come so near to being popular as he was that night. The inaction, the sniping from ambush, the damp weeks of indoors, had brought their spirits to a low ebb. Now, with the prospect of an expedition and real service, they forgot their troubles in a whoop of delight. All wanted to go, even my sick in the hospital.

"I'll forgive that little rooster anything if he ranges me up near the devil who got Dan," said Private Davis.

There was bitterness and disappointment next morning when the Captain made up his party. He picked fifteen men from the ranks, Davis among them, with Lieutenant F—— and myself. F—— smiled sourly when he noted this arrangement.

We set out in a spell of terrific heat. The sun was out upon a world that dripped and oozed and the humidity was almost unbearable. We were badly shaken about noon when one of the men went crazy. I took him into the ambulance and kept him quiet by humoring him in his vagaries. It was not a cheerful task.

Before dusk we came to Bayan, a small village in the Camarines, strongly garrisoned by a detachment of veteran troops. We marched in under a pall of smoke to find half the town burnt to the ground and the commissary building still in flames. This was the work of the pacific Lukdon, whose submission we were to have received. He had made a vicious attack that morning and had been driven off after three charges upon the old stone fort, stout relic of the Spanish days, where the Stars and Stripes now floated.

The commanding officer met us at the entrance of the fort. "Well, Captain," he hailed; "what's up?"

Our K. O. smiled around at the scene of war and twisted his mustache. "Why, suh, just a little exploring expedition. We'll push right on, I guess, after a bite and rest."

We passed an endurable evening with the officers, though Captain B—— perpetrated several of his worst "light ahtillery" stories before going into mysterious conference with the commander of the post. We started again at two o'clock in the morning, leaving the ambulance behind. The messenger was still our guide, and we followed him out into a black chaos of pelting rain and slippery mud. The season had closed up on us again, and to make up for time lost the downpour was a solid sheet.

In the Jungle.

Rough going we found it, and worse as we proceeded. The trail led off through weary miles of rice fields toward the mountains. The fields, of course, were all under water, and we marched in single file along the dikes, keeping the uncertain path, scarcely more than a foot wide, as best we might. Each man could just make out the blurred bulk of the man ahead of him. At every step you felt the slimy soil sliding away under one foot and recovered only to plunge heavily to the dike as the other slipped from the path. Walking the slack wire had nothing on this.

We were thoroughly soaked and mired soon after starting, but after each one of us had fallen a few dozen times and rid himself of the expletives that came handiest we lapsed into dogged silence. Once I heard the man behind me inquiring softly of the night why, why he had left his happy, happy home. No answer forthcoming, he amused himself by falling off the dike three times in as many minutes.

At daybreak we were up to the foothills—and a sorry lot as we looked each other over, caked with mud and down at the mouth! The Captain was fussing around about his uniform. He had taken a header off the dike on his chest and he was a sight for gods and men. The strain was beginning to tell on Lieutenant F——.

"Will you hear to the man?" he rasped in my ear. "And we're all within half a day of judgment!"

We sat in a circle on the mud and ate a meal of bacon and hardtack, enlivened by one can of tomatoes some one had brought along. Nobody had much to say. We had all begged so hard to be taken along that we couldn't very well make our moan about it. Of course, now that we wanted to be cool, the rain stopped and the sun came blazing out.

As we toiled up into the foothills we could see the path we followed winding up and up ahead of us over the green and golden slopes. The place where we were scheduled to meet our old chum Lukdon lay on a plateau some miles away, just under the frowning heights of the craggy range, according to the guide. We gave little thought to what might be in store for us there. Just as the misery of the dikes had worn us to stupid silence, so now it seemed that we had always been laboring up an ascent, drenched and wheezing, under the burning brass bowl of the skies, and that we must go on and on in dumb distress forever.

Topping a rise we sighted the slender bamboo frame of a watch tower on another hill, across the valley. It was swarming with little red objects which looked like ants, but which we needed no instructor to identify as Filipino insurgents in their bright scarlet coats. The Captain immediately detached Sergeant Hays with ten men and ordered him to clear out the nest and destroy the watch tower.

This manoeuvre, which was without meaning to me, bereft Lieutenant F—— of speech. He dropped to the path and sat there wagging his head sadly and turning a wild eye once and again upon the Captain. If ever a West Pointer was hard put to it to suppress the surgings of revolt F—— was that one.

Over on the opposite rise, as yellow as a wheat field in the sunlight, we watched the thin line of our men deploying and hurrying up the slope, the blue of their shirts showing sharp against the hill. Above them the red coated insurgents bustled about, the crack, crack of the Remingtons giving snappy welcome. Hays brought his squad up quietly through the grass and then advanced in skirmishing order, firing rapidly. The natives stood their ground for a few volleys and then fell back beyond the crest. After destroying the tower the sergeant brought his men back, reporting no injuries.

Late in the afternoon we approached the plateau where we were told Lukdon would surrender to us. The men had worn out all their enthusiasm, and the apparent hopelessness of the situation had begun to weigh upon them. The Captain's action against the watch tower had been on the offensive and they were now far into the enemy's country. It was growled back and forth that fifteen men might be enough to take a surrendered chieftain but were certainly not enough to confront the guerilla's force in pitched battle. It was a moment when the K. O.'s unpopularity cropped to the surface. Under a favorite leader no soldier ever thinks of consequences. He will follow on through hell fire. But under one that is disliked each private believes himself privileged to doubt and criticise.

Shows His Mettle.

The path was now difficult and rocky under foot, twisting between impenetrable walls of foliage that made it impossible to throw out scouts. Hays and two others marched ahead. After them straggled our little column, myself and the Captain at the rear. He was in a new again about something and kept crisping his mustache and halting to scan the valley below us and the opposite line of hills with his glass.

We ran into it when we came out upon the jungled level of the plateau. The first warning I had was a sharp cry from the messenger as he leaped from my side and threw himself into the bushes. The Captain whipped out an oath and his revolver and took a shot at him, shouting an order to close up and kneel. Then from the thicket to the left of the trail burst the crashing roll of a volley, with thin spurts of blue smoke, and Bedlam broke loose.

The quick word to kneel probably saved our command from annihilation, the Filipinos, as usual, aiming high. Crouching in the path, our men answered the fire, pumping at random into the thicket. Where the enemy maintained the attack with dendish yells and continued shooting. Some one said "Jim's hit!"

In a daze I crawled to the fallen man. A dum-dum had torn away half of his neck. As I worked at the red, ragged wound, looking into the still spattered face, with powder fumes pinching my nostrils, savage yelling, barking reports and the whine of bullets in my ear, I could hear the clear, even voice of the Captain intoning orders. It gave me a queer sort of comfort, and the mist cleared from my vision as I unwound my bandages.

We were heavily outnumbered. So much was clear from the deafening rip and rattle of rifles from up and down the thicket. But under the Captain's commands we took cover at the right of the path and our men began carefully placing their shots wherever the waving of fronds or drifting wisps of smoke betokened an enemy.

They began to find us. The spit spatter of lead through the foliage was like the quickening of an April shower. Flashes of red and scowling brown faces behind gleaming rifle barrels showed from the copse and the yells rose shriller. As I trundled to another wounded man I passed the Lieutenant, curled behind a bush. He had snatched up the fallen rifle and was pumping it deliberately like any private. The Captain was at the end of the line. At intervals his voice dominated the din, urging slow aim and low.

Suddenly I saw him spring to his feet and with an unintelligible yell dart off down the path through the sleet of bullets. A snarling cry, half curse, half sob, broke from F—— and his rifle swung around to cover the fugitive. I caught his arm before he could fire and he struggled with passion drawn face. Still I held him back, unable to believe what he, in his obsession, was sure of, that the Captain was committing the most loathsome fault. The men had seen, and they, too, cursed him, cowering closer in despair.

Then, from down the path, came a whooping cheer, followed by the smashing discharge of a heavy volley. The Filipino yells answered with a new note. We all stood up, unmindful of our danger, and peered down the path. We were just in time to see the Captain, waving his sword, leap into the thicket toward the enemy and at his heels a long line of blue shirted men.

"By God, it's the boys from Bayan!" shouted Davis. "Come on!"

And our little squad led its bewildered lieutenant in a mad, reckless charge against the hidden enemy before us.

It was a great fight. The reinforcements, cleverly arranged for by the Captain, had hurried up the valley to be on hand when the trap should be sprung on us. The natives had no warning of this supplementary force, owing to the destruction of their watch tower and the cutting of their line of information by the K. O.'s clever tactics. They outnumbered us now by no more than four to one, a very fair proportion, and what with the surprise and the yelping enthusiasm of our charge we drove them.

We of the Captain's company had one good view of him before the rout as he headed the Bayan contingent to close quarters. In his left hand he brandished the splintered shard of his sword. He had thrown away his useless revolver and in his right he swung a clubbed rifle, twirling it like a blackthorn. He was hatless, torn and streaked with mud and blood. The passage of the thicket had ripped his uniform to shreds. One cheek was open from temple to chin. His voice had boarsened to a raven croak. And so, a raging, thirsting demon, he fell upon the enemy and crushed the nearest rebel to the ground as the rifles whiffed in his face.

In five minutes the thing was over. The Filipinos, shedding gaudy coats, guns and ammunition, plunged into the jungle, where we could not hope to pursue, leaving a heavy loss behind them. The first thing I remember after the hurly-burly of the final struggle was Lieutenant F——, speechless with shame and pride—shame of himself and pride of the other—wringing the K. O.'s hand while the adoring squad looked on.

"Pretty good, suh, what?" gasped the Captain, reaching a hand for his scorched and bedraggled mustache. "Now, when I was a lef'nant in the light ahtillery, suh—we learned the value—of a flank movement—always flank, suh—when you can."

And I heard Private Davis murmur reverently:—

"Who said he wasn't? Who said he wasn't a little son of a gun on wheels?"

We didn't capture Lukdon, but we cut up his force badly and he was captured some time later and imprisoned for life.

REGISTERING THEIR DEBTS

A REGISTERED letter is mighty effective bait. The Seventy-eighth street woman nibbled at the first throw.

"Of course, it is for me," she said. "That is my name and that was my address before I moved here."

"Yes, that part of it is all right," the postman admitted, "but it says 'Esq.' You're not esquire."

"No," sighed the woman, "but I am sure"——

"Of course you are sure," he put in, "but I cannot leave the letter. This is a registered letter, and we have to be very careful of registered mail. The best I can do is to give you the name and address of the writer; then you can make inquiry and ask to have the letter addressed properly."

The woman eyed the prosperous looking mailgirl yearningly, but since the compromise offered was the best bargain obtainable she accepted it. The situation was puzzling. The name of her benefactor was totally unknown. Fortunately he was situated in a downtown office building, so immediately after luncheon she attempted to elucidate the mystery of the registered letter. Once inside the office she recognized her correspondent as the manager of a concern to which she had owed $2 for typewriting supplies for the last six months. She mentioned the letter; the man produced a bill.

"It was a copy of this," he said. "You had moved—we could not find you—were oversight on our part, of course—still, in order to keep our accounts square,—you understand"——

The woman was so mad she wasn't sure whether she understood or not, but she paid the bill. When she had gone the manager treated himself to a fresh cigar.

"Registered letters," he said, "are the best detectives going when the person you are after moves frequently and is guilty of no greater crime than shirking a little bill. An ordinary letter, even though forwarded to the proper address, may elicit no reply, but very few can withstand the appeal of a registered letter. To bring results it must, of course, be improperly directed, so that the addressee cannot receive it. In that case it either arouses sufficient curiosity to bring the delinquent down here to investigate or is returned with the proper address marked on the envelope. In either event we get on the track of the debtor and are pretty sure to collect the money."

The old Kimball house stood alone on the side of the hill. Around it the acres that one generation had cleared and two others had profitably tilled during the golden age of New England agriculture were growing up to birch and white pine. But the hilltop pasture still furnished grazing for Betsy, the aged Holstein, and Jael, the pot-bellied mare, sole survivors of the stock that once crowded the white-washed barn, while in the garden grew potatoes, corn, turnips, beets and the other hardy truck that wintered in a corner of the big cellar and enabled the Kimball "girls" to sit by their air tight stove and watch with unconcern the storms that blocked the roads and sometimes shut them off from the store at the Center for days at a time.

Breakfast over and the dishes washed, the sisters went into the garden. Every pleasant day until the sun rose high and hot they worked there. Blue cotton gowns faded by constant washing covered their thin, bowed figures as they stooped over the onion bed or with the hand cultivator scratched the earth between the hills of beans and corn. Blue gingham sunbonnets protected their delicately wrinkled faces.

Miss Binley, seeing them for the first time, paused to study and admire. Against the background of yellow green cornstalks their bent figures stood out in harmonious relief. In the foreground the whitewashed fence, the prim flower beds and the old house with its rotting shingles and weather washed green blinds contributed a setting that appealed irresistibly to her artist soul.

"Oh, Mr. Holbrook," cried the girl regretfully, "see those perfectly dear old women in that onion patch. What a genre study! I've often said it never was safe to go anywhere without a camera."

"I might run back and fetch it," suggested the carrier meekly.

"N-no," she replied reluctantly. "It's too far. Probably we can get them some other time. I'm going to speak to them."

Young Holbrook watched with adoring admiration the process by which the girl penetrated the barriers of New England reserve. Before the three women had conversed five minutes something of Miss Binley's own abundant youth and enthusiasm began to sparkle in the faded eyes of the sisters.

"Oh, Marthy, don't you wish we could have ours taken again? We haven't had our likenesses made since we were girls. Remember, Marthy, you were thirty and I was thirty-five. You were a mighty pretty girl in those days, Marthy."

"Oh, g'long," commanded her younger sister.

"It used to be a turrible lot of trouble," continued Phoebe. "We had to sit puffickly still for five minutes—couldn't stir, and it seemed like five hours."

"You wouldn't have to sit still at all now," said Miss Binley eagerly. "The process is instantaneous."

"That's very kind of you, miss, but we couldn't think of putting you to so much trouble."

Familiar with the fundamental characteristic of the older New England generation, Miss Binley advanced cautiously. Already in her artist mind she saw the print she would make—a marvelous study of two gaunt figures wringing an unwilling toll from the harsh mountain soil. It was the subject she had been looking for all summer to enter in the fall exhibit of her camera club at home. "Oh, it won't trouble me in the least," she replied guardedly. "If you know how I love to take pictures you would understand. Would you be here in the garden at this time tomorrow?"

"Yes," answered Martha, yielding. "But wouldn't you rather take us in the house. Do folks ever have their pictures taken outdoors?"

"The light is much better outside," explained Miss Binley. "And, besides, I wouldn't think of keeping you from your work. I'll come and take some snapshots of you just as you are—weeding the onions."

"You can come with me tomorrow," she said to Holbrook. "I had promised to drive with Johnny Larcom, but all engagements are off in the face of an epoch making chance like this."

The next morning brought weather perfect alike for pedestrianism and photography. The day was cool, and a thin haze tempered the rays of the mountain sun. Miss Binley ran down the steps to meet him, radiant with anticipation, and as he received the big camera from her hands Holbrook thrilled with the thought of another morning at her side.

"There's some one in the garden," said the young man as the last turn in the road brought them in sight of their destination. "But they don't accord with my recollection of the old ladies. Holy smoke!" gasped the youth. "It's they, all right, but no wonder we didn't recognise them."

Miss Binley gazed, speechless in horrified amazement, as her two subjects approached the gate. Gone were the picturesque gowns and the sunbonnets of faded blue. In their place the Kimballs had donned a veritable riot of modistry. Their costumes paid tribute to the varying fashions of a full half century.

But the faded countenances of the Kimballs showed naught but pride and satisfaction, slightly tinged with embarrassment. "We set up most all night sortin' things over and decidin' what to wear," announced Miss Phoebe when they came within speaking distance. "Of course we wanted to do you credit, seein' you were so kind. These silk mitts cost a sight of money when Brother Hiram brought them from Concord. They're pretty well darned now, but all the mendin's on the inside where it don't show. Don't Marthy look scrumptious? She found that silk skirt she had made up for the Frost weddin' most as good as new."

Holbrook welcomed the old lady's volubility, for it was plain that for once his companion was at a loss for words. When Miss Binley finally found her voice it was so queer and strained that he scarcely recognised it:

"I—I'm sorry you went to all the trouble. Really, it wasn't at all necessary. In fact"—

"In fact," broke in Holbrook hurriedly—"nevertheless it was awfully good of you to fix up so. That certainly is a fine piece of goods, Miss Martha. It will show up splendidly in the photograph."

He rambled on thus, hardly realising what he said, anxious only to cover the bitter disappointment that was written on Miss Binley's face so clearly that he felt it must be evident to all.

"'Twarn't the least bit of trouble," insisted Martha. "We really enjoyed fixin' things over, didn't we, Phoebe?"

Holbrook was wondering how long his powers of invention would stand the strain when, after a brief and—to him—uncomfortable pause, Miss Martha suggested timidly, "We're all ready, miss, any time you say."

To Holbrook's intense relief this appeal brought Miss Binley to a sense of the situation. "Oh, yes," she said, rather wildly, "your clothes are beautiful. I'm going to send you each a dozen prints so that you can have plenty to give your friends."

Declining a hospitable invitation to stop for a "snack and a cup of tea," the girl and the young man somehow got through their farewells and walked away over the hill, leaving the wearied but thoroughly delighted old ladies gazing after them from their station by the front gate. In silence Holbrook lugged the camera, and without a word Miss Binley trudged beside him until the old house and its grotesquely clad occupants were hidden by the bend in the road. Then the girl said:

"Would you mind sitting here in the shade a minute? I really believe I'm a bit tired."

Immediately the youth was all anxious inquiry and suggestion:

"It must have been the sun. You have to be careful in these mountains. If you don't mind waiting here alone for a couple of minutes I'll hurry back and see if the old ladies won't lend me some kind of a rig to drive you back to the hotel, or maybe you'll let me carry you back to their house."

"Don't be ridiculous," ordered Miss Binley, with a slightly hysterical laugh. "There isn't a thing the matter with me." Then, noting his amazement, she burst out desperately: "I'm just fearfully disappointed, that's all. I don't believe I ever was so disappointed before in my life. But that's only part. I'm horribly ashamed of myself, too—even more ashamed than disappointed. Oh, I believe I'm the meanest girl in the whole state of New Hampshire."

"Why—er—er"— he started to protest.

"Don't pretend you don't comprehend," she interrupted. "You're ashamed of me too. You know you are. No; let me finish," she insisted, when he made as if to deny. "The worst of all is that even now, when I understand how mean and selfish it is to feel so, I'm just overwhelmed with disappointment still. You can't understand—nobody could but an artist. My heart was set on a picture of those dear old things in their delicious working clothes. And when I saw how they had gone and spoiled everything I felt so badly I didn't even want to conceal it."

Holbrook gazed with awe and quickening heartbeat upon a new and holier divinity—with quivering lips and dewy lashes, irresistible in her sweet repentance. In another moment he was on his knees on the grass beside her. Without hesitation, naturally as if he had done it as often as he had dreamed of doing it, his arm slipped about her. Just as naturally her head somehow found a comfortable place on his shoulder. Her hat fell off, and he kissed her shining hair.

"I do understand," he whispered, although there was none but the mountains to listen. "I understand, dear. I may be an ignoramus about photography and art, but I'm mighty well acquainted with Tommy Holbrook, and I know he knows that you're the sweetest, most unselfish, most— What I want to say is that I want to make carrying your camera my life job," he concluded desperately.

Miss Binley sat suddenly erect. An answer hovered on her lips, but faded into a smile as she picked up a black, leather covered object from the grass beside her and placed it in Holbrook's hands.

AEROPLANES.

New Facts Versus Old Theories in the Conquest of the Air.

One of the long accepted theories of science had to be overthrown before there could be a practical start made in mechanical flying. It was Professor S. P. Langley who gave this theory its quietus and established the new law in aerodynamics. Newton, the gravity discoverer, had figured out a certain graduated scale of resistance affected by the air against objects moving through it. Nobody thought to question it until a French scholar applied Newton's law in the case of the flight of a bird. He figured it out that to attain the speed at which a swallow flies it would be necessary for that little feathered aviator to possess the strength of a Harvard fullback. Professor Langley demonstrated by practical tests that a brass plate weighing one pound lost fifteen ounces of that weight when whirled through the air at the rate of seventy miles an hour. It weighed only one ounce—that's new aerodynamics—and Newton was immediately ruled out as an authority in this particular line. According to Newton's law Grahame-White would have been compelled to develop the power of the Twentieth Century limited to accomplish that trip to Boston light. Three hundred years of precedents were swept away when Professor Langley established the new law of aerodynamics.—William Chapple in National Magazine.

Rockefeller's Motoring Regalia.

H. M. Briggs, who was for a long time Mr. Rockefeller's close friend and bodyguard, gives in the American Magazine this picture of Mr. Rockefeller in his motoring garb:

"On occasions when he went motoring Mr. Rockefeller would be dressed in a long silk coat of bright yellow, from underneath which peeped a Japanese paper vest that he explained was an infallible protection against catching cold. And the hat—it was of finely woven straw, light as a feather, turtle shaped and secured by two strong cords tied under the chin. Like the headpiece of a rickshaw man. A pair of heavy goggles covered his eyes. As we approached the city he would exchange this hat for a cap. Sometimes he would borrow a veil from one of the ladies of the party, and when she had tied it down over his ears the effect was startling."

The Lottery In Cuba.

No country can hope to prosper which not merely permits but actually encourages gambling. The Cuban government expected to get a large part of its revenue from the national lottery, only to find the amount falling far below expectations, not because the lottery is waning in popularity, but simply because the steady drain on the resources of the poor has deprived them of the means of buying more tickets. Soon after the lottery was introduced there began a significant and steadily increasing rise in the number of ejectments for nonpayment of rents. Schoolteachers, too, tell harrowing stories of children unable to go to school because of lack of shoes or others practically starving because every cent went in the lottery.—Leslie's.

One Paris lawyer has just had his name struck off the rolls because it was discovered that he acted as the regular legal adviser to the Apache fraternity, from which he drew $6,000 annually in fees. One day recently he was engaged to defend an Apache in a suburban court. His client was not satisfied with the lawyer's procedure in the case, and after a heated argument outside the court the client threw the lawyer into the river Marne.

Suez Canal Profits.

England paid $19,262,097 for her Suez canal shares. On these in the last fifteen years she has received dividends and interest amounting to $68,681,710, or considerably more than three times as much as their total cost. The investment was made overnight without authority by the late Earl of Beaconsfield. Up to July 1, 1894, the khedive of Egypt got the profits.

Up to Date.

"I thought you declared after your marriage that wild horses could not drag you back to the stage."

"They didn't," replied the actress. "I came in a taxi. Say, do you know the fare to Reno?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Natural Conclusions.

"There goes a man," some one said to Brother Dickey, "who has three living wives."

"My, my!" he exclaimed. "Was he bo'n crazy or lost his mind growin' up?"—Atlanta Constitution.

A Problem.

"When our twins get their clothes off we can't tell them apart."

War Office Fears Long Campaign in Persia.

London, Dec. 28.—Reports received yesterday from Southern Persia and from Dibai, Arabia, have alarmed the War Office. They indicate clearly that the recent engagement between English bluejackets from the cruiser Hyacinthe and the tribesmen at Dibai, in which fourteen sailors and three times this number of natives were slain, was only the beginning of a widespread campaign against the British, who are accused of seeking the permanent occupation of Southern Persia.

A despatch from Bushire, on the southern coast of Persia, says that the English consulate at Bander, Abbas, a town of strategical importance, has been fortified against attack, and that a gun platform has been erected outside the consulate.

All mails to the north have been destroyed, and many of the telegraph lines have been cut. The Kuhrgalus tribesmen, north of Shiraz, have destroyed a number of villages, and massacred many of the inhabitants.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

The affairs of the Northern Bank of New York have been taken over by the State Superintendent in the interest of the depositors.

The White Star-Dominion Line will run the steamer Teutonic to Montreal next season, and may also put the Majestic on the St. Lawrence route.

Wilson Ford of Milton, N.S., woke up and found his house in flames. He had just time to save his wife and child and jump from the bedroom window.

President Taft has at present under consideration the pro-British speech at the Guildhall, London, of Commander Sims, which gave offence in many quarters.

On Dec. 19, 1910, Judge Callister of Cleveland, O., granted Mrs. Will Smith of Owen Sound her divorce. She will assume her maiden name, Alice Ashdown.

The brother of Dolphis Drouillard, the Sandwich farmer, who was thought to be the victim of the "log cabin murder mystery," came to Detroit yesterday and was unable to identify the murdered man as his brother.

For Triple Murder.

New York, Dec. 28.—Sought for three years, John Kaley, charged with a triple murder, was arrested here last night. He admitted his identity. Three years ago this Christmas, there was a celebration among the Welsh miners at a house in Elkhorn, W.V. Kaley lived on the ground floor and the noise of the family upstairs so angered him that he smashed up, hammered on the door, and threatened, it is charged, to shoot, if the racket did not stop. The guests laughed at him, for he is a little man. Three shots were the answer, and when the smoke cleared away, Kaley had vanished. Two persons were killed outright, and a third died shortly after in a hospital.

Boiling Tar Caught Fire.

Goderich, Dec. 28.—At six o'clock last night the Goderich Skating Rink was damaged by fire to the extent of about $1,000, which is partially covered by insurance.

The fire was caused by a pot of tar boiling over and catching on fire. The tar was being used to cover the roller skating floor before flooding for ice. The fire is very regrettable, as the first hockey match is scheduled next week. However, it is hoped that the building may be temporarily repaired in time. It is suggested that the rink may be enlarged when rebuilt.

Death of D. B. Jones.

Brockville, Dec. 28.—Brockville lost a worthy citizen yesterday in the death of D. B. Jones, one of the founders of the Brockville General Hospital. The shock following an operation for appendicitis brought on the end quite unexpectedly. Mr. Jones was a native of Brockville, and for over fifty years prior to the return of the Whitney Government, was the local division court clerk. He was also prominently connected with the Brockville Loan & Savings Co. as managing director. Mrs. Jones and three sons survive.

Winnipeg, Dec. 28.—The building occupied by R. J. Whitla and the Donald Fraser Co. of Montreal, which was burned Monday night, is owned by Right Hon. A. J. Balfour. Damage to the stock of R. J. Whitla is $150,000; insured for $60,000; total loss to R. J. Whitla is $90,000. Loss to building, $40,000; loss to McAllister & Watts, slight, fully insured; loss to the Donald Fraser Co., $2,000, fully insured; loss to Exchange Garage, $10,000, fully insured.

Canada First Choice.

London, Dec. 28.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The North Queensland Herald says that without public expenditure to cheapen the cost of passage Australia cannot acquire its much-needed additional population at a reasonable rate until Canada is "full up," judging by the steady flow of population into the "nearly fully up" United States. That will certainly not occur before the yellow man is knocking at the Australian gate and peremptorily demanding admittance to its unoccupied territory with arguments which no military force possible for so numerically feeble a people as the Commonwealth will be able to answer.

The prospect is that it will be delayed another year.

Picked Way Through Trees.

New Orleans, Dec. 28.—Spirally gliding from an altitude of almost 9,000 feet with a frozen carburetter and a dead engine, after having been blown from his course by a forty-mile an hour wind, John B. Moisant, international aviator, swept within twenty feet of a stump-strewn, tree studded area at the rate of a hundred miles an hour yesterday afternoon at the aviation field. His engine thawed in the warmer level only in time to allow the daring aviator to start his propellers, and thread a perilous passage from among the trees, rise and settle with a graceful swoop on the field, amid the cheers of several hundred people, who had started to rush where Moisant was thought to have fallen to wreck and possible injury.

Moisant later explained that only the downward rush resulted in sufficient pressure against the bevel blades of the propellors to keep the turning long enough to take the impulse of the revived motor when the carburetter thawed. That saved him from a wreck.

Willing to Co-operate.

Ottawa, Dec. 28.—The report that the proceedings against the Farmers' Bank was instigated by the Finance Department, was given a denial yesterday when Hon. W. S. Fielding gave out this statement:

"No such action is necessary at present. It must be remembered that while the Dominion Parliament enacts the criminal law, the administration of the law is in the hands of the provincial authorities, represented in each province by the Attorney-General. The provincial authorities will, no doubt, require the co-operation of officers of the Finance Department to prove the filing of the bank's returns, and that co-operation will, of course, be given."

Willing to Retract.

Rome, Dec. 28.—Prince Maximilian of Saxony, who is professor of canon law at the Swiss University of Friedburg, had interviews yesterday with the Pope and the papal secretary of state, to whom he made full explanations for an article on the union of the Roman and Oriental churches, which he wrote some time ago for an ecclesiastical periodical. He made submission to the Holy See, and declared he was ready to retract the article to which objection had been made.

Sensation at Manilla Over the Reported Discovery of a Japanese Plot—International Complications May Follow

EXPLOSIVES FOUND

Examiner Special.

MANILLA, PHIL., DEC. 28.—There was a considerable sensation to-day, when it was authoratively reported that there was a discovery of a Japanese plot to blow up the United States vessels in this harbour. Following the reported discovery of mines carefully sunk in advantageous places in the harbour the military authorities searched the Japanese quarter and found concealed in the cellar of one place an extensive collection of submarine mines, similar to those found under the water. The Secret Service are again working, and during the last few days have obtained information which will lead to certain arrests and probably international complications.

CHICAGO CUT OFF

Examiner Special:

NEW YORK CITY, DEC. 28.—"We can't raise Chicago." This is the story told at every telegraph and telephone office in the United States. Apparently, from all that can be ascertained the Windy City and district is completely isolated from the rest of the world. The storm has cut off wires from east, west, north and south.

SUFFRAGETTE DEAD IN ENGLAND

Examiner Special.

LONDON, ENG., DEC. 28.—Intense indignation against the Government was aroused in Suffragette circles when it became known that Mrs. Clarke, a sister of Emeline Pankhurst, had died as a result of illness following her incarceration in prison for demonstrating on the streets. Mrs. Clarke was forced to eat food to which she was not accustomed, it is said. An investigation has already commenced.

SEVERE STORMS

BOY ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF ASSAULTING MOTHER

The Hills, of Dummer, Who Figured so Largely in Famous Shooting Case, Have More Trouble---Mrs. Hill is Knocked Down by Her Young Son---The Latter Comes Before the Magistrate.

WARSAW, DEC. 28.—There was a lively fight at the home of Robert Hill, in Dummer, yesterday, as a result of which young Robert Hill is awaiting his trial on a charge of assaulting his mother.

The Hills, it, will be remembered, were principal figures in the famous shooting case in Dummer some five years ago, in which their little daughter was killed, and their son, Robert, had a finger shot off. Charles Gow served a three-months' term for manslaughter, in connection with the case.

Yesterday, it is said, Robert, the boy who figured so largely in the trial, and who was injured by the bullet, which killed his sister, was driving towards Norwood with his older brother, Will. The boys got into a quarrel over a blanket, and Will, in a rage, got out out of the cutter and started home. His younger brother turned his horse around and followed him. On reaching the house the fight was renewed, and the boys came to blows. Mrs. Hill went between them to stop the fight, and was struck, it is said, by Robert, the youngest boy, and knocked down, her head striking a sofa, and it was thought that she was seriously injured. Hill, senior, took a hand in the argument, as well. Will managed to slip out of the house and came to Warsaw, where he procured a doctor for his mother, and swore out a warrant for the arrest of his brother.

The warrant was executed and young Hill appeared before Mr. Watts, J.P., to-day, and was remanded until next Tuesday, at 2 o'clock, for trial.

Mrs. Hill was not as badly injured as was thought at first, but she carries a badly discoloured optic as a souvenir of the family conference.

CARELESS SHOOTING

Man Fires Contents of Shotgun Through Window of a Room in Which Girl is Sleeping—Fined $2 by Magistrate

A NARROW ESCAPE

Fred Stephens, a young Englishman, boarding at 175 Sherbrooke street, was arraigned in the police court this morning on a charge of firing a gun inside the city. He pleaded guilty and the small fine of $2.00 was imposed. Peculiar circumstances surround the case. It appears that on Monday night the accused and two other men were upstairs in their room at 175 Sherbrooke street and were making rather merry. The accused picked up a shotgun, which was nearby, and fired three shots in succession. Mr. David Hamilton, who resides directly opposite, was aroused by the shots. He also thought he heard the glass in one of the upstairs windows break and went up to investigate. When he went up he found the glass in the windows shattered, and upon looking out saw the men in the room opposite and took in the circumstances at a glance. The alarming part of it is, that Mr. Hamilton's little daughter was sleeping in the room directly opposite the broken window. Fortunately, however, she was not injured. The shot was supposed to be No. 6, but a large slug was found in the room later. The accused was unable to account for that.

Stephens is an employee of the controller department of the C. G. E. works, and is out from England only since April last.

BIG MAIN WAS HELD

Special to The Examiner.

MONTREAL, DEC. 28.—It has just developed that one of the biggest cocking mains ever held in Canada was pulled off Christmas night at Mascouche, about 27 miles from Montreal. Special trains were run out. There were sixty pairs of birds in the scrap, and the floor of the hotel was the main was held was like an amphitheatre. There was a temporary bar and roulette wheel and the police arrived just too late to make arrests.

Peterboro' Ice Races Will Be Big Event

The ice races of the Peterborough Turf Club at the Driving Park on January 16 and 17 for which purses aggregating $800 have been hung up, promise to be the most exciting and warmly contested speeding events ever seen here. A very large field of classy horses will be here, and there should be two big days' sport. Reduced rates have been secured on the railroads for the two days of the meet, a fare and a third being the rate, and tickets will be good for three or four days so that there is likely to be a big influx of visitors for the meet.

SIXTEEN IN THE FIELD FOR ALDERMANIC HONOURS

There Will be an Election in Each Ward of the City---East Ward Has the Biggest Field, with Four Candidates in the Running---Four of Last Year's Council Not Candidates.

THOSE WHO ARE IN THE FIELD.

Frederick F. Sedgwick.

For Board of Education.

B. F. Ackerman.
Robt. Fair.
Dr. M. A. Morrison.
Vincent Eastwood.

For Water Commissioner.

W. H. Hill.
Wm. Langford.

Of the forty-nine candidates nominated on Monday for the different municipal offices only twenty-two made the necessary declaration of qualifications with the returning officer, iCty Clerk Armstrong, before 9 o'clock last night. A look over the foregoing list will show that of last year's council four are not in the field this year, Messrs. J. J. Turner, Jr., Robt. Hicks, Jos. Batten and Geo. A. Gillespie having retired from municipal activities.

There is a considerable amount of new blood in the field. In the south ward Mr. Thos. Hooper is the new candidate and will fight a three cornered fight with Ald. Buller and Ald. Duncan.

In the centre ward members of this year's council have the fight to themselves, Ald. Bradburn, Metheral and Phelan being the only candidates to ask for election in this division.

In the west ward Ald. Duffus is the only member of this year's council in the field. He has as his opponents two new seekers after municipal honours, Messrs. James Browne and James Edgar.

The same conditions exist in the north ward, where Ald. Graham is the only 1910 alderman to seek re-election. The new men are Messrs. Jas. Davidson and David H. Kerneghan.

The biggest field in the city is in the east ward, where four candidates will fight it out for the two places. Ald. Morgan is the only old alderman to run in this section, while opposed to him are Messrs. J. T. O'Connell, John C. Anderson and Frederick F. Sedgwick. There will be a fight for the vacant position on the Water Commission, Mr. W. H. Hill, the retiring commissioner having to struggle for the place with Mr. Wm. Langford, contractor.

Union And United Empire Merge Under Name Union Bank

A bank merger or amalgamation has been practically effected between the United Empire and the Union Bank of Canada, which will greatly strengthen the Union Bank, under which name the combined financial forces and business of the amalgamating branches is to be konwn.

The proposed amalgamation, which both the Union Bank and the board of the United Empire Bank have approved, will place the united banks in the front rank as regards capitalization. The combined assets of the two banks will be over $50,000,000. One feature which adds considerably to their strength is that the branches of the two banks are not duplicated anywhere except at Toronto.

It is interesting to note that the only branch of the Union bank in the county is at Bridgenorth, of which a Peterborough boy, Mr. James M. (Jimmie) O'Brien, son of Mr. M. O'Brien, Provincial Separate School Inspector, 520 Gilmour street, is the manager, probably the youngest bank manager in Canada.

Report of Labour Conditions Here During Nov.

Mr. J. A. Sharpe, correspondent to the Labour Gazette for Peterborough and the surrounding district, has the following report of the local conditions for November:

General Conditions of the Labour Market.

Labour conditions have been fairly active during November, owing partly to the fine weather. Labour was employed to a greater extent than during the same month last year. The Canadian General Electric Company is putting up a large addition. The new building will be 274 feet long and 125 feet wide; it will be of brick and steel, and the estimated cost is $100,000. The Quaker Oats Company is erecting a new elevator of 600,000 bushels capacity, at a cost of $125,000 or $130,000. There was a noticeable improvement in factory employment, and the outlook for labour during the winter is brighter than this time last winter, and the unemployed are not so numerous. The Lake Simcoe and Peterborough Navigation Company is the name of a new company being organized with a capitalization of $250,000, to operate a line of steamers from Orillia to Peterborough. Wholesale and retail merchants reported business good. There have been no changes in rates of pay or hours of labour reported during the month.

Agriculture.—The fine weather has enabled farmers to complete their fall work—ploughing and marketing their produce. Good prices prevailed.

Lumbering.—The sawmills have shut down for the winter, and the men are going to the lumber camps. They have had a good season.

Condition of Particular Trades.

All branches of the building trades had a very busy month. Very few mechanics were out of employment. Iron moulders and helpers, machinists, electric workers, linemen, brass workers, boilermakers, blacksmiths, and horseshoers had an active month. Boat builders and canoe makers have had a very busy season. Woodworkers, upholsterers, varnishers and polishers were all working full time. Printers continued busy. Bookbinders were active. Journeymen tailors reported an active month on fall trade. Bakers, confectioners, butchers and meat cutters were busy. Cigar makers were quiet. Leather workers, harness makers and saddlers were active. Barbers, clerks, stenographers and delivery employes were active. Furriers were busy. Railway and street railway employes expressmen and teamsters were busy.

WEDDING BELLS

WINDSOR—LARUSH.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the residence of Rev. J. G. Brown, of St. James' Methodist church last night, when Miss Charlotte Larush was united in marriage to Mr. James Windsor. Miss Marguerite Brady attended the bride, while the groom was assisted by Mr. Geo. Lightheart. The newly married couple will reside on Lock street.

BALL—McWHINNIE.

A quiet, but exceedingly pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. R. McWhinnie, 542 Harvey street, at 3 o'clock yesterday, when his daughter, Miss Effie L., was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Frank W. Ball, of Kerrobert, Sask. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Couch, beneath an evergreen arch decorated with carnations. The bride was given away by her father. The bride wore the conventional veil and natural orange blossoms from California. The young couple were unattended. About twenty-five guests witnessed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Ball left on the 5.20 G.T.R. train for Buffalo and points west on their wedding tour, and will return to this city before going to Kerrobert, where they will reside.

PECULIAR TANGLE

In the Board of Education—There Will be an Election Although Only Four Candidates Have Qualified for Four Places

A COMPLICATION

There is a peculiar situation in regard to the election of members for the local Board of Education. Although there are only four places to fill and only four candidates have qualified, there will have to be an election just the same.

The law in regard to Board of Education elections is more complicated than that in regard to aldermen, which causes the unusual conditions. It is necessary either that the candidates nominated file their declarations or qualifications or else their resignation.

Eight candidates were nominated. Of these Messrs. B. F. Ackerman, Robt. Fair, Dr. M. A. Morrison and Vincent Eastwood qualified. Three others resigned but Mr W. S. Robinson neither qualified nor resigned, causing the complication referred to.

The City Solicitor states that an election will have to be held and that Mr. Robinson's name will have to go on the ballots even though he did not qualify.

FATHER MORRISCY'S REMEDIES

Now on Sale in Ontario

When Father Morrisey, the famous priest-physician of Bartibogue, N. B., died a year ago last spring, he left his prescriptions to the Sisters of the Hotel Dieu, at Chatham, to be used for the benefit of humanity and of the church.

No being in a position to make up and distribute the prescriptions themselves, the Sisters arranged with a number of gentlemen, who had been Father Morrisey's friends, to do it for them. These gentlemen, working under the name of the "Father Morrisey Medicine Co., Limited," had by the first of the year placed the remedies in nearly every store in the Maritime Provinces.

So gladly were they received, and so satisfactory has been their record of cures, that the Sisters and the Company have decided to place them on sale throughout Canada.

Father Morrisey's "No. 7," for Rheumatism and the Kidneys—"No. 10," Cough Cure and Lung Tonic—"No. 11," Stomach Remedy—"No. 28", for Catarrh, and "Father Morrisey's Liniment"—can now be obtained from most dealers in this Province. If yours does not keep them write the Father Morrisey Medicine Co., Limited, Chatham, N.B.

"ST. ELMO"

The New Year's Attraction at "The Grand"

The announcement that the excellent play "St. Elmo" will be given at the Grand Theatre New Year's Monday, matinee and evening, will be received with interest by an unusually large percentage of the population for practically every one has read this sterling work of fiction.

The book, from which the play has been carefully taken, was written by Augusta J. Evans more than forty years ago, but, notwithstanding the lapse of time, it is still a highly prized volume in every library and to-day at every bookstore rates the "six best sellers" a close rank for popularity. Three generations have praised "St. Elmo," and it is a curious fact that theatrical producers have not before appropriated it for their uses. It is less than a year ago that Grace Heyward, the popular actress-dramatist, and author of the play "Granstark" undertook a dramatization of the famous old novel.

The present play is the result of more than six months' labour, and that the time was well spent is evinced by the instantaneous success of Miss Hayward's version. The play is a genuine triumph, both from an artistic and financial point of view. In fact, among theatrical folk it is the talk of the year.

The management guarantees that this city will receive the same company in its entirety, a most absolute truthworthiness, and a production in harmony with the most exacting wants of the entertainment.

CANADIANS IN ENGLAND.

The unity of the Empire, as shown by the election of several Canadians to the British Parliament during the recent elections, is further emphasized by the fact that a Canadian has been made a member of the British Cabinet. Mr. Hamar Greenwood is the man. He is, as far as success in British politics is concerned, a self-made man, and has climbed, by virtue of his own merits and actions. He is courageous, energetic, and persistent, and is reckoned a first-rate platform speaker, as well as Parliamentary debater. With all the insularity and exclusiveness ascribed to the Old Country, over there, they are, perhaps, more liberal and broad-minded than we are in this country. Many Canadians were tolerated in the last election contest, who might be, without straining, regarded as intruders in a purely domestic matter. It is to be feared that an Old Country politician coming to Canada, and, not being a candidate, taking part in a Canadian general election, would not be very warmly welcomed, even by the party in whose behalf he might be working.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP AND OPERATION.

There seems to be no two opinions as to the desirability of public ownership of public utilities; but there is room for difference of opinion in regard to the advisability of public operation of public utilities. In the large sphere of Dominion administration, public operation of railways has not been a conspicuous success In the provincial domain it is equally contraindicated, while in the municipal arena, public, that is, municipal, operation, is not to be thought of. In the latter field there are many examples of great success of municipal ownership, but only when operation has been intrusted to an independent commission. The Dominion Railway Commission is a strong example of the benefits of administration by commission. In respect of railways, telegraph, telephone and express utilities, through the jurisdiction and action of the Railway Commission, the public interests are as effectively guarded and promoted as would be possible under Government administration, pure and simple, and of the most successful character. The express companies, which, it is alleged, are making inordinate profits upon a small capitalization, have been brought under the regime of the Commission with wholesome results to the public. Over capitalisation cannot very successfully elude the searchlight of the Commission. It is no unsafe ground to take to regard the Railway Commission as a satisfactory and effective substitute for Government operation of public services. We have a local example in our Waterworks Commission, which has, so far, administered our water works with a success which the boldest would not claim for municipal management.

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

Now that the "slate" for the municipal elections is settled and the qualifying candidates made known, we have another example of the unwholesome character of our present municipal system of government. The essence of good civic government is continuity in office sufficiently long and sufficiently assured to permit of the adoption and application of the definite policy in regard to civic administration. Without definite policy upon the various subjects involved in the government of a town or city, there cannot be effective or economical administration. There can be no systematic dealing with civic works or satisfactory results. Work of an expensive character, decided upon and begun one year, has no guarantee that it will be prosecuted another year upon the same plan. Changes will be made, work that has been done will be undone or abandoned, or its character changed.

The evil of the constantly changing character of our municipal councils has been sadly demonstrated, and this year it stands to be intensified. In the next city council, there will be, not counting the mayor, only seven or porbably only five of the old council. Four of them — and not by any means of the worst members—Messrs. Hicks, Gillespie, Turner and Batten—are not candidates. In the centre ward there are three of the old council running and one of them will be left out, as only two can be elected, and as a matter of fact two of the three candidates in the centre ward are the only members of the old council that are certain of election, and with the exception of these two, all the members of the next council may be new.

Under such circumstances, it is possible, if not probable, that an entirely new policy, so far as anything like policy in regard to civic administration can be said to have been pursued, will be adopted. We may have practically all new men at the helm to experiment with the management of our affairs. With such annually changing composition of our councils, how can we expect good results?

The conditions point to the adoption of municipal government by commission—three good men selected by the votes of the whole people and holding office for three years, one retiring each year, even if they were paid a reasonable sum for their individed service to the city, would doubtless have similar good results, to those that other cities, governed by commission, have, have had the benefit of.

No ratepayer, who will take the trouble to think, will admit that our present system has been a success. Changing membership, changing policy, changing plans of doing work, all tend to increase the cost, without yielding corresponding results. And thus is explained a tax rate of 22 mills on the dollar, without having as much as we would wish to show for it.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. Charles Mohr has been elected reeve of the Township of Fitzroy for the forty-third time in succession. It is almost time that Mohr became Most.

The "Nationalist" nomenclature should be amended. That movement is not national, it is only narrow. Nationalism, in its highest sense, should aim at the uplifting of the whole Dominion, not racial segregation and isolation.

There is a demand beyond the supply for high-class Canadian apples for shipment to the Old Country. This shows it would pay the farmers to grow a high quality of fruit. Most parts of Ontario are exceptionally well adapted to the growing of apples of the highest quality. No crop, per acre, yields, under proper care and treatment as large dividends as the apple orchard.

PRAISE FROM SIR HUBERT.

The Mail and Empire is broadening. Time was when nothing done by a Liberal government, nothing done under the aegis of a Liberal government, nothing related in the most indirect and remote manner to a Liberal government, would have been tolerated, not to say, commended, by the Conservative organ. It is, therefore, high praise for the Dominion Railway Commission to secure the following tribute to its usefulness from the Mail and Empire, under the heading of "Express Charges":

"A fine piece of analytical work in the judgment prepared by the chairman of the Board of Railway Commissioners and promulgated by that body as its order in respect to the conduct of express companies' business in Canada. It presents the results of a very thorough study of this department of the carrying trade, a careful enquiry into the needs and grievances of those who supply the traffic, and a searching examination into the affairs and methods and charges of the operating companies. The reasoning from the facts thus ascertained and from the law relating to the carriers is clear and convincing, the conclusions drawn combining to form the matter of the judgment. It is altogether admirable as a piece of judicial workmanship.

Better still, it is a flat of reform. It may well be called a deliverance, for it liberates shippers and receivers from vexatious treatment and burdensome charges heretofore imposed by the companies. The popular idea that the tolls were excessive is borne out by the showing as to how small the capital actually invested is, as to the magnitude of the profits made, and as to the disposal of the earnings. In fact, the existence of express companies as corporations separate in constitution from the railway companies that control them is unnecessary, and the Board of Railway Commissioners finds that the railway companies, which handle the traffic anyway, are not the better enabled to do so through the medium of express companies. The railway companies, being in control of the respective express companies, get the large earnings that are distributed. Out of a total gross revenue of $21,473,000 earned by one of the express companies in the seven years immediately prior to 1908 there was paid to the controlling railway company $13,400,240. So far as the board could ascertain, all the actual cash ever paid into this company on account of capital stock is $24,500. Yet $2,000,000 of fully paid up stock is found to be outstanding. According to the evidence of its president, that company paid in one year the large sum of $340,000 for station accommodation. Facts of this kind give ground that: "It looks as if the express company was finding itself "with accumulation of money on "hand, and that, if retained, might "show very heavy dividends on even "its highly inflated capital.' The board finds not ony that express tariffs are too high, but also that the contract forms appear to be so drawn as to prevent the shipper from recovering compensation in the event of his goods being destroyed or lost while in the possession of the company. Accordingly, the application of the companies to have their tariffs allowed as they stand is refused, and they are ordered to abandon the contract forms now in use. Further, they are required to rearrange their standard mileage territories westward from Lake Superior in accordance with directions laid down in the judgment.

Another matter in respect to which there has been much irritation on the part of the public is that of the limits within which delivery is made The companies are called upon to propose to the board some reasonable basis for traffic to move to delivery limit points and to file a list of such limit points with maps. A matter of very great importance to the fruit growers of Ontario is the order, included in the judgment, to the Dominion Express Company to reduce the rates on fruit from Ontario shipping points to Winnipeg to $2 per 100 lbs.

(Manitoba Free Press.)

The National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education in the United States recently invited the Superintendent of Schools in Munich, Dr. George Kerchensteiner, to come to America for the express purpose of describing and explaining the famous trade schools of that city; and there appears in the New York Tribune of a few days ago an account of an interview with the Bavarian educator which tells a tale of remarkable success achieved in this branch of public instruction.

Munich has a population of half a million. It contains no less than 52 constinuation schools, so-called, in which nine thousand pupils receive instruefion. These nine thousand pupils divide their time between the school and the trade of factory work they are engaged in. Obviously a system of this kind would be absolutely impassible apart from the most cordial and sympathetic co-operation between the government and the employers of labour. As a matter of fact these schools are not primarily government institutions. For every one of the fifty-odd specialized departments there is an organization of the men who employ labour in that trade, which acts as a board of control, providing material, recommending teachers, arranging courses, examining into results. Practically every important business man in Munich is a member of one or another of these bodies.

In his interview Dr. Kerchensteiner illustrated the kind of instruction given by reference to the curriculum of the coppersmiths. It may be divided into two parts; that portion which is peculiar to the trade of the coppersmith, and that which is common to all the departments. The course covers four years, and includes in the first year a study of apprenticeship and the apprentice's contract, and physiology and hygiene, especially as bearing upon the preservation of health and the avoidance of danger in the coppersmith's trade. In the second year there is a careful study of the history of the trade of the coppersmith; the standing of the craft in the Middle Ages, and the up-growth of present trades and labour organizations; along with the strongest possible emphasis upon the relations of master, journeyman, and apprentice. The third year is devoted to what is called citizen lore, a branch which is common to all courses, and it is usually known on this side of the water as Civis. The fourth year covers a comprehensive study of trade and commerce, Germany's place in the world of trade and the world of culture, Germany's colonies, and a discussion of the practical problems of the day in the light of social laws.

The ten hours a week which these young people thus devote to school work are allotted as follows: An hour goes to reckoning and book-keeping, an hour to reading and writing, an hour to citizen and life lore, an hour to religious instruction, and six hours to technical work, theoretical and practical and to drawing. The technical work involves the actual working out, either in miniature or if possible in real materials, of every important process or method in his trade. Drawing is so strongly emphasized that "the students must draw everything they are to construct, and must construct everything they draw."

There are several features of this system which are worthy of close attention. One if the fact that attendance is compulsory. Every calling from which twenty apprentices seek instruction is given a school of its own, so that there is accommodation for everyone desiring it. Again, many of the employers actually pay the boys in full for the time they spend in the schools. These men evidently believe that the boys' gain is their gain. Further, there is a whole system of domestic science schools for girls, attendance being compulsory, where "everything that goes to make up the German home is taught for three hours per week." The Doctor does not believe in co-education "Boys," he says, "like physics, chemistry, mathematics, all exact sciences and constructive work. Girls like applied art, social sciences, literature, and languages." In drawing he found that the girls had less liking and ability for perspective work than for decorative design, and the boys vice versa

Another feature is the comprehensiveness of the system. It is comprehensive in that it includes schools for traders, builders, engravers, woodworkers, butchers, gardeners, goldsmiths, chimneysweeps, druggists, photographers, coachmen, and many more. It is comprehensive in that it seeks to make its students men as well as craftsmen. In other words it combines the advantages of a technical and a liberal education. The instruction given aims at an intelligent understanding of the history of each trade in its relation to the other means employed by man in the upbuilding of society. Every industrial group within the community is thus seen in its true relation to others, the interests of all being inextricably woven together in a single fabric. In short these schools aim at teaching these students not only how to get their living, but also how the world gets its living. An insight into this latter question is the essential thing in a liberal education.

Perhaps most important of all this is the fact that these schools would be impossible without co-operation between the government and the trades. The solution of the problem in our country in regard both to industrial and to agricultural high schools may perhaps be found in the principle of co-operation.

SENIOR ARGONAUTS HERE ON NEW YEAR'S NIGHT

Peterborough fans will get a chance to see the local intermediate O. H. A. team in action on Monday night next (New Year's night), when the fast Argonaut Senior O. H. A. team, of Toronto, will be here for an exhibition game with the Peterboorugh intermediates. The Argonauts will bring down their strongest senior team and the game should be decidedly well worth seeing. Argos always have a strong, well-balanced seven and their team is counted upon to give St. Michael's a warm argument for the senior honours. It will be a good test for Peterborough's Intermediates to go up against a senior organization for the first game, and the locals will have their work cut out for them, especially as Sorel and Heffernan will be away in Cobourg with the juniors.

Bill Lang Won In The Twelfth Round From Jack Burns

LONDON, DEC. 27.—Bill Lang, the Australian pugilist, and Jack Burns, of California, met in a twenty-round match at Olympia yesterday. The referee, Eugene Corri, stapped the contest in the twelfth round and declared Lang the winner. Burns fought gamely, but was outclassed. Lang, after the first few rounds, apparently did as he liked with him. There were 7,000 spectators present.

In the first three rounds Lang did all the leading, landing heavy blows and administering severe punishment. He tried hard for a knock-out, and nearly succeeded in the second round, when he sent Burns sprawling the gong alone saving him. The American apparently reserved himself in the fourth round, but was again subject to a severe grueling, which he took very pluckily.

In the next two rounds there was much clinching, and Referee Corri was obliged to enter the ring and separate the men. Lang again floored the American, whereupon the crowd cried "foul," but Corri did not notice the appeal. Lang was still doing nearly all the work. The seventh was a fairly level round, both giving and taking hard punches.

Burns had another narrow escape from being knocked out in the eighth round, the gong again saving him. There was some good hitting in the ninth round, but science was lacking. There was much clinching, during which Burns managed to administer several good right jabs under the chin. Honours were again even.

Lang had decidedly the better of the tenth round. He played for a knock-out, but still Burns withstood him. The gong for the third time saved the American in the eleventh round, after Lang had sent him to the boards. The Australian was now a certain winner. Burns came up very groggy in the twelfth round. Lang, seeing his advantage, went straight for his opponent, landing rights and lefts.

After a minute's fighting Referee Corri decided that Burn's chances were hopeless and awarded the match to Lang, on points.

Papke Loses On A Foul

Beaten by Dave Smith, the Australian Champion

SYDNEY, N.S.W., DEC. 27.—Dave Smith, the Australian middleweight champion, and Billy Papke, one of the American pugilists who have been touring this part of the world and giving exhibitions, met in a 20-round match here yesterday, with the result that in the tenth round the American was disqualified for fouling, and the fight was awarded to the Australian.

Smith took the lead at the start, and the fighting was lively, but the American seemed to have lost much of the stimulus with which he was credited. Later, he recovered some of his spirit and attempted to mix things with Smith, but the latter held him off, not, however, without considerable difficulty. It was necessary for the referee to warn the American several times, and in the tenth round he decided that Papke was fighting foul and disqualified him. Papke claims he was not thoroughly fit, the climate here having affected him.

It is believed that had the fight continued Smith would have won anyway. He held that advantage all through, and surprised some of his friends, who rather doubted his ability to stand up before a man of Papke's class. Each man scaled 165 pounds.

TRAGEDY OF AN ICE BOAT

Man Hurled to Death From Boat on Great South Bay—Boy Found Frozen to Death on the Craft

A DOUBLE FATALITY

Special to The Examiner.

NEW YORK, DEC. 27.—With his skull fractured in several places and his body frozen to the ice, George Brown, of Sayville, Lon Island, was found dead on Great South Bay, near Patchoque, yesterday, while across the bay at Long Cove, a few hours later, men discovered Edmund C. Williams, fourteen years old, a nephew of Brown, frozen to death in the iceboat from which the man had been hurled to death when it was skimming over the ice at the rate of about a mile a minute.

How long the boy was alone in the boat before a change of wind dashed it on the beach is a matter of conjecture, but the rescuing party believes he must have been driven about at the mercy of the varying half gale that blew for at least an hour, utterly helpless and with death confronting him every moment. When found the lad's head and shoulders were crammed up under the boarding in the bow of the little craft, where he probably crawled to escape the biting wind and where he was frozen stiff in the night. It is believed that Brown was killed almost instantly, judging by the nature of his injuries, when he was thrown from the craft, but the boy was uninjured in body by the accident and must have endured all the slo wtortures of freezing until death gave relief.

Dusk was gathered Wednesday evening when Brown and his nephew started out in the iceboat, or "scooter," as it is known locally for a spin over the frozen bay. They were expected to return in an hour, but there was no alarm when they failed to return, friends believing they had put in along shore to get warm. put in along shore to get warm. When it was found that they had had not returned home yesterday morning an alarm was given.

POST CARD COLUMN

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—In looking over the list of candidates seeking election at the Hands of the ratepayers, I notice the fact that there is bound to be a lot of new blood in the Council next year, four of last year's Council not seeking re-election. In Ward Five we have lost Mr. Gillespie, a most capable alderman; and I hope the ratepayers in East City will see to it that Mr. Morgan is again elected, as I think it would be unfortunate to have two inexperienced men from one side of the river. It is acknowledged that it takes a year to become familiar with the working of the Council Board before a member can give the best results; and as Alderman Morgan has had the experience and is a good fighter in the city's interests, I hope he will be elected. A good man with Mr. Morgan again, will insure good service from our ward. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am,

Yours truly,

EAST CITY VOTER.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I would like the candidates in the East Ward to have a joint meeting and talk over their policy for the coming year. We want to show the rest of the city that we have some progresive men over here and wish to start the ball rolling this way.

OVER THE RIVER.

Post Card Column

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Permit me to say a few words through your columns regarding the selection of our members of the Board of Education. There is something radically wrong somewhere regarding the whole system of looking after the advancement of the pupils. At the present rate an ordinary child would not be ready to pass the entrance at 14 years. I think our Board should interest themselves in this. They are spending all kinds of money in providing commodious quarters for at least nine-tenths of the present teachers to pass away their time and draw advanced salaries without putting the vim into the work that an efficiently qualified teacher should. Remember, I am a heavy taxpayer; one of the heaviest, and I am not making this kick without being backed up by hundreds of disgruntled taxpayers and fathers of children that feel just as I do. It is time something was done. The best way is to elect a man who will see that our best interests will be looked after at the proper time and by the proper persons.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I remain,

Yours, etc.,

One of the Abused.

BELLEVILLE PROS AFTER SOME OF LOCAL PLAYERS

Manager Buck Irving, of the Belleville pro. team is hot on the trail of several members of the Peterborough intermediate O. H. A. team, but there is nothing doing as far as they are concerned. Last night he tried to get hold of three of Peterboroughs fordwards over the long distance phone and this morning renewed the attack on them by offering two players $25 a week and a bonus to play with Belleville. The local men have no hankering after the rosy paths of professional hockey and it looks as if Buck would have to inquire elsewhere for his material. Ben Dusty recommended some of the local players to his consideration, and hence the negotiations.

PETERBOROUGH COUNTRY BOY'S VERY SUCCESSFUL CAREER

Frederick Fitzpatrick, a Native of Dummer, is Now President of the Railway Steel Spring Company at a Salary of $50,000 a Year---A Nephew of Mr. Ed, Carlow, of Dummer.

It is always pleasing to record the success of the native sons and daughters of Peterborough County. The following, furnished by the United Press Syndicate, gives the details of the career of Frederick F. Fitzpatrick, who was born in Dummer, and who is a nephew of Mr. Edward Carlow of that township:

Mr. Frederick F. Fitzpatrick, the recently elected President of the Railway Steel Spring Company, has been a student all his life of the needs and problems of the transportation business, and during the five years that he has resided in New York has won recognition as an able corporation official. His early training was received in the offices of several of the largest railroads in the country, and he is therefore well equipped to direct the [illegible] concern engaged in the manufacture of railway supplies. In winning success, Mr. Fitzpatrick has proved that there is always a place at the top for a man who will devote himself with energy to the work before him, and at the same time prepares himself for promotion by obtaining a broad and sure grasp of the details of his special line of business.

Frederick F. Fitzpatrick was born on June 9, 1866, on a farm about fifteen miles from Peterborough, in the Province of Ontario, Canada. His father was John and his mother Elizabeth (Carlow) Fitzpatrick. He is of Irish ancestry on both sides of the family.

He removed to the United States at an early age, and was educated in the public schools of Chillicothe, Mo. He studied telegraphy, and in 1881, at the age of 15, he entered the employ of the Western Union as an operator, locating at Kansas City, Mo.

It was not long before he gravitated to railroad work, and during the next five years served as an operator in the telegraph departments of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe R. R., the Pennsylvania Lines, the Wabash R. R. and the Missouri Pacific R. R., where he remained until 1898, filling positions of a sufficiently varied character to give him a very comprehensive training in railroad work.

In 1898 he resigned to become the St. Louis representative of the Charles Scott Spring Company. During the next three years he made an excellent record, and in 1905 was transferred to New York as General Sales Agent. In 1905 he was made Vice-President, and on November 1, 1910, was elected President, to succeed the late W. H. Silverthorn.

In addition to the above, Mr. Fitzpatrick is a director and a member of the executive committee of the Railway Steel Spring Company, director of the United States and Mexican Trust Company, director of the Larchmont National Bank, and a director of the Carbon Steel Company.

He is a member of the Railroad, Larchmont Yacht, and New York Athletic Clubs. An enthusiastic golfer, he belongs to the Apawamis, Wykagyl, and Larchmont Golf Clubs.

He was married in 1898 to Miss Margaret Neal. The couple have one daughter and two sons.

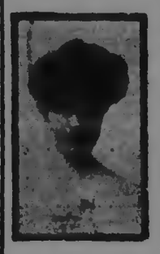
THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

WHEN the question of a certain point of etiquette arose among a group of us the other night, the lady-who-always-knows-somehow spoke up.

"This is the way it looks to me," she said, and we all listened as we always do when this sweet oracle speaks. "This is the way it looks to me. I think you should go first because thats the common sense way, and a teacher I had once told me that if I were in doubt about any point of etiquette to think 'which is the common sense way' and let that decide it. For every point of etiquette, he said, no matter how foolish it seems, is built originally on some good reason, and often you can find out the proper thing to do by looking for the reason."



Doesn't that appeal to you as a pretty good test to apply when you are in an etiquette quandary?

It does to me.

And here's another. When you are in doubt as to which of two things is proper to do, do the kinder and it's ten to one you will be doing the right one.

I know a little country girl who, when she dined for the first time at a stylish city home, was very much puzzled as to whether she ought to say "Thank you" when the maid brought the serving of soup around to her place. She decided that it would seem countrified to do so, and received her plate in silence.

She says she will never forget the flush of shame that swept over her when the mistress of the home thanked the maid as she received her plate.

If the little girl had done the kinder thing she would have done the right thing, and she says she will never again depart from that criterion.

Speaking of the incident reminds me, by the way, of a home which I visit where it is the invariable custom for the master of the house, no matter what guests are present, to serve the mistress of the house first. In this way she sets the example when there is any doubtful point of table etiquette so that all her guests need to do is to watch her. Isn't that an exquisite bit of thoughtfulness. To me it seems a custom that ought to be adopted everywhere.

That there can be no really good manners without goodness of heart and that true courtesy consists not in forms alone, but in forms made living by the spirits of good will are facts that we have much lost sight of in our admiration of fashion and wealth, but they are sterling facts just the same

Let me commend to the young person who wants to be well bred Lord Chesterfield's most excellent definition of good breeding:

"Good breeding is a combination of much sense; some good nature, and a little self-denial for the sake of others, with a view to obtain the same indulgence from them."

The toast to "The King" was heartily honoured.

Rt. Wor. Bro. H. R. H. Kenner replied in a most eloquent speech to the next toast, that of "The Grand Master and the Grand Lodge of Canada in Ontario."

What is so annoying and disfiguring as itching Eczema? Mr. Fred W. Clark, Petworth, Addington Co., Ont., writes that his mother suffered from Eczema on both legs for 30 years unable to get relief or cure from doctors or medicines. SOME HOCKEY HAPPENINGS

The Peterborough intermediate O.H.A. team will meet for practice at Brock street rink to-night at 7 o'clock and a full attendance is expected. The intermediates will have the ice to themselves to-night, the juniors having worked out last night and it will be possible to get a chance to work in some combination. The juniors and intermediates will have a practice game on Friday night between 7 and 8 o'clock.

The junior O.H.A. team will have their first game on Monday next, when they will journey to Cobourg for a junior O.H.A. game with the Lakeshore team. The local Colts are rounding into fine shape and should give a good account of themselves. The line-up is not definitely decided yet and there is keen competition for places.

Peterborough's intermediates do not have a League game until Monday, Jan. 9, when they hook up with Cobourg.

The Trenton team looks like a bad combination in this district of the intermediate O. H. A. They have a fast, well-balanced septette. Last year Cobourg put Trenton out of the running, but the team from Rev. Mr. Armstrong's town expect to get a good deal further this year. Belcher, who played for Goderich against Peterborough the memorable year in which the blue and white team captured the championship from the Sailors is in Trenton, but is not eligible under the residence rule.

It looked like old times to see Billy Green bustling around the dressing room at the rink last night rubbing with a towel and a liniment bottle. He still has the old blue and white coat sweater, a little faded 'tis true, but Bill is a sproud of it as ever.

The many friends of Mr. W. J. Metheral, the Strathcona manager, and member of the Peterboorugh Hockey Club executive, who has been seriously ill with peritonitis, will be glad to learn that he is resting easier today.

The Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company employees have organized a team for the Mercantile League and have elected the following officers:

Hon. President—Mr. C. Caley.
Hon. Vice-President—Mr. E. Howson.
President—C Westbrook.
Vice-President—E. LaPlante.
Sec.-Treas.—R. Elphick.
Manager—H. Dodd.
Executive committee—R Elphick, H. Dodd, J. E. Deannard.

The Lock Works team has plenty of material for a strong team and expect to cut a swath in the Mercantile this winter.

Both Peterborough's teams will be in action on Monday night next, the intermediates in an exhibition game against the Argonauts of Toronto here, and the juniors in an O. H. A. game at Cobourg. This means that the practises this week will have to be fully attended. Intermediates practise to-night and the following players are expected out: Bond, Derocher, Heffernan, Campbell, Ray, Dobson, McMillan, Sorel, Short.

MILLBROOK

MILLBROOK, DEC. 27. — Mrs. Robt. Nurse and children, of Penhill, Saskatoon, were visiting their friends in and around Millbrook for a few days last week.

Miss Margaret Widdis, of Sudley, Saskatoon, is a welcome visitor at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Widdis.

Dr. Montgomery, of Embro, Oxford County, was in town for a few days Christmas week renewing old acquaintances.

Mr. Jack Clarke returned home from the West last week. He reports an excellent trip.

We are sorry to say that Mrs. Geo. E. Burnham is on the sick list these days. We join in wishing her a speedy recovery.

Dr. Turner has made another addition to his staff in the person of Miss Alyea, of Trenton, whom we welcome to our town.

Mrs. (Rev.) W. P. Rogers and son, Master Raymond, were visiting friends in Minden for a few days last week.

The cantata, entitled "The Holy City," which was given recently in St. Thomas' Church, Millbrook, was such a pronounced success that it has been decided to give it in Christ Church, Bailieboro, on Friday, Jan. 6, assisted by the same accomplished artistes who took so able a part in its rendition here recently.

Sunday, December 25, was a banner day for the Millbrook Methodist Sunday School, it being their annual anniversary. The Rev. W. P. Rogers, B.A., preached special sermons both morning and evening to a large and appreciative gathering of Sunday School scholars. While at 2.30 p.m. a mass meeting was held in the body of the church, during which the prizes merited during the past year were distributed, followed by the yearly report. It was brought out at the recent Institute meeting held in Millbrook that the above Sunday School occupies second place in the Peterboro District, having a Sunday School force of 189 scholars enrolled per 100 church members, which is an unusually good showing considering the size of the town. It also reflects great credit and commendation on the superintendent, Mr. R. W. Clarke, and his staff of indefatigable co-workers.

THE BEST HOCKEY PLAYER IN CANADA RETIRES FROM GAME

WINNIPEG, DEC. 27.—To have won the distinction of being the greatest forward hockey player Canada ever produced, the most brilliant effective, an adept exponent of the "corkscrew" rush, as well as the highest paid man for any one or two games, is the enviable reputation annexed by Tommy Phillips.

Probably no other hockey star has been so much heard of all over Canada, east and west, and so generously and deservedly praised, as this same Tommy Phillips, with the Marlboro' team when they won the senior O.H.A. championship, captain of the famous Kenora Thistles, who captured the Stanley Cup for that place; member of the Edmonton cup challengers on the occasion of their initial barn-storming trip east two years ago, when he played the first half of that memorable first game with a bone in his ankle broken.

It was the very same Tommy Phillips ,considerably changed from those good old athletic days of but a few years ago, when, always in the pink of conditron, and looking more dignified and business like now, who yesterday spent a day in Winnipeg looking up old friends and acquaintances.

Phillips is now permanently located at Vancouver, where, in fact, he has resided for probably three or four years. His mother and brother Russell are also located there, but Tommy seemingly has some other little attractions in his old home towne Kenora.

It is whispered on the quiet that he is shortly to take unto himself a wife—but mum's the word.

There is to be no more hockey for Tommy. He has had his day, and, being located in a thriving lumber business at the coast, where hockey is out of the question, other matters now occupy his attention.

REPRESENTATIVE CITIZENS SHOW APPROVAL OF BONNER-WORTH BY-LAW

Many Well Known Residents of Peterborough Give Their Reasons Why the Measure Should Receive the Support of the Ratepayers.

VOTE FOR THE BY-LAW

To the Property Owners of Peterborough, re proposed Worsted Yarn Manufacturing Co. By-law.

Gentlemen,—We, the undersigned property owners and holders of twelve year leases, of Peterborough, respectfully submit to you our views regarding this by-law, and this factory, now before the people for approval.

We have carefully considered the matter and find—

1.—That the the parties asking assistance are practical men who understand the proposed business.

2.—That they are men of good standing.

3.—That they have ample money for working capital.

4.—That they propose to buy land and erect a large factory three stories, with about 1 1-3 acres of floor space.

5.—The Company will pay taxes on present value assessment and full school taxes.

6.—That they will give to the city as security for a loan of $12,000, a first mortgage on land, building and fixed machinery—much more than the amount of the loan.

That they will ask for $6,000 advance when building is up, and the other $6,000 in one year from beginning work in factory. They will begin making payments in one year, then paying $1,000 each year thereafter.

7.—We think this is a good proposition and that it should be accepted. It is too good to turn down. We cannot afford to do so. If we don't accept this industry, we may as well stop looking for other industries, as every little town in the province can now get power and offer inducements for factories.

We intend to vote for this by-law and to do all we can to insure its passing, and we respectfully ask our fellow property owners, and holders of leases extending over twelve years, to turn out and do all they can to insure the required vote, which calls for three-fifths of the entire qualified votes.

Respectfully yours,

M. Carton.

THE FREE PRESS SOUVENIR.

The Manitoba Free Press has signalized each Christmas the past ten years, by sending out to its Canadian contemporaries some object characteristic of the products and resources of the Canadian west. This year it makes a departure, and sends forth a miniture roll of "news print," that is paper used for printing newspapers by means of a perfecting press. Accompanying the cylinder is a booklet of 28 pages beautifully printed, containing an artistically illustrated compendium of the history of papermaking from the ancient papyrus, 2,-000 B.C. from the reeds of the Nile, to the modern paper made from Canadian pulpwood. The little history shows that Canada is the leading pulp wood country. It has an acreage of pulp lands quite up to the "two-power standard"; that is, the pulp wood area of Canada is nearly 350 million acres greater than that of the two largest countries taken together, Russia and the United States. Canada's pre-eminence in the possession of the raw material of pulp and paper, conjoined with the immensity and universal distribution of her water powers, easily indicates her as the peerless pulp and paper country of the world. The little booklet of the Free Press contains in compact form a vast amount of information regarding pulp wood and paper possibilities, that makes it at once pleasant and profitable reading to Canadians. It also contains an appendix, giving some facts about itself and its thrift, of which latter the following figures are a good indication. In 1899 the Free Press consumed 600,000 pounds of paper. This had increased in 1900 to 4,551,992 pounds and for ten months of 1910, the amount of paper used to print its issues, was 5,046,642 pounds. In addition there are figures to show that the west generally has shared the growth and prosperity of the Free Press and other figures to show that Canada as a whole has held her place in the procession of marvellous progress that has marked, especially, the past fifteen years.

THE BONNER-WORTH BY-LAW.

Peterborough, we all will acknowledge, is at the parting of the ways: the city must either advance or recede. This is especially true in regard to her position as a manufacturing centre. To grow in this respect we must increase our manufacturing industries.

In these days of extended power possibilities there is a keener rivalry among Ontario towns and cities to get new industries. Many towns are inclined to go to great lengths in this respect. For instance, Woodstock has got several new factories, and has given liberal inducements and takes risks that are too great. In respect of one particular industry, Woodstock met demands which were promptly rejected by our Industrial Commissioner, and the City Council, because too much was asked and too little given—because in fine the proposal was unbusiness-like and one-sided.

With such keen competition Peterborough cannot afford to "turn down" a proposal like the Bonner-Worth enterprise, by refusing to give the reasonable encouragement which other towns would jump at the chance of giving.

It is not necessary to repeat the arguments in regard to the soundness and standing of the persons at the head of the Bonner-Worth enterprise. The City Council and Board of Trade, who have a direct interest in encouraging everything that will tend to build up the city, have investigated the conditions and claims of the enterprise to consideration, and have heartily endorsed it. They see that there is little, if any, risk of the city losing anything, but, on the contrary, a chance of gaining an important new industry. They see that such a factory will employ labour; that new houses may have to be erected; that the erection of these will give employment to labour; that new citizens, or citizens now idle, will be given employment, and that the city as a whole will receive the benefits sure to come from the establishment of a new industry.

Exception is taken to the exemption clause of the by-law. Exemptions may be wrong in principle, but they are forced upon us, if—we are to compete with other places, which are ready and anxious to give even more than exemption to secure new factories.

Aside from the principle of exemption it seems that in our case and in respect of the Bonner-Worth enterprise exemption may well be regarded as good business, and no loss.

The new concern will acquire and occupy land which now pays but nominal taxes. It will improve it by erecting buildings worth, with machinery, from $25,000 to $30,000. These will not be exempt from school taxes, which will amount to far more than the taxes now paid on idle and vacant property. Nobody has any too much love for tax exemptions, but if we are to meet the rivalry of other towns, if we are not to be beaten in the race for new industries, we must meet the conditions that exist. If we get the new industry we have exemption, but with it a new industry. If we refuse the new industry we shall have no exemption and we shall also have no new industry.

It is, therefore, urged that all citizens who would like to see Peterborough built up by the addition of new industries, should express their opinion at the polls. Good will and good intentions do not count, unless implemented by a vote.

The defeat of the by-law would, it seems, be a disaster in more ways than one. It would prevent the establishment of what promises to be an important and expanding industry. But the moral effect of the rejection of the by-law will be even more unfortunate. It will show that Peterborough, which is so admirably adapted as a manufacturing centre; which professes to be so anxious for new industries, and so willing to treat them liberally—as liberally at least as other cities and towns—is found wanting when put to the test. This will tend to create the idea among the seekers of sites for factories, that it is no use to look to Peterborough; for it is not willing to offer inducements to new industries which other and less enterprising (in other ways) cities and towns, would be glad to give. The rejection of the by-law will tend to put Peterborough on the black list of those seeking places to establish new industries.

THE MUNICIRAL ELECTIONS.

Here is an example of one of the results of the ward system of electing aldermen. On Tuesday night, in Ottawa, an aldermanic candidate in Hintonburg ward had the courage to expose the heart and spirit of the ward system. He said:

"If you elect me I shall devote my time to the interests of this ward, and not particularly to the interests of the city as a whole."

There you have it in a nutshell. How can we expect the interests of the city to be properly, safely, and economically administered by aldermen, presumably elected to transact the business of the city as a whole and in the interests of the whole city, under such circumstances? By mere ward representatives, who will, doubtless, have the help of other ward representatives to put through ward jobs irrespective of the general interests of the city. All ward representatives have not the courage of the Ottawa alderman, but it would be unreasonable to expect many of them to come to be human and not look out for themselves, and "their ward" at the expense of the proper administration of the interests of the city as a whole.

Not only does the ward system lead to these undesirable conditions, but it disenfranchises four-fifths of the electors, depriving them of a voice in the selection of four-fifths of the members of the Council. It favours the formation of cliques, and the formation of "slates," representing special interests, entirely unconnected with any consideration of the effective government of the city. The tendency is to destroy public interest in the elections. In the five wards we have sixteen candidates, an average of three for each ward, so that each elector has to make a choice of two out of three, when, perhaps, none of them meets with his approval. He has therefore, perhaps to vote for two men, or one man, none of whom he considers a fit and proper person to manage the business of the city. There may be, in other wards, candidates whom he would like to see on the Council board. But he has no more to say in their election or rejection than if he were a resident of Yukon.

On this account there will be probably a small vote polled. Doubtless many will not come to the polls at all, and the election of water commissioners and members of the school boards may not be as representative as they should be, and the vote on the two by-laws may not be representative of the real state of public feeling.

But these conditions may not be an evil altogether. They will serve some good purpose, if they serve to arouse the people from their indifference to the selection of their representatives and force consideration of the question of adopting a system that will enlist the interest and bring out the full vote of the people.

If we had in force a government by commission—composed of three or four capable men, paid a salary to devote their time and business ability to the government of the city, better results might follow; worse could not. There is no doubt that if we elected these men, many of whom could be found in the city, we should save enough money to pay all salaries, and have money to the good, besides getting real value for the money expended upon the various city services. Besides, also, the selection of commissioners would be made on the merits of the candidates and not influenced by cliques and ward influences, which permit men of little ability as representatives to come to the surface. Then men of ability and capability would be more inclined to take upon themselves the responsibility of serving the city.

The commission idea is extending. It is applied to railways, waterworks, conservation of national resources, and now we have a healthy agitation in progress in favour of a tariff commission—a body that will take the tariff out of politics, and make the national interest the first consideration. A city government by commission would take municipal matters out of ward politics, and treat city affairs on their merits, and not as a stake for log-rolling, and scratch-my-back-and-I'll-scratch-yours, policy and practice.

"These few remarks" are headed "municipal elections," but the title is not quite proper. A city council, made practically by one fifth of the electors, cannot be properly said to be "elected"; it gets there independently of the will of four-fifths of the electors.

THE COMING CANADIAN CRUISERS.

(Globe)

A good deal has been said, not merely by people who know better, but also by people who are by no means ignorant, about the uselessness of Canada's purchased cruisers, the Niobe and the Rainbow. The impression sought to be created is that the Canadian navy, when it is developed, will be made up of such vessels, which were regarded in their day as good warships. All types of war vessels become rapidly antiquated, but the Niobe and the Rainbow are still good enough for the purposes for which they were intended when they were acquired.

The Canadian navy scheme is intended to include war vessels built in Canada of two types; protected cruisers and torpedo-boat destroyers. About the latter little need be said. They are an element in coast defence in every country, and they simply cannot be dispensed with. The Canadian cruisers will be of the British type, and it is worth while inquiring what their place is in the British navy. Before the Bristol was near completion, and while five of her class were under construction, the editor of the Navy League Annual expressed this opinion in the volume for 1909-10:

"If it be not too premature to form a judgment, the nine new cruisers of the Bristol class would appear admirably to meet the demands for additional scouts. With their displacement of 4,800 tons, they should be able to face nearly any sea without a too great loss of speed, and this greater tonnage will prevent that 'wear' which manifests itself so rapidly in all vessels of about 3,000 tons displacement."

The comparison here is between scouts of the Bristol class and those of the Boadicea class, which were built a year earlier. The Bristol has, according to the correspondent of the New York Herald, been completed and commissioned. He describes her as a "medium-sized cruiser of the protected type," with heavy armament, high speed, and good seakeeping qualities. There will be many vessels of this type needed, not merely for scouting, but also for the protection of Great Britain's merchant marine. Lastly, he points out that Germany is building two cruisers of this class each year, and that they must be produced somewhat rapidly by Great Britain if she is not to fall behind the nation that is supposed to be her most formidable rival. Whatever may be said about Canada's naval policy by those who object to her having any navy at all all objections directed against the Bristol cruisers are based on ignorance or dishonesty. The Bristols are perfectly up-to-date, while the Dreadnoughts have already been superseded in their own class.

SOME STATISTICS REGARDING CANADIAN RAILWAY DEVELOPMENT

(Winnipeg Free Press.)

The bluebook of railway statistics for the year ended June 30 last shows a notable increase in the construction equipment and earnings of the railways of the Dominion during the twelve months covered by the figures presented. This volume, for all that it is made up mainly of figures, makes interesting reading on account of the importance of the matters dealt with and the carefulness with which the various statistical tables are prepared, and the various subjects of mileage, capitalization, subsidies, equipment, passengers and freight service rendered, earnings, wages, and accidents, are set forth, with comparisons covering an extended number of years. It is a bluebook which reflects credit both on its compiler, Mr. J. L. Payne, the Comptroller of Railway Statistics, and on the Government Printing Bureau. Its appearance thus early is a record-breaking performance.

In the twelve months dealt with the railway mileage of Canada increased from 24,104 miles to 24,731 miles. Of this increase of 627 miles, the share of the four Western Provinces was 519 miles. These figures do not include any mileage of the Grand Trunk Pacific, which is officially regarded in the bluebook as "under construction," though more than 1,000 miles were under actual operation. It is estimated that 4,500 miles of railway were under construction on June 30 last. During the statistical year 79 miles of second track and 344 miles of yard track and sidings were laid. During the past four years there has been an increase of 2,279 miles of main line track 476 miles of second track, and 1,063 miles of yard track—a total increase of 3,-818 miles.

During the year the total of railway capitalization was increased by $101,816,271, bringing it up to $1,410,-297,647, of which $687,557,387 is in stocks, and $772,740,300 in bonds. The actual capitalization on June 30 last was $52,361 per mile of track. The cash subsidies to railways during the twelve months amounted to $1,780,723, bringing up the grand total of cash subsidies that have been given to railways in Canada since the beginning of railways in the country to the imposing aggregate of $200,753,063. The three subdivisions of this huge amount are as follows: Cash subsidies granted by the Dominion, $146,332,180; cash subsidies granted by the Provinces, $35,837,060; and cash subsidies granted by municipalities, $17,983,823. The total of the land grants made to the railways from the first is 55,292,-321 acres, of which the Dominion has granted 32,040,378 acres. The public guarantees of issues of railway securities amounted on June 30 last to $127,336,357.

It is interesting to find distilled from a great mass of statistics the fact, that the average passenger journey and the average freight haul in Canada are the longest in the world. This Canadian statistical preeminency is due to the "magnificent distances" traversed by the lines of railway between the East and the West, and in the West. The total number of passengers carried in the twelve months was 35,894,575, and the total number of tons of freight carried was 74,482,866 — the increase over the preceding twelve months being 3,217,-267 passengers and 7,640,608 tons of freight. The employees of the railways numbered 121,768 and their wages for the twelve months, including the wages of those whose wages are designated as salaries, amounted to $87,167,793. The gross earnings of the railways amounted to $17,100,789, showing a betterment of $2,275,853 on the preceding year, and after making all deductions, including $2,953,759 for interest on funded debt, etc., the net earnings were $5,383,276 clear.

It will not do to turn away from this storehouse of statistical information without having a look at some unpleasant figures in the whole immense collection. They are the figures of accidents, which unfortunately are still larger than they should be. In the year there were 615 people killed, on the railways of Canada, and 2,139 injured. Of these 524 were killed and 1,411 were injured from the movement of trains. The killed included 60 passengers and 214 employees. One passenger in every 598,243 was killed, and one in every 132,943 injured. One trainman in every 199 was killed, and one in every 33 injured. The accidents at highway crossings resulted in 63 persons being killed and 61 injured.

"ASHTON-KIRK, INVESTIGATOR"

By John T. McIntyre. Copyrighted and All Rights Reserved

Osborne put his fingers under his collar and pulled as though to breathe more freely; then he motioned another attendant to take the remaining prisoners away.

"I see," said he. "He was too foxy to buy the thing himself. He sent someone else." Then he fixed his eye on the prisoner and continued: "We've got the bayonet on you; so you might as well tell us all about it."

"I don't understand," said Spatola, anxiously.

"The easier you make it for us, the easier it will be for you," Osborne told him. "If you make us sweat fitting this thing to you, we'll give you the limit. Don't forget that."

"I have done nothing," said Spatola, earnestly. "I have done nothing. And yet you keep me here. Is there not a law?"

"There is," said Osborne, grimly. "That's what I'm trying to tell you about. Now, who bought the bayonet?"

"The bayonet?" Spatola stared.

"The bayonet that Hume was killed with."

"Always Hume," he said. "Always Hume! I can not be free of him. He was evil!" in a sort of shrill whisper. "Even when he is dead, I am mocked by him. He was all evil! I believe he was a devil!"

"That was no reason why you should kill him," said Osborne in the positive manner of the third degree.

"I did not kill him," protested Spatola. "There were many times when it was in my heart to do so. But I did not do it!"

"I've heard you say all that before," stated Osborne, wearily. Then to the turnkey: "Take him away, Curtis."

"Just a moment," interposed Ashton-Kirk. "I came here to have a few words with this prisoner, and by your leave, I'll speak to him now."

"All right," replied Osborne. 'Help yourself."

He led Bernstine and Sime out of the cell room; the turnkey with professional courtesy, moved away to a safe distance, and Ashton-Kirk turned to the Italian.

"You were once first violin with Karlson," said he. "I remember you well. I always admired your art."

An eager look came into the prisoner's face.

"I thank you," he said. "It is not many who will remember me as a man who once did worthy things. I am young," with despair, "yet how I have sunken."

"It is something of a drop," admitted Ashton-Kirk. "From a position of first violin with Kurlson to that of a street musician. How did it happen?"

"The fault," he declared, "is here. I have not the—what do you call it—sense? What happened with Karlson happened a dozen times before—in Italy, in France, in Spain. I have not the good sense!"

But justification came into his eyes, and his hands began to gesticulate eloquently.

"Karlson is a Swede," with contempt. "The Swedes know the science of music; but they are hard; they are seldom artists; they cannot express. And when one of this nation—a man with the ice of his country in his soul—tried to instruct me how to play the warm music of my own Italy, I called him a fool!"

"I see," said the investigator.

"I am to blame," said Spatola, contritely. "But I could not help it. He was a fool, and fools seldom like to hear the truth."

"The Germans, now," said Ashton Kirk, insinuatingly, "are somewhat different from the Swedes. Were you ever employed under a German conductor?"

"Twice," replied the violinist, with a shrug. "Nobody can deny the art of the Germans. But they have their faults. They say they know the violin. And they do; but the Italian has taught them. The violin belongs to Italy. It was the glory of Cremona, was it not? The tender hands of the Amatis, of Josef Guarnerius, of old Antonio Stradivari, placed a soul within the wooden box; and that soul is the soul of Italy!"

"Haupt, a German, wrote a treatise on the violin," said Ashton-Kirk. "If you would read that——"

"I have read it," cried Spatola. "I have read it! It is like that," and he snapped his fingers impatiently.

"But you've probably read a translation in the English or Italian," insisted the investigator, smoothly. "And all translations lose something of their vitality, you know."

"I have read it in the German," declared the Italian; "in his own language, just as he wrote it. It is nothing!"

Pendleton looked at Ashton-Kirk, admiringly; the manner in which his friend had established the fact that Spatola knew the German language seemed to him very clever. But Ashton-Kirk made no sign other than that of interest in the subject upon which they talked.

"A race that has given the world such musicians as Wagner, Beethoven and Mozart," said he, "must possess in a tremendous degree the musical sense. The German knowledge of tone and combinations is extraordinary; and their music in turn is as complex as their psychology and as simple as the improvisation of a child."

"And, with all their scholarship, the Germans are so practical," went on the latter. "Only the other day I came upon a booklet published in Leipzig that dealt with the difficulty a composer sometimes encounters in getting the notes on paper when a melody sweeps through his brain. The writer claimed that the world had lost thousands of inspirations because of this, and to prevent further loss, he proffered an invention—a system of—so to speak—musical shorthand."

"Perhaps you don't quite understand the value of such an invention," proceeded Ashton-Kirk. "But if you had a knowledge of stenography and the short cuts it—"

But the Italian interrupted him brusquely.

"I know nothing of such things," said he, "and what is more I don't want to know anything of them." Then in a sharp, angry tone, he added; "What do you want of me? I am not acquainted with you. Why am I annoyed like this? Is it always to be so—first one and then another?"

At this sudden display of resentment, the turnkey approached.

"I will go back to my cell," Spatola told him, "and please do not bring me out again. My nerves are bad. I have been worried much of late and I can't stand it."

The turnkey looked at Ashton-Kirk who nodded his head. And, as Spatola was led gesticulating away, Pendleton said in a low tone of conviction:

"I tell you, Kirk, there's your man. Besides the other things against him he knows German."

"But what of the phonographic signs?"

"He knows them also. His manner proved it. As soon as you mentioned shorthand he became suspicious and showed uneasiness and anger. I tell you again," with an air of finality, "he's your man."

CHAPTER XIII.

A NEW LIGHT ON ALLAN MORRIS.

From the City Hall the car headed for Christie Place once more; it halted some half dozen doors from Hume's and the occupants got out.

The first floor was used by a dealer in second-hand machinery, but at one side was a long, dingy entry with a rickety, twisting flight of stairs at the end. Ashton-Kirk rang the bell here, and while they waited a man who had been seated in the open door of the machine shop got up and approached them.

He wore blue overalls and a jumper liberally discoloured by plumbago and other lubricants; a short wooden pipe was held between his teeth, and a cloth cap sat upon the back of his head.

"Looking up the Dago?" asked he with a grin. He jerked a dirty thumb toward the stairs.

Ashton-Kirk nodded; the man took the wooden pipe from his mouth; blew out a jet of strong-smelling smoke and said:

"I knowed he'd put a knife or some thing into somebody, some day. These people with bad tempers ought to be chained up short."

"Do you know him well?" inquired the investigator.

"Did he have many visitors, do you know?"

"I can't just say," he replied. "Not I've been thinking—" he paused now and scrutinized both young men questioningly. Then he asked, "You're detectives, ain't you?"

"Something of that sort," replied Ashton-Kirk.

The man grinned at this.

"Oh, all right," said he. "You do not have to come out flat with it if you don't want to. I ain't one of the kind that you've got to hit with a mallet to make them catch on to a thing." Here the wooden pipe seemed to clog; he took a straw from behind his ear and began clearing the stem carefully. At the same time, he added: "As I was saying, I've been thinking."

"And queer enough, it's been about visitors—here," and the man pointed with the straw toward the doorway. "Funny kind of people, too, for a house like this."

"Take a cigar," said Ashton-Kirk. "That pipe seems out of commission." Then, as the man put the pipe away in the pocket of his jumper and lighted the proffered cigar, he added: "What do you mean by 'funny kind of people?'"

"There's a good many kinds of funny people," said he. "Some of them you laugh at, and others you don't. Those that I mean are the kind you don't. Now, Mrs. Marx, the woman that keeps this place, is all right in her way, but it ain't no swell place at that. Her lodgers are mostly fellows that canvass for different kinds of things; they wear shiny coats and their shoes are mostly run down at the heels. So when I see swell business looking guys coming here I got to wondering who they were. That's only natural, ain't it?"

Ashton-Kirk nodded, but before he could reply in words there came a clatter upon the rickety stairs at the far end of the entry. A thin, slipshod woman with untidy hair and a sharp face paused on the lower step and looked out at them.

"What do you want?" she demanded, shrilly.

"Are you Mrs. Marx?" he inquired.

"Yes," snapped the woman. "What do you want?"

"A little information."

"You're a reporter!" accused the sharp-faced woman. "And let me tell you that I don't want nothing more to say to no reporters."

But Ashton-Kirk soothingly denied the accusation.

"I dare say you've been bothered to death by newspaper men," spoke he. "But we assure you that——"

"It don't make no difference," stated the woman, rearing her head until her long chin pointed straight at them. "I ain't got nothing to say to nobody. I don't want to get into no trouble."

"The only way you can possibly get into trouble in this matter," said the investigator, "is to conceal what you know. Any attempt to hide facts is always considered by the police as a sort of admission of complicity."

In Dread Of Piles

Dr Chase's Ointment

Many Believe That Nothing Short of the Surgeon's Knife Will Effect Cure. They Do Not Know

The agony caused by the intense itching, the depressing and debilitating effect on the system, the dread lest a surgical operation might be necessary—these are the things which make piles or hemorrhoids so distressing.

The doctors have been recommending surgical operations as the only cure. But the surgical operation, with all its dangers and expense and pain, does not usually effect a lasting cure.

Mr. J. Mawer, Roden, Man., writes; "Dr. Chase's Ointment is a wonderful preparation. I had itching piles for over six years, and though I tried two doctors' prescriptions and used many other preparations could not obtain much benefit. The doctor told me there was no cure for me, and that I would have to undergo an operation.

"I bought a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment and was completely cured in one week. As this was six months ago and there has been no return of the old trouble, I believe that the cure is a permanent one."

One thing certain, Dr. Chase's Ointment will bring you relief from the dreadful itching and burning almost as soon as applied.

To make the cure thorough and lasting it is only necessary for you to keep on the treatment regularly and persistently. Don't be satisfied with relief. Dr. Chase's Ointment will cure completely if you will do your part. 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

THE butcher down the street has just gone into bankruptcy.

There is a "to-let" sign in the store he has occupied so many years; his family have moved from their comfortable house into a small apartment, and he has taken a clerkship with a butcher in another town.

We were discussing the reason for his failure the other day. There are only two butcher shops in our section of the town and it really seems as if there ought to be trade enough to support them both more than comfortably.

Molly, the little stenographer lady, advanced the suggestion that it might be because he always cut off a pound or so more than you asked for. Her mother she said, was always scolding because he did that.

"But the other man does that, too," someone protested, "and he seems to be getting along all right."

An original person suggested it might be that he had inferior meats, but someone who had traded with both men assured us they had practically the same goods at the same prices.

Then the lady-who-always-knows-somehow spoke up. "I'll tell you just why I think it was," she announced. "It was because he never smiled."

"He'd say, 'Good morning, what can I do for you?' as if it were ground out of him with a crank, and then he'd cut the meat and weigh it and give it to you and make the change all without the least bit of a smile.

"It was really depressing to go there. No man could succeed no matter what his goods were if he treated customers that way."

I know I used to subconsciously dislike to go into his store. I never translated my feelings about it to myself, but I shouldn't wonder if it was just that—that he was so very unsmiling.

I doubt if many people realize the full commercial value of a smile. And yet how many of us haven't proved it ourselves again and again by buying something chiefly because the salesman or woman smiled so pleasantly and seemed so interested.

If you want to succeed you can't afford not to smile oftener than you do. That may sound like a very broad statement, but I feel quite safe in making it, because I never but once in my life saw anyone who smiled too much, and every day I see people who don't smile half enough.

For the office as well as the home, for success in business as well as in friendship, I know of no better motto than this little verse:

Smile awhile
And while you smile another smiles
And soon there's miles and miles of smiles,
And life's worth while
Because you smiled.

Buffalo Bill Helps Chief Who Nearly Scalped Him

OMAHA, NEB., DEC. 28.—Cloudy Face, an aged Arapahoe Indian chief, who once came near getting Buffalo Bill Cody's scalp, has been helped by the former Indian fighter, who found the old warrior hungry, sick and destitute at the Union Depot in this city.

After giving the old fellow a square meal Colonel Cody purchased for him a ticket back to the reservation and started him homeward to Wyoming. Cloudy Face had been without food for so long that he was unable to tell Cody how he reached Omaha.

Cloudy Face was once one of the most wily and intrepid foes of the whites and for years there was sworn enmity between him and Colonel Cody. He came nearer than any other Indian ever did to getting Buffalo Bill's scalp.

"In the old days I had many a hard fight with this old man and his band," said Colonel Cody. "At one time he headed a coalition of Arapahoes, Shoshones, Sioux, Cheyennes, and other tribes, having for its object the annihilation of the whites.

"They were on the warpath, and a party of us undertook to overtake them. Cloudy Face and his band made a clever movement during the night and got us surrounded. I hardly knew how we managed to get out of that trap, but eight of our party and about fifteen Indians were killed before we got clear.

"Cloudy Face himself made a desperate effort to get me, but his aim was bad and I shot him through the arm first. It was the closest call I ever had."

Before separating from Colonel Cody Cloudy Face insisted on shaking hands with him, calling him "brother" and declaring that they were now friends.

The Quickest, Simplest Cough Cure

This recipe makes 16 ounces of cough syrup—enough to last a family a long time. You couldn't buy as much or as good cough syrup for $2.50.

Simple as it is, it gives almost instant relief and usually stops the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. This is partly due to the fact that it is slightly laxative, stimulates the appetite and has an excellent tonic effect. It is pleasant to take—children like it. An excellent remedy, too, for whooping cough, sore lungs, asthma, throat troubles, etc.

Mix 2 cups of granulated sugar with with one cup of warm water and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents' worth) in a 16 oz. bottle and add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

Pinex is one of the oldest and best known remedial agents for the throat membranes. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the other natural healing elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this recipe have endeared it to thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

BAD INVESTMENT TO BUY BABIES AT $20 EACH

Prof. Nixon Carver, of Harvard, Says that That is What Children are Worth and Produces Facts to Prove It.

AN ASTOUNDING STATEMENT

The New York American says:

Do you want to know how much your baby is worth?

You do? Well, here is how you can find out. Just divide the total population of the community in which you live into the annual increase in productive wealth in your city or town. The result will give you in cold cash the value of your little darling.

That's the way that Professor Thomas Nixon Carver, of Harvard, says you must figure it out. He doesn't think that babies are worth as much as did some other experts who have tried to estimate the worth of a baby.

Professor Carver, who is at the head of the chair of economics at Harvard, used a hypothetical case and discovered that $20 was a fair value for the average person, while "it would be a losing investment to buy a baby at that price."

In a recent investigation, the California State Board of Health fixed the value of a baby at $4,000. This was considered far too low by Professor Edwin R. A. Seligman, of Columbia, who declared the other day that a baby less than a year old represented an economic value of at least $150,000.

Professor Carver's conclusions on baby values are interesting. He says in part:

"Of course, the first thing to be decided in a discussion of this kind is what is meant by the value of a baby. To its own parents, after they have got used to it, a baby is an exceedingly precious thing, but their estimate is not necessarily the same as that of their neighbors, or that of society in general. Even in the case of parents, this high valuation is confined to actual flesh and blood babies, and does not extend to potential or hypothetical babies.

"For example, a certain Cambridge gentleman is reported to have said that he regarded each of his children as worth about $100,000,000, but that he would not give five cents for another one. Therefore, we must exclude from consideration the value of existing babies to their parents.

"Again, the value of a man as a moral example to his fellows must be excluded, for the simple reason that the average man is of no value whatever as a moral example. The man whose example is above the average, and who can, therefore, by his influence, raise the general moral tone of the community to a higher level, may be of incalculable value; but, conversely, the man whose moral example is below the average, and whose influence would, therefore, lower the general moral tone of the community, would be of incalculable harm.

CASES ARE DIFFERENT

"Again, for similar reasons, we must omit the consideration of the value of the average man as a breeding animal. While it is probably true that the offspring of Jonathan Edwards and his equally remarkable wife have been of incalculable value to the world—probably of greater value than either the moral example of the theological writings, or both combined, of Edwards himself—yet this is cancelled by the enormously degenerate offspring of such a man as Max, the father of the Jukes.

"It i seasy to demonstrate by actual figures that a first class prepotent bull is easily worth $100,000 by reason of the increased yield of butter in the herd which he heads. Whereas, the average cow yields only about 133 pounds of butter per year, the first generation of a cross between a herd of average cows and such a bull will yield upwards of 300 pounds a year. Capitalize the increased income from such an improved herd and you get rather startling figures. But an average bull would not improve the herd at all, and one below the average would cause it to deteriorate. His value is, therefore, negative.

"It is estimated that Messenger, famous sire of American trotters, increased the value of American horse flesh by more than a million dollars. Is not a man worth more than a horse? True, but many another stallion has actually reduced the value of our stock of horses.

"Another thing which must be remembered is that the man who does no productive work, either of body or mind, but lives upon inherited wealth, is worth considerably less than nothing to the community and to the world. He is consuming good food and wearing out good clothes and doing nothing to replace them.

"Another thing to be borne in mind is that a man, however, vigorous and capable he may be, is of no value to the community unless he is doing some kind of work for which men are scarce.

"The only logical conclusion is that no person is of any economic value whatever unless he is, by his own individual efforts, performing some kind of serviceable labor.

"Let us suppose that there is an annual increase of $5,000,000 a year in the real productive wealth, as distinguished from land values and other forms of acquisitive wealth, in a city whose population is 5,000,000 people. That would mean that the average person was worth about a dollar a year. Capitalize this annual value at 5 per cent. and it gives you less that $20 a year as a fair value for the average person.

"Since the chances of death before reaching a productive age are very great on the part of each newborn babe, it would be a losing investment to buy them at that price. In order that the average new-born babe might have a value of $4,000, there would have to be an annual increase in the wealth of such a community o fsomething like $2,000,000,000 (two million dollars) and in order to make them a paying investment at $150,000 a piece, each grown person would have to add to the wealth of his community at least $7,500 per year, and a community of 5,000,000 would have to add to its wealth each year the unthinkable sum of $37,500,000,000."

DISTRESSING HEADACHES

Headaches are largely the result of disordered kidneys.

Mrs. Hall, 84 Flora street, St. Thomas, Ont., says: "I suffered for years with headaches of a most distressing nature. They would come on me suddenly, and would last for days at a time. These were usually accompanied by spells of dizziness that would leave me unable to attend to my house duties. My back was weak and caused me much suffering through the night. I had doctored for years, but all to no avail. Nothing benefitted my condition was gradually becoming worse. I learned of Booth's Kidney Pills. One box gave me a complete and lasting cure. I have not had a headache or dizzy spell since and I feel like a new person."

Wants To Put An End To Kissing

CINCINNATI, DEC. 28.—Safety Director Scott Small, of Cincinnati, and several city officials, will go before the city Board of Health and seek to secure the passage of restrictions against kissing by certain people.

Director Small denies that he thinks it wrong for the healthy to kiss. Rather, he says, he would encourage that sort of pastime, but he says that there are many diseases which are transmitted by kissing, and that his object in going before the Health Board is to have people examined, and if they have these diseases, to segregate them and keep them away from everybody else.

"I have gone into this matter carefully, and have talked with distinguished physicians," said Mr. Small. "I find that many of the diseases now prevalent are caused by kissing.

"If we can segregate these people, we will greatly aid the city, and will be making it a much better place to live in. Fully one-fourth of the people in hospitals to-day are there through sickness they have acquired by the unsanitary kiss."

WILL HUNT DUCKS IN AEROPLANES

Examiner Special.

SAN FRANCISCO, DEC. 28.—As the result of what was at first thought to be a huge joke, Chairman F. E. Scotford and Secretary Paul W. Beck, of the business men's aviation committee, find themselves facing with more or less pleasure one of the most novel hunting expeditions ever proposed in this State. They have been invited to go duck hunting in Curtiss and Wright biplanes this week, and if they do not change their minds will be accompanied by Glen Curtiss and one of the Wright stars.

The whole thing started over a bright idea of the secretary of the committee, who, thinking to get some advertising for the coming meet without any personal discomfort, sent telegrams to R. R. Young, representing the Curtiss Company, and Roy Knabenshue, of the Wright Company, who are now in Los Angeles, daring them to take himself and Scotford on a duck hunt.

Beck forgot the incident for a few days, and was much surprised to receive telegrams from Los Angeles, not only taking him up on the proposition, but expressing great enthusiasm on the part of the aviators. The representatives of the birdmen are most earnest in their offer, and Beck and Scotford have accepted, crushing down whatever stray doubts they may have, and accepting it as a part of the work of aviation promoters.

STOPS SEARCH FOR HIDDEN $50,000

Examiner Special:

VANDERBILT, TEX., DEC. 28.—Charles Beeler, convicted of robbing Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express of $50,000 eleven years ago, is an engineer on the St. Louis, Brownsville & Mexico Railroad. The penalty which he paid for taking the money was five years in the penitentiary.

What became of the money is a mystery to the Wells Fargo people, and the trained detectives that have been searching for it ever since. It is known that Beeler has never reaped any benefit from the stolen money. From the time that he left the doors of the penitentiary until a short time ago there was not a day that he was not shadowed by detectives. At last the express company is said to be convinced that the man lost or misplaced the money and has given up all hope of ever obtaining it.

Beeler was a driver for Wells Fargo Co. in 1899. Currency and gold, amounting to $50,000, were counted out to Beeler by the local cashier in the San Antonio office of the express company. Beeler was told to haul the money in the wagon safe to the Southern Pacific Railroad station and deliver it to the pay car of that road. Local money deliveries of this kind had been made many times before, but the agent always accompanied the driver. On this particular day the local agent was not in the office and Beeler drove off alone with the money.

He says that he had no sooner left the office than the thought flashed through his mind that here was his chance to get a fortune. He decided to make away with the money.

He drove into the country for a mile, and entered a mesquite-covered thicket. Tying the horses to a tree, he soon had the safe open and the $50,000 in his possession. It was comparatively easy to carry the currency, but the gold coins made a weighty bundle. To prevent his trail being followed, Beeler started away from the wagon on foot. He claims than when he reached a ranch a few miles below San Antonio he buried all of the money except $3,000 in bills.

When he stepped out of prison, Beeler was watched day and night. It is now six years since he left the penitentiary, and until a few weeks ago there was never a moment during that period that he was not being spied upon. It is said that the express company is at last convinced that Beeler's story of someone finding the buried money and getting away with it is true.

Alleged Kidnapper Caught After 5,000 Mile Chase Kitten Furnishes Clue

Special to The Examiner.

GREELEY, COL., DEC. 28.—After a chase of 5,000 miles and extending over several States, James W. Lee, alleged kidnapper of his three-year-old daughter, Irene, has been arrested in Wharton, Tex., by Sheriff Florance. A legal battle against extradition has already been begun.

Lee disappeared with the girl a month ago. When Mrs. Lee obtained a divorce the decree provided that the father should be allowed to have his daughter for six hours on the first Sunday of each month November 6 he visited the home of Mrs. Lee's parents and took the child supposedly to have her picture taken. He failed to return.

The police traced him through the Northwest and over the line into Canada. Then he returned to Seattle and took a boat from there to San Francisco. Here the trail was lost, but he was located in Oklahoma City and from there followed to Texas.

The principal means by which he was trailed was the presence of a gray cat which he carried for the child's amusement.

TO ABOLISH THE MOUND IN PITCHER'S BOX

"If the Rules Committee will abolish the raised pitching slab there'll be a big increase in batting," says John Ganzel, manager of the Eastern League champion Rochester.

"The box is so much higher than the home plate under the present rules that the pitcher has an enormous advantage. He is practically throwing the ball down hill. Place him on the level with the batsman and you'll find a marked change in the hitting."

Ganzel is not alone in this belief. Other baseball men who attended the recent league meetings in Gotham expressed themselves in a similar manner. One of them went so far as to sa ythat whie the rules permitted a pitching mound eighteen inches higher than the plate and the bases, some meunds were at least twenty-four inches in height. There is no good reason why the pitcher should enjoy such an advantage and in view of the general demand for more batting it is said that there may be a new rule covering this point.

MYSTERIOUS POISONING CASE

CHICAGO, DEC. 28.—Mrs. Wm. Whiteline is dead, and her daughter, Miss Lavinia Corey, both victims of poisoning, is critically ill, while the police are investigating what they believe is a mysterious murder. The two women, found yesterday and carried from their home to a hospital, were supposed to have entered into a starvation compact. Physicians, after an examination, declared that both had been poisoned. Mrs. Whiteline died early to-day. Her daughter, who was unconscious when the two women were taken from the house, has so far recovered as to be able to talk. She said she was poisoned by her mother, but she believes that the poison was sent in by outsiders, who planned to kill both her mother and herself.

The poison, Miss Corey says, was in pork gravy which was prepared by Mrs. Whiteline. Both partook of the gravy. Shortly afterward they became violently ill. Mrs. Whiteline was found by the officers, who broke into the house yesterday after neighbors had reported that they heard groaning in the cottage, lying face downward on her bed. She wore the clothing she had on when she ate of the poisoned gravy. Her daughter attired in her night clothing, was found lying in an adjoining room stretched on the floor. The faces of both women were puffed and their tongues swollen. The physicians who were summoned, said the strange effect doubtless was caused by the fever which followed the first effect of starvation.

It was not until a more careful examination was made that traces of poison were found.

Although the physicians worked desperately to resuscitate Mrs. Whiteline, their efforts proved fruitless. She had evidently taken more poison than her daughter. She died without regaining consciousness.

The daughter showed the effects of the vigorous treatment given her by the physicians, and to-day was much improved. She was able to talk, although only with great effort.

She will probably recover, the doctors say.

Miss Corey said that she believed both her mother and herself had been poisoned. She said that her mother had prepared pork gravy, of which both had eaten, and it was in this she thought, that the drug had been placed. She believed that the poison was sent in by someone who wanted to kill both herself and mother, and she thinks that her mother did not know that it was in the food she had prepared.

Neighbors say that Mrs. Whiteline was on the porch on Monday, and that she pinned a note on the door, which read;

"Dear friends, am not at home."

The police regard this note as the most important clue in the case.

The authorities have begun an investigation of the case. They have two theories. One is that Mrs. Whiteline was weary of life and decided to kill herself and daughter; the other is that the poison was sent by someone who desired to murder both women. The latter theory finds more support.

A careful analysis will be made of the various cooking utensils and the remnants of food found in the house, to find traces of poison. An autopsy will be held to confirm the doctors' diagnosis. The nature of the poison found has not yet been given out.

OAKLAND, CAL., DEC. 28.—William Whiteline, husband of the Chico poison victim, who is proprietor of a grocery store here, has left for Chico. He received a telegram last night notifying him that his wife and her daughter were very ill, and started at once for his home.

TEACHER'S NERVES

Teachers often have the reputation of being cross when the trouble is with the nerves rather than the disposition. Mr. A Sutherland, Principal South Bar School, Sydney, N.S., writes: "I was nervous and worried, had indigestion and headache and other ills. Doctors failed me. You can depend on me to recommend Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food for I believe it has entirely cured me." Tired brains and feeble nerves are soon restored by this celebrated food cure.

ANNUAL ENTERTAINMENT OF SPRINGVILLE SUNDAY SCHOOL

Very Enjoyable Affair Was Held Last Evening—Children Contributed Delightful Programme.

LARGE ATTENDANCE

The annual entertainment, in connection with the Springville Presbyterian Sunday school, was held in the church last night and a great success was the result. The programme was begun by the school singing "All Hail." After this the following numbers were given:

The year book of the Ontario Hockey Association for 1910-11 is the most complete ever issued by the Association and is crammed from cover to cover with interesting and important information. It contains the constitution of the Association, the complete playing rules for each series, a list of the O. H. A. officers and of the secretaries of the O.H.A. clubs, with their addresses, a complete history of the Association from its inception and other interesting facts, and is illustrated with pictures of the officers, photographs of the three champion teams of last year and of the O.H.A. trophies and a map of Ontario, showing the towns and cities as represented in the O.H.A. and the railway connections. THESE PRISONERS ARE PARTICULAR

HONESDALE, PA., DEC. 28.—Sheriff Lee Braman is having his troubles with the two most important prisoners he has had since he has been in office, or, in fact, that have been confined in the Wayne County jail for many years. One demands that her washing be done at the county's expense, and the other demands mince pie with his meals.

The prisoners are Mrs. Leona Lord and Samuel Reed, jointly indicted for the killing of Silas Lord, the woman's brother-in-law, in Equinunk, on July 12 last. They will go to trial before County Judge Searle in January, unless their counsel gets a change of venue.

The arrests of Mrs. Lord and Reed occurred two days after the fight, and they have been in jail ever since.

Reed, a clockmaker in the village, was the generally accepted sweetheart of the woman, a widow, and it was said that the date for the wedding had been set, but since they have been in jail they have quarrelled, and Mrs. Lord has denied that she ever promised to marry him. He, in turn, accuses her of getting him embroiled in the feud on the promise that she would soon be his wife, and all her property would then be his.

District Attorney M. E. Simons expects to prove that Sam Reed knocked Silas Lord down with a hoe, and that Leona Lord wielded the pick that caused the fatal blow. The principal witnesses for the prosecution are several women, a man more than eighty years old, and a boy. The pick was found in the woman's house, hidden under a sofa.

The Honesdale jail seldom contains many prisoners at a time, and the Sheriff's residence is in a part of it. The meals for the prisoners are prepared under the supervision of Mrs. Braman in her kitchen, and served through the bars by her maid. The food is plentiful and far better than is served to most criminals.

But Reed has a weakness for mince pie. He has been grumbling ever since fall that he hasn't been getting enough dessert.

The widow Lord is being boarded at the county's expense, and she insists in vain, however, that it should also do her laundry work.

"HACK" WILL MEET GOTCH

Russian Lion Wires Champion That He Will Wrestle for $20,000

Examiner Special:

TORONTO, DEC. 29. — Hackenschmidt, the burly Russian wrestler, who was beaten last night at Montreal, and will try out some local talent to-night, wired this morning accepting Frank Gotch's challenge for a twenty-thousand dollar match in Chicago.

FIGHT FOR FAMILY TITLE

OTTAWA, KAN., DEC. 28.—A wrestling contest to decide where reats physical supremacy in the household of William Bower, of Ottawa, has taken place on every tenth day of January for several years between the elder Bower and his son Ross. The father is six feet tall and weighs 200 lbs. Ross weighs 196.

Some years ago when Ross began to go around feeling his biceps his father decided it was tme to uphold the dignity of the head of the house. So he suggested a wrestling match, and soon gained the fall.

"Now," he said, "I'll wrestle you every year on your birthday until you are able to down me."

Heretofore the contest has been extremely one sided. The elder Bower has always been the right bower and has turned the trick of putting his youthful son on the mat with ease.

But in three weeks the boy will be a man. Three years on the University of Ottawa football squad have made a hardened block out of him. Some of the neighbors are inclined to shake their heads as they look upon the great strong body of the forty-five-year-old father and then at the athletic outline of the twenty-year-old son.

"Don't believe old man Bower can come back this winter," is the opinion of the hangers-on at the son's training quarters.

"Guess he'll find out that it takes more than twenty-one years to make a man," is the rejoinder of the father's admirers.

GOTCH LIKES MAHMOUT TURK A REAL WRESTLER

(By Tip Wright.)

Yussiff Mahmout is the fellow whom Frank Gotch declares is the best heavyweight wrestler of them all. Gotch ought to know; he has beaten the bunch.

It is not strange, but interesting to those who keep tab on the rough work of the promoters, that Mahmout is not given another chance at the real stars.

Last year, it may be recalled, Mahmout met Zbysko twice. The first was a handicap match, in which the Bulgarian was to topple the Pole in one hour. After working the public into a near-frenzy with the Bluff that they were to meet in private, they consented to let the public give up good money to watch them.

The result was that Mahmout didn't throw Zbysko. It is doubtful if he really tried. But the thing looked so exciting that when a return match was announced, the public was tickled. That's a weakness the public displays occasionally. The pair met and Zybasko won, although those who had seen Mahmout upon other occasions could not understand how he managed to let his huge opponent turn the trick.

But Zbysko was due to win. He was to meet Gotch later, so could not be defeated.

Later, when Gotch was talking retirement, the men near the top of the game decided Dr. Roller would be next champion. He had been with Gotch, and having a noodle, was supposed to have picked up a lot of inside stuff. Roller was so nutty over this championship thing that the squirrels barked every time they got near him, and he fell for the hunk

But Mahmout settled the Seattle man's aspirations. A lot of people imagined Roller was due to beat Mahmout, and when the Bulgarian put on the work the fact that Roller had been crossed out was apparent to good judges of physiognomy—the wise guy showed their surprise so plainly.

Now, whether it is because he tossed Roller when he wasn't intended to, or because he is really the best of them all, as Gotch insists, Mahmout isn't getting any big matches these days. Someone is preventing his appearance where the kale grows fast.

If Mahmout is the best wrestler in the country, the public, which is so keen to spend its money, ought to demand that he be given a crack at Zbysko and Hackenschmidt, without having his hands tied.

I wouldn't be surprised, basing my opinion on what I have seen Mahmout do, what I have been told by men close to the wrestling throne and from what Gotch says that if he is given a chance Mahmout can make both Hackenschmidt and Zbysko look like 30 cents Mex with a hole through the centre.

CREATION OF INTERNATIONAL RAILWAY COMMISSION

For the United States and Canada is Advocated---Chairman Mabee and Judge Knapp Have Concluded Their Important Conference at Washington.

Washington, Dec. 29.—As a result of conferences between Judge Martin A. Knapp, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and J. F. Mabee, chief of the Railway Commission of Canada, an agreement has been reached to recommend to the Governments of the United States and Canada, the creation of an international railroad commission, which shall have supervision authority over the railway rates between the two countries.

Mr. Mabee arrived in Washington from Ottawa Tuesday night, to discuss the details of an agreement he had reached with Judge Knapp last August, and yesterday the two officials, who were designated by their respective Governments to consider the subject and make a report upon it, were in conference. Their report has not been completed, but will be in a day or two.

No details of the report are yet available, beyond the fact that it recommends the establishment of the international commission, upon which shall be conferred certain defined regulatory powers. Whether the commission is to be created by treaty between the two Governments or by joint legislation cannot be announced at this time.

For a considerable period it has been realized that the increasing traffic, both passenger and freight, between the United States and Canada, was likely to render control over rates in the future difficulty, unless some international action was taken.

The acquisition by American railroads of Canadian terminals, and by Canadian railroads of American terminals and lines, present increasing difficulties. In the existing circumstances, it is not possible to compel either railways or express companies to establish joint through routes and rates to and from points in the two countries. In other words, neither an American or a Canadian carrier may be required to furnish to a shipper a through bill of lading to any point in one country from any point in the other.

The reasonableness of the international rates, which ordinarily are a combination of the rates local to each country, can be determined only by a circuitous proceeding, instituted before the commission of both countries. No power at present exists that can require carriers engaged in international transportation to establish what may be regarded officially as reasonable, through joint rates, and to apportion those rates among the participating carriers, in the event they cannot reach an agreement among themselves.

SERIOUS CHARGES

IMPORTANT EVIDENCE

Woodstock, Dec. 29.—Graft poked its nose out without a veil on for the first time yesterday, in connection with the Oxford County investigation which Judge Snider is conducting. M. T. Buchanan was flatly confronted with statements that he got $742.50 from the Sawyer-Massey Co. of Hamilton for swinging the purchase of two lots of road-making machinery by the county from that company. Both Manager Edward Crawford and Alex. Calder, agent for the firm in Bright, Ont., swore to it on the witness stand.

When the latter had finished, Counsel E. F. B. Johnston, K.C., offered Buchanan the opportunity of cross-examining the witnesses.

"You've asked him enough, I think," rejoined Buchanan, doggedly, "and you have heard what he said."

"So have you," put in counsel.

"Well, you don't expect me to get him to tell anything different, do you?"

Witness was dismissed with the comment from Judge Snider, "We only want you to understand, Mr. Buchanan, that you will be treated fairly."

Explaining that he had become confused under Mr. Johnston's rapid fire examination, Robert Tate reappeared on the stand. He wanted to say that he gave the $2,007, after cashing the check for the sale of the northern gravel road, to James Mills (now deceased). Before he stated that it had been taken from him on the street by someone, and he presumed that Buchanan had got it. His memory was hazy then, but yesterday he was quite clear that he either met Mills on the street after emerging from the bank, or Mills overtook him. They went into the King Edward rotunda, and Tate handed the money to Mills.

Manager Crawford of the Sawyer-Massey Co. swore that Buchanan had called at his office in Hamilton in May, 1907, and told him that Oxford County would be buying a lot of road machinery, and, although he was not on the purchasing committee, he controlled the situation, and the dealings must be done through him.

"He said a commission of ten per cent. must be paid to him in some way or other. He laid special stress on this, saying he could easily throw the business to other companies. I referred him to Mr. Calder, our agent at Bright, but he said that made no difference, he controlled the situation," said witness.

Mr. Crawford then advised Calder to canvass and see if he could not get the business in some other way, but it seemed impossible.

The first order for rollers, witness said, went through on that basis, Buchanan getting $480. Buchanan again talked to witness concerning two more sales, and asked if it was clearly understood that he was to get the commission. Mr. Crawford replied that, if the agent had made arrangements, the firm would have to stand behind him. The sales totalled $1,975 and $1,550 respectively, and Buchanan's commission was $232.50. These items were entered on the firm's books as a bonus to Calder.

"Had you any doubt as to who that money was to be paid to?" asked Mr. Johnston.

"I understood it was for Mr. Buchanan."

Mr. Johnston then entered into a letter from Crawford to Calder, urging the agent to push the sale of a steam roller on the county if possible, and asking if the commissions he was being allowed were sufficiently attractive to his customers.

Asked for an interpretation of this, the manager admitted that it was intended for the agent to understand that his commission would be raised if necessary—"to buy the other fellow," counsel put in.

While this evidence was coming out Buchanan was absent from the court room, and when Mr. Johnston explained to him what witness had said, he appeared dazed. "No, I have no questions," he announced huskily.

Alexander Calders, the agent, told of meeting Buchanan at Paris, Ont., as instructed in Mr. Crawford's letter. He offered Buchanan six per cent., but he would not take less than 10. Later on witness paid Buchanan $460, under instructions, in the latter's driving shed.

"And did you get a receipt?"

"No, I didn't ask for one."

Mr. Calder further understood that whatever the county bought generally, whether through Buchanan or not, the latter was to get 10 per cent. On Oct. 10, 1908, witness paid him another $300, as he was pulling out of Paris on a train. Later, on a highway at Ilderton, he gave him $88.

"Then you still owe him 50 cents? You ought to pay him that," continued counsel.

Witness further was led to say that he once heard Byron McCarthy, a member of the purchasing committee, ask Buchanan to lend him $50, and saw them go aside for a few minutes. He couldn't swear as to what passed between them.

Appearing on behalf of the Sawyer-Massey Co., Lawyer K. Martin explained to the commission that, while all the firm's documents were produced at the enquiry in Hamilton on Saturday, all the facts had not been, and he had discovered that the company had been in the practice of allowing commissions of from 4 to 10 per cent. to agents. Also, he wished it noted that the county had not been held up on account of these commissions, but had got the stuff lower than listed prices.

Mr. Buchanan was not put in the box, and this incident of the enquiry is closed, unless he desires to offer evidence.

A CANAL SCHEME

Waterway from Goderich to Hamilton is Proposed by A. P. Gillies, of New York, Who Says He Has Necessary Backing

ONTARIO THE HUB

Toronto, Dec. 29.—A. P. Gillies, the man who appeared before the Board of Control with an army of New York financiers last summer and presented a scheme for the building of a subway terminal in Toronto, is here again with another scheme which he proposes to work in conjunction with his subway terminal idea and one, which according to Mr. Gillies, will, if, operated successfully, make Toronto the hub of the continent, double Hamilton's population, and make Ontario one of the greatest manufacturing provinces in the world. In looking for a source of power to operate the proposed subway terminal, the idea of digging a canal from Goderich to Hamilton, which would effect a fall of 300 feet between the two lakes, occurred to Mr. Gillies, and he claims he has now the backing of sufficient capital to see the scheme completed.

Early in January he will present his project to the Federal and Provincial Governments, asking their co-operation in the undertaking, which he believes is truly a national one and also to ask them to guarantee bonds for construction of the canal.

The proposed canal will be 35 feet deep and 300 feet wide and by deepening the canals on the St. Lawrence River, ocean liners will be able to sail from Chicago and Fort William direct to Liverpool, making a saving of 1,700 miles of marine transportation. The benefit the New England States have been reaping in consequence of the prosperity of the West will now be diverted to the provinces of Eastern Canada.

The scheme has been assured the backing of the financial world, including banks in Belgium and Holland. F. M. Andrews & Co. of New York, of which Charles B. Taft, brother of President Taft, is a director, will be the engineers and architects in charge.

Palpitation of The Heart.

For Water Commissioner

To the Electors—

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Having served during the past nine years as a Water Commissioner with that attention to duties which has, I hope, been of help to my co-commissioners, and of some service to the City, I am desirous of continuing for another term for what I believe will be considered as a fairly sufficient reason.

The ratepayers are aware that the Commissioners have had during the past two years under construction for the City a new waterworks dam and pumping station, which with the additional pumping power now supplied will, I am sure, prove one of the most effective systems in Ontario. The contracts have not yet all been completed for these works, nor settlements made, nor has all fear of difficulties with contractors passed. My co-commissioners are anxious that I should continue on the Board, for they think that I would be of assistance in these matters from my necessarily intimate knowledge of circumstances surrounding these contracts.

I am inclined to think the ratepayers will approve of my course in presenting myself in view of what I have said, and therefore with some degree of confidence most respectfully ask for their support. 3d151

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

PETERBOROUGH HAS CAPTURED FIVE O.H.A. CHAMPIONSHIPS

Some Interesting Reminiscences Culled From the Ontario Hockey Association's Year Book---The Early History of the Game---Peterborough's Juniors of the Old Days.

The year book of the Ontario Hockey Association for the season 1910-11 contains a most interesting and comprehensive history of the body which governs hockey in this province and a glance through its pages shows some information about Peterborough that the present day fans might, perhaps, find enjoyable. The Association was organized in 1890-91 and the Peterborough team was entered first two years afterward. The report says:

In the fall of 1892 the third annual meeting of the Association was convened in Toronto. Toronto Granites, Osgoode Hall, Varsity, Toronto Victorias, Trinity, New Fort, and Bankers, all of Toronto; Queen's, Limestones and R.M.C., of Kingston; London and Galt being represented. The Limestones of Kingston, Peterborough, St. Thomas and London were admitted to membership.

In the Senior Series five districts were arranged (1) Clubs west of Toronto. (2) Toronto City Clubs. (3) Peterborough and vicinity. (4) Kingston. (5) Ottawa. Galt won in the west, Granites in Toronto City, Peterborough in the Midland district. Queen's in the east, and Ottawa in the group of clubs in the district surrounding the capital. Peterborough in the semi-finals lost to the Queen's University team by 14 goals to 2, the match taking place in Kingston. The teams that met in this contest were:

Peterborough—T. H. Dumble, goal; Gus Sawers, point; W. B. Carmichael, cover-point; W. Wonham, W. J. Montgomery, J. Parsons, W. Phelan, forwards. Queen's—Giles, goal; Guy Curtis, point; Taylor, cover-point; Waldron, McLennan, Rayside and Weatherhead.

The following year Peterborough withdrew from the senior series and entered a team in the junior division, which had been formed the year before. The result was satisfactory. To quote again from the report:

"Peterborough had little difficulty in capturing the Junior Championship. The match that decided the victors took place on its own ice, with the Granites of Toronto, and the score was 14 to 0 in favour of the seven men from the east. Geo. Dixon, goal; W. J. Montgomery, point; J. Parson, cover-point; J. Hedley, W. Phelan, W. Wonham and Lionel King, afterwards a Vice-President of the O.H.A., forwards, made up the Peterborough team. The Granites were represented by Livingstone, goal; McArthur, point; Holland, cover-point; Dixon, Carruthers, Lillie and McBrien, forwards."

In 1894-95, Peterborough for the second time in succession won the junior championship, their opponents again being the Toronto Granites, but the score, 7 to 6, evidences that the sevens were well matched and the honours went to Peterborough after a determined fight. The match took place in Toronto, and the Peterboorugh team was — Geo. Dixon, goal; W. J. Montgomery, point; Sam Adams, cover-point; Walter Phelan, Lionel King, W. Wonham and R. Davidson, forwards.

Peterborough again got into the finals in the Junior Series in 1895-96 by defeating the Victorias, of Kingston, by 13 goals to 1. In the west the Toronto Granites defeated Berlin by 4 goals to 2. Peterborough and the Toronto aggregation came together in Toronto, and the ambitions that the eastern town had to win the Junior Championship were ruthlessly cast aside, and the Toronto Juniors — though Juniors in those days did not limit a man to being married and playing with his own children on the ice—succeeded in getting the Junior Championship, after three years' efforts. The Granites were represented in that year by Carlyle, goal; Davis, point; McArthur, cover-point; Crawford, Dixon, Lillie and Johnson, forwards.

In 1896-7 Peterboro' surprised the hockey world by defeating Queen's University of Kingston, the first defeat the College ians had sustained in three years. This was in the senior series, but Peterborough afterwards withdrew.

The report has nothing from Peterborough in 1897-98, but the following year we find: "With their eyes on the new Robertson trophy, the senior teams put unusual zest into the competition, but Queen's University set a pace that could not be surpassed and Toronto University, representing the western groups in the final match succumbed 19 to 11. Peterborough put up a great battle against Varsity and nearly landed the competition against the Kingston team.

In 1899-00. — A lively contest for honours in the Junior Series kept up excitement in hockey at Stratford and Peterborough until late in the season. In two matches, Peterborough and Upper Canada College made even scores and a contest to decide the winners of the round was played in Lindsay, and Peterborough won, leaving them in the finals with Stratford, and the western club came out best by 12 goals to 9.

The two teams were:

Peterborough — Miller, goal; Cavanagh, point; Armstrong, cover; Lynch, Morgan, Whitcroft and Harry King, forwards.

Against Stratford.

Speaking of the season of 1900-01, the report says:

"Forty matches kept up the interest in the Junior Series for the Cosby Cup until the close of the season. The district winners were Frontenac II., Kingston, Peterborough, Simcoes of Toronto, Penetanguishene, Stratford and Barrie. Of these, Peterborough, Stratford and Barrie got into the semi-finals, and then Barrie lost to Peterborough, and the teams from the east and west competed for the championship, the seven youngsters from Peterborough finally winning by a majority of five goals. The Peterborough team was: Brundrette, goal; Cavanagh, (capt.) point; Harold Armstrong, cover; King, Morgan, Smith Whitcroft, forwards.

The following year the report says:

In the Intermediate Series Peterborough and Galt met in the finals in very keenly contested games, the result of which was in doubt until the last minute of the second game. In Peterborough, the score on March 7th was 4 to 3 in favour of the home club and on March 10th, in Galt, the score at the end of time was 3 to 3, Peterborough therefore winning the round by the narrow margin of one goal, viz. 7 to 6.

The Peterborough team was: Goal Wasson; point, Glover; cover, H Armstrong; rover, Whitcroft; centre Morgan; right wing, R Armstrong left wing, Graham.

The Belleville Injunction.

In 1903-4, the report says:

During this year the Association was involved in a law suit in Belleville over the declaration that Angus McMillan, of Belleville, was ineligible to play for the latter team under the residence clause. The question arose and Belleville ignored the Association's request for a defence. Finally affidavits were sent to show that McMillan had been in that town before October 1st. Proof was, however, secured that McMillan had resided in Smith's Falls up to the last week in October, and the Executive declared him ineligible and threw out the games he had taken part in. Belleville secured injunctions preventing Peterborough competing in the semi-final matches. The suit was finally decided against McMillan with costs.

In 1904-05 Peterborough were defeated in the semi-finals by Berlin. The following year, however, they came back and captured the interme diate championship. To quote again:

The intermediate championship was won by Peterborough, who defeated Goderich by 6 goals in the finals. The first game was played at Peterborough, the home team winning by 4 to 3. In the return game at Goderich the home team won by 5 to 4, so that Peterborough won the championship by 14 goals to 8. The district winners: No. 1, Invincibles, Brockville No. 2, Peterborough; No. 3, Uxbridge No. 4, Milton; No. 5, Welland; No. 6 Berlin II.; No. 7, Stratford; No. 8 Goderich; No. 9, Alliston; No. 10, Parry Sound; No 11, Sturgeon Falls; No 12, Gore Bay; No. 13, Orangeville.

THE YEAR 1910 IN SPORT

(By Tip Wright.)

This year 1910 was a remarkable one from the standpoint of the lover of sport. Upsets were numerous and the "dope" was proved to be worthless time and again.

In the fighting game, Battling Nelson lost his crown to Ad Wolgast and was knocked out for the first time in his career by Owen Moran, a featherweight.

Jim Jeffries failed to "come back" and the heavyweight title for the first time in the history of the Queensberry rules went to a negro, the most perfect fighting machine by the way, the world has ever seen.

Stanley Ketchell, the hurricane middleweight champion, was murdered, and the title falls upon the shoulders of Bill Papke. I say Papke, despite the claim of Sam Langford, because Langford cannot fight at the middleweight limit, a fact no one knows better than himself.

In the featherweight brigade Abe Attell remains supreme, and he has added to the year's crop by confessing that he has been forced to fight under wraps time and again, because he was heavily in debt to the promoters as the result of his weakness for gambling.

Johnny Coulon is the legitimate bantam champion in the face of the claims of numerous others who find it impossible to fight at the weight limit of the bantam class. The welterweight brigade situation is so jumbled that it is hard to say who is the real champion.

Among the wrestlers, Gotch defended his title against Zbyzko and announced his retirement, passing the title over to Henry Ordeman, when the big man from Minneapolis beat "Kid" Cutler. Gotch, however, will undoubtedly come forth and meet Hackenschmidt, this being part of the game the public falls for at the dictate of the Chicago wrestling promotion syndicate.

Harness horse history was made when the sensational black gelding, Uhlan, trotted a mile to wagon in 2.01 without windshield, and later the trick in 1.58 3-4 to sulky.

The Athletics defeated the Cubs for the world's baseball championship D. A. Fletcher dashed across the horizon with a threat to organize a third major league, and Ban Johnson was re-elected American chief for twenty years at $25,000 a year.

Barney Oldfield drove the fastest mile on record when he sent his machine over the Ormond-Daytonia beach in .27.33; he drove a kilometre in .17.04 and two miles in .55.87.

Perhaps the greatest athletic achievement was Mel Shepherd's 1,000 yards run, when he set the record at 2.12.1-5, lowering the record of Lon Myles made in 30 years ago.

Ty Cobb, the brilliant Detroit outfielder, led the land with the bat after a wonderful struggle with Napoleon Lajoie. Cobb proved himself just as wonderful as he had proved to be for the past few years.

Frank Kramer, for years the mile bike champion, defended his claim to superiority against Jacky Clarke, the Australian, but recently, in Madison Square Garden.

The most sensational athlete of the year is Mel Sheppard, the middle distance runner, who has broken records galore. At the mile, the figures hung out by W. C. Paull, the University of Pennsylvania runner, remained untouched, and he is doubtless the greatest of all the milers.

John Flanagan is still king of the hammer throwers. Martin Sheridan is hea dand shoulders over the discus tossers, Ralph Rose is the best man with the shot and Harry porter is supreme as a high jumper. In the water C. W. Daniels, the human fish, still longs for men able to make it interesting for him.

SOME HOCKEY HAPPENINGS

There was a great deal of satisfaction among Peterborough fans when it was announced last night that the Argonauts' senior O. H. A. team of Toronto would play an exhibition game here on Monday night with the Peterborough intermediates. A Toronto senior team has not been seen on Peterborough ice for three or four seasons and as the Argos have a fast, well balanced team, their appearance here will undoubtedly attract a big crowd. It will give the fans a chance to get a line on the ability of the local team and will be splendid practice for the Petes. A telephone message from Secretary Murdie of the Oarsmen says that the Toronto aggregation will bring down their strongest team. Peterborough will undoubtedly have their work picked out for them, but the boys are in good shape and are confident of making a good showing against the visitors. The game will not start until 8.30 o'clock in order to give plenty of opportunity of hearing the election returns first.

The Peterborough intermediates had a lively workout last night in preparation for their game on Monday with the Toronto Argonauts. A big squad was out and the bunch went an hour at top speed. A few more practices will have them in the best of condition.

To-morrow night there will a practice game between the intermediates and juniors and a full turn out of the members of both is requested as the teams to play against Argonauts and Cobourg on the holiday will be chosen after the practice.

The Cobourg intermediate O. H. A. team with which Peterborough plays the first game on Jan. 9, will be [illegible] local fans seem to realize. Of the seven which made such a good showing last year, five are still available. All three of last year's defence will wear the red and white of Cobourg again this winter. Patton the goalkeeper, will come down from Varsity for the games. Turpin will play point and Crossen cover. Payne and Doherty are the two of last year's forwards left, the absentees being Bentley and Moffatt. Two good forwards are available to take their places.

"Pneumonia"

Pneumonia is nothing more or less than "Lung Fever," or as it used to be called, "Inflammation of the Lungs" and the results come entirely from a local source such as taking a violent cold.

There is more or less difficulty in breathing: a cough, at first dry, but soon accompanied by raising a thick, sticky, rusty-colored matter, composed of a mixture of phlegm and blood.

There is only one way to prevent Pneumonia, and that is to cure the cold just as soon as it appears. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will do this quickly and effectively.

Mrs. G. W. Bowman, Pattullo, Ont., writes: "Three years ago I caught a cold which ended in a severe attack of Pneumonia. Since that time, at the beginning of each winter, I seem to catch cold very easily. I have been so hoarse that I was unable to speak loud enough to be heard across the room. Last winter, however, a friend advised me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, saying it had helped her. I bought a bottle and before it was half used I was completely cured. I also find it a good medicine for the children when they have colds."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; the price 25 cents.

GOTCH BACK IN HARNESS

OMAHA, NEB., DEC. 28. — Frank Gotch, the world's champion wrestler, has decided to "come back." He retired after defeating Hackenschmidt, the Russian, several years ago. Gotch to-day stands ready to meet any man in the world. He has issued a challenge through "Farmer Burns, his trainer, who helped train Jeffries.

"Gotch would prefer to meet Hackenschmidt for a side bet of $20,000, the winner to take the entire purse," declared Burns. "However, he will meet any one else."

Burns has deposited $500 with a local newspaper and says on January 17 he will post $4,500 more as evidence of good faith.

Contemplate Reductions.

Brockville, Dec. 29.—Under municipal management the Brockville waterworks department has closed the best year in its history. The revenue from all sources realized are $34,569.66. Of this amount $30,868.94 was collected from consumers, being an increase of $1,600 over last year. After meeting operating expenses, writing off $3,000 for depreciation in plant, giving a grant of $12,000 to the corporation for street repairs, and liquidating the debenture debt by $9,257, the statement shows a surplus of $9,771.

In the past eighteen years the net surplus was $43,240. Of this amount $25,043 was spent on extensions and improvements. The commissioners are considering a further reduction in rates to domestic consumers.

A Fatal Feast.

New York, Dec. 29.—A man and a woman are dead and two other men are seriously ill in hospitals as a result of drinking bitters said to have contained wood alcohol at a lower Manhattan Christmas celebration on Monday night. The dead are Mrs. Maria Del Gaudio, 32 years old, and Rocco De Marco. The condition of the other two men is said to be serious.

All attended a Christmas feast for which the host had laid in a large store of wine of which the party drank freely. Soon afterward four members of the company were taken violently ill. Mrs. Gaudio died Tuesday night and De Marco early yesterday.

Guinea-pigs May Come.

London, Dec. 29.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Canadian Associated Press has reason to believe that the whole question of the Duke of Connaught and the government of Canada is still under consideration, though no definite decision has been taken. When the duke arrived in London, he had received no intimation of any such change in plans as has been suggested from Ottawa. He declared to his friend in explanation of proceeding to Canada as soon as he can be spared after the coronation.

THE INDUSTRIAL COMMISSIONER GIVES SOME INFORMATION ABOUT THE BY-LAW

Some Details About the Bonner-Worth Measure That Every Ratepayer Should Read and be Thoroughly Conversant With.

AN IMPORTANT LETTER

It has been intimated that the details given to the public to date have not been sufficiently full to enable them to form an intelligent opinion on the merits of The Bonner-Worth Co., Limited by-law.

It is a pleasure to outline the proposition as fully as space will permit, for fullest knowledge of the Company can but convince anybody of the soundness of the undertaking.

The success of any concern is dependent on the experience, integrity, and financial standing of those at the head of it, and in this case, we have a happy combination of these three features in the persons of Mr. Isaac Bonner, Edgar Worth and their associates.

A word as to the equipment of these gentlemen to conduct a manufacture of this character, may not be amiss. Mr. Isaac Bonner at present assistant to the general manager of Penman's Limited of Paris, Ont., has been associated with that concern in his present capacity, for a number of years. He has managed one of the numerous mills of Penman's Limited and his particular field of activity has been in the matter of accounting, selling, office management and figuring factory costs, etc. He has been made very flattering offers to stay with his present concern, but prefers to get into business for himself. He and his associate are contributing one-third of the $40,000 capital on their own account.

Mr. Edgar Worth, who is at present superintendent of the yarn spinning factory of Penman's Limited at Paris comes of a family who have been associated with the yarn spinning business for generations. His father is the superintendent of one of the largest yarn mills in Sweden, where Mr. Worth first learned his trade. Subsequently he went to England and worked in the machine shops where yarn spinning machinery is manufactured. He then went to Philadelphia to take charge of a yarn mill in that city, and from this latter place was brought to his present office.

The other gentlemen that are associated with the concern are men of high financial standing, one being a department store owner of Hamilton, and the two others being men of means in London and Woodstock. Fullest inquiry verifying the above facts has been made through confidential sources, which for obvious reasons cannot be disclosed.

In the by-law the number of 30 hands is mentioned as being the number that they will guarantee to employ. As a matter of fact the machinery which has already been ordered cannot be operated with less than 40 people, and the extra hands required for other operations will exceed 10 to 12. It may be of interest to explain how the pay roll will amount to between $20,000 and $25,000 per year. As already stated two-thirds of the employees will be girls and approximately one-third men. In other mills the girls make from 90 cents to $1.25 per day on piece work, and the men average $2.50 per day. Therefore 35 girls at an average of $1.00 per day, $10,500 per year; 15 men at an average of $2.50 per day, $11,250 per year, or a total of $21,750, to which amount must be added the office and sales force salaries, which will easily bring it above the $25,000 mentioned.

Such a firm as the above will be a direct benefit to the consumers of yarn and the manufactures thereof, such as sweaters, stockings, cloths, etc., inasmuch as practically all the yarns that enter into the articles mentioned above, are now imported into the country, which means that the British manufactures' profit and the British labourers' wages are paid by the consumers in this country, and as the importations of this particular product run into the millions, it can be easily understood that a tremendous amount of money is taken out of the country, that a manufacture of this character would keep here.

The success of this undertaking is practically assured, for as has already been stated, they have been offered contracts to take the whole of their output, and when they have demonstrated the concern to be a financial success, those now associated with it are prepared to put up all the capital necessary to enlarge it to a tremendous concern.

There has been some criticism on the general principle of bonusing industries, and while this practice is indefensible in theory, the competition that we have to meet compels us to offer assistance of this character. In connection with this firm it might be stated that another town has offered them a building ready for immediate occupation, at practically no cost whatsoever, but they feel that Peterborough is the better manufacturing and labour centre, and they have therefore, accepted a proposition from us, which is actually not so attractive at the start, but they believe that in the long run they will benefit by locating here.

It would be a good thing if legislation were introduced prohibiting bonusing of any form whatsoever, then Peterborough with its natural advantages would be able to compete with other towns that are now offering inducements far in excess of anything Peterborough would consider.

It is important that every property owner in the city register his vote in favour of this by-law, for the law requires that three-fifths of the total number of ratepayers shall be in favour of the measure. Every working man who owns a foot of land in the city, and who would like to see the value of this land increased, should do all in his power to have this by-law passed, for it is only by inducing factories to come here, that we can enhance the value of our real estate.

Yours truly,
H. V. DUGGAN.

THE SIDE OF THE FARMERS

In the Tariff Controversy is Taken Up by the "Farmers' Sun"

Special to The Examiner.

TORONTO, DEC. 30.—Replying to arguments, T. A. Russell, on behalf of the manufacturers, W. T. Smith, the Editor of the Farmers' Sun, today declares that there were more Ontario farmers, fruit growers, dairymen and agriculturists in the big delegation recently at Ottawa than from any other province. Smith says it is absurd to say the farmers are making fifty per cent. more on grain and live stock than ten years ago, as stated by Russell. He declares the farmers are really the heaviest taxed class extinct, when the duties are taken into consideration. "Free trade is the remedy," says Smith.

GOVERNMENT IN CONTROL

No Danger of Threatened Revolts of Portugese Navy and Army

Special to The Examiner.

LONDON, ENG., DEC. 30.—So far from nearly collapsing as some of last night's despatches intimated, advices received here to-day are to the effect that the Portuguese government has secured the upper hand of all the threatened revolts in the navy and army and it is prosecuting past progress with credit to such young republic.

The humour probably arose from some agitation among the working people. In well informed circles here 'tis thought that it is quite possible that Spain will shortly quietly and peacefully dispose of Alfonso and join Portugal in making a peninsular republic of strength and prominence. The scheme of course does not appeal very favourably to either Germany or Great Britain, but 'tis thought Britain couldn't conscientiously or consistently seek to prevent such a union.

THREE TIMES AND OUT.

A political leader who cannot lead is pretty well represented by, Mr. Balfour, leader of the Conservative Opposition in Great Britain. He has the distinction of being the most unsuccessful leader in recent British history, and is still a lap ahead of our own Mr. Borden. Even the journals of his own party or at least advocates of his tariff reform policy call attention to Mr. Balfour's unsuccess. In the Morning Post, the leading British tariff reform journal, a writer contrasts the three failures of Mr. Balfour with the records of other political leaders since 1868 as follows:

	Won	Lost
Mr. Gladstone	1868, 1880, 1885, 1892	1874, 1886
Mr. Disraeli	1874	1868, 1880
Lord Salisbury	1886, 1895, 1900	1885, 1892
Lord Rosebery		1895
Sir H. Campbell-Bannerman		1906
Mr. Balfour		1906, 1910 (Jan.), 1910 (Dec.)
Mr. Asquith	1910 (Jan.) 1910 (Dec.)

Mr. Balfour is the only leader who has been defeated three times in succession. There is a growing spirit of revolt against him, the Morning Post being one of the mutineers. According to the rule "three times and out," Mr. Balfour has a strong hint code his place to a more capable leader. Mr. Borden has another "try."

THE ULSTER THREATENERS.

Some little attention is given in the Old Country to the threats of the Ulsterites in Ireland. Beaten at the polls they are advertising — and in Germany of all places—for arms to fight the forces of the Crown, of whose dignity and safety they pose as the unique custodians and defenders. It would be only fair in them to offset their rebellion by giving British firms a chance to supply the arms to shoot themselves. That would be some compensation. If the Ulsterites had wanted really good guns they should have patronized the Ross rifle factory at Quebec. Col. Sam Hughes, who is as vigorous a champion of the Ross rifle as he is of Ulsterism, might have secured a "cut-rate" if not a cut-throat, rate. But the threat to resort to arms is only buncombe and bombast. If the Ulster people really contemplated any thing like armed resistance, except for stage effect, they would not have advertised their intentions. The man that threatens violence is not to be greatly feared—it is the man that does violence that is dangerous. When in 1849 the Conservatives burned the Parliament buildings because they could not have their way in the matter of the Rebellion Losses bill, they did not advertise; they did it. Even the great Guy Fawkes, did not placard his intention to blow up the Houses of Parliament, unless, he dropped a hint where it would do the most good, in time to have himself caught before he compromised himself by action. There need be no fear of the Ulsterites taking the law in their own hands; they are merely "talking to the gallery," and have no more intention of shooting up King George and Lloyd-George than they have of swimming the Atlantic, to board Bourassa in his den.

THERE Y'ARE".

Figures and Scripture interpretation can be made to prove almost anything. Therefore, there may be a wide latitude of opinion as to the incidence of two alleged facts. Under Lloyd-George's budget which "soaked" hard drinks pretty hard in the way of taxation, the consumption of spirits whisky shows a decided decrease. The output of the Scotch distilleries fell two million gallons last year. Taking a gallon as representing a hundred drinks—this however, is a mere guess, not an expert estimate—there would be a decrease of two hundred million drinks; and taking ten drinks to one drunk, and there would be a decrease of twenty million drunks, and taking ten days to one drunk, there would be a decrease of two hundred million days' imprisonment, due to the repressive influence of the high taxation of strong drink, imposed by the Lloyd-George budget. This, in the hands of the advocates of the reformatory influence of high license and dear drink, is an argument for high license as against the principle of local option. Statistics tell us that in recent years the 'dry' area of the United States covers between a half and two-thirds of the country. Yet, statistics also tell us that according to the inland revenue returns the consumption of whiskey has greatly increased in the United States. All sorts of deductions will be drawn from these two sets of facts. When dear drink and no drink (theoratically) produce the same results there seems to be no end to the conclusions that may be drawn. Since the average man can make himself believe what he wants to believe, men of differing minds can roam in a wide field of speculation, and revel in an endless supply of deduction—can work on the principle of what the anatomists call diarthrosis, the universal joint. However, the apparently only safe deduction can be found in Hennessey's dialectic refuge —"there y'are."

A NATIONALIST SET-BACK.

Those who in their haste, regarded the result of the bye-election in Drummond and Arthabaska as the death knell of the Laurier government, will have to revise their conclusions in the light of the great Liberal victory over the Nationalists in the bye-election in St. John's county, Quebec yesterday. Encouraged by their apparent victory in Drummond and Arthabaska, the "Nationalists" sought to get another expression of popular opinion in a new field, that could be regarded as adverse to the naval policy of the Laurier government. The anti-naval idea was made an issue in behalf of the "Nationalists." But it has lost its power to charm, for the "Nationalist" candidate was overwhelmingly beaten. It seems that, the St. John's Conservatives took a broad view of their responsibility in the premises. The election was to fill a vacancy in the Provincial Legislature, and normally, the Conservatives might be expected to oppose the candidate of a Liberal government. But they were more patriotic than partizan. They preferred a straight-out party opponent, who was sound in his national sympathies and standing, to the candidate of empire-wreckers and harmony homicides, such as the "Nationalists" really are. The result in St. Johns serves three purposes. It is, at once, a rebuke to, and an intimation to, the so-called "Nationalists" that there is no room, in Canada, no desire for an imperium in imperio, that Canada united must be the ambition of every Canadian. It is a rebuke to those Conservative leaders who gloated over what they regarded as a Liberal reverse in Drummond and Arthabaska, even if in so doing they inferentially endorsed, as they actively aided, the success of the "Nationalist" propaganada. It has given a set-back if not a quietus to the "Nationalist" movement, which under the united loyalty of the two great parties, as was exhibited yesterday in St. Johns, can make no lasting impression upon the solidarity of Canadian nationalism, in its truest and highest and broadest meaning.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

St. Catharines has developed a $190,000 shortage in its "rainy day stocking"—its debenture account — the sinking fund required to meet debenture retirement on maturity.

Toronto is to be invaded by a corps of twenty evangelists. If they could be turned loose with any appreciable effect upon the management of the street railway, the citizens would be grateful.

The city of Toronto wants to buy a bit of land to widen a street. The price asked is $5,280, while the assessed value is only $1,840. This shows that there is something radically wrong in the system of municipal assessment. And the irregularities are not confined, by any means, to the city of Toronto.

Our United States cousins have another "blow-up" scare. It is now asserted that the Japs are conspiring to blow up another "Maine" in Manilla harbour. A good many years have elapsed since the blowing up of the Maine in Havana harbour, was taken as a pretext for a war of conquest —with Spain. And no steps have been taken to ascertain whether the explosion took place from without or within.

Evidences Of Wide-spread Interest In Work Of Technical Education

The Royal Commission on Industrial Training and Technical Education have completed their tour of Western Canada and the Pacific States, the first stage of their tour of investigation, and returned home for the holidays, having since November 1 visited the Canadian North West, from Winnipeg to the Coast, and some of the Pacific States of the American Union.

This commission was appointed in June last by the Dominion Government on the initiative of Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Minister of Labour, under whose direction the investigation is proceeding. The Minister has shown great interest in the work. It is worthy of note that this Canadian Commission is larger in membership and wider in scope than any heretofore appointed by any Government. There are seven members in addition to the secretary, representing every phase of educational work; and the instructions to the commission are very broad, namely, to discover the needs and present equipment of Canada in regard to industrial training and technical education, and then to ascertain the systems and methods in operation in other countries on these lines. The commission has the powers of a High Court in regard to taking testimony under oath and issuing subpoenas if necessary. It has been found, however, that persons in all stations of life are not only willing, but eager, to tell what they know of the needs and present provisions for the supply of trained workers, and to offer suggestions for improvement.

At the conclusion of the Canadian tour, about the end of February, the commission will sail for Europe, spending approximately two months in Great Britain and Ireland, one month in France, one month in Germany, many, and one month divided among the smaller countries—Switzerland, Belgium, Holland, Denmark, etc.

The Canadian Tour.

The Canadian tour, which began at Halifax in July, has been a strenuous one, but it was accomplished without mishap of any kind. In Canadian towns and cities, in addition to public sessions for the taking of evidence, there are visits to schools, inspection of factories and processes, etc., the evening being devoted usually to sessions for evidence from the local Trades and Labour Council. In most of the towns and cities a luncheon has been tendered by the Canadian Club or some similar organization, and an address by Dr. Robertson, the chairman, has been a feature. Everywhere there has been a hearty approval of the objects of the commission and co-operation in its work by representatives of Provincial Governments, school authorities, municipalities, manufacturers, and representatives of organized labour.

The commission found a great recent development of interest in educational matters, generally, and particularly relating to technical education. In Nova Scotia the Government has for a quarter of a century conducted night schools for miners, requiring every overman or superintendent in any capacity in a coal mine to hold a certificate involving the study of mining management, ventillation, etc. As a result of this policy the mines of Novaj Scotia show a smaller loss of life per ton of coal mined than any mines in the world. The Technical College in Halifax is the cap-stone of this system of night schools. The various universities in Nova Scotia co-operate with this Technical College with satisfactory results.

Movement in Quebec.

In Quebec Province Sir Lomer Gouin has led in a movement which has resulted in magnificent Technical school buildings in the cities of Montreal and Quebec, now in course of completion. Toronto is preparing for a Technical school to cost over half a million dollars. Winnipeg is building two magnificent Technical High Schools at the north and south ends of the city, which will cost $350,000 each. The young Provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta are busy laying large plans for universities which will give special attention to technical education. British Columbia has a large surplus in its treasury, and is practically only waiting for the report of this Royal Commision before launching out most liberally for the promotion of technical education, and in the meantime fine work is being done through its regular schools, especially the night schools in Vancouver.

In the United States there are similar signs of revival in the matter of industrial training and technical education. Portland is just completing a magnificent high school, in which these modern studies will be specially featured; Los Angeles has recently opened a magnificent High school, with technical training as a large factor. The Utah University is asking for $300,000 from the Legislature for an extension of its buildings. Cincinnati has developed its High school work so as to include the part-time" system, which has been found so advantageous in connection with the university under the auspices of President Dabney, the scheme having been originated by Prof. Schneider. In addition to these developments in Cincinnati, the old Mechanics' Institute, which was started in 1828 by some Scotch workingmen, who had had the advantages of evening classes in Scotland, has received an endowment of over half a million dollars from a lady in that city, and is building a magnificent new institution. Thus the "hand and eye training" is going on most encouragingly on both sides of the line.

Although the function of the commission is simply to carry on an inquiry, it is gratifying to note that the interest which has been stirred up by its visits and investigation has already resulted in definite progress. At the conclusion of its tour of the Meritime Provinces, the pleasing announcement was made that the Government of Nova Scotia had increased the staff of the Technical College in Halifax by the addition of three new professors, and had also appointed an inspector of manual training for that province. In Chatham, Ont., shortly after the visit of the commission, the Board of Trade met and decided to organize evening classes at once, and also to push for a Technical school in that town.

GOOD MANNERS.

(Toronto News.)

It would be unwise to shut our eyes to the fact that new countries like Canada and the United States fall short in the amenities of life. Australia also is struggling with the bad manners of the young. The Melbourne Argus complains that in the large schools of that country—not in the State schools merely, nor in the boys' schools merely—in all large schools there grows up a tendency towards "cubbishness," towards showing off, towards bad manners and general objectionableness. "It may be one of the diseases of youth; it may pass away as do the measles. But there is no doubt about the prevalence of the disease; it grows and spreads; it shows itself most generally by a kind of boorish or studied insolence towards all seniors, all those whom the young are supposed to respect."

The Argus asks if it would not be possible to teach manners in large public and State schools to both boys and girls? "Head masters will probably tell us it is impossible. All they can ask for is school discipline; all they can hope for is that the cubbishness of youth will gradually pass away. But cannot they do more than this? We do not ask for Japanese manners, nor for Jane Austen manners, but we do ask for a little deference, modesty, and consideration from youth towards age. Surely the elements of manners can be taught as well as the elements of carpentry or cooking or drawing or dancing."

In calling attention to the defects of bearing which go with the virtue of independence, Earl Grey has rendered Canada a service. Recently in addressing the Woman's Canadian Club of Fort William, he said that in his opinion no nation could become great unless the spirit of reverence entered into the composition of the national character. He knew boys who thought it effeminate to be well-mannered, and manly to be rude. Civility did not mean servility, and he felt that mothers and teachers could render no greater service to their country than by training their boys and girls to be well-mannered, reverent, and fair-playing. The Governor-General does not say that as a rule Canadian children are impolite. The truth is they are not and that in many of the public schools manners are by no means neglected. Instead he places an ideal before them. So far as Toronto is concerned it is often the newly rich and purse-proud who show least consideration for the feelings of others. The truest gentlemen and gentlewomen are frequently to be found in the humbler walks of life where people assume no airs and are guilty of no pretensions.

A NOTABLE INVITATIONS.

(Montreal Witness.)

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Prime Minister of Canada, recently took occasion to address some forceful words to the citizens of Canada on the matter of forestry. He reminds us that in the year 1908 the increasing necessity of inducing the people to take action to prevent the rapid destruction of the forests by fire and improper cutting led to the calling of a Dominion Forestry Convention in Ottawa. This Convention was largely attended by representative citizens and resulted in greatly increased interest in forestry, with most beneficial results. Since that convention much intelligent attention has been paid to forest conservation on this North American continent. The United States has made it one of its chief concerns, and a great step forward has been taken in Canada by the establishment of the Commission of Conservation. As Sir Wilfrid recalls, too, the scope of the Forestry Branch of the Department of the Interior has been much widened, and a number of forest reserves have been set apart in the prairie provinces, the most notable of the latter being the reserve covering the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains. This has been formed in order to protect the rivers and the agricultural lands of Alberta and Saskatchewan. In other provinces too, reserves have been set apart, timber surveys made, improved fire-ranging and timber-cutting regulations adopted and schools for the training of forest engineers inaugurated.

But notwithstanding this gratifying progress, the Prime Minister realizes that the need for enlightened action has outgrown it. The need of further knowledge and increased vigilance is shown especially in the advancing values of water powers, the dangers confronting inland navigation, and in the realization of the asset which Canada has in her forests as hunting grounds and health resorts and the increasing scarcity of forest products. That being the case, Sir Wilfrid has thought it well to provide for the discussion of these matters—with a view to the adoption of improved methods and the better and more enthusiastic enforcement of existing regulations — by calling a public convention to meet in the City of Quebec on January 18 19 and 20, under the auspices of the Canadian Forestry Association. To this convention all who are interested in forestry are invited, including specifically the Lieutenant-Governors of the provinces, members of the Senate and the House of oCmmons, legislative councils and assemblies, Dominion and provincial forest officials; representatives of lumbermen's associations, boards o ftrade, the Canadian Bankers' Association, Canadian Press Association, and many others. His Excellency Earl Grey has said: "My experignce has been sufficient to impress me with the urgent desirableness of focussing the best brains of the Dominion on the immediate consideration of what shall be done with 'our forests.' Sir Wilfrid's clarion call should do much to accomplish this intelligent consideration.

By John T. McIntyre. Copyrighted and All Rights Reserved

The woman at this lifted a corner of a soiled apron and applied it to her eyes.

"Things is come to a nice pass," she said, vainly endeavoring to squeeze a tear from eyes to which such things had long been strangers, "when a respectable women can not mind her own business in her own house."

At this point, Pendleton, who looked discreetly away, caught the rustle of a crisp bill; and when Mrs. Marx spoke again, her tone had undergone a decided change.

"But, of course," she said, "if the law asks me anything, I must do the best I can. I've kept a rooming house for a good many years now, gentlemen, and this is the first time I have had any notoriety. It is, I assure you."

As Ashton-Kirk had seen at a second glance, Mrs. Marx was a lady fully competent to confront any situation that might arise; so he wasted no time in soothing her injured feelings.

"We desire any information that you can give us regarding your lodger, Antonio Spatola," said he. "Tell us all you know about him."

"He wasn't a bad-hearted young man," said the landlady, "but for all that I wish I'd never seen him. If I hadn't then I'd never had this disgrace come on me."

Here she made another effort with the corner of her apron; but it was even more unsuccessful than the first. She gave it up and went on acidly.

"Mr. Spatola came here almost three years ago. He was engaged in one of the vaudeville theatres near here—in the orchestra—and he rented my second story front at six dollars a week. Except for the fact that he would play awfully shivery music at all hours of the night, I was glad to have him. He was quiet and polite; he paid regularly and," smoothing back the untidy hair, "he gave a kind of tone to the house.

"But then he lost his position. Had a fight, I understand, with somebody. For a long time he had no work; he moved from the second story front at six dollars a week into an attic at two. When he could get no place, he went on the street and played; afterwards he got the trained birds. I didn't like this much. It didn't do the house no good to have a street fiddler living in it; and then the birds were a regular nuisance with their noise. But he paid regular and after a while he took to keeping the birds in a box in the loft, so I put up with it."

"We'll look at his room, if you please," said the investigator.

Complainingly, the woman led the way up the infirm staircase. At the fourth floor she pushed open a door and showed them into a long loft-like room with high ceiling and mansard windows. There came a squawking and fluttering from somewhere as they entered.

"Them's the cockatoos," said the landlady. "They miss Mr. Spatola very much. When I go to feed them with the stale bread and seed he has here for them, would you believe it, they'll hardly eat a thing."

The room was without a floor covering. Upon some rough shelves, nailed to the wall, were heaps of music. A violin case also lay there. There were a few chairs, a cot-bed, and a neat pile of books upon a table. Ashton-Kirk run over these quickly; they were mostly upon musical subjects and in Italian. But some were Spanish, English, German and French.

"He was the greatest hand for talking and reading languages," said Mrs. Marx, wonderingly. "I don't think there was any kind of a nationality that he couldn't converse with. Mr. Sagon that lives on the floor below says that his French was elegant, and Mr. Hertz, my parlor lodger, used to just love to talk German with him. He said his German was so high."

Ashton-Kirk opened the violin case and looked at the instrument within.

"Spatola always carried his violin in this when he went out, I suppose?" he said, inquiringly.

"Oh, yes; that one he did. But the one on the wall there," pointing to a second instrument hanging from a peg, "he never took much care of that. "It's the one he played on the street, you see."

Her visitors followed the gesture with interest.

"That was just to clinch a point I made with Fuller this morning," said the investigator to Pendleton, in explanation. Then to Mrs. Marx he continued: "Mr. Spatola had visitors from time to time, had he not?"

But the woman shook her head.

"Sometimes he had a pupil who came in the evening. But they never came more than once or twice; he generally called them thick-heads after a little, and told them they'd better go back to the grocery or butcher's shop where they belonged."

"Are you quite sure that no one else ever called upon him?"

The woman nodded positively.

"I'm certain sure of it," she said. "I remember saying more than once to my gentlemen on the different floors, that Mr. Spatola must be awfully lonely sometimes. Mr. Crawford would often come up here and

SOME SUGGESTIONS ABOUT THE WATER COMMISSION

By Members of the Council---Mayor and Finance Committee Chairman Should be Members of the Commission Suggests Some Aldermen---Power Too Absolute is Another Comment.

That the Mayor should be an ex-officio member of the Water Commission.

That the Chairman of the Finance committee as well as the Mayor, should be ex-officio members of the Water Commission.

That the consent of two-thirds of the ratepayers representing fifty per cent. of the property along any street be secured before water mains are laid along the particular thoroughfare in question.

These three suggestions fathered respectively by Ald. Phelan, Ald. Batten and Ald. Hicks were advanced at the meeting of the committee of the whole council last night in discussing the city's private bill which is to come before the legislature at the next sessions. They were not brought in as motions, but merely for discussion and no action was taken.

Ald. Phelan began the discussion by suggesting that the Mayor should be an ex-officio member of the Water Commission. "They come before us," he said, "and ask for large sums and we have nothing to do in regard to the expenditure. It would be a good thing to have the council represented on the commission."

"You'll have to increase the Mayor's salary then," commented Mayor Morrow.

"Is it done in other places?" asked Ald. Buller.

"I don't know," replied Ald. Phelan.

"You would have to add still another," Ald. Batten pointed out. "If you did not you would have an even number on the Commission."

"Would you give the Mayor voting power?" Ald. Gillespie wanted to know.

"Certainly,' was the reply.

Ald. Hicks pointed out that when a sewer was to be constructed along a street it was necessary to have the consent of two-thirds of the ratepayers representing fifty per cent. of the property on the street. While he approved of vacant land paying a tax, he thought sewers and water mains were along same lines and that the same requirements should be made necessary in the case of a water main.

Ald. Bradburn said that the Water Commissioners required a ten per cent. revenue along any street.

Ald. Hicks remarked that when the Water Commissioners proposed to lay a water main along a certain street they would come to the council and ask that body to have hydrants placed here and there to bring the revenue up to the desired point. "I tell you, you are paying through the nose," he remarked. "If a private corporation came along and asked the same thing of you, what would you do with them? I do not say the Commission is not a good one, but I think its power is too absolute."

The Mayor pointed out that the Brockville Commissioners had handed over $18,000 to the city to be used for streets and other similar purposes, had paid the interest and sinking fund and had a surplus left of $9,000. He did not know what the rates charged were, but it was intimated that they were to be lowered in the near future.

Ald. Bradburn thought that information in regard to the Brockville rates would be valuable to the incoming council and moved that the city clerk secure the necessary information from Brockville. A motion along that line was carried.

Ald. Batten advanced the theory that the chairman of the Finance committee as well as the mayor should be ex-officio members of the Finance Committee.

No action was taken on any of these suggestions.

WHY SLEEP IS NECESSARY

During sleep Nature restores the cells and tissues wasted by the activities of life. Without sleep physical bankruptcy is quick and certain. Mrs. J. Durocher, 403 Bethune street, Peterborough, Ont., writes: "I can say for a certainty that Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food is a splendid medicine, for besides steadying the nerves, it built up my sleep wonderfully and enabled me to sleep and eat well."

FINAL MEETING OF COUNCIL FOR 1910 WAS HELD

The last meeting of the Council for 1910 was held last night, when a short session was held for the purpose of revising the by-law appointing polling sub-divisions, deputy returning officers and poll clerks. COURT CHEMONG I.O.F. MAKES PRESENTATION TO ORGANIZER

Mr. Bradshaw, Who Has Been in Charge of Work in This District for the Past Five Years, is Leaving for Calgary.

HELD IN HIGH ESTEEM

The regular monthly meeting of the Court Chemong Lodge No. 530, of the I. O. F. was held last night in the S. O. E. Hall A large majority of the members turned out despite the blustering weather conditions. As well as the regular meeting of the Lodge it was a gathering to bid farewell to Mr. A. Bradshaw, D.S.C.R., who has been organizer for Eastern Ontario for the last five years, having Peterborough as his headquarters. Mr. Bradshaw is leaving for Calgary, Alta., in the course of a few days, where he has been promoted to a better position in the organizing line.

Mr. Bradshaw was presented with a beautiful travelling case by Mr. A. Allison, S.P.C.R., on behalf of the members of the Lodge. The present was a token of the esteem in which Mr. Bradshaw was regarded by the members and a mark of their gratitude to him for his earnest and successful work as their organizer here. Mr. Allison made a short speech, on behalf of the members, in which he stated that they regretted to part with Mr. Bradshaw, but in view of his advancement, they would sacrifice their immediate interests for the almost certain advancement of the Order in the large field of the West under Mr. Bradshaw's organization. He also assured Mr. Bradshaw that the gift was accompanied with the best wishes of the local brethren and that they wished him success in his new field.

Mr. Bradshaw made a suitable reply, in which he expressed his thanks for the unexpected present, and stated that he was pleased to know that the brethren had been so well satisfied with his work that they should remember him in this manner He also said that the useful and beautiful present they had given him would bring to his memory the pleasant days he spent among them. He told them that he understood that Mr. Mullock, who had been on the organizing staff in the West, was to take his place as Organizer here and also have Peterborough as his head quarters.

Mrs. Bradshaw and the family will remain here until Mr. Bradshaw has got settled in the West.

The meeting was an exceptionally large one and several applications were made for membership, also several were initiated. Despite the fact that it was a farewell meeting, a pleasant evening was spent.

EXCITING RUNAWAY

Rev. Dr. Langfeldt and His Family Are Thrown Out

An exciting runaway took place yesterday afternoon about 4.30, when Rev. Dr. Langfeldt's horse ran away at the corner of Smith and George streets. He was driving down George street and, when turning the corner at Smith street, the cutter slewed and struck the street car track, with the result that it turned completely over, throwing the occupants out. Mrs. Langfeldt and two of the children were in the cutter with Dr. Langfeldt, but all escaped without injury. The horse ran up Smith St., and was caught near the G. T. R. track. Not much damage was done to the cutter.

3. To authorize the conveyance to the Peterborough Cereal Company (Limited) free of conditions or restrictions of the part of the reserve along the River Otonabee and of the land formerly covered with water opposite the same, described in By-law Number 1198 on payment to the Corporation of the sum of $1,000 therefor.

4. To provide for the incorporation of the Peterborough Protestant Home and the election of one member thereof from each of the Protestant churches, including the Salvation Army, in the City, and for the appointment by those so elected of the Board of Management of the said Home, of which Board the Mayor and Chairman of the Finance committee of the City Council shall be members ex officio.

5. To authorize the Council to pass a By-law, without submitting the same to the ratepayers, to issue debentures payable within thirty years from the date of issue thereof, for the sum of $10,000 for the purpose of assisting the Peterborough Protestant Home to erect and equip a Home for the Protestant poor of the City and to levy the interest and sinking fund required for the payment of said debentures exclusively upon the rateable property of the ratepayers of the said city, who are not Roman Catholics.

6. To authorize the said Council to levy in each year upon the rateable property of ratepayers who are not Roman Catholics a sum sufficient to maintain at said Home, such of the inmates thereof, who are unable to pay for same and have been admitted by order or under the authority of the Council.

Judgment Given In Favour Of Mr. G. W. Hatton For $450

In the case of Mr. G. W. Hatton, barrister, versus the Corporation of Peterborough, which was heard before His Honour Judge Huycke on November 30th and December the first last, Judge Huycke gave judgment in favour of the plaintiff this morning. The amount sued for was $500, and judgment was given for $450 and costs of the action. O'Connell and Gordon appeared for the plaintiff and the firm of Hall, Hayes and Hall for the defendant.

This was an action brought by Mr. Hatton against the city for negligence in allowing the workmen on the streets to quit their work, in this case on Concession street, and go away leaving their machinery and materials on the ground. On Sunday, Oct. 31st, 1909, the defendant, with his wife, was driving a young, valuable, well bred, perhaps nervous, but well broken mare up the street, knowing nothing of the condition of the road. The young animal became terrified and got beyond control with the result that the plaintiff sustained serious injuries, although not permanently serious. This runaway, it was shown in evidence, reduced the value of the mare, making her a hard horse to drive, but to a greater extent reduced the value of the team, of which she was one.

His Honour found the city clearly liable on the ground of misfeasance in placing and leaving these articles there knowing them to be dangerous and likely to frighten horses going by.

It is understood that Mr. Hatton did not bring the suit for a personal advantage, but in the public interest, to minimize the obstruction of streets in a way dangerous to property and life. The amount of damages awarded will not be retained, but devoted to some charitable purpose.

25 CENTS ON DOLLAR

Ordinary Creditors May Not Get That From Farmers' Bank

Examiner Special:

TORONTO, ONT., DEC. 30.—From all over Ontario come anxious inquiries of farmers, respecting the prospects of getting out anything of what they put into the Farmers' Bank. Many of them are shareholders, many were depositors; some both; and a great many had their all tied up in the institution which now, from all accounts, will necessitate the application of the double liability clause to make things good. It has developed, on investigation of the curator, that there are a number of secured creditors, and the possibility of even twenty-five cents on the dollar for ordinary creditors becomes more remote.

POST CARD COLUMN

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—In my reading this week I came upon a paragraph from an address by the Bishop of Lincoln, given in connection with the Conference of the National Union of Women Workers in England, which bears upon a letter in the "Review" of Wednesday evening, in which the writer seems to think that too much attention is being given in our public school curriculum to studies other than the fundamentals — reading, writing and arithmetic. The words of the Bishop of Lincoln are as follows:

"I note further, that in the education of Christ one element was not wanting, which has been, until lately, much neglected by ourselves. He was reared in the household of a village carpenter, whose daily business lay in making and mending the homely implements of the husbandman, in building and repairing the houses of the peasants. So soon as the Child Jesus was able to learn He would be frequenting the carpenter's shop and learning to use the tools. He was early taught a manual craft. At least we have permitted ourselves to see that in keeping children in school only to book work, we have deprived them of one of the most important elements in education. Manual teaching has been often recommended as a preparation for manual work in after years. But quite apart from such industrial advantage, the learning of manual crafts is wholesome in every way. It trains the eye and the hand; it develops the powers of observation; it leads to wholesome activity; it inculcates patience and sympathy; and it confers upon the worker a joy that nothing else can give—the joy of making something which is at once both useful and beautiful. These wholesome influences, these pure and innocent joys, were not denied to the Holy Child. They must not be denied to our little children if we wish them to live by His rule and follow His blessed example."

A Mother's Sacrifice

Made in Kindness is Often an Injustice to Herself and to Her Family.

It is a common thing for mothers to sacrifice comfort, strength and sometimes life itself, for her family. So common, indeed, that little notice is taken of it.

If anyone else is tired or weak or sick, mother waits on them. But there is no time for mother to be sick or to get the much-needed rest. So she neglects her ailments until she gets beyond the reach of human aid.

This is an injustice to herself and to her family. Health must be preserved. It is a mother's duty to herself and to those about her.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will restore you. It makes new, rich blood. It creates new nerve force. The feelings of weakness and fatigue cannot long exists when this restorative treatment is used. It sharpens the appetite, improves digestion and removes the cause of headaches.

You cannot get well in a day. Nature's cures are gradual and lasting. Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food works hand in hand with Nature by supplying the elements which go to build up the system.

Mrs. H. A. Loynes, nurse, Philipsburg, Que., writes: "I was all run down and could not do my own work Everything I ate made me sick. In nursing others I had seen the good results of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food and resolved to try it. As a result of this treatment I have gained ten pounds, do my own work alone, and feel like an entirely different person."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, of Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author, on every box.

For Water Commissioner

To the Electors—

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Having served during the past nine years as a Water Commissioner with that attention to duties which has, I hope, been of help to my co-commissioners, and of some service to the City, I am desirous of continuing for another term for what I believe will be considered as a fairly sufficient reason.

The ratepayers are aware that the Commissioners have had during the past two years under construction for the City a new waterworks dam and pumping station, which with the additional pumping power now supplied will, I am sure, prove one of the most effective systems in Ontario. The contracts have not yet all been completed for these works, nor settlements made, nor has all fear of difficulties with contractors passed. My co-commissioners are anxious that I should continue on the Board, for they think that I would be of assistance in these matters from my necessarily intimate knowledge of circumstances surrounding these contracts.

I am inclined to think the ratepayers will approve of my course in presenting myself in view of what I have said, and therefore with some degree of confidence most respectfully ask for their support. 3d151

MONDAY NIGHT'S GAME WILL BE FINE CONTEST ARGO'S STRONG TEAM

The local hockey season will open with a bang on Monday night, when Peterborough's intermediates will clash with the senior Argonauts of Toronto. It is a pretty severe test to have the locals meet one of the strongest of the senior O. H. A. clubs at the first of the season, but the many fans who have watched the practices at Brock street rink this winter are confident that the blue and white team will give the Ourstmen a merry battle. Peterborough people who have seen the Argos at practice say the visitors will be very strong and on paper they certainly look big league class, so that they will prove very formidable contenders. At that Peterborough will be without Hefferman and Sorel, who are going to Cobourg on Monday to play a League game with the juniors, but there is plenty of material for the vacancies, and a team will be placed on the ice that will make the Ourstmen sit up and take notice all through the piece. There will undoubtedly be a big crowd on hand for the opening of the season. The fans are enthusiastic over the prospects and are anxious for a chance to see the intermediates in action. Every practice sees a couple of hundred hockey "bugs" watching the workout, which indicates a widespread interest in the team. The game will not start until 8.30, in order to give every one a chance to hear the election returns before going to the rink.

The Russian Lion Has A Very Easy Task Wins With Time To Spare

TORONTO, DEC. 30.—George Hackenschmidt, the "Russian Lion," took about half the time allotted him to dispose of Tom Flanagan's four grapplers at Riverside Rink last night. Flanagan trotted out "Yankee Rogers, Carl Becker of Germany, Jack Anderson of New York, and O'Connell of Ireland. It was agreed that Hackenschmidt should have one hour and 45 minutes in which to pin down the four men. "Hack" took just 55 minutes and 52 seconds. In the preliminary Dr. B. F. Roller of Seattle took two straight falls from Chas. Fraser, the Maritime Provinces wrestler. Roller toyed with his man, who was getting about fifty pounds the worse of the matter of weights. Rogers, who gave Hackenschmidt the hardest bout of the evening, signed articles to meet Roller in a match here or elsewhere at any time.

In spite of the fact that Hackenschmidt has been wrestling about three nights a week for a month, he was in fairly good shape and went at his task in a businesslike manner. Referee Bob Harrison said that the Lion was the fairest and cleanest grappler he had ever seen. Not once did he do anything foul. Rogers rolled from the platform into the crowd at the ringside twice, but it was no fault of Hackenschmidt. The rink was packed almost to suffocation, and thirty police officers were necessary to handle the crowd. Broadview avenue below Queen street was packed solidly with humanity long before the doors were opened. A great cheer of admiration went up when the mighty "Hack" removed his bath robe in the ring. His development is wonderful and the quartette of huskies who faced him looked small by comparison, even Rogers appearing to be of but medium size. All of his opponents were taller than the Lion, but his splendid arms, shoulders and chest were much superior to the others.

Rogers assumed the aggressive for the first five minutes of his bout and three times he dumped Hackenschmidt to the mat in a way to shake the platform. "Yankee" used a chancery and leg hold to kill time on the Lion. Four or five times he employed this method of stalling off the Russian, who succeeded in breaking the holds after a good deal of struggling. Twice when Rogers rolled into the crowd the spectators hissed Hackenschmidt, but he was not to blame. A toe hold and half Nelson pinned Rogers to the mat in 32.14. Rogers appears to be in splendid form and should make a rattling bout with Dr. Roller.

Becker stood the burly Russian off for five minutes and twenty-nine seconds, when a body hold and half Nelson put his shoulders to the canvas.

Jack Anderson, the New Yorker, is a shifty individual and kept well out of "Hack's" reach a good deal. When the pair went to the mat Anderson rolled out of two falls and bridged out of a third, but it was a bridge that landed the money in 13.00.

The entertainment was faultlessly handled and thoroughly enjoyed by the big gathering of spectators.

WILLIAM LANGFORD
A CANDIDATE

To the Citizens:—

I have been requested by my friends to place myself in nomination for the very responsible position of Water Commissioner. I have accepted and ask for your support. As to the reasons why the ratepayers who have urged me to accept this nomination, and whilst not wishing to take from Mr. Hill any credit justly due him for his lengthy services as Water Commissioner, it is considered that too much of a good thing might satiate his appetite for future services on behalf of the citizens in this or other positions of a like nature. There is as yet, no good reason given why the three gentlemen who have occupied the position of Water Commissioners, should continue indefinitely. He is a good man, indeed, whose place cannot be filled. New blood is needed in the best of us at times.

The citizens feel strongly that not sufficient publicity is given to the work and expenditure in connection with the new dam. After two years from the letting of the contract, and over six months from the completion of the work, we are told because of threatened litigation, and for fear of it, we should retain the services of Mr. Hill. Is it not that the doings of the Water Commissioners may be kept in that opaque condition, which has existed for so many months, that the return of Mr. Hill, by his co-operators is so devoutly hoped for? Is it not desirable and even imperative, that the ratepayers be afforded much more definite information than heretofore, on the large expenditure of moneys by the Commissioners on this account?

It is with the desire to give that publicity to all and every matter and concern that the ratepayers are entitled to, and whose money is taken and expended, that I have allowed myself to accept the nomination. The public know of the positions of trust I have occupied on behalf of the ratepayers. I feel that I can, from my experience as a contractor and past councillor, fill the position quite as well as my esteemed opponent.

On these and other grounds, which I may refer to again, I respectfully ask for your votes.

WILLIAM LANGFORD.

GREAT BILL FOR THE ROYAL AND PRINCESS NEXT WEEK

The biggest attraction that has ever played Peterborough, will be at the Royal Theatre, 2-3-4 Jan. Arthur Yule & Co., assisted by "Baby Helen." "Baby Helen" played the Majestic Theatre, Toronto, the week of Dec. 5th, and by special request, played the week of Dec. 12th as the headliner. Mr. and Mrs. Yule are both very clever and finished performers, having played all the biggest cities in America, and are now playing on the Griffin Circuit. "Baby Helen" is the youngest and cleverest child performer playing vaudeville on this continent to-day.

Mr. Pappas has gone to considerable expense in engaging this act for the 3 days, so don't fail to see "Baby Helen" as the she always plays to crowded houses.

For the Princess Mr. Pappas has also secured a notable attraction, which will commence on Tuesday of next week in pictures of Dr. Crippen's flight across the Atlantic, a series of moving picture films that in view of the great amount of interest taken in the celebrated cause should prove a great attraction. To-day will be the last chance at the Princess to see the beautiful film, "A Mexican Legend."

THE ELECTIONS ALL OVER THE PROVINCE

Geary is Re-elected in Toronto by a Big Majority---Mayors and Councils in Different Cities and Towns---Warm Fight in Hamilton.

Toronto, Jan. 3.—The results of the Toronto elections yesterday were a triumph for the sound sense of the ratepayers, who showed a discrimination alike in the municipal field and in the contests for the Board of Education that should make for a year of good civic and educational administration.

The return of Mayor Geary for a second term was never in doubt, but a majority of more than twenty-seven thousand votes over both his opponents is a striking proof that the citizens regard the choice of chief magistrate as a serious business.

In Hamilton.

Hamilton, Jan. 3.—Ex-Ald. George H. Lees was elected Mayor of Hamilton yesterday by a majority of 504 over Controller Allan. The power question was the principal issue. License reduction also played an important part. The council was cut down from 25 members to 21, including the Mayor and Board of Control. Twelve of the new Council are pledged to sign a co-operative contract with the Hydro-Electric Commission. Ten members ran on the temperance ticket. Five bylaws were submitted and all carried. One provides for a reduction of Council to introduce legislation in favor of compensation of those who lose licenses, another is for the purchase of a site for a new hospital, another for a detention home and a fifth was to raise $125,000 for good roads.

Mayors Elected, Cities—H. W. Akerman, Belleville; R. A. Bustall, Brantford; George Thorp, Guelph; Geo. H. Lees, Hamilton; Chris. J. Graham, Kingston; J. H. A. Beattie, London; Oliver F. TRAVERS IN JAIL

Manager of Farmers' Bank is Charged With Theft—Outlook is Bad for the Bank

Toronto, Jan. 3.—W. R. Travers is in jail on a second charge in connection with the Farmers' Bank. This time the indictment is for the alleged theft of $40,000 cash. Mr. Travers was arrested at ten o'clock on saturday night. It looks as if still other charges are to be laid, and it will therefore, be impossible to get him released until the trials are over. There is a determined move to enforce the law in all its ramifications in its relation to the failure of the bank.

The first charge was for making false returns to the Government regarding the bank's condition. The second charge is for taking the bank's funds.

The transaction in question is said to have taken place on 28th January, 1910, when Mr. Travers advanced to himself $40,000 of the bank's money assigning as collateral security therefor a grist of mining stock, of nominal value, which is said now to be practically worthless.

Other improper transactions are reported to have been uncovered. Suits have also been instituted to recover money that was paid to depositors on the last day of business. These depositors were, on the terms of the deposit, bound to give notice of the intended withdrawal of the funs. This was not done. The authorities claim it was a wrongful use of the resources of the bank, and that payment should have been refused by the manager or his officers when the demand for payment was made.

The investigation of the bank's affairs is going on apace and every day brings a blacker outlook. A number of the shareholders have petitioned the Government at Ottawa to appoint a commissioner to make an investigation of the whole affairs and workings of the bank and its management.

Naval Pay Roll Increased.

Ottawa, Jan. 3—The following wages have been scheduled in the latest pay roll: Instrument allowance for bandmaster, 25 cents a day extra; band corporal, 15 cents; band men, 10 cents; naval schoolmaster (to the petty officer acting as such), 15 cents a day.

The wages provided for shipwrights carpenters, mates and chief carpenters' mates have not proved sufficiently high to obtain suitable candidates and the Minister of Marine has made a new schedule as follows: Ship right $1.25, after three years $1.35, after six years $1.50; carpenters mate $1.65 after three years $1.75, after six years $1.90; chief carpenters' mate $2 after three years $2.20.

Five Children Burned to Death.

Pompeii, Ky., Jan. 3.—Five children of John Markwell were burned to death at Markwell's home near here early yesterday morning in a fire which destroyed three houses in the foreign quarter of the town. The children ranged in age from two months to eight years. The origin of the fire is unknown. It is said that during the celebration of the New Year's coming in the parents of the children had left them alone in the house, starting the fire.

55 BARS TO CLOSE

Result of the Local Option By-laws Where a Vote Was Taken Yesterday.

Toronto, Jan. 3.—Local option met with a reverse in thirty-seven municipalities reported last night, and lost in twenty-one.

Particularly did the sentiment against the curtailment of "privileges" show itself in the larger places. Guelph, the only city voting on the question, turned down the temperance issue, and of the thirteen towns interested, only two carried the measure.

The three-fifths clause saved five towns from the drought, namely, Barrie, Brampton, Huntsville, Napanee and Smith's Fall.

Alexandra and Bracebridge are to go dry on May 1. Beaverton, Newburgh, Paisley and West Lorne will be dry villages on May 1.

Four townships, according to returns, will lose their licenses. They are: Bostard, E. Camden, E. Flamboro and Wolford.

The three repeal contests in Cremore Village, Beverley Township and Goulburn Township, which have been under local option, failed, and it will necessarily be three years before an other contest will be waged.

It is noteworthy from a local standpoint that the municipalities surrounding Toronto which there was a polling combat resulted in the victory for the license-holders.

One of the features of the local option campaign was the fight in Brampton to regain license. The required three-fifths was obtain a year ago, but was quashed on a technicality. The Government did not issue licenses, but a re-vote was taken yesterday, with a vote for the bylaw of 491 and 376 against.

Rev. B. H. Spence said of this result: Brampton carried local option. It became a no license town. By 115 majority the citizens declare a desire to stay no license. Will the Government force license back upon Brampton? It is one of these instances which show the utter iniquity of the three-fifths requirement.

A coincidence of the vote was an exact total of 133 both pro and con at Merrickville.

The failure by a handful of votes to add Barrie to the dry list evoked a declaration by Rev. B. H. Spence that it was "a scoundrelly law."

The wet majority in Guelph was a keen disappointment, as a majority was hoped for, even if not a full three-fifths. The vote was a clear defeat of the bylaw, 1,336 against to 1,210 for the bylaw.

All three repeal contests resulted in the municipalities concerned remaining dry.

A lull in the returns was enlivened by a long distance 'phone message from President Joseph Ingersoll of Secretary Spence said that the president congratulated the workers on their efforts and assured them that the alliance would immediately "pick up the fight just where they left off."

Carried Beaverton, 2; Gravenhurst, 4 West Lorne, 3; Camden E., 7; Flamboro E., 1; Paisley, 1; Lancaster, 2; Bracebridge, 5; Howick Township, 1; Vankleek Hill, 5; Norburg, 1; Loughborough, 6; Keewon, 4; Thorold Township, 2; Wardsville, 1; Wolford, 1; Bastard, 2; Gaultenburg N., 2; Huntsville, 4; Burk's Falls, 5; Rodney, 3; Licenses gone.

Failed to get three-fifths—Brampton, Erin, Napanee, Grand Valley, Sutton, Puslinch, Scarboro, Floss, Zorra W., Barrie, Guelph Township, Crowland, Albemarle, Newcastle, Smith's Falls, Port Rowan, Kitley, Hunterstown. Total, 18.

C.P.R. Appointments.

Montreal, Jan. 3.—Circulars were issued by the Canadian Pacific yesterday announcing the appointment reported some days ago of J. F. Schwitzer, first assistant engineer of the company's western lines at Winnipeg, to the position of chief engineer of the system. The appointment of F. P. Butelius, general superintendent of the eastern division with headquarters at Montreal, was announced. Mr. Butelius is succeeded by J. G. Taylor, superintendent at Medicine Hat.

Overcome by Gas.

Dundas, Jan. 3.—Silas and Mrs. Fuller and Miss Walker, sister of Mrs. Fuller, were overcome by escaping coal gas Sunday. They retired early Saturday night, and on Sunday evening neighbors having noticed that no one came out of the house all day, notified relatives. The door was broken in and Mr. and Mrs. Fuller were brought to by Dr. Bertram after some effort. Miss Walker was still unconscious today and will likely die.

Vancouver's Magistrate.

Vancouver, Jan. 3.—A. E. Bull, formerly of Toronto, Vancouver's magistrate for the past year, has resigned that office. The Provincial Government has appointed as his successor H. C. Shaw, K.C., who came to Vancouver from Charlottetown, P.E.I., in 1892.

Reciprocity Negotiations.

Ottawa, Jan. 3.—The Canadian Government has decided that Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. Wm. Paterson shall proceed to Washington on Thursday to resume the reciprocity negotiations on Jan. 7.

Sent Back to States.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 3.—Provincial Officer McNamara arrested Helena Cuonzo, 17, and Joseph Moralabite aged 24, in Welland on Sunday, for the Sloan, N.Y., authorities. The pair were sent back to the States, the man to answer to a charge of abduction, while his pretty sweetheart will be charged with violating the penal code.

By John T. McIntyre. Copyrighted and All Rights Reserved

There are many institutions of the sort," proceeded the investigator. "But for the most part they stop at the threshold, so to speak, of knowledge."

Dr. Mercer roused himself so far as to unclasp his hands and point with one finger at the speaker.

"Sir," said he, in a voice full of grave significance, "they seldom reach the threshold. A large majority of them are conducted by dishonest persons. Afflicted youth left in their charge are rarely properly directed—they rarely acquire that digital dexterity so necessary to success in their limited lives. The isolated brain, so to call it, is seldom more than half awakened. Unless it is intelligently approached, the shadows are never thoroughly dispelled."

Here he paused, panting distressedly; his eyes were filled with reproach as he relapsed into his first attitude; and his manner was that of one who mutely begged that no further tasks be thrust upon him.

"The difference in institutions of this type lies mainly in the methods employed, I believe," said Ashton-Kirk.

"In the methods—and in the persons who apply them," replied Dr. Mercer, in a smothered tone.

"To be sure. I have heard something of your teaching staff. It is a very excellent one, is it not?"

"The best in the world." The soft, fat, white hands of the doctor again unclasped themselves; and this time both of them were employed in a faintly-traced gesture. "We employ scientists. We do not stop at what you have correctly called the threshold. We explore the entire structure of the intellect. Our Professor Locke, himself an afflicted one, is a man of vast erudition—a scholar of an advanced type, a philosopher whose adventures into the field of psychology and natural science is widely known. He has charge of the practical work of the Mercer Institute, and under him its results are positive and unique."

"We have heard of Professor Locke," and, drily, "have seen some of his work."

"If you had stated your business before—ah—coming in to me," spoke the doctor, "you might have had an opportunity of consulting him. He left for his cottage immediately after dining."

"He does not live here, then?"

"Not in this building—no. There is a detached cottage at the far end of the grounds which he occupies. If you'd like to see him," and the heavy jowls of the speaker trembled with eagerness, "Haines will show you there at once."

"If it is no trouble," said Ashton-Kirk, smoothly.

"Not in the least." The doctor rang for his man, and when he entered, said: "These gentlemen would like to speak to Professor Locke. Show them the way to his house. And, gentlemen," to the callers, with anxiety, "the professor can arrange everything with you. It is my habit to nod for a half hour after dinner. My system has grown to expect it, and if I am deprived of it, I suffer considerably in consequence."

"We will not trouble you again, doctor," Ashton-Kirk assured him. "Thank you, and good-night."

Once more outside, the man led them along a foot-path that seemed to cut the institution grounds in two. The rays of his lantern danced along the carefully-kept lawn; the shadowy trees seemed to move backward and forward, as the thin beams wavered among them.

"The professor lives a good piece away," the man informed them. "Away over on the country road."

"Prefers to be alone, eh?"

"I suppose so, sir. And then he has his laboratory and work-shop there, well away from interruption. He don't like to be much disturbed while he is engaged in his studies."

"Few of us do," said Pendleton.

"Quite right, sir."

They walked along in silence for a time; then they caught a clear humming noise from some distance ahead.

"A motor car," said Pendleton.

"It's on the county road," said the man with the light. "We always hear them when the wind blows from that direction."

After some fifteen minutes' steady walking they saw a long twinkling shaft of light coming from among the trees.

"That's the house," said Haines. "I hope the professor ain't busy: you wouldn't believe what a blowing up he can give a body with his fingers when he's vexed. I'd almost rather have the doctor himself though, as a rule, the professor is a very nice gentleman."

The house was a brick structure of two stories and dimly lighted on the lower floor. Near by was a long, shed-like building, the windows of which were brilliantly lighted.

"He's at work," said Haines, in a troubled tone. "And in the shop too! If it was even the laboratory, it wouldn't be so bad. But he does get so interested in the shop. That machine means more to him, whatever it is, than anything else about the place."

There came a harsh burring sound from within both the shop and the house. Haines seemed surprised.

"Visitors," he said. "He seldom has one; and I never knew any to come at night before."

They saw the figure of Locke cross one of the shed windows toward a door. And just then Ashton-Kirk stumbled rather heavily against Haines; the lantern dropped to the ground and was extinguished.

"I beg your pardon," said the investigator in a rueful tone; then he began to rub his shins. "That was rather hard; whatever it was."

The door of the building opened and Locke appeared; his great bald head shone in the light that streamed after him; and it was thrust forward as he strove to penetrate the darkness ahead.

"He feels the vibrations of those buzzers," Haines told them, "and knows right away when anyone wants to get in."

He began fumbling with the lantern as Locke disappeared; but Ashton-Kirk said to him:

"You need not light that. We can see very well. And on second thoughts, you need not wait, either. We can introduce ourselves to Professor Locke without troubling you further."

"Thank you, sir," said the man, visibly relieved. "They all have queer dispositions, you see, and I don't like to trouble them."

At once Haines made his way back along the path by which they had approached; some distance away they saw him kindle his lantern, and then watched the yellow spark as it glanced diffidently away across the grounds.

The cottage and work-shop of Prof. Locke appeared to be set back some little distance from what Haines had called the county road; a grove of tall trees thickened the shadows all about, and it was into these trees that the professor had gone.

"The buzzer must have the button that sounds it attached to a gate opening upon the road," said Pendleton.

They stood for a short time in silence; then Pendleton nudged his friend with an elbow.

"Look," he whispered. "There at the door of the shed."

Ashton-Kirk did so. And he was just in time to see a large, iron-gray head, a craggy, powerful face, and a pair of thick shoulders; the expression and attitude were those of a man listening intently. Almost instantly; as Ashton-Kirk's gaze fell upon him, the man withdrew.

"Humph," exclaimed Pendleton, under his breath. "Who's that, I wonder?"

They waited for some time longer in silence. But the little man did not return, nor did the head appear again at the shop door. Ashton-Kirk appeared puzzled.

"Locke intended returning at once" he said to Pendleton. "Otherwise he would have closed his work-shop door." Then his eyes wandered toward the house, and his grip closed tightly upon his companion's arm. "Look," whispered he, in his turn.

Pendleton's gaze flew toward the house. The lower windows had been dimly lighted when they approached but now the glow from them was high and brilliant. In one of the rooms they saw Locke; he was striding up and down, his hands clenched and gesturing, his face upturned, writhing hideously. Seated at a table, calmly engaged in examining something traced upon a sheet of paper, and, apparently, not paying the slightest attention to the gesticulating man, was a young woman. And Pendleton felt himself grow suddenly faint and sick as he recognized Edith Vale.

CHAPTER XV.

MISS VALE DEPARTS SUDDENLY.

For a moment there was a silence between the two men; then Ashton-Kirk said, dryly:

"Miss Vale has, apparently, not been altogether frank with us in this matter."

"You think then——" began Pendleton in a voice of terror— But Ashton-Kirk stopped him.

"I think many things," said he. "But they are neither here nor there. Facts are what count. Put the circumstances together for yourself and see where they lead you. Miss Vale has been from the first mixed up more or less in this crime. She explained. As far as I knew the explanation was made in good faith. Now we find her here in this lonely place, quietly engaged with a man whom I have convinced myself is one of Hume's murderers."

There was another pause; this time it was Pendleton who broke the silence.

"As you say," spoke he in a strange, throaty sort of tone, "she has not been quite frank. Take all the circumstances together and they seem to point——"

He paused as though quite unable to finish. Ashton-Kirk laid a hand upon his shoulder.

"Imagination is a thing that is vitally necessary in this sort of work," said he. "But it must be held in check by reason. The great trouble with an amateur is that he reasons up to a certain point; then he allows his imagination to take a long leap toward a result. The upshot is that his results have seldom anything to support them. The correct method, I think, is to allow the imagination to scurry ahead in the way that is natural to it; but reason must follow close behind, proving each step of the way. To be sure, you may have theories, hypotheses, ideas without end, but you must never take them for granted. Select each in its turn, place it in a tube as the chemist does, add a few drops of reason, and you may produce a fact. It is the only way to go about it. Once a man becomes fixed in a belief, he there ever so little foundation for it, his mind stops revolving the subject; further procedure is hopeless."

"I understand all that well enough said Pendleton. "But," and he waved his hand toward the house, "what does this mean?"

"I don't know," said Ashton-Kirk. "And neither do you. So—that being the case—there is but one thing to do—find out."

Diseases Of the Skin

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Cold, damp weather brings out eczema and salt rheum. Many who are subject to these ailments do not suffer except during the changeable weather of fall and spring.

The annoying itching and the disfiguring blotches on the skin make this trouble almost unbearable to those who are not familiar with the soothing, healing influence of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Relief comes almost as soon as this ointment is applied. Gradually the irritation disappears, the sores are healed up and the skin is left soft, smooth and natural.

There is always danger of eczema spreading and becoming chronic. For this reason the use of the ointment should be regular and persistent until the cure is thorough and complete.

Mrs. John J. Delory, Linwood, Antigonish county, N.S., writes: "I want to say that Dr. Chase's Ointment has proven a great blessing to me. I had salt rheum on one hand, and could not get it healed up. The itching was most distressing at times. Two boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment has cured me completely, and I gladly recommend it to every sufferer."

In every home there is a demand for Dr. Chase's Ointment. It is particularly useful where there are children. Chafing and skin irritation are relieved at once. Obstinate wounds are readily healed. Baby eczema and all forms of poisoned or irritated skin are soon cured by this soothing, healing ointment. 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Bellerive, Que.—"Without Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I would not be alive. For five months I had painful and irregular periods and inflammation of the uterus. I suffered like a martyr and thought often of death. I consulted two doctors who could do nothing for me. I went to a hospital, and the best doctors said I must submit to an operation, because I had a tumor. I went back home much discouraged. One of my cousins advised me to take your Compound, as it had cured her. I did so and soon commenced to feel better, and my appetite came back with the first bottle. Now I feel no pain and am cured. Your remedy is deserving of praise."—Mrs. EMMA CHATEL, Valleyfield, Bellerive, Quebec.

Another Operation Avoided.

Adrian, Ga. — "I suffered untold misery from female troubles, and my doctor said an operation was my only chance, and I dreaded it almost as much as death. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound completely cured me without an operation."—LENA V. HENRY, R.F.D. 3.

Thirty years of unparalleled success confirms the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to cure female diseases.

YOU CANSEE IT WORK

The beauty of Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment as a healer of the skin in eczema, salt rheum, itching skin disease and old sores is that you can see from day to day exactly what it is doing. There is no guess work, no experimenting. It simply heals the skin and makes it soft, smooth and natural. It heals as if by magic. Prove this to your own satisfaction by trying it

WONDER-SHINE

Cleans more silver in half-an-hour than pastes or powders in half-a-day—and cleans it better.

Madam! That's the reason why you should use WONDER-SHINE—it saves time and toil. Just figure out what this means — how WONDER-SHINE reduces that old, dusty, tiresome job of cleaning silver to a few minutes' pleasant work.

Your silver and gold may be costly heirlooms and gifts money could not replace. The rubbing and scouring of pastes and powders is pretty harsh treatment—eventually wears through the plating and spoils its brilliant lustre.

WONDER-SHINE is easy to use—no rubbing—no scrubbing—no scouring. Just dip your silver, gold or plated-ware, several articles at a time, in WONDER-SHINE, then rinse and dry with a soft cloth or chamois. That's all.

The beautiful lustre of your favorites will surprise you. If used occasionally, WONDER-SHINE will keep them as bright as new coinage from the mint.

Try it—one package will convince you.

Ignorance and Superstition

The Factors Which Lead to Fear.

Brooklyn, N.Y., January 1.—Pastor Russell of Brooklyn Tabernacle addressed a large congregation in the Brooklyn Academy of Music this afternoon on the importance of good courage for the New Year, from the following text:

"Fear not, for I have redeemed thee, I have called thee by thy name; thou art mine."—Isaiah xliii, 1.

As usual he had a large audience and the very closest attention. He said in part:

Fear is a great calamity. It is closely related to all the sorrows of life, closely linked to all the crimes of the world. One of the blessings of true Christianity is the release it gives from fear. But alas! true Christianity, true Christian faith, and the present rewards of these are not very common even in Christendom. Few know the meaning of the Master's words, "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will, give you rest." Few appreciate the assurance, "If the Son shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed" (Matthew xi, 28; John viii, 36).

Fear has its foundation in sin. We may be sure that the angels in heaven know no fear. After Adam had disobeyed the Divine command in Eden, he feared his Maker and hid from him. Similarly, fear affects all of Adam's posterity, because of the general realization that "all are sinners." God and his righteousness are, figuratively, light, and the sinner and his sins are, figuratively, darkness. There is no compromise—the darkness hateth (opposeth) the light, the light scattereth the darkness. Love and reverence go hand in hand, but love and fear are opposites; we cannot love that which we fear, we do not fear that which we love.

Hope, pride and ambition encourage the business man and the laborer, the king and the peasant, the housewife and the maid, the leaders of the social set and the patient mother. Nevertheless, all of these have a drag-anchor of fear, which in the stress of life produces worry; worry produces indigestion, indigestion produces insomnia and nervousness which lead on to every form of disease and unhappiness. To the extent, therefore, that fear is removed, health and happiness are encouraged and aided.

All physicians recognize the fact that fear is closely related to disease. Hence the wise physician always counsels cheerful surroundings for the sick, cheerful conversation, diversion of the mind, the avoidance of thought along worrisome lines—the rest cure, etc.

It may be asked, Why is it that the Master's cure is little considered today? Why are so few pointed to Christ, the Great Physician, for the rest and peace and comfort and joy which he promised to his followers eighteen centuries ago? Have his words proven untrue? Are his professed followers amongst the most anxious and troubled and overcharged and sick and sorrowing and fearful of our poor, groaning creation? If so, what is the explanation? We must concede the inference. We must admit that the four hundred millions of professed Christians are much more unhappy, much more fearful, much more nervous, peevish and sickly than the twelve hundred millions outside of Christendom.

The explanation of this peculiar situation is that Christendom is not Christian; that the name Christendom is a misnomer; Christ's Kingdom does not prevail amongst the civilized one-fourth of humanity. For centuries now Christendom has deceived itself, and has seriously misrepresented Christ, his teachings and his promised Kingdom of righteousness for which still we are praying, "Thy Kingdom come, thy will be done on earth." Our standing armies, prepared to destroy each other, and our Dreadnought navies, prepared to blow each other to atoms; and our submarines and our flying machines, our great cannons and torpedoes all prove the mistake of calling human civilization Christ's Kingdom.

Similarly, the worry, fear, strife, nervousness, etc., of Christendom all prove that the Great Teacher's antidote for fear and worry has not been taken by the masses of Christendom. We hold that the Good Physician's remedy for sin, corroding care, worry, fear, is just as effective today as it was eighteen and a half centuries ago. We hold that the real difficulty is that his prescription has not been faithfully followed. We urge that those who now have "an ear to hear" his message should accept it faithfully, and that they should not accept at the hands of anybody another prescription, said to be "just as good." We should make sure that we get the remedy which bears the endorsement of the Lord's Word, and which has the seal of the precious blood.

During the Dark Ages superstitious fear was encouraged, all will concede. The attempt was made to drive humanity to God. Arbitrary doctrines were promulgated in the name of God, Christ and his Apostles. St. Paul denominates those "doctrines of devils" (1 Timothy iv, 1). These, presumably, taught a Purgatory, to be mitigated by prayers and masses. Under the impulse of fear millions accepted Christ and professed discipleship in total ignorance of his real teachings, and yet no more his followers than when they were born. Later on the Adversary partially subverted the Reformation Movement by leading zealous people to renounce Purgatory as unscriptural and to accept in its stead for the world of the eternal torment [illegible]

Fortunately for ourselves we Protestants do not take our own doctrines seriously. However much all Protestant Creeds assert that only baptized saints will reach heaven and, contrariwise, that all the unsaintly will suffer eternal torture, nevertheless, not one in a hundred believes this. The most saintly, the most conscientious of them are troubled by their fears, tormented by their sympathies, perplexed to understand God's dealings, hindered from having the peace and joy which the Master promised his followers. The less conscientious of them stifle conscience to their own injury, gradually losing faith in the Word of God because of their error. They thus escape some of the torments of fear, but they do not attain the love, joy, contentment and peace which the Master promised his faithful ones.

There is only the one Divine remedy for this harmful fear. That remedy is associated with the Gospel of Christ; but there are numerous subterfuges. Some drown their fears, disappointments and sorrows with alcohol or various narcotics. Some seek to drown them with business activity, some with church activity, some with "devil-may-care" unreason. Of late a considerable degree of subterfuge success has come along the lines of deceit—denying the existence of sin, denying the facts of pain and sorrow and death, and, contrariwise, affirming that everything is good, regardless of the untruthfulness of this proposition.

The result of this self-deception indeed relieves from a considerable measure of fear. To this extent it proves a solace and satisfaction; but it is a subterfuge and not the true remedy. As a proposition its influence upon the mind, upon all the reasoning faculties, is injurious. The twisting of reason necessary to this philosophy, which calls black white, and pain pleasure, and sin righteousness, is destructive of sound reasoning ability. The habit of perversion necessary to the calling of bad good and wrong right not only injures the mind, but, in attempting to sustain itself from the Scriptures, perverts the entire Word of God. With reason perverted and the Scriptures perverted, the true message of the Scriptures cannot be enjoyed. Unless fear be measurably eliminated, the proper faith, hope, joy and spirit of a sound mind are impossible.

God's message through the Law and the Prophets, to Israel, as interpreted by Jesus and his Apostles, gives us the true antidote for fear. It does not deny sin, sickness, sorrow, death; it denies no fact, but it does hold out a remedy for all of these, an antidote, "the balm of Gilead." Moreover, it informs us that this antidote can be received only through the co-operation of our heads and hearts.

It informs us that this healing is obtainable by only a comparatively few at this time, but, eventually, the Divine blessings, world-wide, shall operate toward all humanity as fully as have the penalties of sin. It applies now (in full degree) only to such as have the hearing ear, the eye of faith and the appreciative, responsive heart. Others may obtain a measure only of this consolation. The Great Teacher gave us the key to this deliverance from fear, saying, "Ye shall know the Truth and the Truth shall make you free. If the Son shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed" (John viii, 32, 36).

The first step toward having the Truth make us free is to have the coating of ignorance and superstition removed and this is a difficult matter. For instance, the Catholic superstition of Purgatory and the Protestant superstition of eternal torment, for practically all mankind, have been so thoroughly riveted upon their faithful that to break their bonds and get free is a difficult task. Only those who hunger and thirst after the Lord and his righteousness are in any likelihood of ever being properly freed.

Others getting free from one error are merely steered by the Adversary into another as bad or worse. God seeketh not these at the present time; he will deal with them by and by under Messiah's glorious Kingdom, when Satan shall be bound. Now, as the Apostle declares, "God seeketh such to worship him as worship in spirit and in truth"; "The secret of the Lord is with them that fear him and he will show them his Covenant"—he will set them free now from the bondage of superstition and fear, and by and by, in the "First Resurrection," he will free them from the body of corruption.

In other words, at the present time all humanity may receive a blessing of heart-consolation in proportion as they can come to the knowledge of Divine Truth; and each will be helped to the knowledge of the Truth in proportion to his hunger and thirst after righteousness—his honesty of soul. The dishonest-hearted are not worthy of being set free from fear. Liberty and freedom from fear for these would not be favorable to them nor to others under present conditions. Fear is associated with alienation from God. And as the Bible declares, "None of the wicked shall understand" (Dan. xii, 10).

To attain the highest blessing which God has to offer at the present time certain difficult requirements must be complied with. Sin must be repented of heartily, and, so far as possible, restitution must be made, which means that sin must be forsaken to the extent of ability. Faith must then recognize the "Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world" [illegible]

the Redeemer, but also that God raised him from the dead an highly exalted him to spirit being again, to the intent that eventually he may accomplish for all mankind, the wonderful blessings foretold in the Law and the Prophets.

Additionally, to such will be revealed the great "Mystery" of this Gospel Age, lasting from the death of Jesus to the manifestation of Messiah in power and great glory as Michael—the "God-like One" (Daniel xii, 1). The Mystery is that Jesus is the Head, Chief, Lord, over the Church which is his Body, and that the "Body" members will eventually be glorified with the Head on the spirit plane; and that the Head and Body will constitute the great Messiah whose spiritual reign of a thousand years will result in the blessing and uplifting of mankind.

Whoever shall be thus taught of God in the school of Christ will learn also the necessity for having a share with the Master in his suffering and death, in order to have a share with him in his glorious reign. These will be taught by the great Head that "if they suffer with him they shall reign with him" and that the sufferings of this present time (if faithfully endured by them) will work out an exceeding and abundant blessing.

To properly understand our text and, indeed, to understand the Bible as a whole, it is necessary to discern that God has foreordained two Israels—the earthly and the heavenly. Both are precious, both are "elect," both are to be used of the Lord during Messiah's Kingdom reign—the one on the heavenly plane and the other on the earthly. A mistake has been made by some in recognizing the earthly Israel and not recognizing the heavenly or spiritual Israel. Others have made the mistake of recognizing the heavenly or spiritual Israel and not recognizing the earthly Israel. "The promise of God is to be sure to both the seeds of Abraham—to that which is according to the promise, the oath—the Spiritual Seed—and also to that which is according to the Law, the natural seed (Romans iv, 16).

The Spiritual Seed must be developed first, because the blessing will proceed from the Heavenly Seed to the earthly seed, then from the earthly seed to all nations. The blessing upon all nations will consist of the opportunity that will be offered them of becoming members of the earthly seed which, ultimately, as the sands of the seashore, will include the saved of all nations—all found worthy of everlasting life. "I have constituted thee a father of many nations." (Rom. iv, 17).

All who will come into this blessed experience of relationship to God are described in our text, "Fear not; for I have redeemed thee; I have called thee by thy name, thou art mine." The faithful few of this Gospel Age, who have passed through the deep waters of tribulation and walked through fiery trials, have not only come off uninjured, but have been blessed, yea and will be abundantly blessed in the rewards of the coming Kingdom. They have naught to fear.

Similarly, Natural Israel as a people was specially favored from the days of Abraham down to the rejection of Messiah particularly the saintly few of that people whose sure reward will be their privilege of being made Princes in all the earth by the great King of glory (Psalm xlv, 16).

Even during the Gospel Age when the nation of Israel, "Jacob," has been obliged to pass through trying experiences, "waters of affliction" and "fiery trials," the Lord has not forsaken them. He has kept them together as a people. He has not permitted them to be destroyed by their enemies. Their persistency for thirty-five centuries is of itself a miracle of Divine supervision. Without afflictions they would have disappeared as a distinct people.

As the Gospel Age (for the selection of Spiritual Israel) draws to a close, the voice of God is calling natural Israel and pointing them to the Land of Promise and reviving their hearts with the messages of their prophets.

All are to share God's blessings eventually, and then all may be without fear. Now is the time for those who know their God, to fear not. Now, those whose eyes of faith and understanding can discern God's stately steppings amongst the children of men in the directing of the Divine Program may fearlessly rejoice. Now is the time for these to be of good courage! to be valiant for righteousness and truth! Their blessings of the Lord will be in proportion to their faithfulness and courage. There is no other route to the true rest and peace to which Jesus invites. And there never can be a better time than now to accept the Lord's offer: "Come unto me!"

Ready Example.

The school trustees were present—all of 'em—and the teacher was anxious that her scholars should do well. She picked upon Tommy as the most likely to do her credit. Tommy's kilties showed through his trousers, and because the trustees were present Tommy sat with a hand on each knee.

"Tommy," said the teacher, "will you please give me the teacher was always polite when the trustees were present—"will you please give me a sentence with the word 'toward' in it?"

Then Tommy rose and in a graceful attitude, with a thumb on each knee, answered:

"Please teacher, I toward my trowsus."—London Answers.

THE SKY PILOT TO THE LUMBERJACKS

WHERE a Missionary Must Be First a Man, Afterward a Preacher. "Higgins" Has a Congregation of 30,000 in 250 Camps.

The Sky Pilot, His Church and His Audience

Copyright 1910 by A. A. Richardson

PASTOR of the "Parish of the Pines" is the Rev. Francis E. Higgins, an evangel, who ministers to the spiritual and often the temporal wants of a congregation of 30,000, and yet has no church. He is the original of Norman Duncan's stories of the Northwest. His followers are lumberjacks and his parish comprises the vast timber lands of the Northwest, which he transverses with a dog drawn sledge. How he preaches in the language of the woods and how he practises muscular Christianity are told here.

"IF I were getting ready for my work again," said the Rev. Francis E. Higgins, "I would take lessons in boxing." He smiled a good humored smile from a pair of Irish blue eyes. "The man that goes into the woods to preach to men has to be a man first and a preacher afterward."

He is Higgins just plain Higgins to the saloon keepers he has put out of business and the councils he has awakened to their duty out in the lumbering towns of the Great Lakes. But to his parishioners, the men who cut the timber, he is "the Pilot." He has no church. His sermons are preached to the low, dimly lighted bunk house of the camp, with its double tier of straw filled bunks and its red hot stove around which hang the half dry "mackinaws" and mittens of the men. And with a blanket covered barrel for his pulpit the Pilot preaches in the lingo of his hearers. Perhaps it is the story of the Prodigal Son.

"He got tired of living at home with the old man, boys, so he packed his turkey and went out to blow his stake. Where did he land? You know. He landed in the snake room. And there the old man found him, and took him home and sobered him up."

Committees, officials and public sentiment are conserving the forests. Higgins, single handed, is conserving the lumberjacks. He has no church, but he has a congregation 30,000 Irish, Scotch, French Canadian, Angeles they wait for him.

The missionary travels all over the timber region of Minnesota with his team of dogs. Although Higgins is a man who weighs more than two hundred pounds, his beautiful team of dogs carried him forty miles, to Little Fork, in six and one half hours. When there is a crust on the snow he can travel anywhere in the open timber, regardless of roads. He says his team is worth $500 to him.

Sometimes he is caught out at night and is obliged to camp in the woods. He has a small tent and builds a fire in it, cuts boughs and fixes a bed on the snow, and with a dog on each side of him he sleeps comfortably and with a conscious security. He feeds the dogs but once a day, at night. He generally shoots a rabbit or two during the day. Sometimes he cooks a pan of oats for himself and gives the dogs all they can eat of the raw meat.

Higgins is the first preacher that has found his way to this forest, where there is no person excepting the sturdy pioneer that is blazing the way for civilization and progress, and the first meeting was held in the cabin of the oldest pioneer, a man who has not had a sight of civilization for more than ten years. There were twenty homesteaders present at the meeting and to their credit be it said that reverently they sat and quietly they listened to the first spiritual message.

His territory extends from Duluth 200 miles west, south to Brainerd and north to the Rainy River. There are 250 camps in this region.

A lumber camp has much the same appearance as a very small and rough looking village. The foreman is the arbiter of almost life and death, and beyond his "say so" there is no court of appeal. The activities of the camp begin with the first streak of dawn, when the cook begins to prepare the morning meal, which consists chiefly of beans, porridge and hot tea, sweetened with molasses. After breakfast the men are assigned to their day's work, the hewers often going three or four miles from the camp. The teamsters get ready to haul the first logs to the railroad or the river. The teams are often composed of four to six horses to drag the monster logs, lashed together with heavy chains, over the rough places and up the grades.

The men work until sundown. Then they hasten back to camp to prepare for supper, the principal meal of the day. It usually consists of beans, cream of tartar, hot tea, sour dough bread, boiled beef or some sort of game and tea. After supper the men amuse themselves as best they can, some fall asleep, others play cards or tell stories. Since the missionary has entered the field the men also have books to read.

When the camp breaks in the spring and the "boys" go to town in search of their own ruin, in the guise of the only pleasures they know, they find him waiting for them, watching over them still.

"Who's that?" asked a stranger in one of the old time saloons, seeing him take a drunken boy by the throat and carry him out bodily.

"That's Higgins," replied the man in spiked boots and mackinaw. "His job's keeping men boys out of hell, and he's the only man on the job."

There is no end of "grand standing" about his work. Following his congregation into the haunts of their temptations is simply a part of his duty as he sees it. And the men recognize it as such. It does not occur to them that they are witnessing an application of practical Christianity such as the modern world seldom sees.

Out of the Snake Rooms.

It is easy to believe in the story of the good Samaritan. If you see him exemplified better than in the person of the man who is telling the story. And many a member of his congregations the Pilot has taken in his own hands taken out of the snake room, the foul dens where they are thrown to spend and gamble and shriek themselves back into consciousness after the adulterated whiskey of "The Lumberman's Home" or "Mike's Place."

And during the process of washing them up or nursing them through pneumonia the Pilot has "rubbed it in" on the [illegible] but so to do. He has proved that he means what he says.

The friend who would save men in places where they give him dope" whisky take his wages of $60 in a night and next day is in the morning without a cent has need of a strong right arm. And the Pilot does not hesitate to use it.

"A young fellow, named Pat Murray, a likely lad, asked me to look out for him one spring," he said, "but he'd been in town a week day before I heard of it. Then I found him at Jake Hart's place, one of the worst. Just as I came in the door he put a double handful of bills down on the bar. 'Here, bungswatter,' he said, 'set up the house.'

"The men crowded up for their drinks, and the barkeeper took a few bills off the pile. But I knew as soon as Pat's back was turned the whole pile would go into the till.

"'My turn, Pat,' I said, putting my hand over the bills. 'Take this.'

"'Look here, Higgins,' said the barkeeper, 'what do you mean by butting in this way?'

"'This is my job, and I'm going to see it through,' I said. He struck at me, but couldn't reach me. I came over the bar with a spring. Just as I got the money was still spread out on the floor I got it and had the pile. When he was out he ran for Pat Murray and sent a draft for his money to his old mother.

"I used to be master. When they opened the camps way far away from the towns and let the boys work safe for the winter. Then some of the [illegible] along for [illegible] in the day's work. But [illegible] thing like that, all in the day's work. But [illegible] log by rail, and the towns spring up about the camps like leeches. That's what they are, leeches, made up of saloons and gambling hells and worse. What do they give a boy who's worked from dark to dark six days a week? Nothing but what his money will buy, bad liquor, a crooked game and women that cities have tired of. It isn't only one big spree in the spring now. It's a little one every Sunday. The boss has to send a wagon on Monday to gather his men out of the snake rooms.

"Not that all woodsmen drink. Some of the older ones are sober, steady men, with families. But the young fellows don't know anything else, though they are quick enough to take it when it comes their way. They don't get a show.

"I know, because I have worked in the woods myself. I grew up on a frontier farm in Canada, hunting with bow and arrow with the Indian boys, and working in the woods with my father. I saved what little money I earned, and when I was twenty went to Toronto for my first schooling. Five years later I was through the High School and in my first little church out in Barnum, Minn.

"One day I was standing on a log in the river, watching the men breaking the log jam. The logs were piled up twenty feet high, and the men were working right in the face of the jam, when suddenly they got the key log and the jam gave way. We all had to jump for our lives, and so the men found out who I was. While we were sitting on the bank, watching the logs go down, all smooth and quiet, the men asked me to preach to them, and I did.

"'Boys,' I said, 'you're on the merry-go-round. You work all winter in the woods, and come down in the spring and blow your money. You go back on the drive, and blow your money. You go into the mills, and blow your money. Then you go back to the woods, and blow your money. What does it get you? Nothing but the snake room. It goes to buy diamonds for other men's wives. Jake Sharkey's wife says she can have all she wants. Her husband's got a thousand men working for him in the woods.' She meant you, boys. Are you going to do it again after this drive?

"'You can't stop? I know you can't. But the grace of God in your hearts can help you to stop, and it's the only thing that can.' And then we prayed and sang.

"'Come out to the camp and talk to us, Parson,' one of them said when we were shaking hands. 'Nobody wastes much time talking to us.'

Willing to Go to Jail.

"And so I went. And I told them the truth as we all knew it. I didn't have to preach hell to them. They knew that. They'd seen it in the snake rooms. The love of God was harder for men who'd always had to pay for what they got to understand. But at last some of them began to see what I meant.

"One night just as I was starting home, a man named John Sornberger came to me with tears running down his face.

"My God!" he says, 'if you know anything to help me, for me, for [illegible] We went to the cook's shack and I talked to him and prayed with him all night. He was a man, with a long and [illegible] for [illegible] drinking. At the end of that [illegible] had got well so he [illegible] the cook, and a good [illegible] and after that he couldn't [illegible] of it, going from camp [illegible] a few days, and then getting thrown [illegible] He was willing to go [illegible] the first thing is to get on [illegible] didn't send him there when I [illegible] and he stuck to it [illegible] boys were safe for the winter. Then [illegible] along for [illegible] in the day's work. But [illegible] thing like that, all in the day's work. But [illegible] daughter brought them milk every morning, and pretty soon John came to me to know if I thought he might marry her. I found she knew the story of his life and had forgiven it, and so after a time I married them. Three years later he became my first missionary.

"The sum of $200 means a missionary to us in the woods, for the boys furnish the rest of the money themselves. That's why I have left my work and come out to tell about their needs. No one man can reach them all. This year I am going to send a man into Northern Michigan, where the conservation people would tell you that the timber is all cut, but where there are ten thousand men still at work.

"I didn't ask the boys for any money, because I knew that everybody who ever went near the camps did that. At first they kept on their hats and smoked while I was talking, and finally one night I wore my hat myself. When I got up I said, 'Boys, this is the only church we've got. Let's make it as good a one as we can.' I took off my hat. And every hat came off.

"Another time a big Frenchman was grinding his axe while I was talking. 'The boys have asked me to come out here and talk to them,' I said to him, 'and I'll be glad if you'll wait a few minutes to grind that axe.'

"He went right on and began to whistle. Finally Mike O'Leary, the blacksmith, stepped up to him, took him by the shoulder and threw him out of the door. 'I'm roadmonkeying for the Pilot, I'll have ye to know,' he said, 'and any damned pea-soup that thinks I can't do it can step up right now.' So after that it was good sledding for me.

"The camp was always swept before I got there, and the boys knew what hymns they wanted to sing. 'Jesus, Lover of My Soul,' is one that they liked. 'That's a damned fine tune, Pilot,' said one of them, one night. 'Why don't they have tunes like that in the shows? Let's sing her again.' So we sang again, and next morning as they started out in the dark for their work they sang again:

"'Other refuge have I none,
Hangs my helpless soul on Thee,
Leave, oh leave me not alone,
Still preserve and [illegible] me.'

"And when I heard that song coming back through all the solemn whiteness of the woods I knew where my work was, and I made up my mind that some day I would give all my time to it.

"I urged the boys to come to church when they were in town, and one day three of them did—spiked boots, mackinaw coats and all. The town was used enough to lumber jacks and river pigs, but only on the streets and in the saloons.

"'Pilot,' they said, while I was shaking hands with them, 'we just wanted to see whether you would give us as good a welcome here as we give you in camp, but I guess you have.'

"They would never come to my house until one day after the drive thirty of them showed up all at once. It was a hard squeeze getting them in, but my wife and I made them welcome, and as they stood up to go one of them handed me a slip of paper. It was a draft for $52.

"'You didn't ask us for money, Pilot,' he said, 'but we wanted you to see we liked the way you have been standing by us.' And before I could thank them they had run out of the house whooping and yelling like a lot of boys.

"After I moved to Remidji I found I have to get after the saloons before I could do much more for the boys. I believe it was the worst town on the map. There were thirty six saloons, gaming hells and worse doing business in a town of fifty hundred persons. Finally I went round to see the keepers of the places.

"'Boys,' I said, 'I'm going to close up. Your business is bad and you know it, but I'll have you know I'm fighting your business and not you.'

"'All right, Higgins,' they said; 'go away.'

"I spoke in my own church, in meetings of all the churches, in town meetings and finally in the very streets themselves. At last the citizens got roused and they forced the Council to close the places.

"After it was all over I met John Strong on the street.

"'I'm going away, Higgins,' he said.

"'I warned you, Johnny,' I said.

"'You did, Higgins,' he said. 'I'm going East to run a hotel and I'm going to take Mamie Blake from Breen's place with me.'

"'You'll let me marry you, Johnny?'

"'Not now, Higgins. Some day, maybe. If she stands by me. I'm going to give her a square deal. She's too good for this.'

"Strong's got a big hotel now and Mamie's standing by him the way that kind of a woman will if the second man she loves has a spark of manhood in him. He can never make up to her for what the first one did.

"They are all his parishioners apparently, the saloon keepers, the gamblers, the queen of the town, as surely as the lumberjacks and the river pigs. Very simply he tells of going to the room of dead Mollie, as she had asked him to do, to blot out the White which had her "right name" written on the fly leaf, and sending it back to the mother with a letter that told nothing of Molly's life or the dose of blue vitriol that had ended it.

THE COOL CURING ROOM

From Farm and Dairy.

One factory in the Belleville district reports a saving each season of $500 or $600, through its cool curing room.

The total pounds of milk delivered at the Shearer factory, Peterboro Co., Ont., last season was 1,393,896; total pounds of cheese made, 125,858, milk required, per pound of cheese 11.07 pounds; value of milk a standard, $29.56; value to patrons after paying expenses, $25.05; the average price of cheese per pound was 10.05 cents. J. J. Hogan and A. Shearer, were the auditors.

A system of united export will be in operation among New Zealand dairymen this year in the handling of cheese. The Dairy Associations of both islands have formed schemes by which the produce of contributing factories will be forwarded to a selected firm on consignment, in place of the system of independent and fierce competition which has hitherto prevailed. Advocates of this scheme expect considerable improvement to result to factories from its adoption. Representatives of exporting firms, however, are making some effort to counteract their expected loss of trade, and are guaranteeing to factories 5⅝ d. a lb. for their cheese.

THE MAIN POINT

From Farm and Dairy.

Too little care and little or no thought is taken by the average creamery patron of the cream he produces and sends to the creamery. The main point to observe, if one would have good cream, is in the separator. Set it to skim a very rich cream. We take a cream testing about 40 per cent. Some say that is much too rich, but we know it from experience to be all right and if all creamery patrons would take cream of similar richness, it would be of great benefit to all and to the butter making industry. In a contest conducted by Mr. Lewis, of the Lindsay creamery, our cream took second prize. We were somewhat surprised at receiving a prize for we did not think we were taking any special pains with our cream.

Considering that we took no special care of the cream, it is apparent that the main reason for us having this good cream and winning this prize must be that we skim a rich cream. We believe in keeping all the skim milk at home and when we take a rich cream, so as to do this, we find that we can get along without ice during the summer to cool the cream. The cream is much easier to keep when rich in butter fat and when it contains a minimum amount of skim milk.

Our separator is cleaned each and every time after being used for separating milk; then by taking a thick cream we have no trouble at all in having it pass inspection as the best. Some patrons wash their separators only once a day,—some not that often! Is it much wonder that their cream becomes sour and is objected to by the creamery men?

SOME SUGGESTIONS

From Farm and Dairy.

Keep the water dishes open.

If you expect eggs be sure to feed meat in some form.

Corn is not so valuable a feed for laying hens as wheat.

The grit and shell boxes should be kept filled at this season.

In mating for breeding, be careful to have the male excel in points that are deficient in the females.

Clover not only promotes digestion but also largely assists in supplying the elements necessary for egg production.

Hang up a second quality cabbage in the poultry house just high enough so that the fowls can reach it by jumping then they will obtain exercise and green food at the same time.

A well balanced ration in a dry mash and fed in hoppers where the fowls can have free access to it will be found benficial to egg production, but always feed a small amount of grain in deep litter to promote exercise.

It is a good plan to always have some charcoal where the hens can get it, as there is nothing that can be fed to hens that has the effect which charcoal has in preventing disease. You can feed them charred corn once a week, which will take the place of charcoal. You can char it by putting the corn, ear and all, in the oven and leaving it there until it has burned black, after which the fowls will gladly pick it from the cob.

MUST FEED THE COWS WELL

From Farm and Dairy.

Hy. Glendinning, Victoria Co., Ont.

If we are to carry on winter dairying successfully, we must feed our cows well. Almost anyone can give advice as to what feeds to give in order to produce milk but the question which the dairyman asks is "what feeds can I give that will yield the milk and produce a profit at the same time." As in all other businesses farmers ought to look upon their farms as an investment and winter dairying is simply a matter of dollars and cents.

I do not know of any way of feeding dairy cows that will yield such large returns for so little outlay as by the use of corn ensilage and alfalfa hay combined with a few roots. Clover hay contains only 6.8 per cent. of digestible protein while alfalfa hay contains 11 per cent. Alfalfa will provide all of the food elements necessary, but we need succulence in the ration as well. This is provided by silage or roots. A combination of corn ensilage, alfalfa, and roots gives us the three elements which are necessary for a good ration. It has bulk, succulence, and the proper balance of the nutrients; in addition it is cheap.

TO CURE A HEADACHE
The experience of Mr. O. Barber, Simcoe, Ont., is of interest to all who suffer from headaches. He writes: "For a long time I was troubled with headaches which came on about once a week with such violence that I could not eat or do my work. Headache powders and quick cures did me no good. I then used six boxes of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food and have not been troubled with headache since. That was eight months ago."

MEET IN FEBRUARY

From Farm and Dairy.

The next meeting of the American Breeders' Association will be held at Columbus, Ohio, February 1, 2 and 3, 1911.

Despite the fact that most of the heavy work on the farm has been done for the season, the demand from farmers for help continues insistent. The Department of Colonization, Toronto, has 300 applications for laborers, and although a number of men are being sent out right along, new applications are coming in rapidly enough to keep the unfilled list large. Indications are that the demand for help in the spring will be even more acute than it was this year.

SHE WAS SURPRISED

When Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills Cured her Chronic Liver Complaint

Mrs. R. Smith, of Winnipeg, Man., tells an interesting story of relief from almost intolerable sufferings:

"I can hardly tell you how great my sufferings have been. Chronic liver complaint accompanied by biliousness were a daily source of trial to me. Every day I experienced the sickening effects of these ailments. I longed for some medicine that should permanently drive them away.

Hearing of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, I thought they were worthy of a trial. My surprise was indeed great. From the very first I experienced relief. Continuing with them I found my troubles were slowly but surely leaving me, and before long I once more knew what it was to be free from the harassing effects of the ailments that had long sickened and weakened me. So great is my faith in Dr. Morse's Indian Pills that I shall never on any account be without them."

CHOLERA AMONG TURKEYS

From Farm and Dairy.

What is good for cholera among turkeys?—N. A. B., Norfolk Co., Ont.

I presume your correspondent refers to the disease commonly known as "blackhead," which is proving so destructive to turkeys this year. There does not seem to be any cure for this disease when it once attacks the bird. The only method of dealing with the disease is to prevent its spread. The turkeys must be kept on new ground each year. The germ from the disase is found in the droppings and the ground becomes infested.

While talking last week with a large turkey raiser in N. S. he informed me that he had been very successful in curing blackhead in the turkey by giving them in the very early stages as a preventative, ordinary garlic. He grows quite a number of turkeys each year and contends that he cannot grow his turkeys without a bed of garlic. Probably onions would have the same effect, but as I have not tried either I do not know.—Prof. F. C. Elford, Macdonald College.

CEMENT IS BEST

From Farm and Dairy.

John I. Brown, Montreal, Que.

Cement is the best all round floor for a poultry house.

A roost supported on a pipe filled with insect powder is vermin proof.

In Canada last year, we ate 1,250,000 dozen eggs more than we produced.

An expensive hen house is the least desirable for laying hens. Such houses cost more and return less.

The cheapest way to handle poultry is generally the best; the best way is always the cheapest.

Do not give the hens an extra feed because it is a cold morning. If the morning is really very cold only give them one half of the grain which they generally get in the litter and the other half later in the forenoon. This will keep them busy all the morning and the exercise will keep them warm.

COMPETITION IN CHEESE

From Farm and Dairy.

John Humphries, Frontenac Co., Ont.

The following report has recently come under my notice: "We received from Canada this year 332,336 cwts. of cheese; from New Zealand, 380,772 cwts. The make in some parts of England has been so abundant that they were actually underselling Canadian." One is naturally interested in knowing how this strong competition came about.

It will be acknowledged by all conversant with the dairy industry in Canada that the factor that has opened the door widest to our competition and has done the most mischief in lowering the reputation of our cheese is the careless patron. To deal effectually with him seems to be the toughest problem in the industry. If cheesemakers would only take concerted action this problem, with many other so-called problems, could easily and effectually be overcome.

A REMEDY PROPOSED

The question up to every cheesemaker is "Will we still tolerate the careless patron? Must we still treat him as a necessary evil?" The remedy lies entirely in the hands of the maker. So long as the maker tolerates him just so long will he cast his baneful influence over the industry. An easy and simple way to overcome this difficulty is for the maker to specify certain conditions when he engages for the season and refuse to engage till these conditions are accepted.

In the case of a proprietary factory we are well aware that every inducement is held out by the proprietor to secure patronage. He will guarantee first class cheese and full board prices. He will even resort to bonusing one and all, clean and dirty.

MAKERS WITHOUT AUTHORITY

Why? Because he knows that some stranger will come along and take this responsibility from him, leaving the maker with no authority except to turn down milk if he can convince the patron that it is bad enough to turn down. Any man who accepts such conditions deserves all he gets, and more too. By so doing he gives the careless patron all the protection he wants and bars any chance of improvement in turn and consequently is debasing the industry.

This method of engaging makers is ruinous to the industry and degrading to a good maker. In the absence of any other system acceptable to both parties the maker should demand authority in proportion to his responsibilities. His power should extend beyond turning down real bad milk. He should have power to turn down or suspend any patron breaking the laws of the factory after having been warned.

REMEDY LIES WITH THE MAKER

By insisting on having this weapon in his hand he would soon stop the reckless competition of proprietors. He could improve the milk delivered by the careless patron more quickly than it would be possible to do by any other means. Good patrons would be with him to a man. He would be using his influence and authority not only in protecting himself but for the general good which is more important. Every bad cheese made means a blow to the dairy industry. The condition of the industry is such that it calls forth the best in us and every endeavor should be made to keep up its position. I see nothing better than a combination of makers either as a makers' union or association in order to further anything that will improve conditions to all classes.

The patron is a vital factor in that he produces the raw material. The position of the maker is equal to, if not more important, for upon him largely depends the quality of Canadian dairy products which are bringing into the Dominion many millions of dollars every year. It is high time makers were waking up. They have been asleep long enough.

Save $2 by Making This Cough Syrup at Home.

This recipe makes 16 ounces of better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. A few doses usually conquer the most obstinate cough — stops even whooping cough quickly. Simple as it is, no better remedy can be had at any price.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16 oz. bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. It has a pleasant taste and lasts a family a long time. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. Has a good tonic effect, braces up the appetite and is slightly laxative, too, which is helpful. A handy remedy for hoarseness, bronchitis, asthma and all throat and lung troubles.

The effect of pine on the membranes is well known. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norwegian white pine extract, and is rich in guiacol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe has attained great popularity throughout the United States and Canada. It has often been imitated, though never successfully.

APPLE IS THE MONEY-MAKER

From Farm and Dairy.

S. E. Todd, B.S.A., Lambton Co., Ont.

The apple is destined to be the greatest money maker of any of our fruits in the county of Lambton. The climate throughout the whole country is eminently suited to apples and the great bulk of the well drained soil will grow some of the many varieties of this fruit to perfection. Many people suppose that the north end of the county, because it can produce peaches to better advantage than other parts is destined to be more valuable. This is questionable. When we have learned to select varieties of apples, and grow, pick, pack and ship them with the same care as we do peaches we will find the apple to be fully as profitable as the peach.

The farmer, whose little orchard is neglected, profitless and sod-bound, the paradise of scab, codling moth, oyster shell bark louse, cigar case bearer and other enemies, where the trunks of the trees are used as rubbing posts for the horses and where the limbs are browsed by cattle, will smile derisively when I recommend the apple for a money maker.

ORCHARD VS. OTHER CROPS

If owners of neglected orchards were to consider that if they allowed their pastures and grain fields to be over-run with weed enemies, as they do their orchards with fungus and insect pests, they would soon have even less from their fields and herds than they now secure from their orchards, the attitude of such farmers towards their orchards would quickly change. The sooner we realise that the trouble with the apple industry, lies not in the climate, soil, marketing conditions or other causes beyond our control, but rather in our own unscientific and impractical treatment of the whole industry, including both growing and selling, the sooner will we be in a position to realise how great are the possibilities for the production of good apples in Lambton.

The hundreds of acres of one time profitable orchards in this county now barren year after year are standing rebukes to our system of farming. The fathers of our county planted well, the sons have failed to do their part to realise the fruition of the faith that prompted the setting of the plantations. It is time to change and the time is now.

TWO AVIATORS KILLED.

John B. Moisant and Arch. Hoxsey Victims of Aeroplanes.

New York, Jan. 3—John B. Moisant and Arch. Hoxsey, aviators extraordinary, were killed Saturday. Both fell out of the treacherous air currents with their machines—neither from a vast height—and Moisant's remaining minutes of life were so few as to count as naught. Hoxsey was killed instantly.

Moisant met his death at 9.55 a.m., attempting to alight in a field a few miles from New Orleans; Hoxsey, who went into the air early in the afternoon at Los Angeles, at 2.12 p.m., was crushed into a lifeless mass in view of thousands who were watching the aviation tournament.

Thus, the last day of 1910, in bringing the total number of deaths of aviators to 35, capped the list with two of the most illustrious of those airmen who have been writing the history of aviation in the sky of two continents.

Both men met death in almost the same manner. Each machine was headed for the earth, and suddenly seemed to stop, hover in the air, then turn over onto its nose and dive headlong to the earth and to destruction.

Moisant's aeroplane was a Blériot monoplane. In addition to the heavy engine in front of the main planes, he had fastened a tank holding 35 gallons of gasoline. Aviation experts believe a sudden puff of wind stopped his machine dead in the air and the heavy weight ahead dragged the light framework behind it, flipping the then useless rear elevator toward the zenith. From his position, partly back of the main planes Moisant was flipped out, clear of the machine, and struck the ground on his head, breaking his neck. He died on a flat car on which he was being rushed to New Orleans.

Hoxsey likewise was returning from a journey into the clouds. He was within 500 feet of the earth, and cheers were going up to meet the conqueror of the higher air, when his machine seemed to stop, shudder, and whirl over and over to the ground. As in the morning's tragedy, the rear elevator, rendered useless when the momentum was gone, flipped around helpless to aid the fated machine. Hoxsey vainly endeavored to right his craft by warping the main planes and by use of the rudder, but before sufficient momentum was gained the frail structure crumpled upon the earth, the heavy engine being torn loose.

New York, Jan. 3.—Three corporations and one individual defendant filed appearances yesterday in the U. S. Circuit Court, in reply to the Government's suit to dissolve the so-called Sugar Trust, under the Sherman law. Two-score other defendant individuals and corporations, including the American Sugar Refining Co., have been granted extensions until Feb. 6 next for filing answers.

Those filing yesterday were the Menominee River Sugar Co. of Michigan, capitalized at $825,000; the Union Sugar Co. of California, capitalized at $1,500,000, and the Alameda Sugar Co. of California, capitalized at $750,000. John L. Howard of San Francisco, president of both the Union and Alameda companies, filed his answer as an individual defendant.

Panama Commerce.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Commerce of the countries of North and South America and the necessity of their preparing for the opening of the Panama Canal will be discussed in their various phases at a Pan-American commercial conference to be held here during the week beginning Feb. 13 next, under the auspices of the Pan-American Union.

The purpose of the conference, as announced by John Barrett, director general of the union, is to awaken the commercia orgnizations, business men and general public of North and South America to an appreciation of the possibilities of Panama commerce, and the necessity of getting ready for the commercial changes which will be brought about by the opening of the Panama Canal.

Venus Inhabited, Says Scientist.

Montgomery, Mo., Jan. 3—In a letter to relatives T. T. J. See, astronomer in charge of the U. S. Naval Observatory at Mare Island, California, says the planet Venus probably is inhabited. He says: "Just as the earth never rotated very rapidly, and has not been appreciably retarded by the effects of tidal frictions, so also Venus has escaped a corresponding retardation of axial rotation, and still rotates in 23 hours, 21 minutes, as has been held by observers since the day of Cassini, 1667.

"The planet Venus, therefore, is habitable and probably is inhabited by some kind of intelligent being."

Denounced Divorce.

London, Jan. 3. Rev. Dr. Thomas Manning of Dundas Centre Methodist Church, in a sermon Sunday night denounced any legislation to secure greater freedom of divorce in Canada. "It is better for us to have the wild Indians breaking into our homes than to permit this evil to spread throughout the country, devastating our homes," said Dr. Manning. "I consider any legislation which makes it possible to secure a divorce in this country as nothing less than a national calamity."

Topeka, Kans., Jan. 3. The blizzard sweeping over Kansas gave passengers on Rock Island Railroad train No. 24 due here early, yesterday morning, an unusual experience. While running at full speed the top of a passenger coach was blown off, giving the passengers a chilly, but none was injured. The damaged coach was abandoned, and the train reached Topeka two hours late.

Earl Grey Reviews Boys.

Ottawa, Jan. 3.—The boy scouts of various parts of Ontario and Quebec took part in a field day south of the city yesterday afternoon. About 150 scouts took part representing Peterboro, Montreal, Galt, Arnprior. They were divided into two forces, one which formed a circle a mile in diameter, and the other force tried to pierce it unobserved, to carry despatches in. Secretary Todd of Toronto, was the chief umpire, and the scouts successful in getting through the line were: Scout W. V. Smart of Westmount, (chief despatch); Staniforth, Moffatt, Fryer and Rutherford of Galt; E. S. Almon of Westmount; C. Ketchum, D. Poaps, Ellis Butler and G. Fellows Ottawa.

After the contest, the boys had dinner in the open, and were later reviewed by Earl Grey, who regretted that he had not known of the field day sooner, as he would have been glad to entertain them at Rideau Hall in the afternoon. He spoke of the chivalry among the boys, as shown in respect for their elders, politeness for women, giving their seats to elders in the street cars, etc. He complimented the winners, and particularly referred to Peterboro, which had done so well in the dramatic competitions.

The annual New Year levee was held at the office of the Governor-General, Parliament Hill, and hundreds of citizens attended as well as members of the Government, judges, military, etc.

The Governor-General also called on the Governor-General's Body Guards at the officers' mess, where the usual receptions were held.

Epistle to Eastern Church.

Rome, Jan. 3.—The Osservatore Romano, the Vatican organ, yesterday published a papal epistle to all Oriental churches, which aims at neutralizing the effect which the article recently written by Prince Maximilian of Saxony may have produced, and explain which the prince a few days ago appeared before the Pope Cardinal Merry del Val.

The epistle says that, since the separation of the Roman and Oriental churches in the ninth century the Popes have always endeavored to heal the breach, harmful both to the east and west. It enumerates the six dogmas which, according to Prince Maximilian's article, should be waived to facilitate the return of the Oriental to the Roman Church, demonstrating that this was impossible, as dogma is truth, and truth cannot be waived.

Government House Reception.

Toronto, Jan. 3.—The New Year's reception at Government House was one of the most successful in recent years. His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Gibson received, assisted by Sir James Whitney and Hon. J. J. Foy. A large number of officers of the district staff were present, also the chief justice and judges of the high court, representatives of the clergy and many prominent citizens.

THE COUNCIL FOR 1911

W. H. BRADBURN.
JAMES BROWN.
JAS. GRAHAM.
HENRY MORGAN.

For One Year—

JOS. R. METHERAL.
JAS. EDGAR.

JOHN A. ANDERSON.

There will be some new faces at the Board of Peterborough Council when the inaugural meetings take place. Of last year's Council, it will be noticed that six have been retired, four for a two year term and it will be remembered, decided for the municipal year, namely, Messrs. Hicks, Turner, Gill-pie and —, and two who stood for re-election were defeated. The largest number of votes polled for one man was five hundred and that was for James Brown of the West Ward, who, although a new man, heads the list of successful candidates. The 1911 election will go down into history as one of the most exciting not as contests on a large scale, for the greatest possible interest was manifested. There being no Mayoralty contest, the interest was not as great as last year, and the fact that a number of the ratepayers were away on holiday the ratepayers were unable to get to the polls more conveniently, and there was not the usual excitement attending the working to the polls. Yesterday they had plenty of time to vote. The returns began to come in shortly after five o'clock, and from that on, they came very quickly, the results of the contests being known by half past six. A large vote was polled in favor of granting a franchise to Chas. E. Dittmen to bore for natural gas, but it is doubtful if the three-fifths majority will be attained for the Bonner Worth by-law.

In the election for the Board of Education, Mr. Vincent Eastwood who was seeking election for the first time headed the poll. The other members, Messrs. B. F. Aman Robert Fair and Dr. Morrison all re-elected. Mr. W. H. Hill returned as Water Commissioner by a substantial majority over his opponent, Mr. Wm. Langford.

The returns were awaited with keen interest at the newspaper offices, where they were bulletined promptly on their receipt and at the City Clerk's, a number of the aldermen being present to learn their fates, and in most cases meeting success. This was the first year of the Ward system, and it seems to have worked satisfactorily, it bringing out considerable new blood. The alderman heading the polling in each ward has been elected for a two-year term.

The Bonner-Worth by-law to permit the City to make a loan of $125,000 to Messrs. Bonner and Worth, in order to establish a factory here did not receive the necessary three-fifths vote, required to carry it. However, this is not altogether disappointing, as it was hardly expected that the necessary three-fifths would be secured. The City will now make application to the Legislature to have the proposition endorsed. The granting of a franchise to Charles E. Dittman, to bore for natural gas, received the hearty endorsation of the people and a good vote was polled in its favor.

As was the case last year, Mr. T. Q. Quarterman was the first to make any return to the City Clerk after the polls had been closed.

PERSONNEL OF THE COUNTY COUNCIL PRACTICALLY SAME

The Only Change is Caused by the Election of Reeve Killen in Ennismore, Defeating John Young---Only Three Elections Were Held in the County Municipalities Yesterday.

The personnel of the County Council for 1911 is practically unchanged. There were only three elections yesterday and in two of these the reeves were re-elected. The only change in the Council will be caused by the election of Samuel Killen, as reeve of Ennismore, defeating John Young, who held the office last year by a very narrow margin. The Council for 1911 will be as follows:

TWO DOUBLE HEADERS IN A REAR-END COLLISION

An accident occurred on the Belleville branch of the G.T.R., on Sunday evening about 7.30 when a double header and caboose pitched into another double header and caboose about four miles west of campbellford. No person was injured. It appears that three double headers attached to three cabooses, respectively, left Belleville, for this city on Sunday evening. An eccentric strap broke on the first engine of the leading train and a stop was made to make temporary repairs. Unfortunately the accident happened on a sharp curve and the second train was close rolling it caught up before the first train had proceeded, with the result that there was a rear-end collision. The caboose on the first train was smashed so badly that it was beyond repairs and was simply dumped into the ditch and buried. The first engine on the second double header also suffered serious injury, the pilot being smashed off and the smoke box was stove in. The engineers on the second train were Messrs. Wickett and Wood of Lindsay. The third train was flagged, thereby probably preventing a second accident. The Lindsay auxiliary was quickly despatched to the scene of the accident and had the track clear early yesterday. The whole affair was purely accidental.

The Golden Wedding Of Mr. And Mrs. Edward Thornton

On Monday Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thornton of Lakefield, celebrated the golden anniversary of their wedding. About 1.30, guests began to arrive to offer congratulations and say farewell, taking transport Mr. and Mrs. Thornton left by the afternoon train for Peterborough, where they were met by Rev. Mr. Snow, who performed the ceremony which united them fifty years ago. After a delightful repast, provided by Mrs. Thornton, the guests were entertained by a musical programme. Mr. Sydney Thornton, son of the happy couple, read an address, and Mr. Stanley Thornton, another son, made the presentation, which consisted of a handsome gold watch and chain to Mr. Thornton, and a gold brooch to Mrs. Thornton. Mr. Thornton replied in a few appropriate words, thanking the guests for their kindness in coming to help them celebrate their golden wedding. Mrs. Thornton, who was assisted by her daughters, Mrs. Fair of Peterborough, Mrs. Thornton and Mrs. Thornton, served a delicious supper. Mr. and Mrs. Thornton were presented with respectively, a Morris chair and a Morris rocker. There were besides many beautiful presents, given informally. The ring-bearer was their grandson, Master Hayes Thornton. The occasion was altogether an interesting and delightful one, and it is a question who left Mr. and Mrs. Thornton's friends prompted more pleasure in extending their congratulations and expressing good wishes, or the former in receiving such flattering evidences of respect and esteem.

THE COUNTY COUNCIL.

The County of Peterborough is more fortunate in its Council than the City of Peterborough, in one respect. Every member of the County Council of last year but one, has been returned this year, and that one new member, Mr. Kilbn, reeve of Emmsmore, is not a new member in the matter of experience. He was a member of the County Council in 1907 and 1908. So that the County Council is composed of seasoned and experienced members, many of them having years of service. The County Council has seventeen seasoned members to administer an annual revenue of less than $68,000, while the City of Peterborough has a council of eleven, of which four are new members, without municipal experience, to administer a tax roll of $210,000. This condition emphasises the defect of our municipal system, which contributes to changing councils, changing policies, changing modes of administration, the only lack of change being in the matter of generally undesirable results.

YESTERDAY'S VOTING.

The result of the polling in yesterday's elections was the return of ten members, two from each ward, who are to constitute the council to administer our affairs and to expend some $300,000 in taxes which we shall be called upon to pay, at the rate of 22 mills on the dollar on a fairly high assessment. The result calls for no comment, it speaks for itself. If the people are satisfied with the Council, that is all that can be expected. If the people are satisfied that the new Council will administer the affairs of the city in a capable, economical, businesslike and satisfactory manner, every purpose as far as representative conditions are concerned, is served. That is what we are looking for, and though one may not have realized this in the past, the electors have spoken and their verdict, for this year at least is final. The people will know at the end of the year, if not before, whether or not they have made a wise choice.

The voting for school trustees resulted in the election of three old members, the new member being Mr. Vincent Eastwood, who takes the place of Mr. Dumble, who retires after many years of faithful and devoted service in the interests of education.

The contest for Water Commissioner resulted in the reelection of Mr. Hall by a decisive majority. The electors evidently reasoned that Mr. Hall deserved another term in view of past services. The Water Commissioners have successfully administered their trust, and it seemed only fair that Mr. Hill, who, with his colleagues, had the responsibility arising from the construction of the new dam, should be allowed to complete the work and adjust the many important details, necessary to a complete winding up of the work. Mr. Hill, having had a large share in these matters and being familiar with them, it was doubtless felt that he was not only the better qualified to deal with them, but that it was fair to allow him to finish his work.

The Bonner-Worth by-law, to authorize assistance in the establishment of a promising new industry, was carried by a majority of some 300, numerically; but the vote in favour did not reach the impossible figure of three fifths required by the law. It is probable, however, that the Provincial Legislature, will, in view of the substantial majority, give effect to the evident desire of the people to promote the establishment of the new industry in Peterborough.

The by-law to extend a franchise of the street to the Dettman natural gas enterprise was passed by a majority of considerably over 1,000. This majority is effective, as in the case of this by-law, the three-fifths majority is not required.

A STATESMAN PROPHET.

A true statesman is necessarily a good deal of a prophet; he must have not only the faculty of comprehensive appraisement of things and events under his immediate regard, but he must also have the faculty of far-view, of co-ordinating his present impressions with the possibilities of the future. Sir John Macdonald showed this faculty when urging the construction of the Canadian Pacific railway. Through that was a condition of the admission of British Columbia, yet it required faith and courage to foresee the glorious end that has been achieved. Sir Wilfrid Laurier had far-reaching vision when he foretold that the twentieth century in the matter of achievement and progress belongs to Canada, a prophecy whose justification is abundantly evident in the marvellous growth and progress of even the first decade of the century.

But it fell to Hon. Joseph Howe, the father not only of responsible government for Nova Scotia, but at least a step-father, if not one of the fathers of, Confederation. He was quick to see what an important and indispensable element in progress in all directions transportation is, and he threw himself heart and soul into railway propagation at a time when railways were not, as they are now, a proven and necessary element of progress. He went to England in 1851 to secure the British government's guarantee of bonds to build provincial railways. Though he failed in the specific object of his journey, the principle was gained in the government consenting to guarantee bonds for an inter-provincial railway, the foreshadowing of the Intercolonial railway, which was not an accomplished fact till twenty years later. Howe at once, with the large patriotism that distinguished him, threw himself heartily into the advocacy of the Intercolonial. Speaking at Mason Hall, Halifax, on May 15th, 1851, after reference to the wonderful expanse and importance of Canada's resources, he used, in the course of his speech, the following striking words:

"With such a territory as this to overrun, organize and improve, think you that we shall stop even at the shores of the Pacific? Vancouver, with its vast coal measures, lies beyond. The beautiful islands of the Pacific and the growing commerce of the ocean are beyond. Populous China and the rich East are beyond, and the sails of our children's children will reflect as familiarly, the sunbeams of the south, as they now brave the angry tempests of the north. The Maritime provinces, which I now address, are but the Atlantic frontage upon this boundless and prolific region — the wharves upon which our business will be transacted, and beside which its rich argosies will lie. Nova Scotia is one of these. Will you put your hands, unitedly, with order, intelligence and energy to this great work? Refuse, and you are recreants to every principle which lies at the base of your country's prosperity and advancement, refuse, and the Derby's thunder-bolt upon land and sea is to you unintelligible language, Russia and Nova Scotia instead of occupying the fore ground as the nine days should have it, are thrown back, at least to build, in Rocky mountains. God has planted your country in front of the boundless region — see that you discharge with energy and elevation of soul the duties that thereby devolve upon you in virtue of your position. Heaven, my countrymen, is conferring with this subject in a benevolent spirit and whatever other think or apprehend, I know that you will persevere in that spirit until our objects are obtained. I am neither a prophet nor the son of a prophet, yet I venture to predict that within five years we shall make the journey home to Quebec and Montreal and home through Portland and St. John's, and And I believe that MANY IN THIS ROOM WILL LIVE TO HEAR THE WHISTLE OF THE STEAM ENGINE IN THE PASSES OF THE ROCKY MOUNTAINS AND TO MAKE THE JOURNEY FROM HALIFAX TO THE PACIFIC IN FIVE OR SIX DAYS."

Here we have a prophecy, made sixty years ago, literally fulfilled in its main essentials. Men are now living in Halifax who heard that speech and see its fulfilment—see travellers swept across the continent from ocean to ocean in the space of time between two Sundays, see beyond our western coast, lines of palatial steamers, ploughing the Pacific, exchanging the products of the opulent east and the growing west. In 1871 when British Columbia entered the Canadian federation, on condition of the building of a transcontinental railway, it required faith to undertake, or even envisage, such a project by a united Canada which in the intervening twenty years had grown enormously in population and resources. What then shall we think of the piercing mental vision and magnificent faith of Joseph Howe, who before Confederation was seriously conceived or a transcontinental railway dreamed of, could, in 1851, make the prediction that men within the sound of his voice would live to hear the whistle of the locomotive in the passes of the Rocky Mountains; and even see the continent spanned by three great railway lines, with all the tremendous concurrent developments, and see Nova Scotia the living fulfilment and reality of the inspired dream of its greatest son, and one of Canada's greatest statesmen—see its magnificent steel works furnishing the raw material of Canadian development; with the vessels of a Canadian navy—the expression of Canada's partnership in the imperial family—docked in its harbours, and with transatlantic steamers, swift, staunch and stately as familiar on its shores as fishing smacks.

Shall not we of this age, who have seen, and are living in the fulfilment of Howe's splendid prevision, magnificently amplified, take new courage, new spirit and new energy for the accomplishment of the destiny upon which Canada has only fairly entered. The spirit of Howe's great speech uttered three score years ago, should be a stimulating inspiration at the beginning of a new year, of another stage in the campaign of conquest of a grand and glorious Canadian nationhood.

CANADA'S MATERIAL PROSPERITY IN NINETEEN-HUNDRED-AND-TEN

It has been a good year, free from economic or political disturbances, serious conflicts between capital and labour or any untoward occurence. Productive forces have had a year free from interruption and have placed a vast amount of wealth to the credit of the dominion as a whole. Agriculture is still the industry of Canada, and upon it the economic structure of the nation rests, and, with the customary variations of a local character, the produce from the field has been fully up to standard in quantity as well as value. As a result trade has expanded. Manufacturers have been kept busy meeting domestic demands and at the same time the amount of goods imported has steadily increased. The increase in the amount of duty paid in the west is greater in proportion to the increase in the value of goods purchased from abroad which would indicate that commodities are being imported that carry a higher rate of duty.

In other industries there has been a marked expansion most notably in the case of mining. Cobalt has established a world-wide reputation for Canada as a mineral producing country and this year greater attention has been drawn to the Dominion's wealth in this respect by the developments in British Columbia and in the Porcupine district of Ontario.

In all lines, whether of the forest, the field, or the mine there has been steady growth which in the case of the Dominion during the past few years is an excellent record. Aggregate values of the products of each of these sources of wealth will be fully equal to those of 1909 if not materially greater. The grain crop of the west was below what may now be taken as a normal crop but the older provinces of the Dominion had better than an average year in this respect.

Canada, especially in its forests, mines, and the large agricultural areas of the west, at the end of the year is in the position of having materially added to her powers of wealth production. Two railroad systems are rapidly closing up the links which will complete their lines across the continent and the third has completed double tracks from the great wheat producing area of Manitoba to the head of the lakes. In the agricultural districts there have been added implements that economize in production and overcome to a marked degree the difficulty of getting agricultural labour. In mining systematic exploration is becoming a reality, and as the greater wealth is being disclosed better organization in its exploitations is being affected. On the east and the western ocean shores the fishing industries continue to be productive of greater wealth and upon the forests a greater demand than ever is being made. Obviously the past year has strengthened the claim made on behalf of Canada that the twentieth century will be characterized in history by her development. In many respects the west has moved forward at a much faster pace than has the east of Canada. Its cities have in all directions expanded materially, and the prosperity of the agricultural districts as a whole with their increase of population and their increase of wealth, furnishes the best market which so many eastern industries possess. While recording a greater measure of progress the west may be said to be the cause of the satisfactory advance being made in the industrial centres of the east. With so large a contribution to the progress and wealth of the Dominion as a whole to its credit the west is but on the threshhold of its potentiality in this respect. The past year has been one of maturing projects—agricultural, mining, and social—all of which are indicative of still greater results to be recorded as the years are counted.

Card of Thanks

Ladies and Gentlemen:—

I desire to thank the thousand and odd ratepayers who voted for me for Water Commissioner.

The substantial vote I received should show that the people were not satisfied with things as they are and I am sure, had full information been forthcoming, that public disapproval would have been so pronounced that it would have shown itself in my return as a protest against what we know exists.

My efforts have certainly not been in vain if the Commissioners have been shown that they are the servants of the people and not a close corporation.

Thanking you one and all and with the compliments of the season,
Respectfully,
William Langford

JUNIORS START THEIR SEASON WITH A SPLENDID VICTORY AWAY FROM HOME

INTERMEDIATES LOSE TO ARGONAUTS

Colts Won Their First O. H. A. Game by Walloping Cobourg 5 to 3 After an Up-hill Fight—Intermediates Lost a Loosely Played Game at Home.

GOOD CROWD ON HAND

Peterborough's husky juniors got away to a good start in this district of the Junior O. H. A. by invading Cobourg last night and defeating the Lakeshore youngsters on their own ice by 5 goals to 3, after an uphill fight. The Colts had to show their mettle and come from behind to win out, but they were equal to the task and finished on the bit. The half-time figure was 3 to 2 in favour of Cobourg, who started out like whirlwinds and scored the first two goals of the game. With the score 2 to 0 against them the Petes rallied and came back at the Corkfown aggregation with a rush that took them off their feet. The score was soon at evens with two each, and, although Cobourg drew in front with a single goal lead, before the breathing spell it was only a flash in the pan, as the Peterborough youngsters outplayed them through the whole second period, scoring three goals, while Cobourg failed to count at all. The last period of the half they gave up all hope of getting in close and contented themselves with jogging away with shot- from either ice. Peterborough got [illegible] to carrying the rubber right to the mouth of the nets and jabbing it in sight. At that they lost many chances to score when close in on account of losing the rubber in the mix. The ice was very heavy and sick and rendered combination very difficult, if not impossible, at times. The rink was crowded to the limit, but the rooting did not have any effect upon the Petes, who went to it work as if they had their backs against the wall. All the blue and white sweaters played strong hockey. Hefferman, perhaps, being especially prominent. The soft ice did not bother him in the least, and he was very hard to stop when he got going. Jack Patterson played a fine game on the left wing between the posts.

Cobourg [illegible] was a fast team of combination, and the Petes a good team to beat.

Goal—Patterson.
Point—Reynolds.
Cover—Hefferman.
Rover—Cowlin.
Centre—Hall.

INTERMEDIATES LOST

Peterborough's intermediates O. H. A. team opened their season here with an exhibition game with the senior O H A [illegible] and the Argonauts of Toronto and [illegible] a ragged exhibition of hockey, 10 goals to 4. The half time figures 4 to 2 in favour of the Orangemen who were right at home in these. The conditions were anything but favorable for good hockey. Ridden thaw had played havoc with the ice, the surface being coated with a deep top-dressing of slush that made it impossible to carry the puck, and the Peterborough team got so. The gypsum rolled and [illegible] all over the rink, and under circumstances combination was the question. The Argonauts [illegible] the homesters considerably proved far better mudders. Turned the rubber through by [illegible] strength, while the light Peterough forwards continually skated it just as they were breaking [illegible], and the team play that [illegible] have been a feature of their [illegible] was, under the circumstances, impossibility. Time after time [illegible] were getting away two and three [illegible] only to have some one skate [illegible] rubber. On the other hand [illegible] forwards, more particularly the [illegible] men, seemed to be able [illegible] through the slush without [illegible] possession, and their methods [illegible] got them goals where Peterough's attempts at combination [illegible] in a tooze.

[illegible] far from being a good game [illegible] Both teams worked hard, [illegible] fouls as the battle went [illegible] the puck was very slow and [illegible] periods. A big crowd was [illegible], and while disappointed at [illegible] result, quickly recognized the [illegible] Peterborough team [illegible] and took hope for [illegible] the flashes of combination [illegible] in the manner in [illegible] got away together. A [illegible] weeks of practice on [illegible] new combination [illegible] Peterborough [illegible] and the team [illegible] the [illegible] Rayner [illegible] Hall [illegible] Hefferman [illegible] Marlbrow [illegible] Sayer [illegible] Patterson [illegible] travel at top speed for the hour to head them off. The team is fast, heavy, and well-balanced, and every one of the seven works his head off for victory, so that the team is a hard proposition and will steadily improve. Keep your eye on these youngsters fro mnow on. They came on from behind at Cobourg and walked away from the homesters when the latter had set up a two-goal lead and imagined they had the game won. Lindsay, so reports from Seugogville say, have a very speedy junior aggregation. Of course there is a Cote on the line-up and it is said this particular member of the clan is faster than his two older brothers, Frank and Leo. The Peterborough juniors practise to-night in preparation for the game.

SHOOTING

Shooting matches at Yeates Bros' gallery last week attracted the usual amount of interest as well as the usual large turn-out of marksmen. The professional prize was won by H. Soames, who captured the shoot-off of a three-cornered tie with N. Perry and C. A. Smith. Wm. McGill captured the amateur prize. He was tied with D. Dinnie, at 57, and in the shoot-off outscored his opponent. Yeates Bros. have arranged new rules of competition, starting with Jan. 1. Different prizes will be given away each Saturday night and the scores will be kept until March 1st when medals will be given the two men with the highest averages in each of the two classes, professional and amateur. With new rules, new guns, and new prizes, the gallery should be even more successful than it has been in the past.

The shooting match at the Peterborough Bowling Alleys yesterday was interesting and some good scores were made. Calir Guttersons won the box of cigars, winning the shoot-off from a tie with C. Pearson. The scores were as follows:

M. Drysdale	23
N. Perry	24
C. Smith	20
A. Wringes	21
R. Perry	22
R. Elliott	25
W. Smith	20
C. Gutterson	26
G. East	17
C. Pearson	26

In the bowling contest G. Sanders won the turkey and C. Dawson, won the goose.

SOME HOCKEY HAPPENINGS

The Juniors are off to a flying start, their win away from home giving them the edge on the other teams in the district.

It may sound like a fairy tale, but last night's victory of the Juniors at Cobourg was the first time a Peterborough junior O. H. A. team has won a game away from home since Peterborough won the Junior O. H. A. championship from Stratford in 1907 and by the same token they have not won very many at home in that period either.

The Peterborough Juniors who played at Cobourg last night [illegible] were playing O. H. A. for the first time. Patterson and Coughlin [illegible] played with Trenton Senior [illegible] Melton, Matthews with the Peterborough Collegiate juniors and Hall and Hefferman with the Peterborough team.

Peterborough and aforesaid [illegible] Lindsay team will be here on Friday for a game with the Peterborough Juniors. The old rivalry still exists and will undoubtedly be [illegible]

WANT TO BUILD ROAD.

Mackenzie and Mann Confer With Hon. Mr. Graham.

Ottawa, Jan. 3.—Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mann had a conference with Hon. George P. Graham, Minister of Railways yesterday, and as a result Mr. Graham will submit to Parliament, it is understood, a proposal that the Canadian Northern Railway undertake the construction of the Hudson Bay Railway. It is expected that this will provoke a storm of disapproval from the west, whose farmers desire construction by the Government, ownership by the Government, and operation by the Government.

Sir William Mackenzie was the recipient of a large number of congratulatory messages from all over the country. He dined last evening with Admiral Kingsmill, and telegrams kept coming in while he was at the table.

"Of course I am pleased," he remarked when questioned as to how the knighthood affected him. "Nobody was more surprised than I was. I do not look upon it so much as an honor to myself, as a recognition of the work the railways are doing in Canada."

Sir Donald Mann, the other Canadian Northern Railway magnate, is also in the city. He also expressed surprise at the royal favor, but his remarks betokened extreme pleasure. The telegraph messengers were also kept busy in his case, and, as Sir Donald remarked, it won't be easy to reply to all the kind congratulations in a hurry.

Sir Allan Aylesworth is always reserved when it is a matter of mention of himself. Last night he would not say much, but it was very evident that the token of the regard of the King for his services to the state is much appreciated by the Minister of Justice.

"I am gratified," he remarked. "Any man would be."

In the Outside Service.

Ottawa, Jan. 3. The Secretary of State will at the present session of Parliament introduce a bill placing all employes of the Printing Bureau in the outside service, on the same footing as letter carriers.

Superintendent Boardman, the chief foreman, Draper, Superintendent of Bindery Allen, and Loose Leaf Ledger Expert McCarthy of the Government Printing Bureau left last night for a three weeks' tour of the big American cities, to inspect all the largest printing establishments. The object of Hon. Charles Murphy, who has despatched the officials on the trip, is to secure pointers to put in effect the improvements recommended by the commission, which recently investigated and reported upon condition at the Bureau. The party goes direct from Ottawa to Washington, where the U. S. Government Printing Bureau will be inspected.

Turned on the Power.

Dundas, Jan. 3—Hydro-electric power was turned on for the first time in Dundas last evening, temporary connection having been made with the main interswitching station, which is situated just outside the town limits. The first place to be lighted is the Collins' Curling Rink, one of the proprietors of which is Charles Collins, the well-known baseball player and curler, who is chairman of the civic lighting committee.

The new transformers are being installed to-day, and Dundas users will have light and power here in a few days. The main station being at Dundas, there will be no cost of transmission.

Died at 102.

Winnipeg, Jan. 3—Mrs. James Settee, widow of the late Rev. James Settee, an Anglican minister, died at Lac du Bonnet, where the Winnipeg City power plant is under construction, on Friday last. Her age is given as 102.

Governor Dix Sworn In.

Albany, N.Y., Jan. 3.—John Alden Dix a Democrat, was formally inaugurated governor of New York State at noon yesterday. He succeeds Governor Horace White, who became chief executive last October when Governor C. E. Hughes resigned to become an associate justice of the U. S. Supreme Court.

Town Recaptured.

Chihuahua, Jan. 3.—An official report last night states that the town of Batopilas, recently occupied by the revolutionists, was taken by 500 federals yesterday afternoon without casualties. The insurrection force was small and most of them, it is stated, were taken prisoners.

The report telegraphed a week ago that the insurrectors as a retaliatory measure recently executed ten prisoners, is confirmed by Americans arriving here. Volunteers from Casas Grandes, it is officially reported, have met and defeated the insurgent band under the leadership of a chief named Guerrero.

No Consistory Soon.

Rome, Jan. 3.—The Pope has accepted the resignation of Mgr. Branito di Belmonte Pignatelli as papal nuncio at Vienna. From this the inference is drawn that the holding of a consistory cannot be near, as otherwise the nuncio, who is one of those scheduled to be created a cardinal, would not have resigned. The conferment of the red hat would have meant his withdrawal from Vienna.

Lemon Rind.

When using lemons it will be found a good plan to scrub thoroughly and grate off the yellow rind. This, mixed with an equal quantity of sugar and kept in an air tight box, will be delicious for flavoring custards, cakes and everything where lemon extract is used and is much more delicate in flavor.

Banana Cocoa.

In Switzerland there is a factory which turns out a "cocoa" preparation made from bananas. It is said that it is highly nutritious and has a fine flavor.

Market Days in Portugal.

Wednesdays and Sundays are market days in Portugal. The natives travel hundreds of miles on mules to dispose of their goods. These consist chiefly of goats' milk, cheese, bread, live chickens and fruit. Shiploads of the small cheeses are exported annually to their countrymen in Brazil.

Mexico's Interior.

Mexico's interior is a high tableland upon which are located nearly all the populous cities, and the climate is so cool that the Mexicans have not yet acquired the habit of drinking cold water.

Curly Hair.

Largest Monolith.

The tallest monument is the Washington obelisk, 555 feet high, but the largest monolith is in Karak, Egypt, being 108 feet high. The highest chimney, measuring 506 feet, is in Great Falls, Mont.

The Octopus.

Like its beautiful brother the argonaut, the octopus defies its enemies by ejecting ink, but the octopus is so subtle and clever that he can vary the color of his ink according to the color of the ground he is passing over, and as he is very active and darts about at lightning speed he constantly escapes being caught.

EARLY DAYS IN CANADA

Mr. Thos. Cuffe, of Lindsay, Tells Some Interesting Happenings of Pioneer Life

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

(Lindsay Post)

On Monday, Dec 26th, Mr. Thos. Cuff, one of our oldest and most highly respected citizens will celebrate his eighty-fifth birthday, and his many friends will join with The Post in extending congratulations.

Mr. Cuff is a gentleman who is frequently seen on the streets of the town, and is as active to-day as many a man thirty years his junior. He always has a warm Celtic greeting for his friends and is a typical son of Erin in the manner of his salutations and in his witty sallies.

The other day a Post reporter met Mr. Cuff on the street, and that gentleman, by recounting incidents of his early days, remarked "That many a dog has died since that was only a pup then."

In a recent interview Mr. Cuff gave the following sketch of his life:

"I was born in County Cavan, Ireland, and sailed from Belfast, in 1831 with my father. My wife is also Irish and came from County Wicklow. My father was an old British soldier and had fought for his king, constitution, and country in the four corners of the globe. The bloodiest battle he ever saw was with Lord Nelson when he crossed the Arabian deserts to fight Napoleon on the Nile. In 1812 my father was among those who fought at when England and the United States were at war. This was his last battle.

When we first came to Canada we settled in Emily, a mile South of Downeyville, Port Hope and Cobourg were the nearest places where we could get anything, and we had to tramp through a blaze in the bush to get there. It would not have been half so bad if there had been a trail but there was not. It was simply a "blaze" in the bush. The old "Woodman," was the first boat to ply down the river. It was manned by Mr. Crandell, who received the honorary title of "Captain," and two men, who used two oars each, and sailed from Port Perry to Lindsay. Where the locks are now were then rapids. When we came to Peterborough in 1831 there was one log house on the Otonabee river. It was the Government House. There were a few shanties. They used to bring emigrants from Quebec by steamer to Cobourg, and then walked to Rice Lake through the bush and then from Gore's Landing they sailed to Peterborough. As far as Lindsay is concerned, I remember when Lindsay now, was called Purdie's Mill, because Mr. Purdie was the oldest settler, and had built a mill here; and I remember when Kent street was such a thick, dismal swamp, it was impassable. As for Omemee it was called Cottingham's Village. Mr. Cottingham had built a little mill there a year after we came out to Emily in 1832.

When I was 12 years old I left my father and moved to Ops, where I worked for a man, who, during the Rebellion of '37 was an out and out rebel. I had to drive a team twice a week to Port Hope and leave some things that had to be put in a waggon by my employer with his father-in-law in Port Hope. These, I learned later, were ammunition, etc., for the rebels. I remember one time getting up, as I always had to, first in the morning, to get wood, and found two men in the yard with their horses tied to the waggon wheels. They asked me if my master was in, and I told them he was, and called them to the door. He took the two men in and opened a keg of cherry whiskey. I don't know what else transpired, but those two men, who were spies, went back quite satisfied that there was nothing rebellious about my master, while all the time there was a dozen glittering swords uncovered on the waggon to which they had tied their horses.

In 1838 peace was proclaimed, the same year Queen Victoria was crowned. Thomas referred to his talks with men about town to-day, and he spoke with settled conviction on the superiority of the early settlers to the present Lindsayites. Of course we can all forgive him for his little bit of pride, and unanimously wish Mr. Cuff, his wife and family continued health and happiness.

"About the year 1832," said Mr. Cuff, "the residents of the Scotch Line in Verulam and on the opposite shore of Sturgeon Lake had to journey to the Cottingham mill, where Omemee now stands, with the grist on their backs. My father rested near Downeyville and his cabin was a sort of half way house. When the settlers were returning from the mill they would make a scone and draw a cup of tea. After getting rested they would start on their journey home. As it would be late in the evening they usually took pieces of cedar bark of which my father always kept a supply, and they would light them and use this as a torch in order to find their way as well as to keep wolves off. By keeping the torch in motion the flame would last for a long period.

There is a man residing in Emily named Cornelius Flynn, who was three years older than myself, and he could narrate many interesting stories of pioneer days in these regions. "And," said Mr. Cuff in concluding, "he is Irish, and the devil himself can't beat the Irish."

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

SPEAKING of women's rights I have a brand new grievance.

Another department in which men undoubtedly have a very unfair advantage of us.

And that is in the matter of pockets.

Once upon a time I did a "lost articles" story, which consisted in interviewing the clerks at some half dozen "lost articles" departments as to which sex they thought lost the most articles, and why.

The unanimous answer to the first question was that women were the biggest losers. (In a different sense from that in which it was meant, I agreed.)

In answer to the "why" the various hypothesis that women were more feather-headed, that they had too many things on their minds, that they tried to carry too many bundles, and that they didn't know what they were doing half the time anyway, were advanced.

And no one suggested that it might be because men are provided with pocket space that probably aggregates to the space in a good sized grip, while women have none or at most only one or two diminutive affairs which they seldom use for fear of spoiling the hang of the coat. (I used to know a little girl whose mother promptly sewed up the pockets of any new garment for fear she might be tempted to do such an unnatural thing as put something in them.)

Do you know just how very many pockets a man really has?

I doubt if you do, even if you are a man.

I had no idea until the burning need of this crusade occurred to me. Then I asked the masculine man who occasionally condescends to read these articles, and he couldn't tell me off hand. So we took the count together. And what do you think we found? He had fifteen pockets without his overcoat, and four more in that.

In one way I should think this plentitude of pockets would be rather a nuisance, and that is, in remembering in just what pocket you had put any particular thing.

But in all other ways this is undoubtedly a vast injustice to our sex.

Here's a suggestion.

Why can't some woman's club that hasn't quite enough committees to go around among all its members, appoint a new committee to call the public attention to this injustice?

Get a dressmaker or tailor to design a feminine costume with fifteen no, let's have sixteen—pockets, and lead the crusade with a banner adorned by a pretty girl in this dress.

"But I don't believe any woman would wear such a queer thing" protests Mrs. Literalmind.

Well, come to think about it, there IS that about it

NEWLY ELECTED EAST WARD ALDERMAN IS BEREAVED

Mrs. John Anderson, an Old and Well Known Resident of Peterborough, Passed Away Last Night After a Short Illness.

WAS 72 YEARS OF AGE

A few hours after the election of her son as alderman for the East Ward was announced, Mrs. John Anderson, a well known and most highly respected resident of Peterborough passed away at 11 o'clock last night at her residence, 522 Rogers street, East City, after a short illness from paralysis. The deceased whose maiden name was Martha Fleming, was a daughter of William Fleming, a pioneer resident of Smith township, who died some 40 years ago. She was seventy-two years of age, and had lived in Peterborough for about fifty years. Her many good qualities, her willingness to assist wherever her help was needed, earned her the sincere esteem and respect of everyone with whom she came into contact, and a very large number of friends will learn with regret of her death. She was almost a life-long member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church.

Her husband predeceased her some three years ago. She is survived by a family of three sons and two daughters. They are Mrs. Decker, of Oxbow, Sask., Mrs. Davidson, of Alameda, Sask., Mrs. W. G. Robertson, Peterborough and Miss Susie and Miss Lucy Anderson residing at home, Ald. John C. Anderson, of Peterborough, Chas., of Toronto and Bruce of Maple Creek.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday afternoon, at 2.30 o'clock to Little Lake cemetery.

Good Fellowship League Discusses "More Loafers" At Sunday Meeting

The meeting of men at the Princess Theatre under the auspices of the League of Goodfellowship was held as usual on Sunday afternoon.

The Rev. C Carpenter continued his former address on "Loafers" under the title of "More Loafers." He mentioned that he had already dealt with eight classes of loafers, but he had some more on hand. A loafer was a man who was not making the best of his opportunities. First, he would deal with the self-confessed loafer, who stands in his own way. There are many men who ought to be making a mark in the world but something prevents. It may possibly be drink or it may be the drug habit, but assuredly there is something holding everyone of us back, and making self-confessed loafers of us. Each man knows his own difficulty. The same thing has held him back it may be for twenty years. It depends upon every man to throw it off, and if he will not use every endeavour to get rid of a detrimental habit he is nothing short of a fool.

The second is the "Micawber" loafer. Dickens by his caricature of "Micawber" has shown the folly of the man who sits down, waiting for something to turn up. This is what many "Micawbers" are doing to-day instead of going out in search of opportunities. Opportunities are wonderfully cramped in Peterborough just now by shortness of work, but in spite of all this there are opportunities which we neglect that should be seized. "Leave off looking for something to turn up from without, and look for opportunities of getting something done within yourself."

Third on the list is the "Civic loafer." The citizen who was born tired. He does not care for his city, he does not care for the State. He cannot be bothered, it is not his business. He forfeits his privileges by sheer carelessness. Anything in the state or the city that militates against Christ and his teaching should stir our blood and make us determined to fight it down. The Civic loafer is a traitor to his city and if the "scatter" gets into [illegible] is the Civic [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Bal Poudre In Aid Of Labrador Mission Was A Great Success

The sixth annual "At Home" in aid of the Labrador Medical Mission was held last evening in the Conservatory of Music Hall and was acclaimed the biggest success yet. There were nearly three hundred people present and a substantial sum for this worthy object will be the result. The hall was tastefully decorated and this, combined with the pretty gowns of the ladies, made quite an attractive scene. The "At Home" took the form of a "Bal Poudre". The music for the occasion was supplied by Charles Bodley and an orchestra of four pieces and every number was thoroughly enjoyed. At midnight a dainty supper was served, after which the dancing was continued. A large party from Bobcaygeon and also one from Millbrook attended, as well as a large number of visitors who were in the city for the holiday. The members of the reception committee were Mesdames Peter Campbell, J. H. Eastwood, J. E. L. Goodwill, R. R. Hall, J. T. I. Halliday, James Hamilton, L. M. Hayes, J. R. Stratton, W. R. Travers, Mr. G. E. Clark was honorary Secretary, and to him much of the credit for the success of the affair is due. The stewards were Messrs. P. L. Allison, C. Rose Cameron, W. H. Cluxton, W. S. REV. MR. ROLLINS' SPLENDID SERMON AT ST. ANDREW'S

New Pastor Makes Most Favourable Impression in His First Sermon of the New Year on Sunday.

AN ELOQUENT PREACHER

Rev. Mr. Rollins, the new pastor of St. Andrew's Church, preached to a large congregation in that church last Sunday morning. He chose his text from the 27th Psalm and the 14th verse: "Wait on the Lord: be of good courage, and He shall strengthen thine heart: wait I say, on the Lord."

Mr. Rollins preached a very eloquent sermon from this text bringing out some interesting points and also giving some very weighty and instructive advice.

The more important points are as follows: "As this is the first sermon of the New Year, I will speak to you upon some of the virtues. Courage is universally recognized as being a good trait of character. If we cannot meet the dangers, and fight the battles of life, we are not only ashamed but inwardly abashed. It takes no small amount of courage to quell cowardice, cowardice, even in one's own soul. Courage is a light in one's own soul, and even in the lowest form, even in animals we have based a kind of aristocracy. A man who will send his comrade into dangers he would not face himself is contemptible. But the man who stands up and plays his part and fights her battles is a man a man not merely to admire but a man to love. The literature of courage is read with interest and deeds of courage are written in letters of gold. It is not more serviceable than honorable. There is room and need for it everywhere. It is simply daring to be true, in the things of life. It is necessary for the protection and defence of virtue. It is what keeps a man's soul free from sin and shame. Without it we can scarcely be truthful, generous, kind or anything like that, in a world like this. We must have courage to go and be better men and women in all the work of life. Courage is also a comfortable virtue, a comfort to the soul that possesses it inward courage and peace of heart. There is no courage or peace for you or me apart from strength to meet the day's toils and burdens and temptations. So long as we have strength to meet the day's temptation in life, it is a comfort. Courage emancipates us from all bad things. We should not tremble because of the shadows or of the foes around us, nor stand in despair, if only we keep ourselves from reproach, go steadily forward and do the right, that is the secret of peace that requires courage. There is a difference between courage and recklessness, however. A reckless man, is reckless because he is ignorant of the grave danger of the thing. A man of courage, faces danger because he feels it, sees it, understands it, and, has a reason for facing it. A man who faces danger to save a little child, for instance is a brave man. To slide easily downward to sin and death, as many do, what is that? Only a man who would say that there is no God and no responsibility in human life. But, to face the danger and to live our lives under responsibility to God and to man, requires courage. The more keenly we feel these things, the more opportunities there are for us to be better."

"Some people enjoy nothing more than ridicule and such like, and like to see their names in the paper, where they are the subject of criticism, but the people who are the subject of the ridicule and withstand it without replying, they are brave. But what is it that strengthens the heart and makes it bright, a steady regard to great moral courage and ideals. All these things will help us a great deal in bravery because a life presents its opportunities of being brave.

There is something in my text which includes these things. "Wait on the Lord," that is a true and great source of courage. That is that he has made us for himself, he never intended us to be mean and cruel. He intended us to love him and devote ourselves to praising his holy word. He will not leave us nor forsake us. That's the basis of courage, it is better for a man than to have a newspaper or a dozen newspapers behind him.

As the collection of the electric currents are cut off in the lights, so is the soul cut offm fro God by wrong doing. If we have the strength of God, it will be a pleasure and a blessing to us every day. You may have perplexities in your business but you must be brave and if you are brave in Christ, you will win out. You women, restrain yourselves from scandal, for if you don't you will harden the hat of our Saviour, which will always be your reproach. You boys, you girls, when you are correcting mistakes in spelling at school, be honest. You must be brave to do it, but do it. If you have the right kind of courage, you will benefit by this early struggle of your youth. We all have the same troubles in life, but there is real strength of art and when we find it, you will have something. Do you think that we have the kind of courage that strengthens the heart?

We should not be ashamed of Jesus Christ or his mercy. We should bear the disappointments and burdens of life, if we have this courage, do you think that courage will fail us in the end? In death? We do not know how soon we may need that courage, but when the hour comes, if we have been brave enough to live right in the world we will be brave enough to die, and without fear we may meet our Saviour.

KIDNEYS ACT FINE AFTER A FEW DOSES

Most Severe Backache, Bladder and Urinary Misery Vanishes

The real treachery and danger in kidney trouble is because the first symptoms are always seen in other parts of the body before anything wrong is noticed with the kidneys themselves.

The moment you suspect any kidney, bladder or urinary disorder, or feel a dull, constant backache or the urine is thick, cloudy or offensive or full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a scalding sensation, begin taking Pape's Diuretic as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, at any price, made anywhere else in the world, which is so harmless or will effect so thorough and prompt a cure.

Put an end to kidney trouble while it is only a trouble—before it develops into Dropsy, Gravel, Diabetes or Bright's Disease.

Pape's Diuretic acts directly upon the kidneys, buadder and urinary system; cleanses, heals and regulates these organs, ducts and glands and completes the cure within a few days.

Pains in the back, sides or loins, rheumatic twinges, debilitating head ache, nervousness, dizziness, bilious stomach, prostatic trouble, sleeplessness, inflamed or puffy eyelids, weakness, worn-out feeling and many other symptoms caused by clogged, inactive kidneys promptly vanish. Frequent, painful and uncontrollable urination due to weak or irritable bladder is over come.

Your physician, pharmacist, banker or any mercantile agency will vouch for the responsibility of Pape, Thompson & Pape of Cincinnati, who prepare Pape's Diuretic—50 cen treatment—sold by every druggist in the world.

THE PASSING OF THE THIRD FLOOR BACK.

A more seasonable play could hardly be imagined than The Passing of The Third Floor Back, which is to be presented here on Friday next, January 6th. "The Stranger" might almost be called "the spirit of the season," but he does not enter like the old reprobate of fiction by any unconventional entrance, he walks quietly through the door, out of the damp London fog, and into the dingy London boarding house. He brings with him no tangible gift, the work of men's hands for men's enjoyment; he brings something far more precious, and he gives something far more valuable. He gives unstintingly of his spiritual self and he leaves the sordid people better than he found them. The play which has had a wonderful run in London, New York, in fact all over the world, and which has visited Toronto twice in six months, will be presented by an entirely English company, but with us now fourteen weks. Mr. Ian Robertson, brother of the famous Forbes-Robertson, is to play the part of "The Stranger."

A son of the late author and art critic, J. Forbes-Robertson, Ian Robertson, parted professionally with his patronymic on his first appearance on the stage in 1879, at the Lyceum Theatre, London, where a decade later he was destined to return and win fresh laurels under the aegis of Sir Henry Irving in "King Lear," "Becket" and "The Merchant of Venice". This change of name was doubtless intended to avoid any mistake in identity with another brother already known to fame as Johnston Forbes-Robertson, while the Ian Franke of 1879 became better known to Americans during the following ten years as Ian Robertson, with Modjeska, Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett, A. M. Palmer, Daniel Frohman, Kyrle Bellew and Mrs. Potter and Chas. Frohman. He was produc-

NEW YEAR'S Y. M. C. A. RECEPTION

It was clearly demonstrated yesterday that, once again the building at the corner of Murray and George streets has become the social centre for the young men of Peterborough. All day long the place was thronged with an animated crowd of young men and at no time in the day was there a lack of interesting features to keep them busy.

The boys were kept thoroughly interested by their calendar exhibition. Some of the finest calendars produced by the merchants of the city were hung on the walls of the game room, and in the afternoon were judged by a committee of boys. In the afternoon Mr. Jack Lang, an old friend of the boys, superintended a games tournament which was highly interesting, both to the contestants and spectators.

In the senior parlours and in the reading room the members were entertained with selections from the ambrolia. In the afternoon a very instructive lecture on a trip of the C.P.R. Canada was given by Mr. Gricbie. This lecture was illustrated by a very beautiful lantern views kindly loaned the association by the C.P.R. After the lecture the Ladies' Auxiliary served refreshments to about 150 young men and their friends.

All day long there was something doing in the gymnasium. In the morning there were a couple of fast games of basketball and after these the young men entered into a swimming contest in the plunge bath.

The evening, however, was the climax. The floor of the gymnasium was thronged with young men and boys when the programme commenced, and the gallery was filled to its utmost capacity with friends and parents of the boys and young men. The general secretary, Mr. H. M. Colclough announced the several numbers as they came and seemed to be proud of the whole programme.

It would be difficult and space will not allow us, to single out any number as being specially worthy of mention. The whole programme reflected credit upon the committee in charge particularly on Mr. Thompson the efficient and popular physical director and Mr. John Lang, the boys' secretary, and did so with credit to himself. All the work was accompanied by music. The chairman asked the audience to keep in mind that the work which was being presented was not special work in any way. It was simply a demonstration of the work that is being done each week by the classes.

If any citizen has any doubt yet in his mind that the Peterboorugh Y.M.C.A. is making good and that it is touching the life of the young manhood of this city for its uplifting, he has but to interview any of the young men who were present last evening.

ACHES, PAINS AND RHEUMATISM?

Zam-Buk Will Give You Ease

Have you a bad attack of "general aching?" You know the feeling. Limbs ache, muscles seem to have become tired out, your back aches, now and again a twinge of rheumatism strikes you here and there. Your chest feels tight, there is a pain between your shoulders, and altogether you need toning up.

Cold is responsible for this condition, and a vigorous application of Zam-Buk will put you right. Take a hot bath, if possible, and then rub your chest and the aching limbs well with Zam-Buk.

Mrs. B. Gutie, 76 Berkeley St., Toronto, writes: "I cannot speak too highly of Zam-Buk. A few weeks ago I was suffering from a bad cold, which had settled in my throat, chest and limbs. I tried all kinds of remedies, new and old, and found very little relief until I used Zam-Buk. On applying this to my throat and chest I found such ease and relief from the tightness and soreness I determined to use only Zam-Buk. I also rubbed it on my limbs where I felt the rheumatic pains. In three days from the time I first began applying Zam-Buk I was free from the cold in throat and chest and also the rheumatism in my limbs."

Zam-Buk will also be found a sure cure for cold sores, chapped hands, frost bites, ulcers, blood-poison, varicose sores, piles, scalp sores, ringworm, inflamed patches, babies' eruptions, and chapped places, cuts, burns, bruises and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores sell at 50c box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. Avoid harmful imitations and substitutes.

WHY YOU ARE THIN; HOW TO GET FLESHY

Discusses Causes of Thinness and Gives New Method of Increasing Weight and Rounding Out the Form.

Prescription Accomplishes Wonders.

A treatment which anyone can prepare cheaply at home, has been found to increase the weight, improve the health, round out scrawny figures, improve the bust, brighten the eyes, put new colour into the cheeks, lips of anyone who is too thin or bloodless. It puts flesh on those who have been always thin whether from disease or natural tendency on those who by heavy eating and diet have in vain tried to increase; on those who feel well but can't get fat; and on those who have tried every known method in vain. It is a powerful aid to digestion, nutrition and assimilation. It assists the blood and nerves to distribute all over the body the flesh elements contained in food, and gives the thin person the same absorbing qualities possessed by the naturally fleshy.

Everybody is about the same, but certain elements and organs of blood and nerves are deficient and until this is corrected thin people will stay thin. The nutrition stays in the body after separation by the digestive functions instead of passing through unused, when this valuable treatment of blended medicines is used. Practically no one can remain thin who uses it as it supplies the long felt needs.

Mix in a half pint bottle three ounces of essence of pepsin, and three ounces of syrup of rhubarb. Then add one ounce compound essence cardiol. Shake and let stand two hours. Then add one ounce of tincture calumba compound (no cardamom). Shake well and take a teaspoonful before and after meals. Drink plenty of water between meals and when retiring. Weigh before beginning.

THE MUSICAL SUCCESS "THE CAT AND THE FIDDLE" COMING.

It is astonishing how few people know that many of the Mother Goose themes, so familiar in the nursery, were not originally written to amuse the little folks. Take for example, the celebrated and familiar tale "The Cat and the Fiddle." It was first written and published to let us the extravagances of the nobility and the foremost men in politics in the reign of Elizabeth. In "Queen Queen", too, was not spared in the satirical handling of the simple little nursery rhyme. It is a matter of history that Elizabeth's court was celebrated both in speech and in living. The plain people looked upon these scenes of festivity as machinations of the devil, and dancing, especially, was viewed by them as one of his slyest arts to wean people from the rightful course. The cat in those days was looked upon as a creature symbolical of witchcraft and evil, and hence as one of the workers of the devil's wiles. In the lampoon, which our present nursery rhyme really originally was, the Cat was the personification of the wickedness prevailing in Court circles. The cow also aimed at the person of the Queen herself, and was a thrust at her vaulting ambition and vanity, and is expressed in her jumping over the moon. The Little Dog, who laughed to see the fun, was a better thrust at the sycophancy of the courtiers who danced in attendance at the heels of their sovereign. The line, "And the Dish ran away with the spoon" was meant to convey the result of all this wicked waste and extravagance, signifying that the working people of England would go hungry for porridge, or that the porridge dish and spoon would be driven from the homes of the poor people.

These antipoons, or nursery tales, filled the place of our cartoons of the present day, and have been taken as a theme upon which to found a big musical extravaganza, "The Cat and The Fiddle." Lyrics and music have been supplied by Carleton Lee Colby. A Company of 40 people are [illegible] with Harry B. Watson as the Cat, Ross and Arthur Boylan, and several other musical comedy players.

"The Cat and the Fiddle" comes to the Grand next Saturday, January 7, for matinee and evening.

WOMAN IS CENTRE OF ODD DEATH MYSTERY

Wealthy Widow Accused of Killing a Painter in Her Home Persists in Saying She Knows Nothing About the Case ---Victim Was Shot in the Back, Precluding Suicide Claim.

LUNENBERG, VT., JAN. 3.—On Tuesday the Essex County Court will hear a motion for the continuance of the case against Mrs. Marshall Dodge. Judge Stanton will then be called upon to pass on the advisability of a longer putting off the trial of the most mysterious crime that has ever come under the State's jurisdiction.

Mrs. Dodge, wealthy widow, with a life of blameless antecedent, stands charged with the deliberate slaying of William A. Heath, painter, who met his death by a pisto lshot while working in her house.

Mrs. Dodge is now at liberty on $5,000 bail and is pursuing the even tenor of her way apparently secure in the knowledge of her innocence.

On the day when the shooting occurred she rushed out of her home, and, calling on her neighbors for help, cried out that Heath had committed suicide. He died without being able to tell who had killed him; and a startling fact in the case was the discovery that he had been shot three times in the back. It was evident that he could not have fired the pistol himself, and the inquiry narrowed down to a hunt for the person or persons who had been seen in the vicinity when the deed was done.

Search as they might, the officials could find no trace of a stranger on the premises. Mrs. Dodge, as far as they could discover, was the only other person in the house while Heath was busy painting her bedroom. And the evidence seemed to prove that she was the only one who could or can throw any light on the mystery.

She was promptly arrested, and at the coroner's inquest she stoutly maintained that the killing was as much of a mystery to her as it was to the detectives and the lawyers in the case. Try as they would it was impossible to tangle her or cause her to contradict the statement she had made from the start. When she was confronted with the fact that her own revolver had been found near the dying man's body she was still positive that some one else must have placed it there and escaped.

She has told the sheriff that she had no quarrel with Heath and that there was no motive to cause her to raise her hand against him, and all investigation seems to bear out the truth of her assertions.

The problem that faces the prosecution is not only to discover the possible motive which would have led Mrs. Dodge to fire the fatal shots, but to prove that she did fire them. All they have to go on is the fact that she confesses to the ownership of the pistol with which the deed was done.

So important is the case regarded that Attorney General Sargent is interesting himself in it. The wealth and social position of the accused woman have given to it a notoriety which has aroused the whole State. Apart from these features, the strangeness of the shooting in itself is enough to challenge interest.

Heath was shot in the morning. A dozen persons might have been passing along the quiet little street and heard the shots. He fell in the bedroom of Mrs. Dodge, where he had evidently been attacked while his back was to his assailant. Indications are that this assailant crept noiselessly through the door and fired at him in cold blood while he was plying his brush on the woodwork of the windows. Not content wit hone shot, the slayer fired twice again, and not till the wounded man dropped dying was warning given.

Immediately Mrs. Dodge ran into the street as described and screamed for help.

DESPERATE PLOT FOR WHOLESALE ASSASSINATION OF ROYALTY AT CORONATION

Examiner Special.

LONDON, ENG., JAN. 4 There is no longer any doubt that the Anarchists who made such a stout resistance to the police yesterday were leaders of a gang which was already making preparations for the wholesale assassination of Royalty at the coming coronation of King George Fifth. This morning among the ruins of the building where they were besieged were found pieces of tin packages which showed the connection of the occupants of the building with the illicit bombs and manufacturing plant discovered and raided near Jute's mill, at the town of Barking, seven miles north-east of London, the other day. There the detectives found a package of explosives, gelatine and other ingredients known to be used in manufacturing anarchist bombs. Evidences of a widespread plot were found there. Already there have been hundreds of suspicious foreigners and Londoners arrested on sundry charg-

INTENSIVE JOURNALISM.

The "annual financial survey" of the Globe, issued on January 2nd, is remarkable for the journalistic enterprise it reveals, as well as for the variety, extent and comprehensiveness of the information is contains, and the evidence thus afforded of substantial national progress and healthiness of national conditions. The greatest authorities on finance and trade contributed to the substance of the review, which comprehends a story of achievement and progress and surely founded authority, for optimistic outlook, coupled with warnings, which, if heeded, insure a continuance of the prosperity the country has enjoyed. The Globe's annual financial survey number is a striking and intrinsically valuable example of intelligent and intensive journalism.

A HUNDRED YEARS OF PRINTERS' INK.

The Montreal Herald is to take a practical and significant way to mark its hundredth year of existence. Next autumn the Herald will be 100 years of age, and will celebrate that almost unique event in journalism in Canada by occupying what is promised to be the largest newspaper and printing office in Canada, with proportionately elaborate and complete mechanical equipment. With the exception of the Montreal Gazette the Herald is the only newspaper in Canada that is able to boast of being continuously printed for a hundred years. It seems good for another hundred years; for it is now as alert vigorous and prosperous as any—and more than most—of its contemporaries with all their vigour of youth. Montreal plumes itself upon being the Metropolitan City of Canada, and in a journalistic sense, it is on all fours with its other claims to this distinction. The Examiner's best wishes go to the Herald, with hearty congratulations upon its green old age.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

The defeat in Ottawa of the proposal to abolish the board of control is regarded as the most encouraging feature of the municipal election contest in that city. It is stated that the proposal was made by those interested in restoring ward influence in the administration of civic affairs. The proposal was condemned by a vote of almost two to one. This is encouraging to the advocates of municipal government by commission. The Board of Control is a modified form of government by commission in which executive functions are exercised by the Board and legislative functions by the council. Ottawa has tried the Board of Control system for some time and as the election of Monday shows, is well satisfied with it, and satisfied that in refusing on Monday to revert to the ward system, did what was best in the interests of good city government. It is generally admitted that the ward system with the necessarily present sectionalism is not the best way to carry on municipal government. Peterborough has reverted or, as many think, retrograded to the ward system. If we are to have the ward system we should have it of the best. The arrangement to have two year terms for aldermen is a redeeming feature; it helps minimise the evil of yearly changing representation; but it still retains the feature which deprives the electors, as a whole, of a voice in the selection of the governing body. We have the mayor, members of the board of education elected by general vote, but the men who have greater powers in the government of the city as a whole are elected by a partial vote, a vote by wards, and the larger body of the electors have no voice in electing or rejecting the majority of the Council. It is objected that the general vote system of electing aldermen makes it possible to have part or all of the aldermen returned from one ward, leaving the others unrepresented personally. A local barrister has suggested a way of overcoming this objection and still ward, and the election made by general vote. He suggests that, as at present, the nominations be made in each ward, the elections made by general vote. If good men were nominated by each ward, then there would be a certainty that each ward would be represented personally, in the Council, and the member elected would represent not only his own ward, but the city as a whole. This would require that the candidates should be of a quality to commend themselves to the body of the electorate. What is wanted is the best men and the question is whether the ward system, as at present constituted, encourages the bringing out and election of the best man available. We should see by the results of the first year of the restored ward system, whether there is improvement or otherwise in our city government—in the adoption of a more progressive policy, in the application of better business methods in getting better value on our money and in generally better results.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The figures of the Canadian bank clearings for 1910, are 6.153 millions of dollars as against 5,180 millions for 1909.

Lindsay has elected a Socialist alderman. Lindsay seems to be as liberal of its franchise as of corner lots for tanneries.

The home demand for dairy products increases at the rate of two millions a year. Therefore, a slight decline in dairy exports to the mother land does not indicate a decrease in the importance of the dairying industry.

The prohibition by Quebec of the export of pulp wood in the raw state, has resulted beneficently. Several new Canadian pulp and paper companies have been organized during the year and arrangements made for the organization of others. These insure to the extent of their operations, the retention in Canada of the benefits, in the way of employment of labour and domestic capital and industrial influences of home manufacture.

A NEW ADVERTISEMENT.

(Montreal Herald.)

It seems to be conceded that the election held in St. John County last week was the utmost arduously fought of all that have been held in recent years. Both sides put their best foot forward. Meetings were held in every hamlet. Members of the Gouin Cabinet answered every request to speak, Mr. Tellier, Mr. Prevost and their friends were equally active. The contradictory meeting which furnishes part of the amusement in most elections, was in large part abandoned. The parties held their own meetings and the people were left to judge. A house to house canvass of the utmost completeness was made by both sides. An unusually high percentage of the possible vote was cast, the people, who had refrained from expression or demonstration during the campaign, coming out to vote. Even excluding the English Conservatives who voted against Mr. Tellier as a protest against Mr. Bourassa, the vote registered an unmistakable triumph for the Liberal party of the Province of Quebec. There has been a disposition, during the past two months, to assume that the Liberal party in this province is no more a power to be reckoned with. Henceforth we shall be less likely to go astray on that point.

FLYING TO DEATH.

(Montreal Herald.)

There is something about this rapid decimation of the ranks of the birdmen that rather gets a grip of the heart-strings. We may feel sure that the air is really being conquered, but the toll exacted is becoming very heavy. One gathers from the way the Wright brothers talk that some considerable part of the casualty list is due to men taking risks they ought to avoid, and that in the effort to excel in spectacular effect they are apt to lose sight of what is the one thing now worth striving for. Until just the other day it was not believed that flying was practicable. On that point there is now no room for doubt. It has been established that machines of various forms will fly, that they will fly far, that they will fly high. All that remains worth while is to so perfect them that in so tricky a medium they will not fall. One of the three who perished in the last few days flew unfollowed into the swirling currents of the English channel. Another tried a trick turn in a high wind. The third had overloaded his machine with gasoline to the point of losing the power of maintaining a balance. It is a pity to see such fine fellows having their lives crushed out, but we may be sure their fate will not deter others from entering upon the competition for honours in flying. If the new-comers are filled by the recent killings with a proper sense of what is and what is not expected of them, the next year's record may not be so gruesome.

Public Health Organization And Public School Health Inspection

(Ottawa Journal.)

Those who have been observing the rapid evolution of State Socialism, which is making the legislation of Germany, France, and England of recent years, may perhaps have overlooked one of the more silent, but in its effects most potent, influences, which have been growing out of the public health organization of England.

More advanced in the earlier years of last century in public health legislature than any other country, England still continued for many years that remarkable example of early local government, the vestry meeting, which even to-day has its well-defined health duties.

Yet as public health became a science increasingly exact as it year after year discovered the true cause of some other disease, it became apparent that the matters involved were larger and touched wider areas than those controlled by any village council. Hence it came about that in 1888 the County Councils Act was passed in England, making 50,000 population the county units within which suburban and rural areas would fall, while boroughs over this number each took upon them the powers of a county council. Under provisions of the Act, the appointment of a county officer of health became permissive, and his status and duties were defined. He might be paid for all his time and services or might not, and his appointment might be temporary or permanent at the will of the council. Under such officer was ranged the many town, village, and suburban area officers, both clical and sanitary. County after county had appointed with some increase of permanent status its officers up to 1908, when a remarkable step forward in the social and health care of the people took place by the passage of Mr McKenna's Bill providing for the medical inspection of all the school children of England and Wales. School boards were instructed to arrange for this, but in the spirit of much British legislation the exact method of doing the work was left to local initiative. Hundreds of appointments, many temporary, were made of medical officers by school boards, estly of a tentative kind, they not being sure whether the Board of Education was serious or not. But a year had not passed when reports from medical officers everywhere showed a condition of health defects in the school children everywhere which first surprised and raised questions, then caused indignation, and last, after the practical character of the people, a turning to the discovery of a remedy. The Hon. John Burns, that remarkable people's tribune, saw it was to be found in organization, and promptly in 1908 insisted upon the adoption of a Bill making the appointments of medical officers of health, dealt with under his department, permanent, where they were all-time appointments. The school problem, which had been working vainly seeking for light found in this Bill the solution of its difficulties, and hence it has come about that the second annual report of the Board of Education for England, just published, shows that 314 of 327 local educational areas have appointed school medical officers, are dealing with over 6,000,000 public school children, have examined individually t oJuly 31, 1910, 1,647,000 children, and that this work has been done through the school boards appointing the district or borough medical officer of health, and that in 230 of these the medical officer of health is the medical officer of schols, and that in 74 of the remaining 84 the medical officers of the school do the work under the supervision of the district medical officer.

The rapid evolution and perfection gof this work is again illustrated in recent dispatches prescribing new regulations for medical officers and inspection of nuisances outside London. The memorandum accompanying these points out that while much good work has been done by medical officers engaged in private practice, still it is most desirable that, wherever possible, the whole-time services of such officers be secured.

It is urged that the salary of such an officer should be sufficient to attract men of high medical qualifications. When necessary it would be proper that duties allied to public health work proper would be permitted to such an officer. The memorandum of the Local Government Board incorprates recommendations of the Poor Law Commission, giving the medical officer of health certain powers in relation to these institutions.

Ontari ohas had its local health boards for nearly thirty years, and its hundreds of appointed and nominally paid health officers. It is marvellous that, with such a good start made matters even in Ottawa, the capital city, should have remained so quiescent or retrograde that we have seen a member of the Board of Health resigning, saying the Board was only a farce. England with an over-crowded population for whom she is ever seeking homes and work, is daily devising some means for saving life till her death-rate is notably lower than that in most parts of Canada, while Canada crying out for people is marking time in her whole public health organization. Surely it is time for a change.

BOARD OF CONTROL STAYS.

(Ottawa Free Press.)

After all, the most gratifying thing about yesterday's elections in Ottawa was the defeat of the proposal to abolish the Board of Control. The majority in favour of that system of municipal administration is decisive. Probably never again will the electors be asked whether they desire to revert to the old order of ward sectionalism.

Those aldermen jealous at the loss of petty power who have been devoting more time to complaining of that loss than they have to the important work of legislation which is still left in the hands of the city council, will now perhaps quit their grouching and get down to business. Having been emphatically told by the electors that they are "in wrong," it is to be hoped they will lose no time now in getting in right.

The ratepayers expect the aldermen to give every assistance to the mayor and controllers in making the System as efficient as possible.

The board for 1911 is a strong and experienced one. Two of its members, Messrs. Hastey and Davidson, have sat on the board ever since its establishment, Mr. Hopewell for two years, and Mr. Hinchey for one. The civic administration should be safe in their hands.

At the same time, it is not amiss perhaps to repeat the warning The Free Press gave last year against a tendency to be autocratic. The board should give every facility to the aldermen to keep in touch with civic affairs.

WOMAN IS CENTRE OF ODD DEATH MYSTERY

Wealthy Widow Accused of Killing a Painter in Her Home Persists in Saying She Knows Nothing About the Case ---Victim Was Shot in the Back, Precluding Suicide Claim.

LUNENBERG, VT., JAN. 8.—On Tuesday the Essex County Court will hear a motion for the continuance of the case against Mrs. Marshall Dodge. Judge Stanton will then be called upon to pass on the advisability of longer putting off the trial of the most mysterious crime that has ever come under the State's jurisdiction.

Mrs. Dodge, wealthy widow with a life of blameless antecedent, stands charged with the deliberate slaying of William A. Heath, painter, who met his death by a pisto lshot while working in her house.

Mrs. Dodge is now at liberty on $5,000 bail and is pursuing the even tenor of her way apparently secure in the knowledge of her innocence.

On the day when the shooting occurred she rushed out of her home, and, calling on her neighbors for help, cried out that Heath had committed suicide. He died without being able to tell who had killed him; and a startling fact in the case was the discovery that he had been shot three times in the back. It was evident that he could not have fired the pistol himself, and tht inquiry narrowed down to a hunt for the person or persons who had been seen in the vicinity when the deed was done.

Search as they might, the officials could find no trace of a stranger on the premises. Mrs. Dodge, as far as they could discover, was the only other person in the house while Heath was busy painting her bedroom. And the evidence seemed to prove that she was the only one who could or can throw any light on the mystery.

She was promptly arrested, and at the coroner's inquest she stoutly maintained that the killing was as much of a mystery to her as it was to the detectives and the lawyers in the case. Try as they would it was impossible to tangle her or cause her to contradict the statement she had made from the start. When she was confronted with the fact that her own revolver had been found near the dying man's body she was still positive that some one else must have placed it there and escaped.

She has told the sheriff that she had no quarrel with Heath and that there was no motive to cause her to raise her hand against him, and all investigation seems to bear out the truth of her assertions.

The problem that faces the prosecution is not only to discover the possible motive which would have led Mrs. Dodge to fire the fatal shots, but to prove that she did fire them. All they have to go on is the fact that she confesses to the ownership of the pistol with which the deed was done.

So important is the case regarded that Attorney General Sargent is interesting himself in it. The wealth and social position of the accused woman have given to it a notoriety which has aroused the whole State. Apart from these features, the strangeness of the shooting in itself is enough to challenge interest.

Heath was shot in the morning. A dozen persons might have been passing along the quiet little street and heard the shots. He fell in the bedroom of Mrs. Dodge, where he had evidently been attacked while his back was to his assailant. Indications are that this assailant crept noiselessly through the door and rfied at him in cold blood while he was plying his brush on the woodwerk of the windows. Not content wit hone shot, the slayer fired twice again, and not till the wounded man dropped dying was warning given.

Immediately Mrs. Dodge ran into the street as described and screamed for help.

DESPERATE PLOT FOR WHOLESALE ASSASSINATION OF ROYALTY AT CORONATION

Examiner Special.

LONDON, ENG., JAN. 4.—There is no longer any doubt that the anarchists who made such a stout resistance to the police yesterday were leaders of a gang which was already making preparations for the wholesale assassination of Royalty at the coming coronation of King George Fifth. This morning among the ruins of the building where they were besieged were found pieces of tin packages which showed the connection of the occupants of biulding with the illicit bombs and manufacturing plant discovered and raided near Jutt's mill, at the town of Barking, seven miles north-east of London, the other day. There the detectives found a package of explosives, gelatine and other ingredients known to be used in manufacturing anarchist bombs. Evidences of a widespread plot were found there already there have been hundreds of suspicious foreigners and Londoners arrested on sundry charg-

DARLING BY FIVE VOTES

Was Re-elected Reeve of Dummer Township on Monday

Special to The Examiner:

WARSAW, JAN. 4.—The result of the Municipal elections for the Township of Dummer was as follows:

Reeve—C. J. Darling, 206; R. Ferguson, 201.

Councillors—Greystock, 289; Mc. Donald, 265; Carveth, 229; Payne, 182; Crowe, 171; Hamblin, 118.

Ennismore.

Reeve—Samuel Killen, 99; John Young, 93; majority for Killen, 6.

The three last named councillors are new men and will take their seats in the council for the first time on January 9th.

The contest for reeve was a hard-fought one, owing to the popularity of both men.

Two bright little girls started to school last August. One preferred the "old reliable" Pitman (yes, it's an ad, but read on), and the other took the 30-day Shorthand at the Moon College. The latter, Miss Frances Wyndham, of 108 Wells street, has been employed by Eyre & Bond, Solicitors, Room 528 Confederation Life Buildings for over two months and her friend is still studying Pitman. That this same firm have since engaged another of our graduates speaks volumes for the quality of Moon College 30-day stenographers. "ASHTON-KIRK, INVESTIGATOR"

By John T. McIntyre. Copyrighted and All Rights Reserved

They gazed toward the window once more. Miss Vale had apparently mastered the contents of the paper, and was now engaged in writing rapidly. As the young men watched, she stopped, read carefully what she had written, and then handed it to Locke. The mute carried the paper to the light, and, holding it very near to his eyes, read it with much attention; then he tore it into strips, placed it upon the red coals of a stove which stood near him and watched it burn. Facing Miss Vale, his fingers began to fly rapidly in intricate signs. This only lasted a moment, however; for he stopped; gestured passionately; seized a pad of paper and began to write.

While he was thus engaged, Ashton-Kirk said to Pendleton in a low tone:

"Remain here for a moment."

Then slowly, carefully, the investigator made his way toward the window through which Miss Vale and Locke were to be seen.

Heavy beams of light shot across the ground from the windows, but here and there were trails of shadow. He clung to these until he had reached the shelter of the walls; then to Pendleton's amazement he stepped directly in front of the window through which the two were to be seen, rapped smartly upon the glass, and remained standing in full view of the two in the room.

Pendleton saw the pad drop from Locke's hands; he saw the mute wheel as he felt the vibrations and stare at the window, his eyes puckered and straining. He also saw Miss Vale rise, saw her hands thrown out in a gesture much like despair; and also he heard the cry that she uttered, muffled by the confines of the room, but full of fear. Then the room was plunged into darkness; an instant later a door was heard to open; the sound of quick-moving feet came to him; there followed the pulsations of a motor and the racing of a car away into the night.

"She's off," breathed the young man, and there was undoubted relief in the knowledge. "She's off, and I really believe that's what Kirk was after."

He walked toward the house and found his friend standing in the shadows.

"Well," chuckled the investigator, "it did not take her long to make up her mind, eh?"

"You had some motive in doing that," accused Pendleton. "What was it?"

Ashton-Kirk was about to reply; but just then the small figure of Locke made its appearance. He carried a lantern and was approaching with stumbling steps, his eyes peering and blinking in their efforts to pierce the gloom. Not until he was well upon the two did he make them out; then he halted, lifted the light above his head and surveyed them intently.

In the rays of the lantern Ashton-Kirk smiled urbanely, and bowed. The supple fingers of the mute writhed inquiringly.

"Each of them forms itself into a wild note of interrogation," said Pendleton. "They are fairly screaming questions at you."

Ashton-Kirk smiled even more agreeably at Locke and shook his head. Then he went through the pantomime of one writing, and finished by pointing to the house.

Carefully, eagerly, fearfully, the mute examined them; his near-sighted eyes and the wavering light must have made it all but impossible for him to make them out. However, he at length motioned for them to follow him, and started back by the way which he had come. But after a few steps he halted. He indicated that they were to remain where they were; then he went to the shed-like building, closed the door and locked it, placing the key in his pocket.

"It would seem," observed Ashton-Kirk, "that we are not to be trusted implicitly."

"Also," replied Pendleton, "that there is something of value in the shed."

Returning, Locke led the way to a door upon the other side of the house. Showing them into a small room, furnished with books and scientific apparatus and evidently a study, he set down the lantern and with a sign bade them be seated. Upon their doing so he produced a small pad of paper and a pencil, handing these to Ashton-Kirk he stood peering at them expectantly. With the swift, accurate touch of an expert, the investigator wrote in the Pitman shorthand:

"We ask pardon if we have startled you."

Then he tore off the sheet and handed it to Professor Locke. The man seemed surprised at the medium selected by his visitor, nevertheless he quickly traced the following in the same characters:

"Who are you? What is your errand?"

"We were sent to you by Dr. Mercer," replied Ashton-Kirk upon the pencil. "Our business is to secure the admission of a new boarder."

Locke read this and regarded them for a moment, doubtfully.

"Why did you not press the button at the door?" he inquired in writing.

"I hardly expected you to have such a thing as a bell," answered Ashton-Kirk, as the mute read. "As a matter of fact, I attempted to do so, but I could not find it."

Locke took from the table a small bell and rang it violently. Then he wrote:

"Dr. Mercer has been dead for more than a year. I am the only person in the house. I do not understand."

"Dead!" exclaimed Ashton-Kirk, aloud, and then he added in writing: "Dead! Impossible! We had a letter from him only a few days ago."

Locke shook his head and wrote:

"I have been alone here for more than a month. I have had no letter."

"Then," said Ashton-Kirk, "we have been deceived. Some one has imitated the doctor's writing. Dear me, dear me, how unfortunate!"

"Who is it?" asked Pendleton. "Who is the girl?"

"Ah, that is what we must find out," said Ashton-Kirk. "Locke, I am sorry to have disturbed you. Good-night."

The mute bowed, and, lifting the lantern, preceded them to the door. Here he paused, and, as they passed out, he held the light above his head and watched them as they walked toward the road.

"Locke," said Ashton-Kirk, "I am sorry that we have disturbed you. Good-night."

The fingers of the two flashed their signals back and forth; then a look of relief came into Locke's face; he even smiled, and nodded understandingly at the two young men.

"I beg pardon, gentlemen," said Haines. "But when I got back to the hall, Dr. Mercer made me return and make sure that you had got to see the Professor."

"Thanks," replied the investigator. "We had not the slightest difficulty."

"I'm glad to hear it, sir," said the man. "Good-night to you."

He flashed the same wish to the mute, who answered readily; then he went out and through the window they saw his light again go bobbing away in the darkness. Then the professor began to write once more.

"I beg your pardon," was his message in long-hand. "The man tells me that it was quite as you say. But I must confess I was a trifle startled."

For the fraction of a moment the mute halted in his reply. Then the pencil with much assurance formed the following:

"It was my niece. She was about to go just as you came; so do not reproach yourself for having driven her away."

For some time the penciled conversation continued between the two; but as it was all based upon the fanciful pupil whom the investigator stated he desired to place in Dr. Mercer's care, Pendleton paid little heed to it. At last, however, they bid the Professor good-by, and left him upon the threshold, his massive head nodding his adieus, his frail little body sharply outlined by the glow from the hall.

The two had reached their own car around on the other road before Pendleton spoke. Then he inquired:

"Well, have you learned anything from him?"

"I think I can say 'yes' to that," answered the other. "But I'm not yet sure. I'll have to put it to the proof first, according to the formula which I gave you a half hour ago. If it succeeds, I'll tell you what it is; if it does not, I'll say nothing, and it will go upon the scrap heap devoted to broken fancies. And now, Dixon," to the chauffeur, "we'll go home."

CHAPTER XVI.

STEEL AGAINST STEEL.

Shortly before noon next day, Ashton-Kirk, in an immaculate morning suit, was ushered into the presence of Miss Edyth Vale. If he expected confusion, embarrassment or anything of that sort, he was disappointed; for she greeted him eagerly and with outstretched hand.

"This is a surprise," she said.

He held her hand and looked meaningly at her.

"My appearances are sometimes surprising," he said. "But I usually select the night for them; the effect is better then, you see."

She smiled into his eyes.

"I have no doubt but that you are dreadfully mysterious," she said. "But please sit down."

She seated herself near the window; holding a book in her hand, she fluttered the leaves to and fro.

"The composure," thought the investigator, as he sat down, "is somewhat overdone."

"I wonder," said Miss Vale, looking at the book, "if you are an admirer of Ibsen." And as he nodded, she proceeded with a slight smile. "I know that he is scarcely the usual thing for a spring morning. But there are times when I simply can't resist him."

"He's a strong draught at any time," said Ashton-Kirk. "But his tonic quality is undoubted."

"His disciples claim that for him, at any rate," she answered. "But sometimes I question its truth. Where is the tonic effect of 'Rosmershalm?' I think it full of terrors." She shuddered and added: "The White Horses will haunt me for weeks."

"It's the atmosphere of crime," said he. "That quiet home on the western fiords reeks with it."

She made a gesture of repulsion.

"It's ghastly!" she exclaimed. "And, somehow, one feels it from the very first—before a word is spoken. Imagine Rebecca at the window, watching through the plants to see if Rosmer uses the footbridge from which his wife once leaped to her death." She paused a moment, her eyes upon the open pages; then lifting her head, she asked: "What do you think of Rebecca?"

"A tremendous character—of wonderful strength. It was just such proud, dark, purposeless souls that Byron delighted to draw; but the only one in literature to whom I can fully liken her is the wife of Macbeth. There was the same ambition—the same ruthless will—the same disregard of everything that stood in her way. And, like Cawdor's wife, she weakened in the end."

She regarded him fixedly.

"Would you call it weakness?" she asked.

She fell in love with Johannes, did she not? That was weakness—for her. She herself recognized it as such."

The girl looked at him thoughtfully for a moment.

"That is true," she said.

"Some of the world's most daring and accomplished criminals have been women," he went on. "But Nature never intended woman to be the bearer of burdens; there is a weakness in her soul structure somewhere, she usually sinks under the consciousness of guilt."

"More so than men, do you think?"

"As a rule—yes."

She put down the book and clasped her hands in her lap.

"There is no need to sympathize with Rebecca," she said. "She was brave and strong; even in her love for Johannes. But he," and there was a note in her voice that recalled the night he had listened to it over the telephone, "he was different. There is no more dreadful thing in the play, to me, than the character of Rosmer. To think of him sitting quietly in that charnel house prospering in soul, growing sleek in thought, becoming stored with high ideas. Perfect peace came to him in spite of the stern-faced portraits which shrieked murder from the walls. He dreamed of freeing and ennobling mankind and all the time Fate was weaving a net about him that was to drag him from the mill bridge at his dead wife."

"Kroll knew him," said the investigator. "And he said Rosmer was easily influenced. It is usually men of that type who are drawn into the vortex which swirls at every door."

Her face was a little pale; but she now arose with a laugh and began rubbing her finger-tips with a handkerchief.

"I think we'd better remove the dust of the Norwegian," she said. "And I make a vow never to read him again—in this morning." She stood looking down at her caller, good-humoredly and continued: "I suppose it is my fault, but you have a dreadfully gloomy expression. Or maybe," as an afterthought, "you ate an unwholesome dinner last night. Were you at the Perrings', by any chance?"

Is This Your Boy

Who At Tender Age Must Face the Hard, Cold World Without Preparation or Protection.

No. You could not think of such a thing. And yet, would you neglect your health as you do if you waited to think of your family and how they would get along without you.

You have not the old-time vigour and energy. You go home tired and worn out, feel cross and irritable, lack the old-time smile and good cheer which brought sunshine into your home at your arrival.

You don't sleep well, the brain is not so clear and active, little things annoy and worry you. In short, the nervous system is exhausted. You know this, but do not want to consult a doctor, and scarcely know what to do.

Use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It cannot fail to do you good, for it is made up of the elements of which your run-down system is most in need. Through the medium of the blood it sends new energy and vigour to every organ of the human body.

You can feel yourself getting stronger every day. You can prove it by noting your increase in weight. You will sleep better, appetite and digestion will improve, and you will feel again the courage and energy which can only exist side by side with good health and steady nerves.

You can put a stop to the wasting process to-day by beginning this treatment. You need not let delay bring you a day nearer to nervous collapse.

This treatment is not a stimulant to whip up tired nerves and brain. It cures in nature's way by filling the system with rich red blood. It will not cure in a day, but its benefits are natural and lasting. With persistence on your part it will work wonders.

OTTAWA LIKES "THE CAT AND THE FIDDLE"

Speaking of the production which appeared at "The Russell" on the holiday, the Citizen says:

"The Cat and the Fiddle" is a combination of musical comedy, pantomime, musical extravaganza and several other things, but the label really does not matter. The large holiday audiences which greeted it at the Russell theatre yesterday afternoon and evening found it a capital vehicle for the introduction of some very fine music, tuneful songs, excellent singing, pleasing dances, and laughable comedy which are materially aided by elaborate scenery, electrical effects and costuming. The production is somewhat along the lines of The Evil Eye, but it is a great deal better. In fact it is not unlike Babes in Toyland. It deals with a mythical isle with mortals, and immortals—and a cat. An idea of the lavish manner in which the production is staged may be gleaned from the fact that in the three acts there are about twenty scenes, many of them being decidedly novel and attractive.

Both company and audience were in the holiday mood and the performance went with a good swing.

The principal characters are well placed. Happy, a child of fortune, is taken by Harry B. Watson, former star with The Isle of Spice, an excellent comedian, whose every appearance on the stage was by some unexpected method. To assist him he had Polly, the captain's daughter, the girl with the strawberry mark, who was impersonated by Rose Boylan. Happy and Polly were in the limelight the most of the time and kept things moving at a lively clip, to the great enjoyment of the audience. Captain Bluff, an old sea dog, Polly's father, was well taken by Jerome Bruner, while Ed. Gilmore as the captain's mate, and Hans (George E. Hart) carried their parts acceptably. Lillian Wallace, as the Genie, was very pleasing, while the others proved satisfactory and met the demands made upon them by their characters.

Among the most pleasing of the musical numbers were Rosy Dreams by Mr. Watson and Miss Wallace, "You'll Find it in the Almanac" by Watson, Hart and Gilmore; "Under the sea" by the chorus; "O, What a Lovely Dream" by Mr. Watson; "My Maid in the Moon" J. O. Campbell; "The Old Date Tree," Miss Wallace, and Mr. Watson; and "I've Never Been Introduced to You," by Mr. Watson and panel girls.

The dance of the Rose by the Boylans, Arthur and Rose, in the third act was one of the best ever seen here and was repeatedly encored. They introduced a great deal of acrobatic work in the dance and showed great agility in their movements.

A RARE TREAT

"Judith Zaraine," the play which Miss Lena Ashwell will present at the Grand Opera House, Wednesday evening, January 11, is one of those splendid modern stage stories of social conditions in the America of unrest. The fact that it is by C. M. S. McLellan, the author of "Leah Kleschna," will give the theatre-going public some idea of its quality, strength and potent possibilities. Judith, herself, is somewhat of an idealized latter day Jeanne d'Arc, but, unlike the Maid of Orleans, she is not above human love and all that follows where the lover finally dominates the head. But Mr. McLellan understands his theme and is acknowledged a playwright of the most consummate artistic methods. The leading role should give Miss Ashwell every opportunity for the marked display of those talents which have gained her the exalted position she occupies in the British metropolis. There is very great curiosity to see this famous star from across seas, who is so proud of the fact that she is Canadian born. Mr. Chas. Waldron, who will assist Miss Ashwell, is that sterling young actor who created the lead in "The Fourth Estate," and who is temporarily [illegible] Miss Ashwell's Canadian tour.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

AN interesting, and I think fairly novel method of collecting money for any charity, came to my attention the other day.

Let me tell you about it, in case you are interested in any charitable enterprise and you are weary of the stale old methods of reaching people's pockets.

A committee of the people most vitally interested is chosen. These people are named "years." These "years" must each give one dollar each and find twelve people to act as "months."

The "months" must each give fifty cents and find four people to act as "weeks."

The "weeks" must each give twenty-five cents and find seven people to act as "days."

The "days", as perhaps you have guessed by now, must each give ten cents and find twenty-four people to act as "hours." The hours are lucky. All they have to do is give five cents.

At this rate, if each fulfils his part, the sum collected from the activities which are started by a single year will be something like four hundred dollars. If you wish to know more exactly than that you will doubtless find it an interesting sum in arithmetic. Myself, I must confess that arithmetic is not my strong point and I only got as far as the weeks.

In the case of which I heard, there were twelve years, which made the sum total almost five thousand, but this was in a large city and for a charity which had a very wide appeal.

If the scheme were tried in a smaller community I should think one year would be quite sufficient, as when that year has found its months, the months their weeks, the weeks their days, and the days their hours, the sum total of people reached will be over seven thousand.

Of course no sectional or sectarian charity would be apt to be successful in such a scheme, as it reaches so very many people that it must be something of very wide appeal.

I know of a church which tried it and failed, and I don't wonder.

The advantage of the scheme is, of course, in the large number of people enlisted in the work; in the fact that many people who, if asked to give an indefinite sum, might refuse for fear they could not give a large enough one, would be perfectly willing to contribute if asked for some small definite sum like five, ten or twenty-five cents, and in the fact that the work of collecting the money is so beautifully systematized—each day reporting to its week, each week to its month, each month to its year.

Success to you if you try this scheme.

Retirement Of Mr. D. W. Dumble, K.C. From School Board Is Deeply Regretted

Has Given Many Years of Valued Service in the Cause of Education in Peterborough—Resolution of Appreciation Passed at Board Meeting Last Evening.

ONE OF OLDEST MEMBERS

At the conclusion of the transaction of the regular routine business of the Board of Education last evening a resolution was passed placing on record the appreciation of the valued work of Mr. D. W. Dumble, K.C., and expressing regret at his retirement from the Board. In moving the adoption of the resolution, Mr. W. H. Hill stated that one of the oldest members of the Board was retiring, in the person of Mr. Dumble. He didn't think there ever had been a member who had done his duty more faithfully than Mr. Dumble. They all remembered the excellent work he did in connection with the work of building the King Edward and Queen Alexandra Schools. Mr. Dumble was retiring full of honours. He had given his best to the cause of education in this city, and he hoped the remaining years to come would be filled with happiness and prosperity.

Dr. Morrison, in seconding the resolution, said that without casting any reflection on the other members of the Board, he could safely say that no man had rendered such valuable service to the Board, as had Mr. Dumble. His work in the interests of education had been progressive and most painstaking. His oversight over the property of the Board and his careful handling of the finances, during the past year, as chairman of the Finance committee, was a tribute to his worth as a school trustee.

Mr. L. M. Hayes, chairman, in conveying the resolution to Mr. Dumble, said that it was with mingled feelings of pleasure and regret that he did so.

MR. D. W. DUMBLE, K.C.
Who retires from the School Board after many years of faithful service

He regretted Mr. Dumble's retirement from the Board, on which he had so long and faithfully served, and it was with pleasure that he expressed to him the great appreciation of his services.

Mr. Dumble, in replying to the vote of thanks and appreciation, said that no one can be indifferent to the good will of his fellowmen. He had come to Peterborough in 1863, and for many years since that time, he had been a member of the Board of Education. He was proud of his associations with the Board. He was proud of the Board's institutions. The boys and girls of the humbler walks of life as well as those in better circumstances, enjoyed the same privileges of receiving a good education and what better could a father do than to educate his boy or girl, in order that they might well be fitted for the battle of life. Peterborough was to be congratulated on the splendid schools she possessed. Speaking of his associations with the other members of the Board, he said that they had always been most courteous and kindly. It was with reluctance that he retired from their midst and he wished them prosperity in the continued performance of their duties.

Women's Hair Destroyed

Great Havoc Wrought by Women's Carlessness

Many women destroy the beauty of their hair through thoughtlessness or ignorance of certain facts. They do not shampoo their hair often enough or too often. They use soaps or preparations which contain ingredients harmful to the scalp and hair.

As a result of such treatment dandruff is created, the hair loosens, loses colour, falls out, and baldness commences, unless proper and prompt precautions are taken in time. Then again, microbes and certain diseases bring about unhealthy scalp and hair conditions.

Most people can rid themselves of dandruff and correct diseased scalp and hair conditions, if they will use the right remedy. We have that remedy, and we will positively guarantee that it will eradicate dandruff and prevent baldness or it will not cost the user anything.

That's a pretty broad statement but we will back it and prove it with our money. Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is the remedy that will grow hair and overcome scalp and hair troubles. It will grow hair even on bald heads, unless all life in the hair roots has been extinguished, the follicles closed, and the scalp is glazed and shiny. It gets its name from the fact that it grew hair in 93 out of 100 cases, where it received a thoroughly hard, impartial and practical test.

We want you to try Rexall "93" Hair Tonic at our risk. You surely cannot lose anything by doing so, while you have everything to gain. You would better think this over, and then come in and see us about this offer. You will be well repaid for your visit to our store. Two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Peterborough only at our store.—The Rexall Store, McDermid and Jury, corner George and Charlotte streets.

THE VISIT OF IAN ROBERTSON

In "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" a Feature of the Season

Mr. Ian Robertson's visit to Canada, appearing at the Grand Opera House on Friday, January 6, awakens interest in one of the most able actors now before the public, either at home or abroad.

On his present visit he relies entirely on his latest success, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," by Jerome K. Jerome, in which he has already appeared 200 times in England, this popular play having enjoyed a run of over 500 consecutive performances in New York and London alone, its reception on the road being no less enthusiastic.

It is seldom that the personality of an actor is so remarkably in harmony with the role he is representing as is that of Ian Robertson, in the mysterious and inspiring individuality of "the Stranger" in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back." Ian Robertson does not act the part as others might have done—he lives it. He is the Passer-by for the time being. It is that power of conviction in all that he does, added to the personal magnetism and gifts denied many another actor, which uplifts the play he appears in to the level of a classic. Yet Mr. Jerome's wonderful play is neither melodrama nor pure comedy. It could best be described as a modern morality or mystery play, like "Everyman," and, through the eloquent medium of Ian Robertson, shows to an extraordinary degree the power of the stage and popularity of the actor.

"Peace hath its victories no less renowned than war," and it is certainly a striking coincidence that last season's two most pronounced stage successes in England, which spread their influence far beyond the walls of the theatre, should have been on the subject of peace and good will and the alarms of invasion and war respectively.

There has often been a complaint of the comparatively few attempts to treat the middle classes with becoming seriousness. Yet in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" we have a conspicuous instance to the contrary of simple people of to-day being used as pawns on the stage in the portrayal of real life. And in the Passer-By, as Mr. Jerome's intensely interesting play might more appropriately have been called, we are promised a modern mystery play, which has all the indefinable charm of "Everyman" with the atmosphere of the present day. And to the mysterious, spiritual personality of "The Stranger" or "Passer-By," Mr. Ian Robertson is said to lend a fascination and magnetism, a grandeur of repose and an air of simplicity entirely his own.

HON. CLIFFORD SIFTON

Will Address the Canadian Club on January 10th

An important statement consists in the announcement that Hon. Clifford Sifton, chairman of the Dominion Conservation commission, will address the members of the Canadian Club, on the occasion of the next dinner, at the National hotel on Friday evening, January 10th, 1911.

The subject of the address is not mentioned, but whatever it may be, the address will be well worth hearing. Hon. Mr. Sifton is not only a finished and fluent orator, but he is a man of large mind, one of our foremost Canadians, whether considered as a statesman or man of affairs. He is to be regarded as the father of the Canadian west, in respect of the latter-day renaissance, in its development, peopling, and achievement; for it is his policy that has been responsible for the wonderful growth of outside interest in and knowledge of the resources of the country, and for its becoming a Mecca to a sturdy procession of home seekers, home makers, and creators of national wealth. As chairman of the Conservation Commission he has placed upon it the impress of his genius for organization and coordination of action.

His address here on Jan. 10th, at the Canadian Club dinner, will be a notable event, in the long list of notable events of the kind the local club is responsible for. Sifton on Falconer in the short space of a month, is piling an oratorical Pelion upon an oratorical Ossa in a rather Homeric way.

The members are informed that tickets may be procured at the National Hotel and are urged to secure them early.

BRICKLAYERS HELD BANQUET

Following the business meeting of the Bricklayers' and Masons' Union last evening, the members adjourned to Coleman's grill room, where an oyster supper was served and a pleasant time spent in speeches and songs. The chair was ably taken by Mr. J. J. Hartley. The toasts honoured were, "The King," "International Officers," "City Fathers," "Sister Unions," "The Ladies," "Our Hostess," and "Our Manufacturers," those speaking being Messrs. Harry Phillips, Wm. Stevens, Thomas McFadden, G. Rose, Chas. Jenkins, G. Dartnell, A. Madden and A. Knott. Thos who contributed songs were Messrs. Thos. Parkes, Chas. Jenkins and Coleman Bros. About eleven o'clock a very pleasant gathering broke up with the singing of the National Anthem.

AFTER ALL ELSE HAD FAILED

AND "FRUIT-A-TIVES" CURED MRS. CADIEUX

Plantagenet, Ont., Jan. 31st, 1910.

About March 1st, 1909, I was taken deathly sick with Stomach Trouble, Backache and General Breakdown. I failed from 125 pounds down to 80 pounds, was confined to bed for eight weeks, and was unable to eat or keep anything on my stomach.

The doctors said they could do nothing for me and as a last resort, one doctor told me to try "Fruit-a-tives"—if they would not cure me, nothing would.

I started taking "Fruit-a-tives" at once, and inside of ten days I was able to leave my bed. My stomach got strong and I could eat and retain my food. I gained rapidly and soon had my usual good health back again and to-day I weigh as much as ever—125 pounds.

Mrs. LAURENT CADIEUX.

Even the doctors realise that these wonderful tablets made of fruit juices will cure Stomach Troubles, Indigestion, and Dyspepsia.

THE WEATHER

Another cold spell has come, but will likely be of but short duration. Fifteen degrees below zero was the official registration last night. The temperature was about the same figure this morning.—W.P.

SUNDAY SCHOOL GATHERING WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

"Kriss Kringle" Cantata Presented by the Children Last Night—Event was a Most Enjoyable One

LARGE ATTENDANCE

St John's Sunday School annual gathering, held yesterday, was a most enjoyable festival. The infant department, under the direction of Miss English, met at 3 o'clock, and the seventy or eighty little ones had a very happy time until 6 p. m. At 7 p.m. the older scholars, with teachers and parents, began to arrive and at 7.45, under the direction of Mr R. J. Devey (Sunday School Superintendent, the Christmas cantata, "Kriss Kringle" was splendidly given. The stage was tastefully arranged to represent a winter scene; real trees all round, and the performers appeared in sweaters and toques. A curtain was used and the numbers succeeded each other with scarcely a chance to applaud, which was amply made up at the conclusion, when all the children lined up and gave a realistic performance of the old "Sir Roger de Coverly," melting off the stage almost magically an perfect order at a word from the conductor. Then the audience rose and cheered again and again.

Mr. Cole gave a splendid exhibition of ventriloquism, to the great delight of all present, and Miss Billington sang "Daddy" very nicely.

The Rev. Chas. Carpenter voiced the sense of all at the absence of the Rev Canon Davidson, through sickness, and welcomed all those present, reminding them of the great importance of the Sunday School in our church life. Three times three cheers were heartily given for Mr. and Mrs R. J. Devey, for their attention, work in getting up such a splendid entertainment, and then the scholars were regaled with cake, ice cream and tea. The electrical effects on the stage were kindly loaned by the Macpherson Co., and installed by one of the senior scholars, Cyril Devey, and added much to the beauty of the scene. The singing and grouping of the various numbers was really good, and the special numbers of "Kriss Kringle" (taken by A. Horsfield) and "If Santa Claus was Pa" (by the Misses Long) added much to the enjoyment of all.

Members of the congregation sent in a bountiful supply of goodies for the children, and turned out well to the entertainment. The teaching staff desire to thank all who so kindly helped to make the day so enjoyable.

BAD FIRE IN COLLIERY EIGHT MINERS PERISH

Explosion in Sydney, N. S., When Deputies and Workmen Went Down to Start the Machinery---All Men on Duty Were Burned to a Cinder.

North Sydney, N.S., Jan. 4.—Not since the memorable explosion of 1878, which occurred in the Winning pit, has such a calamity disturbed the community as yesterday morning, when it was announced that Sydney No. 3 was on fire. About 4 o'clock yesterday morning, when the under deputies, Ferguson and Purchase, went into the mine, accompanied by six workmen making preparations for the starting of the mine, the explosion occurred.

The village of Florence was turned into a frenzy. People rushed to the colliery and Supt. T. J. Brown was immediately summoned. The superintendent soon got in touch with the mining department and John Johnstone, accompanied by Robt. Robson and other officers, soon had the dragger apparatus upon the scene, and in a few minutes all the available workmen on the plant were combatting the fire.

For eight hours Manager Johnstone, assisted by Inspector Nicholson and John W. Johnstone, worked down upon No. 11 lift, and finally succeeded in finding the charred bodies of the six shift men, who were clumped together, and so burned that it was impossible to recognize one from the other.

The rescuing party worked hard to reach the No. 14 lift, in the hope of recovering the bodies of Deputies Ferguson and Purchase, but owing to the deadly gases were compelled to retreat to a place of safety. Inspector Nicholson said he never saw such a tangled mass of ruins in a colliery, and by the appearance of the inspector when he emerged from the colliery, it looked as if he had been in the fight himself.

The names of the dead are: Amos Teraunt, aged 29, single; Jos. Heralul, aged 25, single; Jas. Tramsen, aged 30, single; Fred Tremen, aged 36, married, with six children; Alex. Aexter, aged 20, single; James Rosten, aged 25, single; Deputy Ferguson, Deputy Purchase.

NINE MORE BARS GO.

Further Returns Show More Local Option Victories.

Toronto, Jan. 4.—With only ten municipalities yet to hear from, the returns of the voting on Monday show 26 local option victories, 22 places giving a majority in favor of the bylaw, but not the required 60 per cent. of the total number of votes polled, and 23 defeats.

The fate of nine more bars is thus sealed, while sixteen are saved by the three-fifths clause, and seventeen are retained by the adverse vote.

Local Option Gains—Maxville, maj. 85; Elizabethtown, maj. 222; Hinchinbrook, 71 maj.; Roxborough, maj. 234.

Failed through Three-Fifths—Armprior, maj. 51; Huntsville, maj. 46; Thessalon, maj. 6; Chapman, maj. 7; Georgina, 3.

Defeats—Gananoque, maj. 168; Port Elgin, maj. 26; Sheffield, may. 117; Toronto Gore, maj. 50.

Municipalities in Ontario	816
Already "dry"	410
Contests this year	85
Local option sustained on repeal contests	3
New local option victories so far reported (Two towns, nine villages, fifteen townships.)	26
Held up by three-fifths clause. (Seven towns, four villages, eleven townships.)	22
Local option defeats (One city, six towns, six villages, ten townships.)	23

Election Protested.

Winnipeg, Jan. 4.—A petition was yesterday formally filed against the re-election of Mayor Sanford Evans on the usual charge of impersonation and corrupt practices.

In connection with the attitude on segregation, it is interesting to note the attitude of the police commission, of which the mayor is ex-officio chairman, and Magistrate Daly is a member. The other member is Ald. Douglas, who replaces Ald. Willoughby who marked his displeasure with the attitude of the majority of the police commission by resigning last November. It is stated on good authority that this action is not directed against the mayor, but to force an investigation into the charges of impersonation and other corrupt practices, which during the municipal election are stated to have been on a scale hitherto unparalleled in Canada.

The Man With the Gun.

Vancouver, Jan. 4.—One of Vancouver's busy hold-up men went out of business last night on a west-end street, when he tackled Frank R. Cornwall with a gun, and closed his little adventure in the lock up. Mr. Cornwall ducked, grabbed the would be robber around the waist, and both went to the pavement together, while the revolver exploded, sending a bullet singing under Cornwall's arm. The latter then reached for the weapon, and after a struggle, secured possession of it.

Fines Aggregating $8,100.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Fines aggregating $8,100 were imposed upon six New Yorkers yesterday in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, after pleas of guilty had been entered by them to the charge of conspiracy to violate the law against conducting bucket shops in the District of Columbia. Jail sentences of two years each were imposed upon three of the men. Richard E. Preusser, Lee Mayer and George Turner, but sentence was suspended on condition that they do not again engage in bucket shop business. The fines were paid promptly. E. S. Bogge of Robinson and Humphrey Owen were the other three men fined.

A Monument to Hoxsey.

Pasadena, Cal., Jan. 4.—The funeral of Arch. Hoxsey, the aviator who was killed last Saturday on Dominguez field, was held here yesterday. In deference to the wishes of his mother, the attendance at the funeral was restricted to Hoxsey's personal friends among the aviators and his former associates in his home city.

Officials of the aviation meet just closed joined yesterday in a plan to erect a monument to the memory of Hoxsey on the spot where he met death. The field will be used as a permanent aviation park.

It was announced yesterday that Hoxsey's share of the prizes totaled $6,200.

Douks For B.C.

Winnipeg, Jan. 4.—Peter Veregin, head of the Doukhobors, who arrived in this city yesterday morning, says that two thousand more Doukhobors will be removed from Saskatchewan to British Columbia this year. Fifty thousand fruit trees on their 10,000 acre tract in British Columbia came into bearing this year. With removal of these 2,000 there will be 4,000 in each province.

The plan is to have interchange of products. Saskatchewan members will ship oats and wheat to British Columbia and the coast province Doukhobors will ship fruit to Saskatchewan.

British Steamer Lost.

London, Jan. 4.—Wreckage reported picked up in the Bay of Biscay leaves no doubt of the fate of the British steamer Axim, which left London on Dec. 9 for West African ports with a crew of 30 British and German sailors and four passengers.

Mackenzie King's Tour.

Ottawa, Jan. 4.—Hon. Mackenzie King left last night for London, Ont., where he will address meetings today and to-morrow. He speaks at Wallaceburg on Friday and Toronto on Saturday.

Robbers Fled.

Vancouver, Jan. 4.—Two masked thugs, who have been operating in Vancouver, pulled off another robbery at Mount Pleasant. The Star restaurant was held up, but during the operations passers-by alarmed the robbers, who fled without getting any money. Twenty policemen were rushed out on a special car, but no arrest was made.

For Uttering Forged Checks.

Nice, France, Jan. 4.—Jacques Spoerri, who, according to the police, has been known also as Morris, Baron Saxe and Baron Cossman, was arrested here yesterday at the request of the Paris police, charged with having uttered forged checks in the sum of $22,000 drawn upon the Hudson Trust Co., New York.

Burned to Death.

Liverpool, N.S., Jan. 3.—Under a heap of ruins, the body of Oliver Emmot of Liverpool was unearthed by firemen of that place at 10.30 a.m. yesterday, with the skull burned to a bare, the body scarcely touched and legs scarcely injured. The fire started in the bedroom, and its origin is unknown.

No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impairs digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man "doesn't feel just right," when he doesn't sleep well, has a uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous, irritable and despondent, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, invigorates the liver, strengthens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and so GIVES HEALTH AND STRENGTH TO THE WHOLE BODY.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit. Ingredients printed on wrapper.

VILLAGE TRAGEDY

St. Michel de Bellechase Man Shoots His Daughter's Pursuer—Victim Was Demented

CONDITION CRITICAL

Quebec, Jan. 4.—News reached here yesterday of a sensational occurrence at St. Michel de Bellechasse, and one which threw the usually peaceful village into a state of great excitement. About 8 o'clock on Monday evening the little daughter of Wilfrid Corriveau ran into her father's house, crying that she had been pursued by a masked man. The father immediately seized a revolver and started off after the man, at whom he fire three shots, one of them lodging in his breast. The injured man proved to be a neighbor named Morrison, who has been subject to fits of sudden mental aberration. A doctor was at once summoned, when it was found that the condition of the injured man was a critical one.

Panama Canal Suit.

Washington, Jan. 4.—By unanimous decision the Supreme Court of the United States yesterday decided that the Federal Government could not maintain the so-called "Panama Canal libel suit" against The Press Publishing Co., publishers of The New York World, in the Federal courts of New York. In so holding, the court affirmed the decision of the Circuit Court of the United States for the southern district of New York, which had quashed the famous indictment.

In effect, the decision was that the Federal Court had no jurisdiction over the alleged offence, because the case might have been brought in a state court.

In effect, the allegel libel was the publication of articles stating that C. P. Taft, D. Robinson and W. N. Oromwell, with J. P. Morgan and others, obtained control of the Panama Canal route for about $43,000,000, and, by the co-operation of Theodore Roosevelt, then President of the United States, and brother-in-law of Mr. Robinson, and President W. H. Taft, then Secretary of War, were enabled to effect the sale of the Panama Canal route to the United States at a profit of $36,000,000.

Tait To Be Vice-President.

Montreal, Jan. 4.—It is stated here that Sir Thomas Tait will be made vice-president of the C.P.R., with headquarters at Toronto, this being the beginning of a new departure, promised some time since by Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, that an executive officer of the company might be located in the Queen City, clothed with power to decide matters of importance to the railway and to the city of Toronto, without referring them to Montreal, as is the case at the present time.

The authorities here deny this, but well-posted people say that Sir Thomas Tait will locate in Toronto, as desired.

A Shooting Affray.

Sherbrooke, Jan. 4.—A shooting affray is reported from near Thetford Mines. It appears that several people had gathered at the home of one Moise Carrier, including two brothers, named Boutin. During the day, one of the Boutins went upstairs and brought down a rifle. Carrier tried to get it away from him, and in the melee the rifle was discharged, and the bullet entered the shoulder of one of the Boutins, who was lying on the sofa. He is not expected to recover.

Blaze at North Bay.

North Bay, Jan. 4.—Fire broke out in J. J. Sullivan's boot and shoe store in the Cormoe Block, doing considerable damage, principally by smoke and water, to the large stock valued at $15,000. The fire department did good work and quickly extinguished the blaze. Sullivan's stock was insured for $6,000, and his loss is heavy. The building was owned by Bagg Bros., and the damage to it will not exceed $1,000, covered by insurance.

An Exciting Experience.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 4.—The sole occupant of a sleigh, 5-year-old Ian Wilson, son of a prominent physician, had an exciting experience in a runaway yesterday. The lad stuck fast to the sleigh, while the horse ran the full length of the city, about three miles. Frank Roberts scrambled into the flying cutter and leaped into a snowbank with the child in his arms. Both were uninjured.

Fewer Vessels at New York.

New York, Jan. 4.—During the year 1910, the total number of vessels arriving at the port of New York was 10,114, of which 6,459 were steamers, and 3,655 sailing vessels. This shows a decrease of 486 vessels, compared with the year 1909. The decrease in steamers was 344, and sailing vessels 302. British ships led all others, with 1,964 arrivals, the United States being second with 716.

Delirious, Drank Carbolic.

Toronto, Jan. 4.—While in a fit of delirium, induced by sickness, Mrs. J. Ackerman, 779 Manning avenue, drank about two ounces of carbolic acid from a bottle in the sickroom on Monday afternoon. She died a few minutes later. She secured the bottle while the nurse was absent from the room for a few moments. Dr. Page was called, but could do nothing. An inquest is unlikely.

Entire Block Burned.

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 4.—Fire originating in the Hollenberg Musical Co.'s building destroyed an entire block of business houses yesterday morning, loss on the buildings and stocks of goods amounting to $1,000,000.

Could we afford to buy and give away hundreds of thousands of 50-cent bottles of Psychine (pronounced Si-keen) if we did not know from a third of a century's experience that it was the greatest vitality-builder of the age?

You know what it would mean to us were Psychine a preparation without a definite, beneficial action.

After the first bottle which we would buy, no more would be purchased.

And we would go out of business. But we're not going out of business, and our confidence that we're not is based upon our third of a century's experience with Psychine.

Ten years after Confederation we commenced compounding Psychine.

Since that time, we have sold many millions of bottles.

We have cured many hundreds of thousands of virulent and oftentimes fatal cases of diseases.

We have in our files many hundreds of thousands of unsolicited testimonials.

And we have grown from a small beginning to be one of the largest proprietary manufacturers in this country.

Here then is proof that we have in Psychine a preparation with abundant and demonstrated effectiveness, more so than any other preparation we, or anyone else, ever heard of.

Here then is the reason of our unalterable confidence in Psychine, that it is in fact the greatest preparation of its kind in the world.

Here then is why we have inaugurated a policy of actually buying hundreds of thousands of bottles of Psychine to give to those who should use.

To those who are blindly groping in the dark for relief from their misery, who may perhaps be using wrong methods to recover their health and their strength.

LA GRIPPE.

The greatest and most effective agents for the bodily health are the white corpuscles, phagocytes.

These white corpuscles eat any germ of disease that gains an entrance to the body, when they're in large enough numbers and sufficiently strong.

When they're not sufficiently strong, the disease germs devour them and disease holds the body.

* * *

For centuries almost, herbs, nature's own remedies, have been the most efficient foe to disease.

We have not known very definitely just how.

But now science tells us that certain of these herbs increase the number of the white corpuscles and their strength.

These certain herbs are incorporated in Psychine.

We go to the ends of the earth for these herbs—to Arabia, to South America, to China and to Japan.

They are compounded in the most costly chemical appliances in this country.

And the result is Psychine—for a third of a century the most effective vitality-builder the world has known.

The one preparation that has cured many thousands of the following diseases:

La Grippe	Bronchial Coughs
Bronchitis	Weak Lungs
Hemorrhages	Weak Voice
Sore Throat	Spring Weakness
Anaemia	Early Decline
Female Weakness	Catarrhal Affections
Indigestion	Catarrh of Stomach
Poor Appetite	Night Sweats
Chills and Fevers	Obstinate Coughs
Sleeplessness and Nervous Troubles	Laryngitis and Dyspepsia
After-effects of Pleurisy, Pneumonia and La Grippe

Now we don't ask you to take our word for the tremendously beneficial effect of Psychine. Fill out the coupon below, mail it to us and we'll give your druggist an order (for which we pay him the regular retail price) for a 50-cent bottle of Psychine to be given you free of cost.

We will undoubtedly buy and distribute in this manner hundreds of thousands of these 50-cent bottles of Psychine.

And we do that to show our entire confidence in this wonderful preparation.

A confidence that has been based on our 20 years' experience with this splendid preparation, with a full knowledge of the hundreds of thousands of cures it has made.

Tardy Recognition.

London, Eng., Jan. 4.—The statue to Gen. Wolfe at Westerham—described by The Standard as a very tardy acknowledgement to the worth of a great soldier—was unveiled Monday by Lord Roberts. Among those present at the ceremony were Lord Strathcona and Sir Charles Tupper. Large wreaths were sent by Canadian residents in Britain.

In his address Lord Roberts said that to Wolfe Britain was indebted for the greatest of her dominions. He described how Wolfe, by a daring plan, led his troops to victory at Quebec.

"It is one of the brightest pages in the history of the Empire," he said, "and never loses its thrilling interest for the nation."

The course adopted was only justified by Wolfe's firm belief in the courage and discipline of his troops, and by the fact that the same grand feeling was reciprocated towards the commander.

No wonder, when mortally wounded, he was able to murmur, "I die content."

Would Elect For Six Years.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Extension of the Presidential and Congressional terms of office is favored by Representative Champ Clark of Missouri, who probably will be Speaker of the next House. "I am for amending the constitution," said Mr. Clark yesterday, "so as to elect the President for one term of six years and make him forever ineligible for re-election. Every time that there is a President extraordinarily popular, a lot of fools boom him for a third term.

"If the present term is made for six years, I am in favor of making the term of Congress three years instead of two. Then the states, falling into that rule, would have an election every three years."

Mr. Clark also is in favor of electing both the President and the representatives in Congress on the last Monday in August, and of inaugurating the President and the members of Congress on the first Monday in October.

"Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine cured me of a period of nervous prostration of over three years duration, and the Anti-Pain Pills are as necessary to us as the roof of our house. They have been household remedies with us for many years."

Much sickness is due to nervous troubles. Headache, dizziness, epilepsy and insanity are nervous troubles. Then there is a large class of disorders which arise from a weakness of the nerves of an organ or part, as weak lungs, heart, stomach, kidney, bladder, eyes, etc. Dyspepsia and indigestion are usually the result of nervous disorders.

Restorative Nervine soothes the irritated nerves, and assists the nerve cells to generate nerve force.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

SULLIVAN SAYS HIS WORST WAS KILRAIN

Of all my fights I never will forget my battle with Jake Kilrain at Richburg, Miss., July 8, 1889. We fought seventy-five rounds and I finally won. Each of us bet $10,000 on our chances and we fought with bare fists.

It was a hard, gruelling fight, one filled with spectacular work, and, no matter how hard I hit Jake I could not put him out, and I know I hit as hard as I ever hit a man who took the count.

When they called time I waded into him. Every time I had him in a bad way he would slip to the ground and save himself from a knockout. Several times I thought I landed effectively, but Jake always would get up and come back for more. We battled along in the sort of manner for forty-three rounds, then I began to feel sick in my stomach. In the forty-fourth session I remember my friends remarking that my stomach would give out before I could finish Kilrain.

WHEN KILRAIN LOST

"You're sick, John, let's call it a draw," Jake suggested and right there he lost whatever chance he had of beating me. Instead of wading into me and taking advantage of my weakened condition he simply stood back with his hands on his hips and allowde me to recuperate some. His remark made me mad and I hit him a stinging blow with my right and knocked him flat on his back.

He got up again and we went at it just as hard as ever. I dropped him again with a vicious right swing in the forty-fifth round.

I soon felt a lot better and stronger and I realized that Jake was getting weake rand weaker. After the fiftieth round I would hit Kilrain hard, knock him down, but he would get up and come right back.

BOTH MEN EXHAUSTED

In his weakened condition he was unable to land a telling blow. I was tirin gmyself, but I was a lot stronger than he was. He gradually weakened to the point where all I had to do was push him and he would fall down, but my blows began to lack steam and I could not hit him hard enough to put him out, despite his weak condition.

After the seventieth round it was apparent that he could not last much longer. In the seventy-fifth round he went down from a feeble punch. His seconds threw up the sponge and I was declared the winner.

I was beaten up some myself, but not nearly so bad as Jake. I could not help feeling sorry for him and whenever any persons ask me what the hardest fight of my career was I never hesitate to say that Jake Kilrain gave me the toughest battle I ever had. He was one of the gamest fighters I ever met.

JOHNSON FOUGHT HIS HARDEST FOR $10 BILL

I have been asked to say a few words concerning the hardest battle of my career.

This battle took place in Galveston in the month of August, 1896, between myself and a colored fighter named Joe Lee.

I will never forget that fight. It took place in a field, in the hot sun, and we could not get any water even to rinse our mouths with. For seventeen rounds we battled in the heat, when I knoked him out. I received for this fight the sum of $10.

Some ten or twelve years ago when I was quite clever in the boxing line I tried to get a manager, but could not. After I became noted, men from all sides tried to get the position, including Tom O'Rourke.

SHUNS FITZPATRICK

When I took Sam Fitzpatrick for manager every fighting fan in America and other parts of the world knew that I had beaten all the good men. So no one can say that Sam Fitzpatrick made me a champion, and, furthermore, it makes no difference how good and how shrewd a have talent and ability to become a champion. Zick Abrams has looked out to my affairs in San Francisco for quite a few years, and we have always been friends.

When I came back from Australia George Little sent for me and presented to me a diamond ring and asked me if I would take him for a manager. After considering the matter I accepted him. We got along well together for about a year until the Jeffries fight, when he wanted me to do things which I did not think were quite right and then I let him go.

COMPLIMENTS SIG HART

I gave Tom Flanagan of Toronto, Ont., the position as manager for a short period of time. Sig Hart acted as chief messenger for me and then when he found out that I was without a manager he wanted the position himself. I could not see it that way, as I knew that he was very much disliked by the sporting writers and the sporting element in general. So I let him go for lies which I caught him telling that caused trouble for me with my friends and sporting writers throughout the country.

I have made a careful study of boxing and to-day do not think that there is a man in the world who knows the game and can execute it as well as I. I am willing to defend the championship of the world against any man the public may select, providing my end of the purse is enough to warrant doing so. I have also a great man in Walter Monahan, and I believe he is one of the many who will make good. I hope some day, sooner or later, he will take my place.

RUHLIN GAVE FITZ HIS TOUGHEST FIGHT

The fight which was the hardest for me to win was with Gus Ruhlin at Madison Square Garden, August 10, 1900. I met Ed Dunkhorst in Brooklyn on April 30, 1900, and I put him away in two rounds. But when I hit him I broke a small bone in my left hand, which was not attended to properly, and it gave me a lot of trouble.

On the day before the fight I went to a Turkish bath, and afterward took a swim and caught cold in my sore hand.

ADVISED NOT TO FIGHT

Even my friends advised me not to fight and they said they would collect a pool and give me back my $2,500 forfeit money, but there was nothing doing.

When we stood in the centre of the ring listening to the referee's instructions, my knees weakened and my hands felt as if they weighed a ton each.

What a punching I did get. When the bell rang for the end of the first round I staggered to my corner and leaned against the post.

In the second round Gus hit me on the jaw, which caused me to stagger backward, but I saw him rush me, so I sidestepped him and drove my left into his stomach and dropped him.

He arose slowly when the referee counted eight, and as he finally got to his feet he let go a haymaker, which caught me over the right eye and cut a deep gash.

FITZ BECOMES STRONGER

Ruhlin just kept after me and peppered me all over the ring, but he was unable to hit me hard enough to make me take the count, while I hardly was able to land effectively.

I continued to be the receiver-general in the third and fourth rounds, but toward the end of the fourth session I seemed to get stronger all of a sudden, while I believe Gus weakened a little.

I landed some stinging blows in the fourth round, and when I went to my corner at the end of the round I sat up straight in my chair for the first time.

In the fifth round I got going, and although both my eyes were nearly closed, I began to judge my distance betttr and I was able to block Ruhlin's blows with the desired result, and at the end of the round I had one of his eyes practically closed.

In the sixth session we exchanged blows to good advantage until I worked my shift on him and he threw up his guard. Then I let go with my left and caught Gus square on the jaw. He dropped like a log, and then the chief of police crawled through the ropes and ordered me to stay in the ring until Ruhlin came around. It was nearly an hour from the time that I hit him that he regained consciousness and then I was allowed to go.

O. H. A. SEASON OPENS HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

"Grillers" Take on the Lindsay Midgets in a Junior Fixture That Will be a Classy Exhibition of Hockey---A Big Crowd Will Be on Hand for Opening O.H.A. Game

The Peterborough Juniors will have the honour of opening the local O.H.A. season on Friday night when Grillers go into action against the Lindsay Midgets. Great interest is being taken in the game by the fans, the splendid showing made by the youngsters in Cobourg on Monday having awakened the talent to a realization of the fact that the present seven is the fastest junior O. H. A. team that has represented the club in many moons. With a strong, steady defence, and a well balanced forward line, with plenty of weight distributed throughout all sections of the team and every man a plugger, the Grillers will take a lot of beating and each practice shows them improving in stick-handling and team play. The fans are getting wise to the good points of the juniors and the light blues will get a great reception on Friday night. It should be one busy little cup of tea, that Friday night battle, for Lindsay has an aggravating fashion of turning out teams that are hard to beat. Their present junior seven is said to be very fast and they work well together. The game is called for 8 o'clock sharp, and it is likely that Harvey Sproule will handle the bell. He is a stranger to Peterborough audiences, but the juniors were delighted with his work in Cobourg and state that he is the fairest and most efficient referee they have ever seen.

COBOURG'S VIEWS OF THE GAME

"Grillers" Won by Their Weight and Staying Powers—A Hard, Fast Game

HEFFERNAN STARRED

COBOURG, JAN. 3—Notwithstanding the heavy snowfall in the forenoon, the opening junior O. H. A. game of the season, played here last night, between Peterborough and the home team, was a fast, clean, and exciting exhibition of hockey from start to finish. The visitors were victorious by a score of 5 to 3, but the locals led at half time by 3 goals to 2.

The Peterborough septet were much heavier, and their weight and staying powers told in the last half. They appeared to be in the pink of condition. Of the seven Cobourg players, two were making their debut in O. H. A. company. In the sixteen year old pilot, "Jimmy" Freeman, at rover, the red and white uncovered a boy who has all the ear marks of a star, while Heffernan, the centre man of the "Grills," was conspicuous at all times.

Both of the visitors received a cut in the lower front part, which, fortunately, [illegible] J. Dolan and Freeman, respectively, in the first minute of play. Both were purely accidental, being the result of a player's lifting another's stick. The teams:

Referee, F. H. Sproule, Toronto.

HAILEYBURY BEAT COBALT

Examiner Special

COBALT, JAN. 4—In a clear hockey game, Haileybury's salaried team, trimmed Cobalt 6-2 last night.

SOME HOCKEY HAPPENINGS

The Peterborough junior O. H. A. team are no longer known as the Peterborough Colts. They are now the Peterborough Grillers. The lightest man on the team weighs 154 pounds and Billy Breen has them in grand shape. Referee Harvey Sproule says that the Grillers were steaming 4 knots an hour on end in the slush at Cobourg. The team was selected from 17 candidates.—Toronto Star.

At a meeting of the executive of the Town Hockey League Monday morning, Mr. Fred Taylor, jr., was selected as trainer of the Junior O. H. A. team, and Bill McMahon, captain. The team will be managed by the executive and the first game will be played at Peterborough Friday night—Lindsay Post.

Last night was a bad one for the home ice and while at home we won six out of seven games, the visitors departed with the lion's share of the goals. In the junior series, Parkdale invaded Wiarton and won by 7 goals to 2. Bracebridge triumphed over Huntsville on the latter's ice by 3 to 1, and Seaforth succeeded in beating St. Mary's on their own ice by 6 to 2. In an intermediate game, St. Mary's won from Listowel, in Listowel by 6 to 5. To keep up the list of home teams beaten, Harriston fell before Wingham in Harriston in a Northern League game by 7 to 6.

The O. H. A. has laid down a hard and fast rule that no change of residence permits will be granted or even considered. This bars Peterborough from the use of Milne a goal keeper from Woodstock, and Park a fast forward who has recently come to the city from Moosejaw to take a position as principal of the East Ward School. A big bunch of permits were refused by the sub-committee.

"Dobby" Dobson, the fleet Queen's forward, has never been penalized for an offence of any kind in his six seasons of hockey. Ed. Brown played seven seasons for Woodstock and was not ruled off until the last game of the seventh season. The penalty was imposed by Referee Percy Brown, who did not see what happened and unfortunately singled out the wrong man.

Owing to the fact that the Simcoe [illegible] extended for the season, O H A teams are warned against [illegible] them.

"Bud" Barnett the veteran of Toronto from Belleville, where he trained the Irving League team. "Bud" stayed one week in the pro. league. He had an opportunity to handle the Port Hope team, but declined. The Toronto Canoe Club has secured his services.

Says James T. Sutherland of the Kingston Frontenacs: "We are world's junior amateur champions, and don't you forget it. We won the O. H. A. title, then beat the Intercollegiate winners, and took Chancer Elliott's Quebec champions into camp. Now if anyone thinks that we're not the cocks of the walk, just let 'em trot down to Kingston and we'll prove it."

The Lindsay juniors are not suffering from any lack of coaching or attention. Bill Stoddard, the well known rover of Lindsay's now shattered intermediate team, is coaching the Midgets and "Goosie" Taylor also of the old intermediate team is acting as trainer. Stoddard gets out on the ice with the team and makes them play combination.

The first game in this district of the Intermediate O. H. A. will take place to-night, when Cobourg and Belleville hook up at the latter place.

WEDDING BELLS

ROBB—DOWNIE.

A quiet wedding took place yesterday at the home of Mrs. Downie, 575 Aylmer street, when her oldest daughter, Helen Robena, was united in marriage to Mr. James MacLachlan Robb, of Regina, Sask., Rev. Mr. Pogue officiating. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Donald Downie, and wore a gown of pale blue silk. Among the presents was a beautiful cabinet of silver, the gift to the bride from the office staff of the office of the superintendent of the Trent Canal.

Mr. and Mrs. Robb left on the 5.35 Grand Trunk train for their home in Regina.

ASHLEY—BERGOINE.

A quiet wedding took place Monday evening, Jan. 2nd, at the residence of Rev. Robt. Pogue, pastor of St. Paul's church, when Miss Katie Bergoine, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bergoine, 514 Water street, became the wife of Mr. Herbert M. Ashley, son of Dr. A. S. Ashley, of Napanee. The young couple were unattended. Mr. and Mrs. Ashley will reside in Uxbridge, Ont.

PATTERSON—PAYNE.

A quiet but pretty house wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. John Payne, Kingston, on Tuesday morning, at 10 o'clock, when his second daughter, Miss Elizabeth, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Franklin Bruce Patterson of Peterborough. The young couple were unattended. The house was prettily decorated with evergreens and carnations, tastefully arranged. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Mackie, pastor of St. Andrew's church, Kingston. The bride looked charming in a beautiful, neat, travelling suit of broadcloth. The ceremony was witnessed by only a few intimate friends of the young couple. Mr. and Mrs. Patterson left on the noon train for Toronto and points west.

Miss Payne was well known in this city. She had been a teacher on the staff of the public school at Lakefield for the past year and upon severing her connection with the school, she was presented with an exquisite cut glass bowl by the other members of the staff. She also received many costly and beautiful wedding gifts.

SCHOOLS RE-OPEN

Peterborough's public schools opened after the Christmas holidays to-day and Inspector Mowat reports a good attendance, while every teacher was on hand and reported for duty. The only change in the local teaching staff is that Mr. Park of Moosejaw, a son of Dr. Park of the Normal School staff, comes to the East Ward School as principal, filling the vacancy caused by the departure of Mr. Kelly. Miss Elliott of Peterborough, has been placed on the supply staff.

The Collegiate Institute also began the second half of the year's work this morning, with the greater number of those on roll present.

AT THE GRAND

To-night, Wednesday, is the last night to see Miss Plummer and Miss Shay in their wonderful singing and novelty act. Also Ed. Bolton the equilibrist. These are two very clever acts and no one should miss seeing them and the moving pictures are the largest and best in the city. Don't forget to go to the Grand Opera House to-night at 7.30 or 9.00 p.m. Prices only 5c, and 10c.

To-morrow, Thursday night, a complete change of vaudeville and pictures. Merry Bros, the great banjoists, who played before the King and Queen of England. Kitty Steevns, the novelty character singer. These acts are just from London, England. Be sure and see them at the Grand Opera House.

A BENEFIT

Mr. W. A. Edwards, proprietor of the Crystal Theatoriuni, has kindly consented to give the proceeds of the afternoon of Tuesday, the tenth of January, as a benefit for Mr. Mark Spencely, who recently had his foot amputated. This kindness on the part of Mr. Edwards is depely appreciated and there should be a large attendance at the Crystal on the above afternoon.

THE CITY OF BOYS

"In a great film story, entitled "The City of the Boys" Judge Willis Brown works out the science of humaniculture dealing with the problem of child development from fundamentals rather than sentimentality. Boundless is the great domain and [illegible] activities of man is the mission of the motion picture. A boy city! Did you ever see one? That is, a city that is run by boys—a boy mayor, boy councillors, boy bankers and business boys of all kinds, boy editors and reporters, boy postmaster, police boys, boy voters, etc., etc. The boy city, filmed by the Selig Co., is near Chariwoix, Michigan, picturesquely situated on Pine Lake. In the picture you will see the tented city, the boys asleep, the bugler calling rising time, the boys emerging from their tents and then a pillow fight, their discipline enforced and the morning plunge in Pine Lake, afterwards breakfast and then the boys listen to a speech from Judge Brown. After supper there is an election for a new mayor. You see the boys going to vote, the celebration of the eventful winner, by a huge bonfire and the boy city band in uniform, and so the picture runs on. Every man, woman and child should see this great and wonderful special picture. It will be shown at the Royal to-day and to-morrow together with others of the same uplifting character.

"ASHTON-KIRK, INVESTIGATOR"

By John T. McIntyre. Copyrighted and All Rights Reserved

THE TWO REPORTS

After dinner the two young men settled themselves in the library. Stumph served their coffee and they renewed their acquaintance with the Greek tobacco. After a little time there came a knock upon the door.

"Come," called Ashton-Kirk.

A short man with remarkable breadth of shoulder and depth of chest entered; he was smooth shaven and salient of jaw and wore the air of one who was not easily balked in anything that he undertook.

"How are you, Burgess?" said the investigator.

"Good-evening," returned Burgess. He advanced and laid some neatly folded sheets at the elbow of his employer. "Fuller was busy and I thought I'd bring these in myself. It's my report on Hume."

"Ah, thank you."

Ashton-Kirk took up the sheets and began running his eye through them. "As you get deeper into this record, did Hume keep his promise?"

Burgess smiled.

"As to possibilities, do you mean? Why, yes, indeed, I rather think he exceeded them." The man lit the cigar which the investigator handed him and drew at it appreciatively. "I went it alone on the first day; but after that I took O'Neill and Purvis on. Between us, we managed to get at something pretty definite."

"Has Fuller finished with Morriss?"

"He is typing his report at this moment. It will be ready in a half hour, I should think."

"Please tell him to bring it in as soon as it is finished."

Burgess nodded and went out. Ashton-Kirk continued to dip into the report here and there.

"Between three of them," said Pendleton, "they should have sifted the man's life and adventures pretty well."

"They seem to have done so, indeed. And rather cleverly, too, I think. Would you care to hear the report?"

"By all means," eagerly.

The sheets were shifted into their proper order once more. Then Ashton-Kirk read

"A Further Investigation Into the Affairs of David Purtell Hume.

"No record was to be had of Hume, beyond his settlement in the city in 1899. People in the same line of business were questioned closely; and those who knew anything of him at all clung to the idea that he was an American who had lived for many years abroad.

"So, we had another look at the old passenger lists of the steamships; but this time we went further back. We knew that the simple ruse of a fictitious name would cover Hume completely; but it seemed the only thing to do, and we set at it systematically. In the records of the steamer Bali, of the Netherlands Steamship Company for the year 1897 we came upon the name of "D. Purtell." Without much hope of learning anything definite after such a lapse of time, I inquired after this person.

"Luck was with us in the shape of an old clerk with a long memory. He faintly recalled something of the sort, and after some talk got out still another book. And there it was: D. Purtell, so it seemed, had been involved in an attempt to smuggle a quantity of diamonds.

"Our next step was to visit the custom-house people. Their records were very complete. They even had a portrait of Purtell, which proved him to have been Hume beyond a doubt. Only a trifle of evidence had been secured against him—not enough to convict—and they were forced to release him. This seems to have been Hume's specialty.

"However, through the customs services of other countries, they had learned quite a lot about him. The authorities of Holland, Spain and France knew him as one of the leading spirits in a system of smuggling that had been going on for years. Once Hume had been located in Antwerp, once at Hamburg, and for a long time at Bayonne. This system of contraband had been broken up just before he had been arrested by the United States service. A number of the criminals had been convicted; but Hume, with his usual luck, had escaped once more, because of lack of evidence against him.

"Nothing could be learned of the movements of Hume between his arrest on the Baltic and his location here as a dealer in the curiosities of art. And, after his going into business here, he kept to himself a great deal.

"But the drink habit caused him to frequent certain resorts and it was at one of these that he first met Richard Morris, father to Allan Morris!"

"Ah!" said Pendleton. "So Hume knew Morris' father."

"I asked Fuller, in giving him his instructions, to have this fact established, if he could," said Ashton-Kirk. "That both Hume and the elder Morris were heavy drinkers caused me to think it possible."

"Is that all there is to the report?"

"Almost." The investigator turned to the pages once more, and proceeded: "Hume and the elder Morris became quite intimate and were often seen together. But what it was that formed the bond between them, no one knows, unless it be a deaf mute named Locke, who was frequently seen in their society, and who seemed upon close terms with both. But within a year after their first meeting, Hume broke with Morris. This must have been serious, for it caused a marked enmity to spring up between them. A number of people recall that Richard Morris frequently made threats against the other—threats of personal violence and also of the law. But before anything could come of these, if he really meant them, he died.

"Thinking that Locke might be able to throw some light on this phase of the case, we have endeavoured to locate him. Up to this time we have met with no success; but we hope to learn something of him at an early date."

Ashton-Kirk laid the sheets down upon the table.

"There follows a list of the names of the people who have supplied this information and their addresses," said he. "Burgess is very thorough in his work."

Outside the fact that Hume was a scoundrel—which we knew before—and that he was acquainted with Locke and Allan Morris' father, what does this report tell you?"

There was discontent in Pendleton's voice as he asked this question, and the investigator smiled as he made answer:

"That Hume knew the elder Morris supplies us with a theory as to the possible part which the younger Morris has taken in this drama. Whatever passed between Hume and the father has probably been taken up by the son."

"Why, yes," said Pendleton. "I hadn't thought of that."

"Another thing," added Ashton-Kirk. "The report has swung like the needle of a compass, and indicated a fact that my imagination suggested days ago."

"And that is—"

"That Hume once lived in the French town of Bayonne."

Pendleton frowned impatiently.

"I don't know what ever made you imagine that," he said. "But now that you find that it is so, of what service is it?"

"We will speak of that later," answered Ashton-Kirk.

Pendleton was about to say something more, but just then Fuller knocked and entered.

"The report on Allan Morris," said he.

"Ah, thanks." The investigator took the compactly typed sheets and then he continued: "Tell Burgess that he need not bother about the man Locke whom he mentions. Say that I have already located him."

"Very well," and Fuller left the room.

For a space there was no sound save that which came from the street and the rustle of the pages as Ashton-Kirk went through them.

"Well," asked Pendleton, finally. "What now?"

"Morris," replied his friend, "does not develop like Hume. Fuller suspected that he'd prove colorless, and so it has turned out. However I'll read what he says. It's headed:

"A Second Report on Allan Morris

"A very careful inquiry failed to uncover anything in connection with this young man's personal affairs that was not mentioned in my first report on the same subject. He has led a very even, uneventful life, attending closely to business and making every movement count in the direction of distinction as a marine engineer.

"However there has been something in connection with the affairs of Morris for the last few years that has attracted the attention of those who knew him most or came in contact with him. This took the various forms of eagerness of manner, irritability, long fits of reverie, a thorough desire for work. At one time, for instance, I learned that he had spent some time in a big library, poring over books of the patent office. He was very fond of reading, and was to be found at all times of day in the corner (the clerk once forgot to call Morris' attention to the report until the day after its arrival. Morris has always been very tolerant with his employees, but that day he burst out in a fury and threatened to discharge them all.

"Richard Morris, father to Allan, was a most erratic genius, as my first report indicated. His propeller, his smoke-consumer, and his automatic brake were valuable commercial properties, but had all slipped from his control. Toward the end of his life he engaged in the perfection of an invention of which he talked a great deal and of which he declared that he alone would reap the benefit.

"As Burgess will already have told you, Richard Morris knew Hume. The latter was a frequent visitor to a shop which the inventor maintained in the outskirts, as was the mute Locke. I have talked with an old mechanic who worked for Morris at the time; he told me that the inventor had made a stubborn fight against the drink habit and seemed likely to conquer it up to the time that he became acquainted with Hume. After this, however, he became as much a slave to it as ever. The invention, or whatever it was, never got beyond the paper stage; for thereafter Richard Morris spent his days in sleep and his nights at the once famous Coffin Club.'"

Ashton-Kirk arose eagerly.

"There is more," said he. "But it is scarcely of interest." Placing the report upon the table, he added: "You have heard of the Coffin Club, Pen?"

"Of course. It met in an underground place somewhere, didn't it? And if I remember right, it was fitted up like the Cafe Au Morat in Paris."

"Something of the sort." The investigator went to a huge card system and pulled out a drawer labeled "TO." "But I recall it best by the steward whose philosophy and Irish turns of speech were so frequently quoted by the newspapers during the heyday of the establishment. Can you recall his name?"

"I know whom you mean," answered Pendleton, "but the name has slipped me."

Ashton-Kirk paused in the fingering of the cards.

"It was, Tobin," said he. "It came to me that it was, but I wanted to be sure." He pushed the drawer into place, looked at his friend inquiringly, and added: "Suppose we go around to the Rangnow and see him?"

CHAPTER XX

ONE OF THE OLD SORT.

Pendleton looked at his friend in bewilderment.

"You don't mean to say that the philosopher of the Coffin Club and this Tobin of young Morris' are the same," cried he.

"I only think they are," said Ashton-Kirk quietly. "But we can make sure by paying a short visit to the apartment house."

"Now?"

"There is no time like the present." And so the end of half an hour found them stepping out of a cab at the extreme west end of the city. It was only a little after nine o'clock but the streets were almost deserted; the arc lamps clicked and hissed lonesomely; rows of darkened windows and shadowy doorways ran away on both sides.

The Patient Brain

A Tireless Worker So Long as Supplied With Rich, Red Blood.

The brain is one of the most patient and industrious organs of the body. It can be induced, by good treatment, to perform prodigies of work.

But it is sensitive and will not brook abuse. It responds to the lash at first but if the lash is laid on too hard it balks.

The brain insists on having plenty of good, red blood wherewith to renew its waste and from which to manufacture the nerve force supplied to the whole body.

Nervous trouble is generally brain trouble and no suffering is to be compared to mental suffering, with its accompanying dread, suspicion and melancholy.

One-fifth of the blood in the human body is consumed by the brain, so make the blood rich and red by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and you will restore the forces of the nerves.

There is no other way. Stimulants cause false hope. Narcotics deaden pain, and temporary relief is followed by a condition which is worse than the first.

Get the blood right and the nervous system will adjust itself. Headaches will disappear, irritability will go, nervous exhaustion will improve, and weakness in any part of the body will give place to health and courses new vigor and energy.

Mr. Geo. Fuller, Lawrence, Man., writes: "Dr. Chase's Nerve Food was recommended to me by a friend for which I was a great sufferer, and I am no longer troubled with twitchings of the nerves in the arms and legs."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food will make you well and strong. 50 cents a box, 5 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

An Object of Pity

That part of our nature which we call the emotional is much more highly developed in women than in men. They are more sensitive, more tender, more sympathetic, more demonstrative in their likes and dislikes, more susceptible to the extremes of pleasure and pain, and these refined mental qualities, no less than beauty of form and feature make up the atmosphere of attractiveness and charm which always surrounds true womanliness.

The continued existence of these winning, engaging womanly characteristics depends to a very large extent on the regularity of the womanly functions and the condition of the womanly organs; and when these functions and organs become disordered or diseased the same mental qualities which are the glory of a well woman become the source of suffering and torture almost indescribable. Her cheery hopefulness is changed to a feeling of despondency, almost of despair, and she is haunted with forebodings of worse evils to come. Instead of being entertaining and companionable, she becomes moody and irritable, being unable to keep her mind from dwelling on her troubles. She becomes morbidly sensitive, imagining that she is being slighted or foreseeing by her relatives and friends and she has a most humiliating sense of her miserable condition and of her loss of her womanly attributes. If she is religiously inclined she is very liable to be oppressed with doubts and fears in regard to her spiritual condition, or to think that she is eternally lost. In addition to this she has also to endure the most distressing aches and pains.

What makes the case still more pitiable, especially with married women, is the fact that few men understand or appreciate the extent of their suffering, or the seriousness of the troubles causing it. Many doctors even speak of these disorders as subjects for ridicule, and the poor sufferer often gets a reputation for being a crank or a scold when she more nearly approaches being a martyr.

As these disorders are due to a disordered condition of the womanly organs, it is evident that to effect a cure these organs must be restored to normal condition, or, in other words, the circulation which has become congested and stagnant in these parts, must be improved so that the waste matter will be expelled, and the nourishment so badly needed be brought to these suffering organs. It is the waste-matter, or broken down tissue, which is held in the stagnant blood vessels in these parts, that causes most of the suffering by oppressing the nerves located in these parts.

The remedy known as ORANGE LILY will speedily relieve this congestion and restore normal circulation in the disordered organs. It is an applied or local treatment, and acts wholly on these parts. It is absorbed into the blood vessels in these organs, and as it has powerful antiseptic properties, it immediately acts on the waste matter held there, and causes it to be discharged. As this dead matter is discharged the nerves are relieved, the pains and mental troubles become less, and the nerves and blood vessels become stronger. ORANGE LILY thus proves its merit by actual, visible results. It acts as certainly and as positively on all female troubles as anti-toxin does on diphtheria.

Winnipeg, April 28th, 1909.

Dear Mrs. Currah,—I am very grateful to ORANGE LILY for the change it has made in my life. When I commenced it I was eight months ago I felt I would be surely insane before the year was ended. The pains I suffered often made me wish for death, and besides I would have such fits of depression and nervous twitching that I would have to scream. I had doctored with three different doctors for over two years, and had also used both the Lydia and Pinkham medicines, but none of them seemed to reach my case. I felt some improvement after the first month's use of ORANGE LILY and have kept gaining ever since. I do not feel that I am entirely cured yet but I am so much better than I was that I am sure I will soon be entirely well. I sleep well, and feel cheerful and happy except that I am occasionally somewhat depressed, but these spells are getting fewer and milder. I have also improved in appearance. Enclosed find $2 for which please send me two boxes of ORANGE LILY and one of Cerate. Massage. I might add that the matter which used to fall out and which looked like a chicken's gizzard is becoming very scarce and I trust the circulation is pretty well restored. Am I not right in this? Yours sincerely friend. MRS. L. E. A.

Free to all Sufferers

In order to enable every woman suffering from any form of female disorders to test the merits of ORANGE LILY, I will send to everyone who will send me her address, or the address of any suffering friend enough of the remedy for ten days' treatment absolutely free. As this is worth $2.50, it is only because I know that it must give relief that I make this free trial offer. Further, if any woman wishes expert medical advice and will write me a full description of her case, I will submit same to the staff of the Cowley Medical Institute, Detroit, Mich. and they will write her direct without expense to her. INCLOSE THREE 2-CENT STAMPS and address MRS. FRANCES E. CURRAH, WINDSOR, ONT. 3

STRIKE WAS FUTILE

Until a few months ago the works of the British Aluminium Company at Kinlochleven were carried on without the least friction between the company and its employees. This summer, however, the workers formed themselves into a union, and ade demands for improved conditions of labor. The company's officials refused to recognize the union, and dismissed one or two of the agitators. As a protest against this action, the men struck work, and remained idle for ten days. At the end of that time they saw they were unable to continue the struggle, and so made an unconditional surrender. Work has, therefore, been resumed again, and the best between capital and labor in the district is now being healed up.

Kinlochleven, which is situated about eight miles east of Ballachulish, is well worth a visit from the tourist who has not seen this part of the Scottish Highlands. Ballachulish itself is only a little over five hours' run from Glasgow or Edinburgh by train. As has been well said by a writer on the district, "The country round about is replete with interest to lovers of the sublime and beautiful in natue, to students of history and Celtic lore, and to clansmen all over the world."

NOVEL "PARCELS"

Two girls aged six and five years respectively, the daughters of English parents residing in Strathcona, Alberta, travelled recently all the way from England unattended.

They were put on the train at Sheffield labelled like parcels of merchandise. A broad leather belt surrounded the waist of each, with painted letters reading, "To Mr. M— H—, Strathcona, Alberta, per s.s. Empress of Britain, care of Canadian Pacific Railway."

The little pilgrims arrived safely with a cartload of toys given to them by the passengers on the boat, with whom they became great favorites.

Little Girl Loses Finger Tip Giving Peanuts To A Bear

Special to The Examiner.

NEW YORK, JAN. 5.—"Don't blame the nice bear; it was all my fault," said ten-year-old Lauretta Potts last night while describing how Jim, the polar bear in the Central Park menagerie bit off the end of one of her fingers.

"I'm so afraid they will blame the bear," continued the child, "and really, I had no right inside the railing, and in the next place I find that I should have kept my fingers flat while trying to feed him."

Lauretta is the great-great-granddaughter of the founder of Pottstown, Pa. Her father is George E. Potts of Pottstown, and while visiting in New York she is the guest of her father's brother-in-law, A. G. Paine, jr., who lives at No. 18 West Forty-ninth Street.

WAS GIVING PEANUTS TO JIM.

Shortly after noon yesterday Lauretta was taken to Central Park by Rose Guerney, a maid employed by Mrs. Paine. The girl said the park was "nearly as nice as in Philadelphia," but she became enraptured when the menagerie was reached.

Mr. Paine in telling of the accident said:

"Lauretta had been buying peanuts and feeding the to the squirrels, and when she reached the bears she wished to keep on feeding the animals.

"Before anyone could stop her she slipped under the iron railing and offered a peanut to one of the polar bears. I do not believe that the animal was vicious, but Lauretta, instead of holding the peanut in her hand, extended it in her fingers through the bars of the cage.

"In the most friendly fashion the bear grabbed at the peanut, but in doing so nipped the end of the middle finger of my little niece. The finger nail was destroyed and possibly one-fourth of an inch of the finger was taken off.

NO OPERATION NECESSARY

"The child was brought home at once in an automobile and several physicians were summoned. Dr. W. E. Studdiford attended her. It has been incorrectly reported that one finger was amputated. No operation was necessary beyond taking every precaution to see if the child's finger could possibly be restored to normal condition. This is doubtful.

"The girl's grandfather was President of the National Park Bank. She almost refuses to stay in bed, and her one fear seems to be that the keepers may blame the bear for the accident. There appears to be not the slightest reason for fearing any serious result from the bite."

Sweethearts Die Of Poison On Eve Of Wedding Day--No Explanation

Special to The Examiner.

CUMBERLAND, MD., JAN. 5.—A New Year's Eve tragedy that has as yet no explanation was enacted at the home of Lewis E. Elosser, No. 116 Taylor Street this afternoon. His daughter, Grace Elosser, and her husband-to-be, Charles Edward Twigg, prominent merchant and horticulturist, of Keyser, W. Va., twenty-three miles west of Cumberland, were found dead seated on the sofa in the parlor. They were both killed by poison. The pair were to have been married to-morrow at Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, Cumberland.

Mr. Twigg was a widower. He telephoned his fiancee from Keyser that he would be down on the noon train. He went to the Elosser home with the wedding ring; it did not fit, and the couple had arranged to go to a jeweller on Baltimore Street to-night to have it fitted. The two were in the parlor alone from one o'clock until about 2.45 this afternoon. Members of the family heard them chatting.

About 2 o'clock Miss Elosser telephoned a girl friend about the coming wedding. Soon after this all was still.

MOTHER ENDS BOTH DEAD

Mrs. Elosser, the mother of the girl, says that about 2.30 she went into the room and saw her daughter and Mr. Twigg seated on the settee together. Neither spoke to her and she did not speak. She went out, but later, becoming concerned because of the prolonged quiet following the cheery conversation, she returned to the room and spoke to her daughter and receiving no response she placed her hand on her daughter's head. The girl fell over and Mrs. Elosser found that both were dead.

The bodies were removed to an undertaking where a post-mortem revealed deadly poison in the stomach of the girl was terrible suggested. The poison was in liquid form, as the bottle has not been found. The authorities are perplexed, and are unable to determine whether it was double murder or suicide and murder.

WOMAN HAS BEEN DIVORCED

Miss Elosser was twenty-eight years of age and was the divorced wife of Maurice C. Willison, son of John B. Willison of Flintstone, this county. Her married life had not been happy and three years ago she obtained a divorce, resuming her maiden name. Since then Mr. Willison married Miss Hilda Gorman.

Her friends deny the possibility of suicide. Her conversation over the telephone an hour before she was found dead told of her happiness over the near approach of her wedding.

Twigg was about thirty-three years of age. His wife died a year after their marriage, four years ago. Twigg is said to have been worth about $50,000. He owned a large general store at Keyser, a dwelling at the same place, and a peach orchard from which he realised large revenue the season just closed. His parents separated.

It is stated at one time Mr. Twigg paid attention to Miss May Elosser, a sister of the dead woman he was to aid. She is a teacher in the Chapel Hill School, South Cumberland. It is also stated that Mr. Twigg had shown attention to a young woman in Parkersburg, W. Va.

In 2015 United States Will Be Babyless Land

ST. LOUIS, MO., JAN. 3.—There will be no children in the United States under five years of age in the year 2020. Babies, accordingly, will have disappeared from this country as early as 2015.

This is the mathematical conclusion of Professor Walter F. Wilcox, of Cornell University, after exhaustive study and comparison of the birth-rate during the last century. Professor Wilcox addressed his associates in the American Statistic Association here on the subject of "Comparative Birth-rate in the United States and France."

The only hope of seeing babies in the United States after 2020, according to Professor Willcox's calculations, is in possible importation from France.

France, he says, will continue to have babies eighty year after the United States has ceased. But even this condition is to come about, he says, only if—

"The proportion of decrease in the number of women of marriageable age is continued uninterruptedly for another 110 years."

"There is proportionately more race suicide in the United States than in France," said Professor Willcox. "Though it is difficult to compare the two countries, the proportion of children under five years to women between the ages of fifteen and forty-nine years in the United States was only 55 per cent. in 1900 of what it was in [illegible]. The birth-rate in France in 1900 was 69 per cent. of what it was 1910."

An endowment for the stork was recommended by George Elliot Howard, professor of of sociology in the University of Nebraska. In an address on the "Social Control of Domestic Relations" he declared the State should honour motherhood by endowing mothers.

"Parents who raise families," he said, "are entitled to payment and security from the State the same as the soldier of the judge or any other public servant. The woman who gives a child to the State should be allowed an income by the State for taking care of that child. That would make the mother the ruler in the home. That would be social justice."

The stability of the family should be increased, he said, by a good marriage law to check the hasty, clandestine and frivolous marriages. These marriages are bad, and it is only the bad marriages that end in the divorce court.

GAS, INDIGESTION AND HEARTBURN GO
Makes Your Out-of-order Stomach Feel Fine in Five Minutes
The question of how long you are going to continue a sufferer from indigestion, Dyspepsia or out-of-order Stomach is merely a matter of how soon you begin taking some Diapepsin.
If your Stomach is lacking in digestive power, why not help the stomach to do its work, not with drastic drugs, but a reenforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the stomach.
People with weak stomachs should take a little Diapepsin occasionally, and there will be no more indigestion, no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, or heartburn, Sour risings, Gas on Stomach or Belching of undigested food, Headaches, Dizziness or Sick Stomach, and, besides, what you eat will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors. All these symptoms resulting from a sour, out-of-order stomach and dyspepsia are generally relieved in five minutes after taking a little Diapepsin.
Go to your druggist and get a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin now, and you will always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good, because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you. They freshen you and make you feel like life is worth living.

"DRESS SUIT BURGLAR"

Examiner Special.

NEW YORK, JAN. 5.—The mother of Thomas Wandless, alias "Kid" Howard, alias Tom Hanlon, "the dress suit burglar," claimed his body yesterday at St. Mary's Hospital, in Passaic, N.J., where he died Friday night from the effects of a pistol shot received three weeks ago as he was attempting to break into a house in that city. Jean Mitchell, the nineteen-year-old girl who acted as his look-out and described herself as the burglar's "chicken stall," may not be sent to prison now, but there was no rejoicing in her cell in the jail, for she was genuinely attached to the dead man.

Wandless was shot by Peter A. Talpey as he was in the act of entering his house. He managed to get away, and the girl got him to a drug store, where she had his wound bandaged, but they were captured. Wandless was taken to the hospital, and when told that the man was dying she broke down. After declaring that he should not die with his wrongs unconfessed, she disclosed her identity and that of Wandless.

She was arraigned in court in Patterson on Friday and pleaded guilty to being an accomplice of Wandless, but now that the principal is dead, it is thought likely that the girl will be released on suspended sentence.

She told the police that she and Wandless had been in nearly every large city and in some of the smaller ones, and had committed many robberies. Concerning herself, she said she was the daughter of respectable Canadian parents, and had run away about a year ago and joined him, but the police believe her criminal career is of much greater duration despite her youth.

By John T. McIntyre. Copyrighted and All Rights Reserved

THE TWO REPORTS

After dinner the two young men settled themselves in the library. Stumph served their coffee and they renewed their acquaintance with the Greek tobacco. After a little time there came a knock upon the door.

"Come," called Ashton-Kirk.

A short man with remarkable breadth of shoulder and depth of chest entered; he was smooth shaven and salient of jaw and wore the air of one who was not easily balked in anything that he undertook.

"How are you, Burgess?" said the investigator.

"Good-evening," returned Burgess. He advanced and laid some neatly folded sheets at the elbow of his employer. "Fuller was busy and I thought I'd bring these in myself. It's my report on Hume."

"Ah, thank you."

Ashton-Kirk took up the sheets and began running his eye through them. "As you get deeper into this record, did Hume keep his promise?"

Burgess smiled.

"As to possibilities, do you mean? Why, yes. Indeed, I rather think he exceeded them." The man lit the cigar which the investigator handed him and drew at it appreciatively. "I went it alone on the first day; but after that I took O'Neill and Purvis on. Between us, we managed to get at something pretty definite."

"Has Fuller finished with Morris?"

"He is typing his report at this moment. It will be ready in a half hour, I should think."

"Please tell him to bring it in as soon as it is finished."

Burgess nodded and went out. Ashton-Kirk continued to dip into the report here and there.

"Between three of them," said Pendleton, "they should have sifted the man's life and adventures pretty well."

"They seem to have done so, indeed. And rather cleverly, too, I think. Would you care to hear the report?"

"By all means," eagerly.

The sheets were shifted into their proper order once more. Then Ashton-Kirk read

"A Further Investigation Into the Affairs of David Purtell Hume.

"No record was to be had of Hume, beyond his settlement in the city in 1899. People in the same line of business were questioned closely; and those who knew anything of him at all clung to the idea that he was an American who had lived for many years abroad.

"So we had another look at the old passenger lists of the steamships; but this time we went further back. We knew that the simple ruse of a fictitious name would cover Hume completely; but it seemed the only thing to do, and we set at it systematically. In the records of the steamer Baltic of the Netherlands Steamship Company for the year 1897 we came upon the name of 'D. Purtell.' Without much hope of learning anything definite after such a lapse of time, I inquired after this passenger.

"Luck was with us in the shape of an old clerk with a long memory. He faintly recalled something of the man, and after some talk got out still another book. And there it was! D. Purtell, so it seemed, had been involved in an attempt to smuggle a quantity of diamonds.

"Our next step was to visit the customs people. Their records were very complete. They even had a portrait of Purtell, which proved him to have been Hume beyond a doubt. Only a trifle of evidence had been secured against him—not enough to convict—and they were forced to release him. This seems to have been Hume's specialty.

"However, through the customs services of other countries, they had learned quite a lot about him. The authorities of Holland, Spain and France knew him as one of the leading spirits in a system of smuggling that had been going on for years. Once Hume had been located in Antwerp, once at Hamburg, and for a long time at Bayonne. This system of contraband had been broken up just before he had been arrested by the United States service. A number of the criminals had been convicted; but Hume, with his usual luck, had escaped once more, because of lack of evidence against him.

"Nothing could be learned of the movements of Hume between his arrest on the Baltic and his location here as a dealer in the curiosities of art. And, after his going into business here, he kept to himself a great deal.

"But the drink habit caused him to frequent certain resorts and it was at one of these that he first met Richard Morris, father to Allan Morris!"

"Ah!" said Pendleton. "So Hume knew Morris' father."

"I asked Fuller, in giving him his instructions, to have this fact established, if he could," said Ashton-Kirk. "That both Hume and the elder Morris were heavy drinkers caused me to think it possible."

"Is that all there is to the report?"

"Almost." The investigator turned to the pages once more, and proceeded: "Hume and the elder Morris became quite intimate and were often seen together. But what it was that formed the bond between them, no one knows, unless it be a deaf mute named Locke, who was frequently seen in their society, and who seemed upon close terms with both. But within a year after their first meeting, Hume broke with Morris. This must have been serious, for it caused a marked enmity to spring up between them. A number of people recall that Richard Morris frequently made threats against the other—threats of personal violence and also of the law. But before anything could come of these, if he really meant them, he died.

"Thinking that Locke might be able to throw some light on this phase of the case, we have endeavoured to locate him. Up to this time we have met with no success; but we hope to learn something of him at an early date."

Ashton-Kirk laid the sheets down upon the table.

"There follows a list of the names of the people who have supplied this information and their addresses," said he. "Burgess is very thorough in his work."

"Outside the fact that Hume was a scoundrel—which we knew before—and that he was acquainted with Locke and Allan Morris' father, what does this report tell you?"

There was discontent in Pendleton's voice as he asked this question, and the investigator smiled as he made answer:

"That Hume knew the elder Morris supplies us with a theory as to the possible part which the younger Morris has taken in this drama. Whatever passed between Hume and the father has probably been taken up by the son."

"Why, yes," said Pendleton. "I hadn't thought of that."

"Another thing," added Ashton-Kirk. "The report has swung like the needle of a compass, and indicated a fact that my imagination suggested days ago."

"And that is——"

"That Hume once lived in the French town of Bayonne."

Pendleton frowned impatiently.

"I don't know what ever made you imagine that," he said. "But now that you find that it is so, of what service is it?"

"We will speak of that later," answered Ashton-Kirk.

Pendleton was about to say something more, but just then Fuller knocked and entered.

"The report on Allan Morris," said he.

"Ah, thanks." The investigator took the compactly typed sheets, and then he continued: "Tell Burgess that he need not bother about the man Locke whom he mentions. Say that I have already located him."

"Very well," and Fuller left the room.

For a space there was no sound save that which came from the street and the rustle of the pages as Ashton-Kirk went through them.

"Well," asked Pendleton, finally. "What now?"

Morris" replied his friend, "does not develop like Hume. Fuller suspects that next move colorless, and so it has turned out. However, I'll read what he says. It's headed

"A Second Report on Allan Morris

"A very careful inquiry failed to uncover anything in connection with this young man's personal affairs that was not mentioned in my first report on the same subject. He has led a very even, uneventful life, attending strictly to business and making every movement count in the direction of distinction as a marine painter.

"He has not, there has been considerable to mention for the last few years that has attracted the attention of those who knew him best or came in contact with him. This took the various forms of eagerness of manner, irritability, long fits of reverie, feverish desire for work. At one time, at business, I learned that he had some time had a keep interest in the reports of the patent office. He always said that he'd read them because of some time or other in which he (the clerk) had been interested in the matter of heavy ordnance. Whether this was true or not I cannot say.

"Hume has been considered eccentric, but not more so than many another man who has attained success in his profession. He has always been very fond of children, and has frequently been seen in their company. He has also been known to be very kind to animals, and has been frequently seen feeding stray dogs and cats. LOCAL OPTION CONTESTS
DRY WAVE ADVANCING

With only ten municipalities yet to hear from, the returns of the voting on Monday show 26 local option victories, 22 cases giving a majority in favor of the by-law, but not the required 60 per cent. of the total number of votes polled, and 23 defeats.

WHAT LEASED THEM MOST

The most gratifying thing about the campaign from the local option standpoint, said Secretary Ben. H. Spence yesterday, was the sustaining of the by-law in all three repeal contests. "The fact," he said, "that of 134 possible places we were challenged in only three and won in them all, is a part of the satisfactory character of local option.

Another gratifying feature of the day was the "splendid victory" in Hamilton, where a temperance Mayor was elected, license reduction was carried and a compensation defeated. For although a despatch from Hamilton announced that the compensation by-law was carried like the others yet the Alliance officers received the figures, which were: For compensation 7,241 against 6,767—a majority against of 2,873. The vote on reduction was 6,555 for, 4,340 against—a majority for, 2,215. A Council in sympathy with temperance reform was also elected.

Summing up the situation, in comparison with the position at their moments, Mr. Spence said that while both the Alliance office and that at 28 Wellington street were both thankful and regretful, there was this difference, that the people in the latter office regretted that the results were so bad for their side, and were thankful that they were not worse; while the Alliance people were thankful that things went so well for them, their only regret being that they were not better.—Globe.

WRITE IT

Write it on the workhouse gate,
Write it on the schoolboy's slate,
Write it on the copy-book,
That the young may often look:
"Where there's drink, there's danger."

Write it on the churchyard mound,
Where the rum-slain dead are found,
Write it on the gallows high,
Write it for all the passers-by:
"Where there's drink, there's danger."

Write it in the nation's laws,
Blotting out the license clause;
Write it on each ballot white,
So it can be read aright:
"Where there's drink, there's danger."

Write it on our ships that sail,
Borne along by stor and gale;
Write in large letters plain,
Over every land and main:
"Where there's drink, there danger."

Write it over every gate,
And halls of state,
In the hearts of every band,
On the laws of every land:
"Where there drink, there's danger."

Frances E. Willard, who wanted every boy and girl to commit these words to memory.

JUDGE LINDSEY'S TEMPERANCE DECLARATION

The Hon. Ben. B. Lindsey, the famous and beloved "boys' judge" of the Juvenile Court of Denver, and author of the stirring book on political righteousness and corruption, "The Beast and the Jungle," makes for the readers of The Sunday School Times the following declaration of his own present practice and belief:

I am a Total Abstainer.

On occasions I have taken wine at banquets and dinners, and there was a time when, on the advice of friends, I used wine after hard work; but I think that was one of the most dangerous and most foolish things I ever did.

It is only within recent years that I have determined to be a total abstainer, because I think it best for my physical and moral health, and because I wish to set a good example to others.

I believe that every boy and girl should be taught to avoid liquor in any form, as he would be taught to avoid poison in any form. The consumption of liquor, no matter in how small a quantity, when taken in the form of beer, wine, or whisky, etc., is simply another form of slowly poisoning the body.

I wish every boy in America would keep the pledge to refrain from intoxicating liquor of any kind or character as a beverage; to do all in his power to end the drink habit and the liquor traffic; and to abstain from the use of tobacco in any form.

I have been in the Juvenile Court ten years, and in that time I have had to deal with thousands and thousands of boys who have disgraced themselves and their parents, and who have brought sorrow and misery into their lives, and I do not know of any one habit that is more responsible for the troubles of these boys than the vile cigarette habit. No pure-minded, honest, manly, brave, gentle boy will smoke cigarettes.

Itching Scalp Falling Hair

To prevent dry, thin and falling hair, remove dandruff, allay itching and irritation of the scalp, and promote the growth and beauty of the hair, frequent shampoos with Cuticura Soap, assisted by occasional dressings with Cuticura Ointment, succeed when other methods fail. Cuticura Soap and Ointment have been equally effective in the treatment of torturing, disfiguring scalp humors and the alarming loss of hair which so often results. For example, read how George E. Jefferson, 1514 Reed St., Philadelphia, tells of his remarkable case:

"My disease started with a little pimple on my head. Then it began to itch. The more I would scratch, the worse it grew until it spread all over my head. So I went to the doctor. But my head grew as raw as a piece of beef and my hair commenced to fall out in bunches. So I changed doctors. My head at this time was so sore I could not touch it. Then I decided to go to the hospital. They began to treat it but it improved very slowly. For over three years I was a sufferer from this disease. I thought all hopes of a permanent cure were impossible. A friend upon seeing the condition of my head—which was a mass of running corruption—asked me if I had tried the Cuticura Remedies. I told him nothing would do me any good; but being very anxious to be cured, I decided to try them. The first treatment brought immediate relief. My hair became alive and stopped falling out, all the scale left and now I am perfectly well and have a full head of hair. I can truthfully say that it was entirely due to the use of the Cuticura Remedies."

MURDER AND SUICIDE

BALTIMORE, JAN. 5.—William C. Strickler to-day shot and killed his wife and her 19-year-old daughter, Eula Kile, at their home at 2417 East Lafayette Avenue and then shot himself in the temple. It was said at the hospital to-night that he cannot live. Domestic trouble is the cause assigned for the tragedy. Strickler was employed as fireman at a power house.

The shooting to-day came as a climax to a series of bitter quarrels between Strickler and his wife. The latter and her daughter Eula were busy with household duties when Strickler returned home this afternoon. Strickler, it is said by another member of the family, was incensed at his wife because she had chided him yesterday for wearing his best clothes when he went to work. He was said to have been drinking, and when he came in to-day he carried several bottles of beer. Going to the room where the women were, he began upbraiding them, and finally in his fury drew a revolver and began firing. At the first shot Eula fell dead with a bullet in her head. Two shots took effect in Mrs. Strickler's body, causing instant death, and Strickler then turned the weapon against himself.

Eula Kile, who was a telephone operator, and her brother and sister had remained at home to-day, fearing violence against their mother by the man. The two surviving children were in an adjoining room when the shooting occurred, but it was done so quickly that they were powerless to interfere. The family came from Shenandoah, Va.

A GREAT INDUSTRY

If ideal conditions of labor could prevail anywhere, one would expect to find them in the remote Highland village of Kinlochleven, in northern Argyllshire, Scotland, the site of the factory of the British Aluminium Company, which business was transferred from Greenock, on the River Clyde. The firm manufactures every conceivable article for general and domestic use in aluminium. The works were laid down, within the past five or six years, on the most up-to-date lines, and apparently every provision was made for the comfort and convenience of the workers.

Before the coming of the British Aluminium Company to the district, there were only one or two houses to be seen. Since then a flourishing village has sprung into existence. The place is laid out on the most modern lines; electric light is installed in every house, and there is an excellent water supply. As for situation, nothing more magnificent could be imagined. The village is situated at the head of Loch Leven, an arm of the sea which separates part of Argyllshire from the county of Inverness. Some of the most magnificent scenery, in the Scottish Highlands is in the near vicinity of Kinlochleven. The mountain air is clear and bracing, and altogether the situation appears almost too romantic for such a modern industry as the making of aluminium.

1. Verse 25. Where were Shechem and Penuel situated?

2. Verses 26-27. Which tends more to promote faithfulness to God, adversity or prosperity? Give your reasons.

3. Is doubt of God more of the head or the heart, and why?

4. What reason is there to believe that if Jeroboam had been true to God he would have reared in confidence that his kingdom could never be taken from him? See chapter xi. 38.

Was Jeroboam's doubt of his people caused by their unfaithfulness or by his own?

What is the general result of doubting those with whom we have to do in the matter of faithfulness to God? This question must be answered in writing by members of the class.

What would have been the probable results if Jeroboam had allowed the people to go up to Jerusalem to worship?

Verse 28-30. Did Jeroboam act wisely or unwisely in preventing the people from going up to Jerusalem to worship? Give your reasons.

Can you find Jeroboam's excuse for what he did about not going to Jerusalem?

Is Jeroboam's fear proved to be groundless? Read chapter xiv. 21-31. Has God given us similar promises? If so, what are they?

What do you say for or against such public worship as and by yourself at home.

Could Not Walk Ten Yards Without Resting.

WEAK HEART WAS THE CAUSE.

Mrs. Robinson Collette, Rogersville, N.B., writes: "I am now enjoying the best of health after having used your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I was troubled with a weak heart and was afraid to draw a long breath for the pain it would cause me. I could not sleep at night, and it was impossible for me to walk ten yards without resting myself. I cannot speak too highly of your Heart and Nerve Pills, for they are the greatest pill I have ever used and I can recommend them to all sufferers."

Thousands of people go about their daily work on the verge of death and yet do not know it.

Little attention is paid to the slight weakness of the heart for the simple reason that one thinks it will right itself, but there is where the mistake is made. It is only when a violent shock comes that the weakness of the heart becomes apparent.

On the first sign of any weakness of the heart or nerves, flagging energy or physical breakdown, the use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will soon produce a quick and permanent cure.

MOTOR ENGINES IN A DREADNOUGHT

They Are Said To Be Building in England for New British Battle Ship.

INTERNAL COMBUSTION

Lord Fisher Contends That Country First to Adopt the Principle Will Sweep World Commercially.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

It is now nearly a week since a statement appeared in a journal called the Motor Boat to the effect that motor engines of 30,000 aggregate horse power are building in England and that they are to be installed in a battle ship of the Dreadnought type shortly to be laid down.

When this announcement was made a good many shrewd observers in the scientific world have been looking about to discover where these engines, which are said to be of the two stroke Diesel type, are being constructed, but up to the present no trace of them has been found. Neither is anything definite known about the engines for a French motor driven battleship, which, according to the same authority, will be completed and in commission in advance of the British vessel.

In fact, these two ships appear to be in a precisely similar condition to the motor driven monitor which the Vorwärts recently asserted was building for Germany. The actual construction of that vessel, like these later ones spoken of in the Motor Boat, was, it may be remembered, vouched for at the time. It is not surprising in these circumstances that there is a good deal of scepticism shown in regard to the whole story.

ENGINES NOW EXIST.

But because it has been found impossible to discover the manufacturies of the engines of these alleged motor driven battleships for Great Britain, France and Germany, it would be unscientific and illogical to assume that they do not exist. At the same time it shows the difficulty that there is in obtaining precise particulars about these wonderful assertions of scientific improvements. If there is one thing more than another demanded in mechanical science it is the necessity for exactness, and all this vagueness about place, time and other essential details only carries doubt to the mind of the engineer.

In an article published in America on August 28 last I outlined the progress that had been made in the application of the "internal combustion" principle to war ship requirements, and expressed the opinion that "when the change does come there is every reason to believe that it will first be seen in a British vessel, for, as was the case with the steam turbine, the authorities would not allow themselves to be outdistanced by a foreign naval Power. For this reason their plans and intentions are kept as secret as possible."

Although Messrs. Vickers, Sons & Maxim have denied any knowledge of a motor driven war ship being actually in hand, there are other firms on the Admiralty list, like Yarrow and Thornycroft, which would no doubt be prepared to build a ship propelled by this new system.

FUTURE PREDICTIONS.

It was only last month that Lord Fisher, the late First Sea Lord of the Admiralty, expressed the opinion in an interview with newspaper representatives at New York that the country that first takes hold of the principle of internal combustion will "steam the world commercially." At present the marine motor is much further advanced in the mercantile marine than for war ship purposes, as is shown by the nine thousand ton steamship which the Hamburg American line is having built at Hamburg. Its extension to ships of war presents peculiar difficulties, though there is no doubt that these will be overcome in course of time.

It is noteworthy that the writer in the Motor Boat deals only with the engines of the motor driven Dreadnought and not with the design of the vessel herself. Sir William White, one of the greatest naval constructors of the age, explained some time back that we have to deal with one of the most perplexing problems that beset a naval designer when we come to the question of weights which vitally affect a ship's stability. The writer in the Motor Boat recognises, it is true, that the saving in weight and space would be hardly sufficient to allow of extra guns to be carried, and he suggests that greater fuel storage accommodation will be provided, but he does not in any way indicate how the loss of the weight of boilers and engines below the waterline is to be met.

These and other similar problems will continue to agitate and interest the engineering world, but it is more likely that some solid contribution toward this important subject by a well known scientific authority will give us our first real light upon the new motor driven battle ship.

LADY MEUX ONCE A STAGE FAVORITE

While Performing at Brighton She Met the Late Baron—Also a Racing Enthusiast.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

THE recent death of Lady Meux, widow of Sir Henry Bruce Meux, a wealthy brewer who was the third and last Baron, recalls the fact that twenty-two years ago, before her marriage, Lady Meux was Miss Viola Susie Langdon, an actress of high reputation. In fact, it was while performing at Brighton that she met her future husband, and, contrary to the rule in stage romance, though married in 1878 they lived happily ever afterward. When her husband succeeded to the baronetcy he settled £20,000 ($100,000) a year on his wife, and at his death in 1900 left her his whole fortune, producing an income of £60,000 ($300,000) a year.

Lady Meux owned a splendid collection of jewelry, much of which had belonged to Lady Hamilton, including the necklace given to "My dear Emma" by the great hero. During the war in South Africa Lady Meux presented an entire battery of artillery—guns, ammunition, horses and equipment—to the government.

Lady Meux was prominently identified with racing, but with the horses she raced herself under the name of "Mr. Theobald" she achieved little success. Her practice had been to lease or sell everything reared at the Theobald Park stud, thus the late William C. Whitney was able to obtain the use of Vlodyovski and in his colors it won the Derby of 1901.

Her death also recalls a rebuke to Whistler, who painted three portraits of Lady Meux. At one of the sittings her ladyship took offence at something said by the artist and silenced him by saying:—"Jimmy Whistler, keep a civil tongue in that head of yours or I will have some one finish those portraits you made of me." The great painter became furious and brought the sitting to a close, but the story furnished food for much London laughter in that day.

AN OIL PAINTING WHILE YOU WAIT

"Mr. Beckford, of the U. S. A.," and His Fleet Street Shop an Attraction to Londoners.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

"MR. BECKFORD, of the U. S. A.," is the name of a remarkable man, according to the English newspapers, who in a small shop in Fleet street is the centre of attraction at a "picture auction," in which oil paintings are "made" while you wait. In describing this "wonderful" artist, whose "masterpieces" sold like hot cakes for holiday gifts, an English journalist says:—

"That artist—Mr. Beckford, of U. S. A.—is a remarkable man. He has a wrist of iron. In an eight hours working day his hand is never still. He uses his brushes like a juggler with sheep knives. They fly between the paint pot and the canvas. He has an eye which has penetrated the mighty secrets of nature and a skill which reproduces them as easily as an ordinary man would stick on postage stamps.

"To see him work is a wonder. Grimly and with unflinching courage he seizes a canvas and daubs it with a background, splodges paint here and there, whisks his colors about, and in less than sixty seconds produces order out of chaos. In less than two minutes trees, a waterfall, an Autumn sunset begin to reveal themselves. In less than five minutes a rustic bridge, a village church and an old windmill give new depth to the scene. In less than ten minutes a glowing picture rich in detail and color is ready for the buyer!

"'Here, gentlemen,' says the auctioneer, 'is genuine masterpiece. It is worthy to adorn the walls of a nobleman's palace.' The remarkable characteristic of Mr. Beckford's work is that the more you look at it the more you see in it. Not until you are dead will you have exhausted all its beauties. It grows upon you. It haunts you. Little by little new effects of art and nature dawn upon your vision. . . . Ten shillings—anybody say ten shillings? Ten and six—anybody say ten and six? Going—going—gone! I congratulate you, sir. You have claimed a family heirloom. Your descendants will rise up and call you blessed. The frame alone is worth a sovereign.'"

HOLDS WOMAN THE 'WEAKER VESSEL'

London Jurist in Granting Divorce Decree Goes to Aid of Feminine Frailties.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

In the strange divorce case here of Mrs. Gwendolin Joyce Pretty, of Farnham, in Surrey, who obtained a decree nisi against her husband, a one time groom in her father's employ, to which decree the King's Proctor objected and, interviewing, alleged that the young woman had had inexcusable relations with Alfred Halfpenny, son of an innkeeper, with whom, previous to her divorce proceedings, she had gone on a trip to New Zealand; concealing this fact from the court, Justice Hargrave Deane in a remarkable decision condones the plaintiff's perjury and, notwithstanding that the jury found that the charges as to her relations with Halfpenny were sustained, confirms her decree of divorce.

Adverting first to the fact that the young woman had been badly advised by her counsel, that she had been guilty of misconduct, and that in denying this misconduct she had been guilty of perjury, Justice Deane said:

"If the woman had only come to the court in the first instance and not followed the unfortunate advice of counsel in keeping secret her voyage to New Zealand with [illegible] upon the cruel conduct of her husband there would have been no trouble."

Then the Justice continues: "Some people are foolish enough to think that a man and a woman should be treated the same. This court never has done so, and I hope never will hold that woman is not the weaker vessel. Her constitution, habits of thought and feminine weakness might lead her to do things which might be excusable in her although the same conduct might not be excusable in a man."

She was Pretty's wife, and if the decree nisi were rescinded she would be bound to him for the rest of her life, bound to a man who—he was going to say—was an impossibility. As a judge he was bound, if he could, to save her from the absolute ruin which he was perfectly certain would follow if the decree were rescinded.

The other side of the case was a very remarkable one, and he had never come across such a peculiar result to such a case in the course of the proceedings. Mrs. Pretty made the acquaintance of a gentleman who fell in love with her, and through his love behaved in a very honorable way toward her, although perhaps not too wisely.

This gentleman, he had been informed, was prepared to marry the woman, notwithstanding the verdict of the jury, if they were set free.

The gentleman referred to was a member of an honorable profession, and if he married her it would lift Mrs. Pretty out of the slough of misery, disgrace and despair into which she had plunged. Could there be any doubt in the mind of any human being as to what he should do?

Some people said that in those circumstances it was not altogether surprising that people had their secrets and committed peccadilloes. There was no greater mistake in the world than that. In that court all actions, honest and dishonest, were the same, for the Court was simply there to examine the weakness of the sex in certain directions.

MANY JEWS NOW IN PARLIAMENT

They Are as Welcome To-Day as They Were Taboo in the Days of Benjamin Disraeli.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

A STUDY of the personnel of the new House of Commons reveals a number of eminent men of the Jewish race among its members, men who are as welcome as they were taboo in the days when Benjamin Disraeli was at the beginning of his career.

Jewish candidates for Parliamentary honors were not at all uncommon even in the early Victorian days, but they stood a poor chance of success because they were wont to appeal for votes in constituencies where the Jewish electorate was strong, tactics which did them more harm than good. How they have changed all that! Their appeal as "fit and proper persons" only, and so stand an equal chance with the Christian.

Among Ministerialists the Right Honorable Herbert Samuel is well known as one of the most able Postmasters General that has ever held office. Sir Rufus Isaacs is no only a picturesque figure within the community, but a prominent member of the government. The Honorable E. S. Montagu, Under Secretary for India. Of the other Ministerialists Sir Maurice Levy, Sir Alfred Mond and E. A. Strauss have not identified themselves much in an active capacity with communal affairs but Mr. C. S. Henry is well known in the Jewish community as president of the Jewish Soup Kitchen and as a member of the Anglo-Jewish Association. Mr. Stuart M. Samuel is known as president of the Western Synagogue and of the Home and Hospital for Jewish Incurables at Tottenham, as vice president of the Jewish Working-men's Club and as a member and trustee of the Jewish Board of Guardians. Mr. H. H. Raphael is a vice-president of the Education Aid Society and was formerly president of the Jewish Home for Invalid ables.

All the Jewish members are well known in the Jewish community in different spheres of activity, as Philip Magnus, B. vice president of the Anglo-Jewish Association and of the Jews' Deaf and Dumb Home. He is a vice-chairman of the council of the West London Synagogue, which he represents on the Jewish Board of Deputies. He likewise takes a great interest in the fortunes of Jews College, of which he is council of which he is [illegible] board of management.

Mr. Lionel de Rothschild was already known himself a worthy follower in the traditions of the great house of which he is a member. Sir Edward Sassoon is a vice-president of the Jews' College and a past president of the Spanish and Portuguese Congregation. Captain Herbert de Rothschild, the second son of the late Sir George Jessel, Master of the Rolls, is well known for his activities in municipal

One Wild Whirling Night in New York with a Briton

Americans in London Amused and Amazed by the Story Told by a Reporter for the Daily Mail of That City About His Experiences.

MUCH CREDIT IS GIVEN TO INVENTIVE GUIDES

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

Americans here are heartily enjoying the amazingly amusing report of what a reporter for the London Daily Mail, who has been emulating the example of Phileas Fogg, saw in New York when he stopped there for a few hours after the arrival of the Mauretania on her celebrated Christmastide round trip to America.

After telling how Mme. Bernhardt clasped his hand in both of hers while offering her best wishes in her golden voice, he proceeds to recount a story of his visit to the Metropolitan Opera House where he was dazzled by the splendor of the famous "diamond horseshoe," but was encouraged by Miss Geraldine Farrar, who was giving the last touches to her costume for the church scene in "Faust," to visit Miner's Theatre, in the Bowery.

"The Hook."

"Don't waste your time here," said the prima donna.

"Isn't this exquisite?"

"But Miner's is better fun than any opera ever written or performed."

So to Miner's the reporter went, and, as he says:

"By blessed good fortune it happened to be 'amateur night,' when anybody may aspire to dramatic or vocal fame by submitting himself to the judgment of the audience, which commends with dollars or condemns with unripe fruit uncommonly well aimed."

When the English reporter arrived a melancholy gentleman was trying vainly to tell a story amid crushing cries from the gallery gods of "Rotten, rotten" and "Get the hook."

Then a door opened at the back of the stage and a fat man, with a long pole with a halter at the end of it, put the halter, which is called "the hook," over the performer's head and dragged him off the stage.

Meets the Apache King.

This modern Phileas Fogg then was informed by American newspaper men who accompanied him that scores of famous music hall artists had been graduated from Miner's and that some distinguished performers had gone there incognito on quarter nights and "got the hook."

After assimilating this trifle of misinformation Phileas was taken to the Bal Tabarin, which he described as "one of the characteristic dancing halls of the Tenderloin," and found it very similar to the dancing halls on the Continent, don't you know.

It was here that his friends pointed out to the notorious "King of the Apaches" and the English reporter, in spite of a "bear" dance, says the king was the mildest mannered man that ever cut a throat.

The Police Commissioner of New York will be glad to know that this Apache king explained in the most casual manner that the criminals are under my protection and I am under the protection of the police."

Then Phileas goes on to say:

"Do you [illegible] at the frank confession of [illegible] confessed [illegible] was known here that we think no more about it than of having breakfast in the morning."

In Sweeney's.

Next the guides took the English tourist to Sweeney's, and he "falls for it" by cable in the following quaint description:

"We found it occupying two ground floors of a converted brown stone mansion. 'Better let me go first here,' suggested the guide. Sweeney has been having trouble with the police through staying open after hours. 'You must be a member of the club to get in now.' Then he drew a card from his pocket showing that he was a member in good standing of the 'L. R. Y. M.,' or Institution for Rummy Young Men."

If it were not for the following paragraph Americans here would suspect the ship news reporters, whose yarns of the sea are deadly dull when contrasted with this English newspaper man's story of New York as he found it. They had taken the pilgrim to Keen's English chop house.

That Intoxicating Dance!

"We passed through a door which was carefully locked behind us," says the explorer. "To tunes of an electric piano couples were essaying the latest two-step dance."

Now, don't laugh at this description of the two-step.

"The dance was an intoxicating, rigid walk around the festooned room, where there were tables and chairs and where patrons of the place indulged in various potations."

"I was carried off to 'Nigger Mike's,' says the record making tourist, 'a most curious den, where I was told Mayor Chuck Connors would give me an interview. My guide knocked and a man behind the door rang a buzzer which sounded somewhere far in the rear. If the buzzer had sounded twice it was a signal that the police were coming, the guide said, and the door would have remained closed and every one would have escaped by the windows.

"We groped our way thirty feet into a room filled with tobacco smoke and the jangling notes of a much abused piano."

Chuck, who says he was originally an Irishman, greeted him with a torrent of peculiar slang.

"Chuck" and Society.

"I asked him about his position in society. 'Isn't that a dainty touch?' and was informed that he was Mayor of Chinatown, whose dens he arranged as carefully as for any Drury lane production for the edification of gullible visitors.

Read the last two words over again and then continue on.

It was now half past three in the morning and the English visitor was taken to a palatial Turkish bath establishment, where he enjoyed the benefits of hot air and steam baths, an expert masseur, a swim and a rest.

Wasn't that fine? are both superfluous after [illegible] experience?

But everything comes to an end, even a sleep in a Turkish bath establishment, and as the author of this wonderful story of New York ought to, he says:

"When we emerged I [illegible] the morning papers and found I was [illegible] in a prison.

Of course. Why not?

Want Revolvers for London Police

Many Favor Firearms After Recent Houndsditch Murders, While Others Argue Against Them.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday.

WHY should the London police not be allowed to carry revolvers? The old question is revived by the Houndsditch murders, just as was the case two years ago when a pair of foreign desperadoes ran amuck in the streets of Tottenham, a North London suburb, and killed one policeman and wounded three others. And just as in similar fashion the cry is sometimes raised in New York that the police should be permitted to carry their nightsticks in place of the short club and then is allowed to die a natural death.

Still, the agitation continues strong in favor of the police being better armed. All they have is the short truncheon, and it is argued that England is the only European nation whose police are not armed. It is contended on the other hand that the English burglar rarely carries firearms; but it is also contended that the east end of London has become and is becoming more and more a hotbed of foreign criminals, just as Soho in the west end is the haven of anarchists of every nationality.

Houndsditch and its neighborhood was always a place associated with the "seamy" side of London life, where Charles Dickens delighted to move in the study of character, and where he found some of his most humorous types of low life. But the Houndsditch of to-day is a different place from what it was in the early and mid Victorian days. It has been called "The Devil's Dumping Shop," the refuge of countless aliens of the most undesirable type. If this recent crime is held as sufficient argument that the police should not be asked to go about their duty in such neighborhood unarmed. It is not the English criminal he has to fight, but the armed continental desperado, who depends upon his revolver as instinctively as the Englishman depends upon his fists.

Houndsditch now stands in slums, which, in their human aspects, are just like patches of Warsaw, Lodz, Bielsk and other towns of the pale. Into these frightfully congested districts the immigration flows weekly by the shipload. Thousands come in every year. Only a few hundreds are kept out or deported. There are no official returns for last year to hand yet, but in 1908 there were more than three thousand aliens criminals in English prisons, while more than a thousand aliens were in receipt of poor law relief.

While public feeling is so roused that steps should be taken to place the police on an equal footing, so far as weapons are concerned, with the foreign ruffians they have to control a correspondent who has made a careful study of the subject writes to the Morning Post that it is by no means an easy matter to decide.

To arm the police with revolvers, he says, "would mean such a complete change of policy that it may be taken for granted that six months hence, by which time the crime will have passed into history, the public will be by no means unanimous on the question.

"On the other hand, those who favor the arming of the police say that in dealing with desperate criminals the revolver is the only weapon that would be effective.

"If as a result of the recent crime London the police are armed, several points of law will arise as to the position of a policeman who in the execution of his duty kills a man. A policeman carrying out his duty legally may repel by force and if in doing so he kills a man it is justifiable homicide. But a necessity, for the killing must be proved.

"To a certain extent a civilian is justified in killing felons in fact he has greater license in dealing with burglars than have the police.

Unpleasant Memories Remain from Driscoll-Welsh Fight

Instead of Being One of the Best Boxing Contests of Century It Developed Into the "Rough House" Order, Which Brought Forth Quick Action from the Referee.

(Special Dispatch.)
London, Saturday. Never has a boxing match been contested with more bitter feeling than that between the light and feather weight Londsdale champions and Freddie Welsh and Jem Driscoll, at Cardiff, recently. Although Welsh got the decision on a foul in the seventeenth round, generally conceded that he would have won in any case, for he proved himself much the better fighter at all points of the game. Driscoll showed magnificent pluck up to a point, but he could no [illegible] away the handicap of age and five years in age, and but one of the keenest [illegible] boxers one could have known [illegible] Welsh.

Instead of settling down to the usual fistic battle, there was a good deal of wrestling, as was clearly foreseen by those who had seen both men [illegible] before. Both were roughing [illegible] before [illegible] were resorting to very questionable tactics, although the disguise it all. Welsh was [illegible] the more [illegible] the jab and [illegible] head at [illegible] with [illegible] too much for Mr. Driscoll, who jumped into the ring and disqualified Driscoll. The bad spirit of the contest will leave the impression that Welsh was behaving unpleasant memories for those who saw it.

COINAGE DESIGNS PAST AND PRESENT

An Interesting History of the Variations in Images and Superscriptions

The new British coinage is to maintain the present designs, with only the alterations rendered necessary by the new accession, but much historical interest clusters round the variations to which our coinage has from time to time been subjected.

The image will, as heretofore, consist of a bust portraying, with more or less accuracy, the features of the reign-however, has variedcmfwypushrdlumf however, has varied with the fortunes of the country, and still more with the claims of the individual monarchs. Prior to 1715 the Stuarts were content with claiming, in Latin abbreviations, to be "By the grace of God King(s) of Great Britain, France, and Ireland." The first addition to this being the letters "F.D.," which, while they denote "Fidei Defensor," as granted to Henry VIII. by Pope Leo Q., were not used on the coinage until the year above named.

The accession of George I. brought about very considerable variations by that monarch adding designations of his Continental "Principalities and Powers" to his newly acquired British dignities. Thus we have introduced Latin abbreviations asserting his claim to be "Duke of Brunswick, Luneberg, Arch-Treasurer and Elector of the Holy Roman Empire," in addition to those mentioned above. The abandonment by Great Britain to all claims, real and imaginary, to be a Ruling Continental Power has been followed by the disappearance of all these, as well as of the title "King of France." It was not, however, until the year 1818 that the "Lilies of France" disappeared from our coinage, after adorning it for upwards of four hundred years.

From the earliest periods there has appeared upon the reverse of the copper or bronze coins a figure with a greater or less resemblance to the idea of the personification of "Britannia." The first known of such figures is found on the coins struck by the Emperor Hadrian about the year A.D. 122. Subsequent Roman-British coins display a similar figure with a shield, much as at present, but holding Roman symbols in place of the trident. The present figure dates from the time of Charles II., and it is believed that the model therefor was the royal favorite "La Belle Stuart" (the Francis Stuart, the Duchess of Richmond, immortalized by Lely's famous painting). At first we have Britannia, bareheaded, facing to the left, holding a spear in her left hand. In the time of George III. (1797) she bears a trident, and a three-masted ship is seen in the distance on the ocean, by which she is surrounded. With George IV. she appears helmeted, facing to the right, her right arm resting on the shield, but the ship and sea have disappeared. On the bronze coinage of 1860 the ocean reappears with a ship, but on this occasion sailing away from her, and in addition to this a lighthouse is introduced behind Britannia, whose right arm entwines the trident, supporting, rather than grasping, it. The authorized new designs are the same as those of the late reign. From these the ship and light house have both been eliminated.

The only exception to being a Britannia-bearing coin, amongst those of the bronze coinage, was the half farthing. The reverse of this coin had across the centre in plain print the words "Half-Farthing," surmounted by a crown, the date being immediately underneath, while below that again was a spray of "rose, shamrock and thistle. These small coins, pretty in design, were issued as late as 1843, but are now extinct, except as curios.

I AM SATISFIED THAT "FRUIT-A-TIVES" CURED ME OF SCIATIC RHEUMATISM

AND "FRUIT-A-TIVES" WILL CURE ANYONE WHO TAKES THEM AS DIRECTED

JOHN B. McDONALD

McMILLAN'S CORNER, ONT., SEPT. 30th, 1910.

Your remedy, "Fruit-a-tives" is a perfect panacea for Rheumatism. For years, I suffered distressing pain from Sciatica, or Sciatic Rheumatism, being laid up several times a year for days at a time, and not being able to work at anything. I went to different doctors who told me there was no use doing anything, it would pass away. They gave me mustard plasters and other remedies that did no good. Plasters took no effect on me—except to blister me and make raw sores on the place applied to. I took many advertised remedies without benefit, but, fortunately, about two years ago, I got "Fruit-a-tives", and they cured me.

Since then I take them occasionally and keep free from pain. I am satisfied "Fruit-a-tives" cured me of Rheumatism, and they will cure anyone who takes them as directed. I can conscientiously recommend them to any Rheumatic sufferer, and hope they will try them. Mr. J. S. Munroe of Monckland Station is where I purchase them, and he recommends them, also.

If this letter would be of value to you, I hereby authorize you to publish it, as well as my accompanying photograph.

(Signed) JOHN B. McDONALD.

Almost everybody in Stormont County, Ontario, knows "John McDonald". For twenty three years, he has been "the village blacksmith" for a good part of the population. He is an expert at his chosen vocation and people came from miles to avail themselves of his services.

Being such a well known man, Mr. McDonald is naturally careful in making any statement for publication, knowing that his friends, neighbors and patrons will believe what John B. McDonald says.

Yet Mr. McDonald is very grateful to "Fruit-a-tives"—not only for saving him so much suffering, but also keeping him in good health so that he can work daily at his business. Mr. McDonald believes in "Fruit-a-tives" because these famous fruit tablets cured him when all else failed. Quite naturally, he is willing to sign his name to a clear statement of the facts.

Mr. McDonald is quite right in saying "Fruit-a-tives" is a panacea for Rheumatism in the world. We would go a step farther and say "Fruit-a-tives" is the only cure for Rheumatism in the world. "Fruit-a-tives" goes to the seat of the trouble—the blood—and keeps the blood free from uric acid by completely regulating the bowels, Kidneys and skin. "Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine in the world that is made of fruit. "Fruit-a-tives" contains the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes, combined with valuable heart and nerve tonics—the whole forming a curative combination which has no equal in the annals of medicine. Being made of fruit, the action of "Fruit-a-tives" is mild while the taste is extremely pleasant. If you feel your old enemy Rheumatism coming back, drive it out of your system by taking "Fruit-a-tives" the wonderful medicine made of fruit. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50 or trial size, 25c. At all dealers, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

BRITISH ELECTION STORIES

A London Bluejacket Said he Paid Taxes Because They were Quicker Than Hansoms

The best of the British election stories come from the dockyard constituencies, where the seafarers used their leave to do something more than vote. None of the naval stories has quite the nip, however, of the London anecdote of the speaker who asked—"Why do I pay taxes?" and gave for answer—"Because they're quicker than hansoms." They tell a story in Devonport of a canvasser who devoted a good hour to argument with a man who turned out to have no vote. The real elector was at sea. Another dockyard canvasser tells of a case in which, with much tact and a great deal of logic, he actually convinced an elector. "You will come and vote then for our man, won't you?" he said. "I'll be at sea by that time," replied the voter, "but I'll send my brother." With visions of a prosecution for personation before him the canvasser besought the elector not to do anything of the kind. In another case the political missionary lost patience with a bluejacket after plying him with arguments for a long time. "If you do not believe in a strong Navy," he thundered, "what do you believe in?" The answer was: "Home Rule and bottled porter." The joke about the necessity of voting early and voting often is now, of course, in the special reserve; but the story is still effective of the elector whose grievance was that for personating seventeen voters an Irishman had got six months instead of the Victoria Cross.

THOSE FINGER PRINTS

Tell-Tale Evidence in Identifying and Tracing Criminals

The science of finger-prints is comparatively young. Though Scotland Yard possesses some tens of thousands of records, it was only in 1901 that the system of identification by finger-print was officially adopted.

But in that short time the authorities have proved that their system is almost infallible. It has enabled them to make no less than forty-four thousand identifications, and that without error, so far as is known.

The bulbs of the fingers of human beings are marked with a number of very fine ridges running in certain directions, and arranged in patterns. These are classed under four primary types—arches, loops, whorls, and composites, and it has been proved that these patterns persist in all their details throughout the whole period of human life.

As a consequence, the police officials whenever summoned to investigate a case of crime, search first for finger-prints, and these can usually be found. When an arrest is made, finger-prints are taken from the prisoner's hand, and if they tally with those taken on the scene of the crime one of the strongest pieces of evidence it is possible to obtain is there against him.

The finger-print collection of Scotland Yard is now a large one, and a search amongst these records will frequently enable them to discover who the criminal of a murder happens to be, so that finger-prints are not only a form of identification, but a valuable help in tracing criminals.

THE BLIND RECTOR

The career of the Rev. H. J. R. Marston, the blind rector of Belgrave Chapel, London, provides a striking example of a man's triumph over infirmity. Mr. Marston lost his sight when he was about to enter Eton, and went to a school for blind boys at Worcester. In addition to dead languages, he speaks and writes German, French, Italian and Spanish, and has preached in German in Whitechapel. He uses a typewriter, plays cricket and football with ringing balls, and rides horses. During his holidays he walks from ten to fourteen miles a day, and four or five when in town. And everything he does he does with a will.

GYPSY QUEEN'S ROMANCE

Millionaire's Beautiful Daughter Renounced Wealth to Marry Gipsy

Jessie Haversham Michele, known all over the United States as the "Gipsy Queen," has just died at Cincinnati.

Only twenty-five years old, and a very beautiful woman, she was the daughter of Mr. A. W. Haversham, a millionaire, of Baltimore, and left her home a few years ago to marry the head of the gipsies.

As the daughter of a millionaire she was brought up in great luxury. She was a descendant of Francis Scott Key, who wrote "The Star Spangled Banner," a great-granddaughter of Mrs. Mary Key, one of the most famous beauties of the South.

She first met the gipsies when she was about fourteen, and began to study their language, becoming interested in Romany ways and customs. On a visit to Europe she met a Hindu who taught her fortune-telling, and twice ran away from home, following the irresistible call of the wandering life.

When she finally left home it was thought that she had been kidnapped, and all the detective machinery that her father's wealth could buy was put into motion to find her. The whole country was scoured, but it was not for several months that her father learned that she had married Jorgas Michele, the gipsy chief. She never went home again, and, though she had been the belle of Baltimore society, she declared that she was tired of leading such a life, and had made her choice, and was supremely contented.

OBEYED INSTRUCTIONS

"I can't keep the visitors from coming up," said the office boy dejectedly to the editor. "When I say you're out they don't believe me. They say they must see you."

"Well," said the editor, "just tell them that's what they all say. I don't care if you 'cheek' them, but I must have quietness."

That afternoon there called at the office a lady. She wanted to see the editor, and the boy assured her that it was impossible.

"But I must see him!" she protested. "I'm his wife!"

"That's what they all say," replied the boy. And now a new boy is wanted there.

What Followed a Scratch.

Mrs. Brown 7 Calumet Ave., Montreal, says:—"While busy in the kitchen one day the oven door fell off, striking my right leg and inflicting a nasty scratch. While this was painful, I never thought it would become a serious wound, but to my surprise it became very much inflamed and very painful. I found that the dye from my stocking had got into it and poisoned it. The pain and inflammation got worse and the wound discharged freely. At this stage someone advised me to try Zam-Buk and I obtained a supply. This balm seemed to draw out the soreness at once, reduced the inflammation and soothed the wound. Use as a Household Balm.

Mrs. W. Blair, 91 St. Catharine St., Hamilton, speaks of the value of Zam-Buk as a household balm. She says:—"I one day slipped and fell against a Morris rocker, knocking my knee very badly. The knee turned black and blue and was very painful. I rubbed Zam-Buk well into the injured member and it was indeed surprising how quickly I found relief. The swelling was soon reduced and pain and discoloration banished. By perseverance with Zam-Buk my injured knee was well again in a couple of days.

"I have since proved it to be the handiest and best balm for household purposes. A few applications of Zam-Buk gave me ease from rheumatism also."

ODDITIES IN THE WEEK'S NEWS

A DEATH'S HEAD IN THE PULPIT

An extraordinary story comes from Geblingen, a small town not very far from Metz. It reads like a parody of "Hamlet" in the pulpit. The priest of this place had been worked into a state of great indignation by the loose attitude towards sacred things displayed by the youth of both sexes belonging to the parish. A short time ago when mass was over the priest appeared in the pulpit determined to read his flock a severe lesson. From under his robe he produced a skull, and, to the terror of the congregation, held it up before them. Then he began to address the grim relic.

"Art thou the skull of a maid or of a youth?" he asked. "Art thou a husband or a wife? Didst thou live in Geblingen? Are any of thy relatives in this church? Wert thou a drunkard? Didst thou make a god of thy belly? Art thou in heaven or in hell?" Then after a pause he again addressed the skull. "If thou are in hell give me no answer." The preacher received no answer, a proof that the former owner of the skull was in hell. Weak-minded people fainted, and at the conclusion of the sermon the congregation filed out pale and excited, and not likely to forget that particular sermon for a

NEW USE FOR THE BEEHIVE HAT

Two young smartly dressed Parisian ladies, wearing large beehive hats, arrived at Bellegarde the other Saturday night in the Geneva-Paris express. They declared nothing, and on examination by opened their bag at the depot. An official, however, noticed that they seemed to experience much difficulty in balancing their large hats on their heads, and the ladies were requested to pass into a private room, where their headgear was examined. The roofs of the beehives contained not honey, but saccharine packed in an airtight box fitted ingeniously into the hat. On the ladies paying a heavy fine they were allowed to continue the journey minus the saccharine, but retaining their hats, which might have been confiscated also.

SANG AT HIS OWN FUNERAL

We hear now and then of a man reading his own obituary in the papers, but it is a rare thing for a dead man to sing at his own funeral. Pietro Ficco, a shoemaker and amateur musician, had a very great fondness for the phonograph. He purchased a good many records and occasionally sang into his own phonograph and kept records of the songs. He was taken seriously ill. He realized that he could not recover, and being a poor man and unable to get up much of a funeral, he requested that they use his phonograph to furnish the music for the funeral services. He picked out the Angel's Serenade and Gounod's Ave Maria, sung by himself, and these were used, and thus the dead man took an important part at his own funeral service.

WHAT THE NET BROUGHT UP

A strange catch was made the other week by the Scottish trawler Locust while at work on the fishing grounds about sixteen miles east of the May Island. In the net was the body of a young man who had been comparatively only a short time drowned, as the body was quite fresh in appearance when taken on board the trawler. It was evidently that of a young seafaring man, as it was fully clothed in oilskins and sou'wester, who had most likely fallen or been washed overboard from some vessel while off the Forth. The crew of the Locust was not a little upset at the unusual and somewhat eerie incident, and imediately made for Granton, where the body was landed.

A TELEPHONE CONDUCTOR

A Short Story.

(By Hollis Godfrey.)

Up and down, up and down, up and down went the hook of the wall telephone. Clink! dropped a nickel in the slot. Silence for thirty seconds. Then up and down, up and down, up and down went the hook again. Clink of nickel repeated. Silence once more.

With an angry snort, the manager slammed the receiver on the hook with a force that left it quivering. He turned to the interested spectator behind him.

"Twenty cents and ten minutes wasted trying to make that telephone work," he exclaimed, "and now I've got to run to catch the six-forty! I shan't have time to mail the English letter. Here it is. Copy it before you send it. English mail leaves at seven-fifty. Don't fail to catch it. It's one of the most important letters you ever handled. That letter means a whole lot of money. That money means no more wall-telephone, nickel-in-the-slot arrangement for me, and it means a raise in pay for you. I'd mail it myself, but I can barely catch the Canadian Express as it is. Good-bye!" The door slammed and he was gone.

Bob Lyman, stenographer, office boy, and confidential clerk of the El Zenda Mining Company, whistled cheerfully as he whirled the handle of the copying press upon the book that held the English letter. With an extra vim he affixed the stamp, noted the address, and started to open the office door. To his surprise it did not yield.

He pressed against it and turned the handle a little harder. It never budged an inch. There was but one conclusion to be drawn. When his employer had slammed the door, somehow or other the lock had sprung and he was a prisoner.

Startled by the sudden dilemma, Bob began to do his utmost with fist and voice to call attention to his plight. He even added a vigorous foot tattoo to increase the volume of sound. Again an dagain he returned to the assault, pausing between efforts to listen for some sign that he had been heard by a belated occupant of one of the other offices. One of a large suite, once occupied by a great corporation, now in the hands of a number of small companies the interior office in which he was imprisoned was far from a main corridor. There was little chance for sounds to penetrate to the outside world.

Deep silence reigned save for the reverberations of the boy's attack on the heavy wood of the door. Gradually the pauses of silence grew longer and the attempts diminished in violence. Bob was forced to realize that all his vigorous uproar was of no avail. The situation of the office was against him.

"There's no use working in the dark, anyway," he said aloud, as he stepped back from a final trial and turned on the lights. The round of his own voice and the fact that the lights showed the office in its usual state gave him a moment's confidence, a confidence soon shattered, however, as he looked at his watch. It was six-forty already. The English mail closed at seven-fifty. And the letter must be mailed. He could reach the post office in five minutes after leaving the building. He would allow five minutes for possible difficulties. That meant that he must be free by seven-forty. There was just an hour left for escape.

He tried the telephone first. Once more the hook rose and fell. But never a sound came to the listening. Whatever the difficulty might have been, it certainly had not been removed.

"Three minutes wasted!" he exclaimed. "I've got to get through that door. It's the only way."

But all the force the boy could use produced not the slightest impression on the hard wood. At last, panting from his exertions, he leaned back against the desk and looked at his watch. It was six-fifty.

Up to that moment the idea of summoning aid through the window had hardly occurred to him. An inhabitant of the fifteenth storey seems to dwell in another world from the busy congress of the street. The office of his own company seemed especially remote, an aerie placed high upon one of the beetling cliffs of the city, a tower which overlooked the bay and rose high above the low roofs of the adjacent world of five and six storied structures. Still some possibility might be offered by the window. Bob threw up the sash and looked out into the night.

Hundreds of feet below the lights of the street, reflected upward, gave a luminous tinge to the cornices and in the foreground glimmered the lights of the bay. Down the harbor a great searchlight from one of the battleships at anchor swept the horizon.

Again and again Bob shouted for help. There was not the slightest response. He seemed alone in the world, cut off from the busy activities so far below him.

Leaning yet further out of the window, Bob turned to the right and left, and tried to remember whether or not the ledge below him ran across the whole side of the building. The tiny ledge was not more than twelve inches wide, yet it gave a foothold for the window-cleaners. If he could creep along it, there was a chance thatsome window might be unlocked, and that he could escape through another office. His hand was resting on the window-cleaner's hook as he leaned out, and the touch of the cool metal sent a thought into his brain. The window-washers stood on the ledge safely because they were fastened to the hook by a rope. Could he not tie himself in a similar fashion?

He glanced round the room, and then mounted the desk, above which hung a swinging incandescent light. Reaching as high as he could, he untwisted the two strands and cut off the flexible cord just below the ceiling.

As it fell, he measured its length roughly with his eye. "About eleven feet," he said. "That's long enough to give me three feet for my waist, six feet outside the window, a foot for the tie on the hook and a foot to stretch from the inside to the outside of the window."

He slipped off his shoes and coat, knotted one end of the cord firmly round the hook, tied the other end about his waist, and crept carefully out into the night.

There was little space to spare on the ledge, but at least there was standing-room. On and on Bob moved, the ledge cold beneath his thinly-clad feet, his fingers clinging to the wall, his eyes turned upward. Suddenly his foot came against something sharp. He looked down, and the whole dark abyss penetrated his consciousness for the first time.

Cavernous stretches of space seemed to be pulling him down. His head reeled, and a sudden dizziness swept across him that almost threw him from his hold. Flattening himself instinctively against the wall, he clung to the rough stone with every muscle rigid, his mind full of the horror of the depth and the darkness.

Gradually the waves of dizziness subsided. He dared not move or open his eyes, but memory returned, and with it a dazed wonder concerning the problem of the obstruction on the ledge. A flash of memory followed. There was just one thing he could have struck, a telephone-wire from the next office that ran out over the ledge. He remembered weeks ago seeing a telephone lineman standing unconcernedly where he was standing now.

That telephone-wire from another instrument led to the outer world. Bob's brain started [illegible]

[illegible] he opened them to look down; the strength went from his knees and he was seized by a sudden vertigo. When he closed his eyes the horror disappeared. When he opened them it continued. At last, fearful of the consequences, he gave up the attempt and made his way back to the window.

Once within the office, a brief breathing-space brought back his forces. Over and over again he considered the ways of escape. Door, window, telephone, window, telephone, door, the three avenues to the outer world passed through Bob's thoughts. Suddenly the connection between th einstrument within and the copper conductors that led to the city without occurred to him. Telephone within on the wall, telephone-wires without on the ledge. If he could fill in the gap between the binding-posts of the instrument in the insulated wires on the ledge, he might find a way out.

The flexible incandescent wire that was still knotted about his waist was a conductor of electricity that would bridg ethe gap. Bob unknoted the wire, held it up, measured its length with his eye, and then lowered it with a satisfied smile.

He remembered the old wires from the binding-posts and inserted the wire ends of the flxible cord in their place. That work took little time. It did not take much longer to stretch the wire to the window and throw the end out into the darkness. Leaning out confidently, he endeavored to place his hand upon the outer wires. Only the bare stone met his fingers. He stretched out still farther, but without better success. He struck a match, and shielding it, looked ahead. In dismay he saw that the wires were still at least two feet beyond his utmost reach. His only chance of gaining them was to brave the perils of the ledge once more.

Very real perils they were to a boy who had just been through Bib's experience. That gap of two feet seemed monstrous indeed. The dizzy height had never appeared more perilous. Only halt an hour reained. After a moment hesitation he threw the loose end of the wire along the ledge, made sure that the length was easily sufficient, pulled in the cord, carefully scraped and separated the wires which it contained, threw the cor dback and saw that it was lying on the ledge. Then he placed his knife between his teeth, climbed out of the window and began to crawl along the ledge.

The turn from the window was awkward, but not impossible. The passage of the next few feet was far more difficult. Two-thirds of his body on the stone and one-third over space, he crept along, eyes bent rigidly on the stone beneath, teeth clenched on his knife. Waves of dizziness rose at every moment, but he fought them back. Now his finger-tips touched the wire. Now his hands clasped it. Now he was far enough along to go to work.

He took his knife in his hand. Silver by silver the tough insulation dropped from the wires more and more copper was bared, until at last the cold metal was free, and Bob could wind the wires of the flexible cord about the wires that led to "Central" and freedom.

The last winding made, he was ready to return. Chilled by the cold night breeze, shaken by vertigo, he withdrew, keeping his eyes fixed on the stone, and never for one moment letting them wander. Slowly he worked his backward way till opposite the lighted window. Then one quick movement and he fell within.

With beating heart he dropped in his nickel and held the telephone-receiver to his ear.

There came the immediate question from "Central." "Number?"

"Main 2766," said Bob, dreading lest some unlucky movement might spoil his connection.

In a moment he heard the voice of Dennis, the assistant janitor of the building.

"Dennis, this is Bob Lyman. I'm locked into our office. Room, 1517. I must get to the mail at once. Please hurry up and let me out."

Two minutes later the window of the post office contained a [illegible] anxious face, as the English mail closed. [illegible] the clock. This is [illegible]

WESTMINSTER ABBEY

Subject of an Interesting Address Before Normal School Pupils

The Normal School Literary Society held its regular meeting yesterday afternoon at 4 p.m. The meeting opened with the President in the chair. After the minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted the matter of an "At Home" was considered. It was decided to hold it on Feb. 17. Committees were appointed to take charge of the various departments. When the business part of the meeting had been discharged an instrumental solo was rendered by Miss Payne, a fitting prelude for the illustrated lecture given by Mr. Kees. The lecture throughout was useful, as well as very interesting, to all present. The subject was "Westminster Abbey". Mr. Kees, having visited it on his tour, had much valuable information to give.

The meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

RECIPROCITY NEGOTIATIONS BEGAN TO-DAY

QUESTION OF RECIPROCITY DEPENDS ON THIS CONFERENCE

If it Falls Through the Question May be Side-tracked for Years Seems to be the Feeling in Washington--Canadians Had Initial Meeting With Taft and His Colleagues To-day.

Special to the Examiner.

WASHINGTON, D.C., JAN. 7.—Sir Allan Aylesworth, Honourable Messrs. Fielding and Patterson this afternoon had the initial conference with President Taft and his advisors regarding reciprocity between Canada and the United tSates. All delegates to this important international conference decline to discuss the situation, but it is believed that each side has a proposition which it is hoped to work out satisfactorily. One thing all are sure of is that if the present conference fails, the question of reciprocity or improved trade relations between the two countries will be side-tracked for many years. There was a short conference this morning between the Canadian delegates and Philander Knox, the secretary of state, but 'twas understood to be merely preliminary to the interview this afternoon. It seems pretty well assured here that the United States will offer reciprocity and possibly free trade in agricultural products anyway.

SOME EXCITING BOWLING ON THE Y.M.C.A. ALLEYS

The big bowling competition at the Y.M.C.A. was renewed last night with unusual interest. The game last night was between two of the best teams on the alleys. The Mivvies have been winning right along with high scores and the High Rollers have had the impression that it took a good team to beat them. Neither of the teams had anything to be ashamed of last night, for although the High Rollers came out the victors there was no time during the game when the result was certain until the finsh.

The first game went to the Mivvies, the score being Mivvies 342, High Rollers 319. The second game was won by the High Rollers by a score of 358 to 350. This game gave the High Rollers courage and they went in to win in the last game, the score being 371 for the Rollers and 332 for the Mivvies.

There are still a few games to be run off and the Lancashire Trio have the best of it so far, but there is no telling who will wear the watch fobs when the competition is over.

Next week the man who rolls the highest score will be presented with a beautiful sterling silver spoon. This spoon will be one of a set, and it will be possible for a man to roll himself a dozen spoons with out a great deal of trouble. The spoon is now on exhibition in the cup case in the Y.M.C.A.

EVERYTHING READY FOR THE BIG POULTRY SHOW

Entries Are Coming in Fast and There Will be Many More Birds on Exhibition than Last Year---Lecture by Miss Yeats Will Be a Feature of the Event.

Everything is in readiness for the annual Poultry Show, under the auspices of the Peterborough Poultry Association, which opens in the Market Hall on Tuesday next, January 10. Entries are coming in so fast that the Secretary is being swamped with them. "They are coming in bunches of 60 and 70" stated Mr. Jos. Kelley, the secretary, to the Examiner, this morning. "Last year's record should be easily surpassed if the birds continue to come in. One Lindsay man has entered sixty birds and there is a Peterborough exhibitor with about the same number.

A feature of the Exhibition will be the lectures by Miss Yeates, of Guelph, who will give demonstrations on the best methods of killing, dressing and carving poultry. Miss Yeats knows her subject thoroughly, and has the faculty of being able to impart her knowledge to others, so that her demonstrations should not be missed. She will be here for the first two days of the Show. The directors are working heroically in completing the preparations, and there is no doubt of the success of the show.

The members who attended the meeting Thursday night heard some news which was decidedly interesting. Mr. George Paxman wrote from Napanee that the poultry show held in that place, commencing Tuesday, had made a clean sweep, capturing prizes galore. Seventy birds were taken from this city by Mr. Paxman.

Polands, Minoreas, Baird and White Rocks, Hamburgs, Wyandottes Bantams and Orpingtons were shown.

The local man took the $10 medal for the four best birds in the show. These were four Orpingtons, the judge valuing the rooster at $75, and awarding the medal, in a keen competition on the outstanding merits of this bird. Almost every bird exhibited won a prize and the majority were firsts.

POST CARD COLUMN

Editor Post Card Column.

Dear Sir,—Evidently many Catholics have read with mixed feelings—amusement and indignation being paramount. Tax Payer's contention that it was not bigotry, but objection to exemption, which determined the recent elections.

For my part, and I think I express the sentiments of my co-religionists, I attribute the defeat of the Catholic candidates to an insatiate bigotry. I wonder that the Orangemen—exuberant spirits in consequence, permit them to defer their annual celebration to the glorious 12th of July.

The T. A. S. would submit with a good grace to taxation if the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A., two Protestant institutions doing no greater work, would be meted out the same measure. When this act of common justice has been done the tax-payers, then let some of our local ministers talk about rendering to Ceasar the things that are Ceasar's.

I thank you, Mr. Editor, in advance for your space. I am

Yours for common justice,

CHEMONG HOCKEYISTS

CHEMONG, JAN. 6.—The watch-night at Oshkigmong was conducted by Kezhigabetung, quite a number of the villagers attending.

The hockey match between the Chemong and Buckhorn teams did not come off as arranged, the latter not making their appearance. However, the seniors and juniors had a hot time of it, both morning and afternoon, the game resulting in both cases in favour of the seniors but the former were defeated in target shooting. Those defeated had to pay for the juniors supper.

The Ladies' Aid Society furnished the supper for the boys on Monday night after which the programme was rendered by the sports of the club. Mr. I. D. Taylor acting as chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Prosser are away visiting their friends up west.

Mr. J. G. Ramsden inspector of Indian agencies was here last week.

An Expert Barber.

Mr. Percy Lynch, who has just returned to the city from Virginia, Minn. has been added to the staff at Sledgrove's Barber shop, George street, which now has four chairs in active operation. Mr. Lynch's many friends will be glad to welcome him again.

THE SUNDAY MEETINGS OF THE Y.M.C.A.

The Crystal theatre will again be the scene of a bright meeting to-morrow night. These meetings are the source of the greatest help to those who frequent them and there is no doubt they fill a very important place in the life of the city.

The message is always brief, practical, scriptural and right to the point. The message to-morrow night will be "The Great Refusal." There will be some special singing and some of the good hymns will be sung by the whole meeting.

Drop in on your way past and see if this is not the brightest meeting you have ever attended.

The Sunday morning bible classes will meet as usual in their respective rooms. The men's class has been reorganized with Mr. Ellis as chairman and Douglas Loomis as secretary. There will be an interesting lesson in the morning. The class is open to any young man in the city.

In the afternoon Mr. Thompson will teach a gymnasium men's bible class at 4.15. "The Principles of Jesus" will be the subject and will be especially suitable for young men. oGt next to this class. It will be a good thing.

SHAFT BROKE

Belleville Train Met With Accident at Stirling This Morning.

The Belleville train, due here at 8.10 in the morning, happened with a slight accident this morning near Stirling. The engine was labouring up a long grade near Stirling when one of the driving shafts broke. An engine was sent to bring the train to the city, but she did not arrive here until about 11 o'clock.

MORE SUBSCRIPTIONS TOWARDS CHIMES FUND

During the past month a number of new and valued contributions have been received and many payments made on subscriptions. Indeed the payments generally have been most creditable to subscribers, comparatively few not having paid. Only a few hundred dollars remains to be made up and, from general interest, no anxiety is felt about this. Court Stanley, A.O.F. have voted $5 and a similar sum has been received from the Bricklayers' and Masons' Union No. 17. Most of the Fraternal Societies have now given appreciated help to this big enterprise. Out-of-town contributions have been received from Messrs. Lawrence Cluxton, Montreal; Walter Cluxton, New York; Herbert Cluxton, Boston; and Joseph S. Bell, Vancouver. One of the last acts of the late Miss Bryson was to give a cheque for her handsome subscription of $100.00.

Advices from England report that the casting of the bells was to begin immediately after the New Year, and delivery here is expected in the early summer.

The Rector of Woodstock has lately written, speaking of the general pleasure given the Woodstock chime. He says: "The bells are beautifully in tune and have a soft, full-rounded note that sounds like a harmonious chord. You make no mistake in giving your order to Taylor & Co."

WEDDING BELLS

ANDERSON—HALL.

The wedding took place in Detroit, Mich., on Monday last, of Mr. Thos. G. Anderson, of Hamilton, Ont., and Miss Grace Marion Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Hall, of Detroit.

Mr. Anderson was for years a resident of Peterborough, leaving for Hamilton to enter into business about three years ago. He will be remembered as a former president of St. Andrew's Young Men's Guild of this city.

"ONE THING THOU LACKEST."

The C. P. R., with an eye to the health of its passengers, has provided aseptic paper drinking cups for the use of the traveling public. These cups, while they are sterilized and absolutely sanitary in themselves, through their individual use will obviate any possibility of the transference of malignant microbes, from one person to another as would be done through the medium of a common drinking cup. At present these exclusive cups are supplied only to sleeping cars, but it is probable that their use will become general, before long—long before the Laird o' Donland secures a two-cent passenger rate. The thoughtfulness and solicitude of the C. P. R., however, will be incomplete if it gets its water supply from the points of departure—Montreal, Ottawa, or Toronto, whose city water, in the matter of purity and wholesomeness, is hardly eligible to rank in the same class that Cæsar demanded for his wife. The contents, as well as the cup, must be above reproach. Lucrezia Borgia, who made a very fair success of the poisoning business, might have used a sterilized drinking cup, without any corresponding advantage to her victims. If the C. P. R. wants to go the whole way, in the matter of purity, it will fill its sleeping coach drinking tanks from Peterborough's water mains, pulsating with the purest civic water supply on the continent.

THE CANADIAN CLUB.

The Canadian Club is one of the most potent of agencies in the upbuilding of a robust, large-minded, broad minded, wide-angled, instructed Canadian citizenship, in developing faith and pride and knowledge in its resources, possibilities, duties, and achievements, by coming into personal and forensic contact, with the master minds, the men of action, the daily makers of our history. We have brought to Peterborough to address the members such men as Falconer and Sifton, types of our great men of thought and action, whose words and examples are equally inspiring, and important in their respective provinces.

The erroneous idea seems to prevail that the Canadian Club is not for young men; but men of maturer years, men of incipient crows' feet and whitening temples, and for grave and reverend seniors. It is not specially for these; for their characters are formed for good, or otherwise—for good certainly, as their membership and activity in the Canadian Clubs in larger or largest numbers testify. The Canadian Club is essentially for the young men, the recruit in training for the battle of progress to be waged by an all-round sound, Canadian citizenship.

Any young man, worth his salt, in the way of natural gifts, who heard Falconer at the last Club dinner, or will hear Sifton at the next, on Jan. 10, gained, or will gain, an inspiration and uplift, that will secure his hearty vote that the Canadian Club is "all that it is cracked up to be," that it places him and all young men of his kidney, where their duty as patriotic citizens calls them. Any young Canadian who takes himself and his place in the line of citizenship at all seriously will find uplift, inspiration and increased usefulness and self-respect by taking his place in the ranks of the Canadian Club.

GOOD ROADS.

The good roads movement has found champions in new directions. Heretofore it has, by common consent, been associated chiefly with rural roads. But, of late, the cities have become interested. Toronto, at the last municipal election, passed a $100,000 by-law in the interest of good roads outside the city; that is to assist in improving the country roads tributary these cities are a natural market, place. And Montreal is interesting itself in the same direction. La Presse, especially, is putting up a valiant and vigorous advocacy of good roads. These cities find it profitable to spend money to promote good country roads so that farmers to whom these cities are a natural market to may be added aided in reaching the city market far more promptly and easily. The cities see the advantage in bringing farmers to the market hoping to gain the advantage of cheaper produce if the time and expense of the producer are shortened and lessened as they will be by good roads.

If the cities take this view of the great value and importance of good roads, one would expect that the farmers, who will derive the greater direct benefit from their use, would show a greater interest.

But it is notorious that the farmer, taken as the type of a class, is exceedingly indifferent to his own interests as represented by a matter of so vital importance to him as good roads. For three quarters of a century the country roads of the province have been the greatest foe to the farmer. Mud roads, made badly, and kept bad by the go-as-you-please statute labour system, have put the farmer in the rut and he has kept himself in the rut by the retention of these same bad roads. It is safe to say—and the farmer who will take the trouble to do a little calculating, will admit its truth—it is safe to say that the farmers of Ontario have lost, more, in the form of lost time, extra labour, wear and tear of vehicles and horseflesh, than many times the cost of the wretched country roads, that as a whole, they have had to travel to and from market and on business journeys the past seventy years.

Easy access to the market, home or foreign, is the bed-rock, foundation stone, of the farmers' profit and prosperity. A very large proportion of the farmer's gain from his work—his net profit—depends upon facility, of access to his market. If he has good roads he can market his crops speedily, promptly and profitably. If he has good railway service, prompt and rapid transportation, to the ultimate foreign market, that means advance in price and profit.

The farmer appreciates the value of a good market. An army of farmers marched upon Ottawa recently demanding free access for their products to the United States market. They recognized that the dearer market and the market with less obstacles between the farm and it, was to their advantage. Yet these same farmers, by maintenance of bad roads, push their home market miles farther away from their farms than it would be with good, solid, easily and rapidly travelled roads. The logic that fits the one case should fit the other.

Easy access to market, the best system of transportation, whether by highway or railway, is a priceless boon to the farmer. In Canada the governments and municipalities have spent millions and millions to provide good railway transportation and canal and water transportation, chiefly in the interests of the farmer, and the means the people as a whole, for what helps the farmer, what increases his out-put and gives it added value, is in the interests of the whole population.

If the governments, dominion and provincial, have recognized it as their duty to aid the farm by providing water and rail transportation, is it not as much their duty to help provide good highways for the farmer? Especially provincial governments which have charge of municipal interests, within which highways come. If the government of Ontario, had spent directly in the improvement of the highways of the province even a half or a third of what it has given to aid railway transportation, we should have a far more advanced and prosperous province. And why should it not yet do so? It is just as much a help to the farmer to have good roads to reach the nearest railway as it is to have a good railway to carry his produce to Montreal on its way to the British or foreign market. And if the railways were as bad in their way, as most of the country roads are, they would hardly get a shipment of grain or other produce to Montreal before navigation closed.

The province of Ontario has a big revenue, of which very little is spent in the direct interest of the farmers. The farmers of Ontario have about a thousand million dollars invested in their business and their success, which means everybody's success, depends to an immense extent upon good roads—easy access to market. The old Liberal government did a good thing in electing a million dollars to good roads, the expenditure to be conditionally extended over a number of years. But the present government can do a great deed—make a name for itself and commend itself to every farmer in the province by "doing the better" by spending say a million dollars a year on good roads. The farmers compose about seven-eighths of our population and it should not be considered extravagant to devote one-eighth of our annual revenue of eight millions to the construction of good roads in their interests. It shouldn't take the government long to devise a practicable system of building leading highways in each county with the commuted statute labour on them, devoted to the improvement of roads leading to them. When the will is found the way will as easily come.

Canada's Security Of Position In Pending Reciprocity Negotiations

(Montreal Herald.)

It is probably not altogether accidental that three separate items of international business will occasion the presence of five Canadian Ministers in Washington next week. Mr. Graham is to discuss the terms of the new arrangement reached by Judge Mabee and Mr. Knapp about railway traffic which crosses the boundary; Mr. Brodeur and Sir Allan Aylesworth are to arrange some still unsettled details of the sea fisheries business; and Mr. Fielding and Mr. Paterson are to resume the reciprocity negotiations which were begun at Ottawa a few months ago. As the House of Commons will be back to business next week, and as the three subjects could just as well be taken up one by one as in the lot, the chances strongly favour the supposition that the other Ministers are going to Washington to be on hand to talk things over in case Mr. Fielding and Mr. Paterson come to anything like close grips with the Americans on the trade issue. The fact that they are going would seem to confirm the statement made when the Americans were at Ottawa, that the President and American Secretary of State were quite prepared to proceed with the negotiations on a footing consistent with Canadian ideals.

It is just here, of course, that the success or failure of the whole enterprise hinges. There is plenty of room within the Canadian tariff for changes which it would be well worth while to make if making them conduced to a more liberal attitude on the part of the United States, and which it would be easy for Canada to assent to if it were really the desire of our American friends to promote their own interest by lowering the barriers which now stand in the way of trade. The danger, and the only danger, is that somebody may think the present occasion offers an opportunity for exacting from Canada, either in return for a price or under threat of reprisals, the surrender of some part of her commercial or industrial independence. What Mr. Blake averred concerning earlier proposals for reciprocity was that, on the basis indicated, we would find ourselves engaged in preparing the way for political absorption. It can probably be assumed that the change which has been made in our fiscal system since those days amply protects us against that danger this time. We have made it clear in advance, and the principle seems to have been accepted by the other side, that the British preference feature of the Canadian tariff must remain in any circumstances. The room for a bargain, if bargain there is to be, is fairly well indicated by the Intermediate tariff, whose terms have been subjected to very little variation in the conventions already made with France, Belgium, Holland and Italy. Moreover, it will be abundantly clear to the American negotiators, with the history of the past nineteen years before them, that so long as Great Britain remains open as a market for our surplus produce, and so long as the judicious handling of a revenue tariff leaves the great purchasing market of the United States at our disposal, pressure from outside can occasion but little inconvenience. All the indications are that Mr. Taft and Mr. Knox realize the security of Canada's position. If so, it should be easy to proceed on the basis of an exchange of advantages, rather than on the highly objectionable plan of mutuality of sacrifices. We in this country do not want to sacrifice one of our industries. We do not exact the sacrifice of one of theirs. What the negotiators should hunt for is the means of helping people, and plenty of such ways can be found if they are sought for.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Toronto News' definition of tariff reform is "pile the duties higher."

As the result of the British elections the Government has a majority of 61 in Great Britain and 85 in Ireland.

Toronto is in the hands of the evangelists—their appeal should tell—there are no strap-holders in the gospel chariot; there is room for all.

Do women want to vote? Out of 93 women voters, in one division in Toronto, at the last municipal election, only 13 voted, though all had been advised by a special official notice, where their vote should be polled.

The earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway for the calendar year are just over the $100,000,000, or an equivalent of about $14 for every man, woman and child in the Dominion, and equivalent almost to the total revenue of the Dominion. There are only three railways in the United States, with as large earnings, but it is to be remembered that the latter have a population of 90 millions to draw traffic from, while the C. P. R. serves a population of only 8 millions. A great railway in a great country.

Overfatness Condemned

Fat, or even fattish women readers who want to be in the mode this year must understand that the demand is for lines, not curves, and govern themselves accordingly.

That means OFF with the fat. It has become a duty. Many are trying exercise or dieting, but it is certain they will find these methods too slow and unreliable. The cheapest and safest way to get in form for the Directoire mode is by means of Marmola Prescription Tablets. Any druggist (or the Marmola Co., 323 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich.) will give you a large-sized case of these elegant little fat reducers containing a good, generous supply, for seventy-five cents, and even this quantity should be enough to make a decided improvement on your excess fat. Many have lost as much as a pound a day.

These Marmola Prescription Tablets may be used with impunity and likewise perfect confidence, for being made strictly in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription, they are, of course, quite harmless. They are rather beneficial than otherwise, in fact, never disturbing the stomach or causing a wrinkling of the flesh.

TO SPEND IN AGRICULTURAL WORK

From Farm and Dairy.

We have this year about $780,000 to spend in agricultural work in Ontario. To carry our work into every county and district of the province, to man all the branches of the Department and meet the requirements of the Agricultural College to keep pace with demands, we need approximately $250,000 more annually. At first this looks like a big sum, but in comparison with an annual output of $250,000,000 from 175,000 farms it is not so large. We are now spending on agricultural improvement just 30 cents apiece yearly for every person in the province. What we need is just 10 cents apiece more. Shall we get it? Of course we shall if we make out a good case and public opinion gets behind it. We can get public opinion behind it if we can show results. These are coming. In fact, they are here for those who will take the pains to look for them. We are trying to make them so plain that it will be impossible not to see them.

The Dominion Government could give us this amount without missing it. If the Government of Canada were to divide only $1,000,000 annually among the different provinces for the extension of agricultural work, there would be an immediate expansion of work that would show itself in increased customs receipts. I believe that every dollar so invested would be returned many times over in increased customs. The business man is shrewd who knows how to invest his surplus cash so as to produce more. Sometimes it pays him to borrow to carry out his plans. Our governments should follow the example of the successful business man. As far as the Department of Agriculture is concerned, it is not saying where the money should come from. It has the plan, the men can be found, the work can be done, results can be had, if only the money is forthcoming.—C. C. James, in an address delivered last November in Washington, D.C.

"We can do it if we will." Such is the spirit in which the leading Ontario fruit growers view the matter of holding a Canadian National Apple Show in Ontario next fall. All realize the great value of such a show. They see in it an advertisement for our fruit lands. They recognize it as an agent for stirring up the enthusiasm of our growers and bringing the importance of the fruit industry in Ontario more prominently to the front.

Although Ontario fruit men fully appreciate the value of the apple show and are anxious to see a National Apple Show, for Ontario in 1911, carried to a successful conclusion, as yet practically nothing has been done by the fruit men of the province to bring it about.

Fruit men everywhere should get busy at once and determine at least what entries will be made by their particular sections. Committees should be appointed to solicit entries, to arouse the enthusiasm of the growers, and to assist the directors of the Fruit Growers' Association in every way possible.

Let the directors of the Association know that the fruit men of Ontario will back them up in the carrying out of a National Apple Show and Ontario will have a show which will be second in rather only. Ontario fruit men are big men, and quite capable of handling a big proposition.

ATTRACTIVE FARM HOME

(Hoard's Dairyman)

The Farm and Dairy of Canada prints an attractive picture of an Ontario farm home on its front page and says:

"The wealth of natural beauty that surrounds the majority of farm homes in the province of Ontario is a drawing force which should attract and hold people to the farm. And it is a mighty factor. The progressive farmers of to-day realize that those things which go to make a home beautiful are worth while."

The other day an 80-acre farm, only a mile or so from the Hoard's Dairyman farm, sold for $200 an acre. The owner, Mr. George Hake, had built a very tasty and convenient house in the past year, and had set to work to do other things to make the premises look attractive and home-like.

Almost any farmer will admit that a neat, well-kept farm and farm home will sell for more than an unkempt, run-down looking place. Yet quite a number seem to have no real sense of beauty and orderliness. In all such cases, there will be found a lack of close business calculation and good general management.

A sense of beauty is based on a sense of order and good looks, and this is the foundation quality of mind that leads to clean-cut business-like farm management. Such things have a large money value in themselves for property, whether it be an animal or a farm that shows it, sells for more in the market. But the greatest value is seen in the effect of such sentiment on the farmer himself. When once he places himself under its domination, close joints are made in his calculations, the factor of waste disappears and larger profits ensue. We have often said and say it again, that we never knew of a neat, orderly farmer who was not a financial success.

We call to mind a farmer, Mr. Lincklaen Cummings of Stockbridge, N.Y., who died but recently on his farm at over 90 years of age. For years it had been an inspiring sight to visit that farm and note the exquisite order and cleanliness of the fields and home premises. Mr. Cummings was a man of very superior order of mind and one of the most thoroughly perfect farmers we have ever known.

There certainly is some relation between an appreciation of things beautiful and what may be termed successful business management.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

A RUSSIAN woman—Dora Melegari by name — has written a book which I should like to see introduced into our public schools.

Maybe you have read it. It is called "Makers of Joys and Sorrows."

Some big critic says it is "the pragmatic system applied to ethics." I must admit I don't know just what that means, but I do know it is a mighty stimulating, thought provoking book that would do everyone good to read.

This is the thesis of the book—that a man's life should not be judged by any elaborate standards of right and wrong, but simply and solely by the criterion of HOW MUCH JOY AND HOW MUCH SORROW HE HAS CAUSED HIS FELLOW MEN.

If that isn't perfectly plain, here are a few quotations that are:

"It is certain that each sin has its consequences, but I firmly believe that in the divine balance the importance of the sin in itself WILL WEIGH LESS THAN THE SUFFERING OF WHICH IT WAS THE CAUSE."

"There are women, outwardly irreproachable morally correct, capable even of kind acts, who nevertheless cause more sorrow by their vanity and jealousy than openly immoral women, notwithstanding the publicity given to the faults of such, for they are free from vanity and jealousy."

"These three pernicious sisters—vanity, envy and jealousy—are real destroyers of happiness and peace. Certain persons, apparently honourable, will have, in this respect, an appalling account to render. They have prevented and spoiled so much happiness, exhausted so much good will, cast withering doubt on so much affection, and belittled so much talent that, HAD THEY WRUNG THE NECKS OF ONE OR TWO VICTIMS THEY WOULD HAVE BEEN GUILTY OF LESS WRONG."

"The tortures that members of a family inflict upon one another sometimes grow so strong that the victims of their unhappy manners prefer death to a life of strife and misery."

Despite these black pictures Miss Melegari is an optimist. People are only as bad as all that because they don't think, because they do not analyze themselves and their acts, she says. The crying needs of the age is self-analysis. Sometime we will realize this need, and for that day Miss Melegari has these good prophecies:

"The day will come when every sincerely good human being will be as careful not to be the maker of sorrow as not to commit deeds that are dishonest and cruel."

"When we admit that to torment one's neighbours is equivalent to stealing his purse, people will not so easily give way to these irritable, imperious, intolerable and unjust prejudices."

It is a rather startling point of view altogether, isn't it, this standard of the little Russian woman?

But don't you think it's worth thinking about?

Don't you think there are many good people—good by ordinary standards—who might have less admirable accounts to render if they asked themselves honestly each night whether they had been Makers of Joy or Makers of Sorrow that day?

If the world a stage,
And all the men and women merely players

Is You Life It Yet H. Scene

Shakespeare in his use of figures of speech draws on ancient mythology, on the history of Greece and Rome and on the legends and lore of Asia and mediaeval Europe. His pages are crowded with metaphors culled from nature, his dramas abound in figures referring to sports, to the heavens, to cooking, and to everything else, it seems, that he more or less quaint uses to illustrate an idea more clearly than his own practical Antonio, the successful merchant of Venice, where every man must play his part.

In Measure for Measure, the tyrant who becomes [illegible] the unreasonable Angelo, Isabella, the nun who pleads for her brother's life, Claudio, and Lucio, the gay young man about town, are all characters in a drama.

Centuries were under the influence of this conception of life. Every man and woman had his part to play, and the drama of life was the most important thing in the world. Every man was a player, and the world was a vast stage, kings and peasants, poets and historians, artists and artisans, manufacturers and apprentices, sailors and farmers, have all their parts. The background is the vast heavens, the stage is ocean, plain and hill.

The profession of an actor is an acting one. To be a finished actor, to play the part allotted well, requires years of experience and study. On the stage youthful associations count for much, but close study counts for more. A lad brought up in the company of actors has a better chance of succeeding than one who has entered the profession late in life. Entrances, the exits and entrances must be known, the cues must be learned, the characters must be studied and practised until a man forgets himself and does not merely play [illegible] a Hamlet, a Lear, or a Macbeth.

So it is with life. How a man plays his part depends much on his early environment but more upon [illegible] The merchant who studies his markets and the tastes of his customers is the one who will succeed in business. The poet who studies the poets and with reverence Homer and Virgil, Goethe and Schiller, Shakespeare and Milton, is the one most likely to produce a song that will attract and stimulate. The successful [illegible] familiarize himself with the works of such immortal geniuses as Michael Angelo and Sir Christopher Wren, or who neglects the chances of [illegible] on which he depends for his success, depends on [illegible] a man has acquitted himself. The [illegible] acquainted with history, ancient and modern, with the laws and customs of his own and other countries, with the lives and works of great statesmen who have changed the complexion of society, will probably make his influence felt on his nation and time.

The actor, too, in order to play his part well must practise it constantly. Irving's Shylock, Booth's Hamlet, Salvini's Othello, Forrest's Lear, Mrs. Siddon's Ophelia, Helen Terry's Portia were not the products of the study of a few months. A lifetime of application and continuous practise is necessary for perfection in the actor's art. On the stage of the world the actors have to practise their parts. In every walk of life there are dull actors who never really knew their parts. Failure in business and orpfessional life can generally be traced to ignorance or neglect. The actor who misconceives the character he is representing or forgets his lines is greeted with hoots and hisses. In life the player who fails in his part gets the laughter and sneers of the crowd. The world has but little sympathy for failures. Success is the measure of a man's greatness and success can be achieved only by watchfulness, study and practice.

Another point of similarity between the stage and life is that actors or men do not stand alone. There is a whole world of feeling represented in the drama "As You Like It" from which the words "all the world's a stage" are taken. There are bitter enemies and loving friends, inhabitants of the court and dwellers in the wild wood. Love and hate, charity and greed, pity and cruelty, are all represented in it. A number of actors are required to adequately bring out the situations. No actor stands alone on the stage of the world. In the great drama of life there are many players. The drama to be successful must be played according to the rules, and the actors who attain prominence are those who adhere to the laws of the world, their stage, and the laws of life, their drama. Success comes to the men who have selected parts suited to their character, and have wisely and diligently played their parts—played them with an eye to the actions of the other characters in the drama.

THE STRENGTH OF A CHAIN

Is that of its Weakest Link. Father Morrisey's No. 10 Forges It Anew.

The chain of the physical system is only as strong as its weakest link. When that link breaks, the chain breaks, and serious illness followed by death often results. The weak link with many people is the throat and lungs. In fact, statistics show that over twenty-five per cent of all deaths can be directly traced to diseases of these most important respiratory organs. Weakness here is very dangerous.

During his long and successful practice, Father Morrisey, the learned priest-physician, was often called upon to treat bronchial and pulmonary affections. He soon found that it was not enough to make temporary repairs on the "link" but that it had to be forged anew, in order permanently to strengthen the chain.

After much study, he succeeded in devising a prescription that would secure this result, by not only giving prompt relief but also by rebuilding and strengthening the delicate cells and membranes of the throat and lungs.

This prescription, Father Morrisey's Lung Tonic, or No. 10, has cured thousands. It is absolutely free from any dangerous drug, being compounded from Nature's own roots, herbs and balsams.

No. 10 stops the cough, relieves the soreness and strengthens and fortifies the system against future attacks. Even in the early stages of consumption it has proved helpful, but the wise plan is to take it in time, and avoid serious disease.

In our climate it is well to have a reliable and tested remedy like No. 10 always on hand. Take it at the first appearance of a cold, and keep the chain of life strong and capable of resistance.

Trial size 25c per bottle. Regular size 50c. At your druggist's or from Father Morrisey Medicine Co., Ltd., Chatham, N.B. 96

A SLIGHT MISTAKE

A Short Story

The fire burned brightly in the cosy little sitting-room. The new mahogany table shone proudly resplendent with cut glass and bright silver. On the new stove out in the equally new kitchen a dainty little dinner was all ready to be served and the smiling face of the new little Mrs. Van beamed as she waited for her husband. As the minutes flew by and he did not materialize the smile gradually faded, giving place to a look of great anxiety, and when the new little French clock chimed 8 a tear rolled down and splashed on the new little apron, which was not a bit surprising, for never, never before in all her married life (six delightful weeks) had Jack been even one minute late—and now—he was a whole hour behind time! Still the minutes sped on and Mrs. Van's nose was fairly cold and numb from being pressed against the window pane, and Mrs. Van's eyes ached and burned from trying to pierce the blackness and from the tears which now rolled in quite rapid succession down two flushed cheeks.

Suddenly as 8.30 rang solemnly through the pretty room a terrible thought took possession of her—a thought which blanched her cheeks and brought her to an upright position, but stopped those rebellious tears! Was he—was he becoming tired of her? She had read of such things! Her loyal little heart tried to stifle even the suggestion of this awful thought, but it could not blot out the overwhelming evidence of this unexplained and unprecedented tardiness.

Another half hour of torturing doubts and fears, and when the clock chimed 9 Mrs. Van's mind was fully decided. She would go home to mother! Upstairs she flew, leaving the dainty dinner still on the stove, and pulled open the top drawer of the new dresser. She would be careful to tak nothing he had ever given her—and the blue eyes flashed dangerously as the contents of that drawer were flung promiscuously about. Suddenly a tear glistened in them and a sob came straight from that tortured heart as she came across a collar and tie of Jack's! She never had been able in all these six weeks to impress on his mind that this particular piece of furniture was solely for her belongings.

A big sigh broke from her lips as she recalled his answer to her teachings. "Well, Honeykins"—he had always called her "Honeykins" since their marriage—"have patience. I'll learn soon with such a teacher!" Ah, well, those happy days were gone! She shivered as the hour of 10 rang through the silent house and wondered dimly in her misery what had changed the tinkling tones of the chimes on the clock to those deep, dull, mournful notes. Six short weeks, and Jack had tired of her! Never would she let him know she cared! She would never, never speak to him again, and

"Why, Honeykins!"

"Jack!" and before the surprise in Vans eyes could find expression in words a bundle of ribbons and silk and muslin threw itself violently into his arms!

"How—how could you, Jack?" He could hardly distinguish the words so broken were they by sobs, but at last he managed to learn the whole dreadful story.

"But, Honeykins," he said, amazed, "surely you got my letter? When I reached the office this morning I found I had to run into New York and could not reach home until late tonight, so I wrote you all about it and mailed the letter myself on the way to the train. The line was out of order or I would have 'phoned you."

"I—I—never got it!" she sobbed, dashing at her eyes with her handkerchief.

"Then it must have been miscarried," Jack replied. "I'm sorry, Honeykins, I can't bear to see you cry," and he was rewarded by seeing a happy, though tremulous, smile once more wreathe Mrs. Van's lips.

The next night as Mr. and Mrs. Van were finishing dinner Jack took [illegible] a dull and opened his bowels as he handed her a letter. "This is the one you should have received yesterday. It was returned to our firm's address, there in the corner, for better directions. I—er—was thinking of something else when I directed it."

And Mrs. Van's delightfully contagious laugh rang merrily as she saw across the envelope in her husband's big, decided writing just the one word, "Honeykins!"—Boston Post.

A RECORD YEAR

The Imperial Life's Excellent Statement Reflects Country's Prosperity

TORONTO, JAN. 6.—The prosperity which has prevailed generally through out the country during the past year is being reflected in a striking manner in the annual statements of our large financial and commercial concerns. A noteworthy example is that of the Imperial Life Assurance Company of Canada, whose preliminary statement for the year ended December 31st, 1910, shows that the results of the company's operations in 1910 surpassed in every important particular those of any previous year in its history.

The new assurances effected and policies revived amounted to $6,500,000, and exceeded by over a million dollars the company's best record in any one year. The total business in force now exceeds $30,000,000. During the year the assets were increased by over $800,000, and now stand at $6,147,000; the income from premiums and interest amounted to over $1,370,000, an increase of $165,000. A new record was also made in the amount of surplus earnings, out of which profits to policy holders are paid, the net surplus over and above all liabilities, including policy reserves, now amounting to over $770,000. It is also noted that the death losses were again below those which were to be expected according to the standard tables of mortality.

The rate of interest realized on the company's funds was 6.52 percent., an increase of 40 over that earned in 1909. This favourable rate is due to the fact that about 65 percent. of the company's assets consist of first mortgages on improved farm lands in western Canada.

The policy-holders and others having interest in this strong, progressive Canadian company are to be congratulated upon the success which has uniformly characterized its operations, and especially the success of the year just closed.

Mr. W. G. Morrow, who is a director of the Imperial states that the business at the Peterborough agency, during the past year, was satisfactory and prospects point to a greatly increased business in 1911.

Western Telegraph Rates.

Winnipeg, Jan. 7.—In connection with the complaint of the Board of Trade against excessive telegraph rates into and out of the city, the Railway Commission has notified the Board of Trade that they have recommended to the Minister of Justice the appointment of public counsel to represent the applicants, and that the appointment of counsel and date of hearing will be fixed in the near future.

Historic Church Burned.

Kingston, Jan. 7.—Fire, believed to have been caused by a defective chimney, yesterday destroyed the Methodist Church at Odessa, built in 1869 of which Rev. J. H. Bell is pastor. A bucket brigade was formed of village lasers, but was of little use. It will require over $20,000 to replace the building. The church site was given by Capt. Booth, a pioneer U. E. Loyalist. It was partially insured.

Will Build Nurses' Home.

Brantford, Jan. 7.—At the annual meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary here yesterday, $11,200 was reported in the treasury to be applied to the building of a nurses' house in connection with the John H. Stratford Hospital. It is expected that the home will be built this year.

Eight Additional Indictments.

New York, Jan. 7.—Eight additional indictments, charging grand larceny in the first degree, were returned yesterday against Joseph G. Robin, recently indicted on the charge of larceny of $750,000 from the Washington Savings Bank.

Would Amend Treaty.

Washington, Jan. 7.—It became known yesterday that the President has been sounding certain Senators, members of the committee on foreign relations, to ascertain the chances for an amendment of the existing arbitration treaty with Great Britain, calculated to broaden the scope of that convention. It is aimed to remove the present prohibition in article one against the submission to arbitration of questions of vital interest to the two parties or involving their honor.

If these soundings reveal a change of mind on the part of the Senate since 1908, when strong ground was taken by a large majority against any such unlimited arbitartion, then the British Government will be approached to ascertain if it is willing to begin negotiations looking to the amendment of the existing treaty.

Escaped Death In Explosion.

Minneapolis, Jan. 7.—Minneapolis was plunged into darkness and the commercial life of the city almost paralyzed yesterday morning by an explosion of the "13,000 wire" leading into the power plant of the Minneapolis General Electric Co. Eleven men employed in the building made their way to safety through the valley of the tail race, after the explosion. The plant was wrecked and a tangled mass of wire and machinery was thrown in every direction by the force of the explosion. Fire followed and completely demolished the building.

Two men were injured, and the damage to the property is estimated at $500,000.

Ask For Investigation.

Perth, Jan. 7.—At yesterday morning's session of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association it was decided to request the Dominion Dairy Commissioners to appoint a commission of experts to investigate and consider different methods of paying for milk delivery to cheese factories and creameries, to consult the authorities and experts of other countries, and, if possible, to recommend some methods that will be acceptable to dairy authorities and generally adopted to the dairymen of the Dominion.

Investigating Teddy.

Washington, Jan. 7.—Representative Rainey of Illinois offered a resolution in the House Thursday asking for the appointment of a committee of five to investigate the railroad expenses of Theodore Roosevelt for travel while he was President, with authority to examine the books of the Pennsylvania Railway, the Southern Railway and the Northern Pacific Railway, to determine what expenses were paid by the former President and what portion furnished by the railroads.

Says New York Is In Danger.

New York, Jan. 7.—The Merritt joint legislative commission of enquiry adjourned sine die yesterday still with no word from the missing city chamberlain, Charles H. Hyde, who is a Nova Scotian. An evening paper offered a reward of $10 for the first person to give information of his whereabouts, providing he does not publicly appear at his office before Jan. 15.

Harold Herrick, president of the Niagara Fire Insurance Co., a witness, told the committee that New York may yet see such a fire as devastated San Francisco.

"A holocaust in New York," he said, "is quite within the bounds of possibility. We have an excellent fire department, and an efficient chief, and thus far they have jumped on every fire and put it out; but no fire department ever existing subdued a conflagration once it got under way. It only ceased when it reached a natural obstacle.

"If New York has a fire like San Francisco, God help us. There would not be a solvent insurance company left in the world. No one could compute the billions of loss."

Hurried, cheap construction by speculators and poorly installed heating plants, said Mr. Herrick, were responsible for one-third of all fires, and a greater share of their spread.

"But in the city of Hamburg," he continued, "where they won't tolerate poor construction, there has not been a fire that spread outside the house in which it started since 1842."

Tie-Up in Lumber Yards.

Ottawa, Jan. 7.—A tie-up of the Booth lumber business for two days resulted from a delay on the part of the C.P.R. in allowing the G.T.R. to use a quarter of a mile of track at the [illegible] terminal. The Railway Commission ordered the G.T.R. off a viaduct, and to get in on the level, the C.P.R. line was necessary.

Last night a temporary agreement was got. Immediately work was started, and continued till the last of the waiting cars had been sent on its way. Specially augmented crews worked all night to do this, the railway sparing no effort to relieve the congestion. One hundred and seventy-five flat lumber cars had lain idle and 40 of Booth's teams stood in the stable while the dispute lasted.

Patriot Varsity Club.

Toronto, Jan. 7.—Proud varsity students will before long be able to show their friends one of the finest college club buildings on the continent. President Falconer made the first official announcement yesterday regarding the students's club building, a munificent gift of the Massey estate, and of which the plans are already made. The building will cost from $300,000 to $500,000, and will have a gymnasium with modern equipment, smoke rooms, billiard rooms, lounging rooms, a library and dance halls.

Work will be started as soon as the weather permits in the spring, and along with the work of excavation will go the old gymnasium, which is fast becoming antiquated.

A New Year's Raise.

Brantford, Jan. 7.—Brantford public school teachers were given a New Year's raise by the trustees Thursday night, a new schedule being adopted. The maximum salaries for second and first-class teachers, respectively, will be $650 and $700; the initial salary to assistant teachers without experience will be $400, with an increase of $25 yearly until the maximum of $550 is reached; outside teachers are allowed $25 for each year's previous experience up to four years on their initial salary.

Must Have License.

Ottawa, Jan. 7—To prevent the overexploitation of the salmon fisheries of British Columbia, and their consequent depletion by the canneries and curing establishments, an order-in-council has been passed, declaring that no boat will be allowed to engage in salmon fishing except under license from the Minister of Marine, while the number of boats which will be allowed each cannery and curing establishment has been named. The canneries in all will be allowed 1,250 boats.

Mutineers Meet Sudden Death.

Rio Janeiro, Jan. 7.—According to yesterday's Jornal do Commercio, Joao Candido, leader of the recent revolt in the navy, and forty-four other mutineers have met sudden deaths. Candido succumbed to gangrene while a prisoner; twenty-six of his associates died from sunstroke while engaged in repairing the fortress on Colaras Island; and eighteen others were suffocated in their cells in the prison on Villegaignon Island.

Completing the Line.

Vancouver, Jan. 7.—By the end of the coming season the location surveys of the Canadian Northern Pacific Railway will be complete from Port Mann to the Yellowhead Pass, and subject to possible slight revisions here and there, will be ready for the contractors anywhere in British Columbia.

LENA ASHWELL IN "JUDITH ZARAINE"

The production of a new serious drama from the pen of the author of "Leah Kleshna" is an event of importance. When this event coincides with the first local appearance in many years of one of England's most distinguished emotional actresses the importance thereof is magnified.

On Wednesday next, Jan. 11, Lena Ashwell will appear at the Grand Opera House in the title role of C. M. S. McLellan's drama of the Pennsylvania steel mills, "Judith Zaraine. The play is an attack on a vital economic problem of the day, frankly couched in terms of melodrama. The drama unfolds itself during a great turmoil among the mill workers, an upheaval that has assumed such proportions that the federal troops are on hand to quell disturbances. In an atmosphere of strife, gloom and awful terror, rises the figure of a remarkable woman, a girl of foreign extraction who had been secretary to a powerful man, ground to helpless ness and driven to suicide, by the merciless power of the trusts. Fired with a frenzy for revenge, this woman throws herself into the fray, incites the members to make a gigantic effort to end their oppression, and thus locks two great powers in a struggle that brings with it bloodshed, untold agony and despair, but ultimate happiness. This new play—an American play—built upon a timely subject, and with a dramatic sweep, unbroken from curtain to curtain, reveals Miss Ashwell to American playgoers in the light in which she is regarded on the other side.

Liebler and Company are bringing Miss Ashwell over, and have produced Mr. McLellan's play. The supporting cast is made up entirely of Americans, and includes among the well known actors, Charles Waldron, who made such a splendid impression in the leading character of "The Fourth Estate." He will play the part opposite Miss Ashwell. An important character part has been entrusted to Arthur Forrest's skilful hands.

ST. LUKE'S ANNUAL CHRISTMAS TREE AND ENTERTAINMENT

Event Was Well Attended and Was a Great Success--Gifts Presented to Every Member of the Sunday School.

A GOOD PROGRAMME

There was a large attendance at the annual Christmas tree and entertainment of St. Luke's Sunday School last evening, and a most enjoyable time was spent.

Mr. David Spence, the Sunday School Superintendent, was in the chair, and Rev. Dr. Langfeldt opened the event with devotional exercises. After welcoming the parents and friends, he called upon Mr Spence to take charge of the proceedings. The following programme was rendered:

Christmas carol, by the whole school.
Recitation—Gilbert Doe.
Piano solo—Wilhelmine Gaskins.
Song—Jennie Smith.
Song—Fred Legon.
Recitation—Carrie Scott.
Recitation—Miss Kate Leary.
Duet—A. Phillips and Elmer Phillips.
Christmas Carol, by the school.
Recitation—Gorden Maniece.
Song—Florence Adams.
Recitation—Frank Burgess.
Vocal duet—Georgie and Prudence Long
Recitation—Fred Doupe.
Dutch song—Gertie and Renzie Gorrie.
Recitation—Margaret Turner.
Piano solo—Miss Katie Leary.

At this stage the chairman suggested that as a Dutch song had been given, Dr. Langfeldt should contribute a German song, which he did.

The giving of prizes for faithful attendance and study in the Sunday School followed. In presenting these prizes Rev. Dr. Langfeldt gave a short resume of the Sunday School work during the year, and emphasized the faithful work of the superintendent, Mr. David Spence, whose efficiency and ability in conducting the Sunday School, he said, could not be excelled. The rector also impressed upon the parents the absolute necessity of giving every encouragement to the teaching of the children in religion.

The rector then distributed prizes to those who showed punctuality and efficiency in study during the year.

The Christmas tree, laden with presents, was then plundered, and every child in the Sunday School received a gift.

A pleasant evening was brought to a close with the singing of the anthem and the pronouncing of the benediction.

What One Woman is Doing to Relieve the Suffering of Womankind

If there is one woman in all America who has done more than her share to relieve the suffering of womankind, that woman is Mrs. Frances E. Currah, of Windsor, Ont.

Mrs. Currah was at one time a great sufferer from disgases peculiar to her sex. She had tried many remedies but found no cure and had almost given up hope of ever being well again. But one day she was persuaded by a friend to try what was then a little known remedy. Much to her astonishment she was immediately benefited and in a short time completely restored to robust health.

From that time until the present Mrs. Currah has devoted her life to interest women in this remedy which has now become famous under the name of Orange Lily and is advertising on page two of this publication.

Mrs. Currah's sympathetic nature leads her to perform the most charitable acts and she is now offering to send, free of charge, a 25c. box containing enough Orange Lily for a ten days' treatment. Hundreds are taking advantage of Mrs. Currah's generosity and doubtless many readers of this paper will seize this opportunity to try this wonderful remedy at no expense to themselves.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

The Passing of the Third Floor Back.

The theatre-goers of Peterborough were afforded an exceptional treat last evening in the appearance here at the Grand Opera House of Ian Robertson in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back." It was a fairly large sized audience that greeted the production of this powerful mystery play and the insistency of the applause was proof that it made a lasting impression. "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" by Jerome K. Jerome, is one of the strongest plays on the stage of to-day, and its wide popularity and its enthusiastic reception everywhere it has been presented, is sufficient guarantee of its worth and power. It deals with modern morality and in it is expressed some of the noblest thoughts, some of the loftiest ideals that one is capable of fulfilling—thoughts that are sermons in themselves, and that will not soon be forgotten.

The scenes are laid in a lodging house in London where are stopping persons of various types, such as a cheat, a slavey, a painted lady, a shrew, a snob, a bully, a hussy, a satyr, a coward, a rogue, a cad, and finally the passer-by. In the prologue the players are seen in the above roles, and cheating, thieving, swindling and unkind words, seem to be the order of things. Then comes "the stranger," the "Passer-by." With the rise of the curtain on the second act the audience sees him in the role of a friend, in personal contact with his fellow lodgers, appealing to their better selves, lifting them up to the highest possible attainments and sending them away better men and better women. They find in this "stranger" a friend, someone who sees in them only the best. In the epilogue a complete transformation has been effected. The satyr becomes a genial old bachelor, the hussy and the coward two lovers, the bully and the shrew a happy and contented husband and wife, the cad an entertaining person the rogue, an honest Jew, the painted lady a mere comely maiden lady, and the cheat an honest and respected man. The splendid work of the artists who presented this play last night cannot be praised too highly. Their acting was so natural and unaffected that an additional grace and charm was given this superb production.

In the role of "the stranger," "the Passer-by" Mr. Robertson's wonderful personality seems to be best fitted. It is a mysterious and inspiring individuality and Mr. Robertson seems to live the part, so true is his portrayal of this remarkable character. He possesses magnetism above the average and gifts of expression unsurpassable. The other players were equally successful in their respective roles.

BEEF RAISING

From Farm and Dairy.

Beef raising from east to west in Canada is covered fully in a publication recently issued from the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, entitled "Beef Raising in Canada." Attractively bound, printed on paper of fine quality, profusely illustrated throughout and containing as it does much useful information with reference to the breeding, feeding and marketing of beef cattle, this bulletin is such a one as any farmer will treasure highly and after reading it will keep it as a valuable text for reference purposes.

Articles in the bulletin, other than those dealing with general subjects pertaining to the beef bullock, deal with the modern breeds of beef cattle. These are by well known authorities. Illustrations showing approved types of animals of various beef breeds make this feature of much interest and value. Types of barns, plans of stables and systems of ventilation as depicted and described in the bulletin will fill a long felt want on the part of the farmers of Canada, who for years have been athirst for just such information.

To J. B. Spencer, B.S.A., belongs the credit of having compiled this bulletin. Mr. Spencer in getting out the bulletin "Sheep Husbandry in Canada," "The Report of the Swine Commission," and now this work on "Beef Raising in Canada," has set a new standard of excellence for Government publications for free distribution amongst farmers. Our farmers appreciate good things and it is certain that they take to this class of publication. This latest bulletin, as here reviewed, may be had on application to the Live Stock Branch of the Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa.

WILL HOLD MEETINGS

From Farm and Dairy.

Attention is herewith called to the meeting of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union to be held at the Agricultural College, Guelph, January 10, 11 and 12. It has previously been the custom to hold the meetings during Winter Fair week. This plan has not proven entirely satisfactory, however, and this year they will be held at the time of the Annual Short Course.

The object of the Experimental Union is to carry on cooperative experiments in all parts of the province in agriculture, horticulture, forestry, and apiculture. In field husbandry alone there have been 58,812 distinct tests made throughout the province since the work was started 25 years ago. Interesting and instructive addresses will be given on subjects covering all lines of agricultural work.

Special arrangements will be made whereby students attending the course on seed and stock judging will have an opportunity of attending the three forenoon and the two evening sessions of the union. Single first-class fares will be granted on all railways on the Standard Convention Certificate plan. Everyone who can should attend the Experimental Union meetings where they will receive a hearty welcome and receive much valuable information.

A feeling of uncertainty, a dread of possible disappointment always goes with an "off hand" hair preparation. That is part of the purchase, just as much so as the label on the bottle.

You don't get this with a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide. It is not an experiment. You number among your acquaintances and friends hundreds who have used Herpicide with satisfaction, and you know that you can do the same. The results are always positive, always right.

COURSE IN AGRICULTURE

From Farm and Dairy.

A six weeks course in Agriculture will be given by J. F. Metcalf, B.S.A., in the Collingwood Collegiate Institute, starting on Feb. 20.

A short course in live stock and cereal husbandry will be given at Macdonald College, St. Anne de Bellevue, Que., on Jan. 10-21, 1911 and another short course in Horticulture and Poultry on Jan. 24th to Feb. 4.

All who expect to attend the Forestry Convention which will meet in Quebec City, January 18, 19, and 20, are requested to communicate at once with the secretary, James Lawler, Canadian Building, Ottawa, who will be pleased to give programs and all other information. The railway companies have agreed to allow a single fare rate, on the standard certificate plan, for the journey to Quebec and return from all points in Canada east of Fort William.

One of the features most enjoyed by the farmers who took part in the deputation that waited on the Government in Ottawa recently, was the visit to Government House where they were entertained by Earl Grey and members of his household. Earl Grey presented to the delegates a copy of the book entitled "The Rural Life Problem in the United States," by Sir Horace Plunkett. This gift was very much appreciated by the delegates. Earl Grey succeeded in making the visitors feel thoroughly at home and thus made their visit to Rideau Hall one of the most enjoyable incidents connected with their visit to the capital.

TO LEASE ORCHARDS

From Farm and Dairy.

A company, backed, it is believed, by English capital, are planning to lease neglected orchards in Ontario. The company proposes to secure neglected orchards. They will pay $10 to $25 per acre a year rent for a period of 10 years. The company will take full charge of the orchards, the owner being required, however, to haul the packed apples to the nearest railway station. The owner will also be required to do the cultivating, for which he will be paid at the rate of $3 a day.

The company does not expect to get first class orchards at the low figure offered, but there are many neglected orchards in Ontario which do not yield their owners even $10 a year. In addition to the amount of the lease, the farmers will be given a splendid demonstration on the proper care of orchards, and their orchards will be worth more at the end of the 10 years than they are now.

ECONOMY OF MOTION

From Farm and Dairy.

Alice A. Ferguson, York Co., Ont.

There is a feeling in some places that to be found seated at a piece of work when you could stand at it is sheer laziness. I write to explode that theory. I believe in the economy of motion. In the strenuous life we live these days, restfulness is necessary if the physical machinery is to accomplish all we require of it. My motto is, "Never stand if I can sit; never sit if I can lie down; never run if I can walk," i.e., in connection with my work. And I do not think anyone, with any degree of truth, could call me lazy. Let the head save the feet.

It is so easy to come in, take off our wraps, lay them down, and afterwards when necessity needs must, pick them up and put in their places. Try putting them away—when possible—at once, and save the extra motion of picking up, and feel the thrill of satisfaction in one good deed accomplished.

How many people stand at the ironing table till feet and back are tired (too tired for the next task), when they might sit down and work equally well? I have found a high chair, without arms, a comfort, a high stool, or if neither is convenient, put a box on a chair—anything so that the weight does not rest on the feet. There are some articles that you feel you must stand up in order to iron well, but very many can be ironed quite as well if you sit on this high chair, with the feet simply touching the floor.

Have casters on your table, wheel it over near the kitchen range (except in hot weather), sit down at your ironing, and finish feeling fresh for getting dinner. This same high chair is a comfort in many ways. Sit down on it while drying dishes, while paring potatoes (or in preparing many food stuffs at the table). Even at cutting out small articles of clothing, the chair can be used to rest you and keep you high enough to work. A woman requires a high chair frequently for reaching to the tops of windows, to hang curtains, and pictures. Whether you have a piano and six rocking chairs or not, have a high chair or stool.

A dumb waiter is a step saving device which pays for itself in a short time. How tired we become running up and down the cellar stairs while preparing a meal or taking away the remains. A dumb waiter built at the correct spot may save many a trip. A dumb waiter need not be an expensive article.

A dinner-wagon is a luxury in some homes. It is a sort of open cupboard on wheels or casters. If dishes are to be carried a distance, fill up the wagon and take all on one journey. These are only a few of many such methods. Practice economy of motion and live easier.

A NEW HAVEN CHILD

Restored to Health by Vinol—Case Interests Many Parents

"My little daughter ever since her birth had been frail and sickly, and was a constant source of worriment. Several months ago I secured a bottle of Vinol and commenced to give it to her. I immediately noted an improvement in her health and appearance. I gave her three bottles of Vinol, and from the good it has done her I can truly say it will do all you claim, and I want to recommend Vinol to any one who desires to build up a weakened, run-down system." — J. Edmund Miller, New Haven, Conn. (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

The child's recovery was due to the combined action of the medicinal elements of the cods' livers—aided by the blood making and strength creating properties of tonic iron, which are contained in Vinol, and the strongest evidence that Vinol will build dup and strengthen delicate children, old people, and the weak, run-down and debilitated, is our willingness to return the purchase money in every case where it fails to give complete satisfaction. The White Sale of Real Worth Will Be Held At This Store

We do not put on sales on slight pretext, or flimsy excuses---our White Sale, like all special events at this store, is carefully planned and prepared for. The point aimed at is to provide the very finest qualities of White Wear, in most generous assortments, and to sell at prices as low in all instances, and lower in many instances than inferior goods sell for at so-called White Wear Sales held elsewhere.

This Sale Begins Monday Morning, Jan. 9th, at 9 a.m.

While our stocks are the largest we ever assembled for a White Wear Sale, so unusual are the values, that many of the choicest may not last the event through.

The Intuitions of an M.P.

Henry Horton Miller, M.P., author of the Anti-Gambling Bill, is naturally well known in his home town of Hanover.

As he walked to his office one day an old man stopped him with the query: "Mr. Miller, do you know what I want?"

Being an M.P., Mr. Miller is naturally one of our best little guessers, so he was ready with an answer: "I'm not sure, Bill," he said, "but I think you want a quarter to get a drink."

"Mr. Miller," said the old man, "you show darn good judgment."

PANAMA CANAL LOCKS.

Plenty of Leeway For the Largest Ocean Steamers.

We were shown in the central offices at Culebra a most interesting model of a typical completed lock with a small wooden replica of the Olympic going through it. The Olympic is one of the new Titans of the White Star line, 890 feet in length and 92 feet wide, and she will have plenty of leeway in a chamber whose usable dimensions are 1,000 by 110 feet. The Olympic with her 50,000 gross and 45,000 net tonnage represents the largest type of vessel that can seek to cross the isthmus for a long time to come, and there is still a margin left for ships even more monstrous. The lock model clearly illustrates the action of safety gates in checking the flow of water, and a chain from wall to wall in front of the lock chamber in an emergency will suddenly restrain a vessel of 10,000 tons moving at six miles an hour. The further precaution will be taken to forbid vessels from proceeding under their own steam; they are to be taken in tow by electric locomotives.

It is already calculated that the boats ascending the lock stair at Gatun will not require more than one and one-half hours for the transit, and the Pacific locks will detain the vessels for about the same length of time. The average vessel will take from ten to twelve hours to cross the isthmus, and there is no reason why passengers should not proceed by train if they like in advance of the ships and disport themselves as they please at either terminus.

Under ordinary circumstances it will require about fifteen minutes to fill the lock chamber; if there is particular need for haste the process can be completed in half the time. The available water supply will allow of forty-eight lockages per diem, which might easily mean an average of something like 80,000,000 tons of traffic annually as compared with 21,000,000 tons in the case of the Suez canal and the 40,000,000 tons of the Sault Ste. Marie. The lock chambers are filled and emptied by means of an interesting system of lateral culverts which open in the flows and connect with larger culverts in the central and side walls of the lock chamber.—Fullerton L. Waldo in Engineering Magazine.

In Two Divisions.

Men are often divided into educated and ignorant, the rich and the poor, the famous and the unknown, but a division more marked than any other might be made between the strong and the weak. We meet them both in every walk of life. Their birth or education or general surroundings may be the same, but a sharp line divides those who govern their inclinations from those whose inclinations govern them. On the one side we see strength accomplishment and value, on the other weakness, spasmodic and ill directed effort and inefficiency.

Making Appropriate Gifts.

The year just closing has been so prosperous that the spirit of philanthropy will find very large expression in the giving of Christmas cheer at home and abroad, writes Cyrus P. Jones in success. The transatlantic mails are already burdened with the money letters sent from America to "the old folks at home."

Next to the gifts which brighten the home of the American citizen, those given to worthy charity are important to consider. Too many people give indiscriminately. They mean well, but so did the committee which sent $20,000 worth of fireworks to the Irish famine sufferers.

Still others give something of no value whatever. An instance of this was made manifest at a public gathering in New York, where one of the speakers called attention to the sufferers from a prolonged strike and suggested the advisability of giving them something. One in the sympathetic audience got up and said, "I move that we give them three cheers!" Let us select our gifts with reference to their appropriateness and utility.

THE TRAPPED DESPERADO.

A Woman Enters Into the Work of Catching Him.

By MARY EDMONDS.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

Half a dozen men were scrambling over rocks, fallen trees, underbrush and such debris as will get wedged in a narrow defile, slowly making their way upward and onward. Coming to an open space just big enough to hold a 10 by 12 cabin, they saw a woman standing before the door watching their approach.

"Have any o' you men seen Hank Speer down that a-way?" she asked.

"No," replied one of the party; "we haven't saw Speer."

The woman looked disappointed.

"What y' want with him?" asked the other.

"I want to kill him."

"What's he done to you?"

"What's he done? Done 'nough. He brought me up here, tellin' me he had a fine house and lots o' sheep. I hadn't never been here and didn't know nothin' at all about what kind of a kentry it was. This mis'able hut's the fine house he was talkin' about, and the sheep is all up on the divide. They haven't been tamed yit. I tole him what I thort of a man who'd treat a woman that a-way. He jist tuk up a piece o' brushwood and was goin' to brain me with it when I lit out. He followed me a spell, but it's mighty thick up here, and he lost me. When I come back he was gone. Say, y' sure y' hain't seen nothin' of him down thar?"

"Air you Speer's wife?"

"Waal, there warn't no un to marry us when we come up here."

"Do you want us to find him for you?"

"Reckon I do, and when y' find him I want y' to hold him while I shoot him."

The men consulted in an undertone; then Quigley, who had carried on the conversation thus far, continued it.

"We're out puspectin' and don't want to waste no time, but if one kin do anything to sarve a lone woman as has been treated bad we don't mind doin' it—that is, if it don't take up too much time. Speer hain't gone down below, 'cause if he had we'd 'a' met him. He couldn't go up the divide on either side o' the crick, 'cause it would be too hard climbin'. Consekently he must 'a' gone up the can'on. How far is it up to the top?"

"I dunno. Speer jist brought me here a spell ago."

"We kin git him for you, no doubt about that, for the can'on ends in a cliff he can't git over."

"Y' mustn't let on yer after him. He knows all about this yere gulch, and if he knowed y' wanted him he moughtfind a way out y' never heered about."

There was further consultation between the men while the woman stood on her porch waiting. She was an angular creature with frowzy hair and a dirty calico dress.

"How would it do," asked Quigley, "for you to go after him, pertend you was sorry for what you'd said to him and bring him back to yer cabin? We kin hide about here, and as soon as you git him inside we mought see that he done y' no harm, you doin' what you like with him."

"Twouldn't do at all. Reckon he's huntin' for me now to kill me."

While the men continued to confer the woman appeared to be thinking.

"I tell y' what," she said presently. "Ef one o' you'll lend me yer clothes I might go up the can'on, steal around Hank Speer, git above him and then, showin' up as a man, drive him down into yer clutches."

"That sounds well," said Quigley, and he asked the others what they thought of the proposition.

All agreed that since they were to help the woman she should do as much as possible in the matter. None of them seemed to relish climbing the rough ground between them and the upper end of the canyon. The man nearest the woman's height divested himself of his outer garments, and she retired and put them on.

"You better tell us," said Quigley, "before y' go what colored clothes Speer's wearin', so's we'll know the difference between y'."

"He hain't got but one wooken shirt and one pair breeches. The shirt is blue; the breec'es is corduroy. His hat is black."

"All right," responded Quigley. "Take notice, boys, that the woman's shirt and breeches are gray and her hat almost the same color. We needn't mistake one for t'other."

The woman took a rifle from the hut and soon disappeared up the narrow gorge, leaving the men in occupation of the cabin.

"Waal," said Quigley, "reckon we got him purty sartin and without much trouble. A wildcat couldn't git out o' this can'on above us, and when he comes down all we got to do is to take him."

"We're in luck, sheriff," said Tom Bowles. "It's wo'th $100 apiece to climb over these rocks and underbrush. Y' done a cute trick in gittin' the woman's help. Considerin' we don't git nothin' but thanks fer the job, I don't mind leavin' it to her."

"She may shoot him and save us the trouble o' hangin' him," said Enoch Darby, the man who had exchanged clothes.

"How d' y' know," asked Abe Williams, "she ain't foolin' us and goin' up thar to help him out in the fix he's in?"

"Oh, she's had a hard time with him," said the sheriff. "The women these jayhawkers take up with always do. Most of the men I've taken has been given away by their pardners. But it doesn't matter in this case. We've got him penned up in a place a painter couldn't git out of, and I don't see what she can do to help him if she wants to."

For two hours the sheriff's posse waited developments. Then a shot reverberated up the canyon.

"What'd I tell y'?" exclaimed Quigley. "The woman's tryin' to kill him."

"Like enough he's tryin' to kill her," said Darby.

"The kentry 'd be well rid o' both of 'em," put in Williams. "The women o' this kind is wo'se 'n the men."

The party listened for another shot, but heard none. They passed the time debating the probabilities concerning the one that had been fired. Some supposed the man had killed the woman, while others maintained that, she being in man's dress, he would not know her as his woman, whereas she would know him. Therefore, there being but one shot, it was probable she had caught sight of him and killed him.

"I'll bet any man $10," said Darby, "she's back within half an hour and reports him dead."

"If she does," said Williams, "I won't believe her. Easiest thing in the world for her to throw us off the track that away."

Abe Darby retorted, "Y' wouldn't believe Speer was dead if y' seen him lyin' before y' with a hole in his head."

"Not if a woman had anything to do with it," snarled Abe.

"Abe's right," said Tom Bowles. "Nobody can't tell nothin' about what a woman's a-goin' to do. My opinion is that this villain has treated his woman pretty much as she says he has, but it's my opinion, too, that instead of killin' him or runnin' him for us she'll git him out if she can."

"I'd like to know how she's a-goin' to do it," Quigley remarked earnestly. "Ef he kin git out o' the can'on at all he kin do it as well without her as with her. We got the bulge on him, seein' he's built his cabin on the only outlet. There's no pass on either side of us that a cat could get over."

It was not long after this that a stone was heard rolling a short distance up the canyon, leaping over rocks, thumping against tree trunks and finally falling into the creek. Every man jumped to his feet, seized the weapon he had laid aside and cocked it. They waited several minutes, when a shot rang out, and, looking up at a ledge on the opposite side of the canyon from that on which the bowlder had rolled, they saw a figure in light gray clothes such as had been lent to the woman pointing a rifle toward the spot from which the stone had rolled.

"Come on, boys!" shouted Quigley. "He's up there where she's p'intin' the gun."

Every man started up the canyon toward the spot indicated. Another shot rang out from the rifle on the ledge, after which the posse entered the brush and saw no more of the figure that fired it. Loose stones and dirt were dislodged as if by some one hurrying away. Quigley and his men pursued on, but the fugitive kept ahead of them. Finally they chased him into a pocket from which there was no escape. A figure in a dark blue shirt and corduroy trousers stood on a rock holding up his hands in token of surrender. Weapons were lowered, and the party advanced.

"You cussed galoots!" cried Abe Williams. "It's the woman."

True enough she had changed clothes with the man she had volunteered to drive into their clutches, he had pretended to fire at himself to get them out of their position, and as soon as they had gone he had descended, taken the only available outlet past his cabin and was now running like a deer to a more open country. He had got too great a start from them to warrant their trying to overtake him, and they were not sufficiently energetic to make the attempt.

"Yer a mighty cute woman," said Quigley to her who had fooled him.

"Y' are married then?"

"Reckon I am married. Hank and I been married fifteen years."

"I tole y'," growled Abe Williams, "ef there was a woman in the case y'd git beat."

The Sand Bark Tree.

A curiosity is known in the tropics as the sand bark tree and also as the monkey's dinner bell. It has a round, hard shelled fruit about the size of an orange, which when ripe and dry bursts open with a sharp noise like the report of a pistol. Its juice is poisonous.

PURE GLYCERIN.

It Is a Queer Substance Endowed With Peculiar Properties.

One of the great advantages of glycerin in its chemical employment is the fact that it neither freezes nor evaporates under any ordinary temperature. No perceptible loss by evaporation has been detected at a temperature less than 200 degrees F., but if heated intensely it decomposes with a smell that few persons find themselves able to endure. It burns with a pale flame, similar to that from alcohol, if heated to about 300 degrees and then ignited. Its nonevaporative qualities make the compound of much use as a vehicle for holding pigments and colors, as in stamping and typewriter ribbons, carbon papers and the like.

If the pure glycerin be exposed for a long time to a freezing temperature it crystallizes with the appearance of sugar candy, but these crystals being once melted it is almost an impossibility to get them again into the congealed state. If a little water be added to the glycerin no crystallization will take place, though under a sufficient degree of cold the water will separate and form crystals, amid which the glycerin will remain in its natural state of fluidity. If suddenly subjected to intense cold pure glycerin will form a gummy mass which cannot be entirely hardened or crystallized. Altogether it is quite a peculiar substance.

DON'T GET TOO SEDATE.

Play Is as Good For Grown Persons as For Children.

Play is just as necessary to keep a grown man young and a middle aged man from growing old as it is to make a child grow into a man. Wordsworth's lines are as sound physiology as good poetry:

My heart leaps up when I behold
The rainbow in the sky.
So was it when my life began;
So be it when I am a man
Or let me die.

In childhood we play because we are young, in middle age we are young because we play, and if we keep it up we shall never know that we are old until we are one day suddenly dead. Yet the absurd idea has grown up, and Mrs. Grundy has adopted it with her usual fatuousness, that play is something undignified in a grown man and unbecoming in a lady. And this unfortunately is one of the rare instances where "thinking makes it so." After a man has practiced this belief in the uselessness of exercise for half a decade or so and become fat and pompous and red faced or pale and slack muscled and short winded then the contortions that he indulges in when he decides to unbend and try to play furnish considerably more entertainment to spectators than to himself.—Dr. Woods Hutchinson in Outing.

In the Shadow of Fame.

There are a number of former celebrities who are now running rooming and boarding houses in New York city. Many a singer, actress or writer who formerly held a place in the public eye has now settled down to the prosaic occupation of housing and feeding a small portion of that same public. Their houses are a magnet for young persons with the artistic temperament. One woman who once enjoyed a fair reputation as a violinist has five furnished apartments which she sublets room by room to aspirants for dramatic, operatic and literary honors. Reflected glory rather than physical comfort is the portion of most of these satellites, but the privilege of hobnobbing with yesterday's greatness compensates for material discomfort.—New York Press.

Carborundum.

Carborundum, which consists essentially of silicon carbide, is produced in the electric furnace from a mixture of sand, coke, sawdust and common salt.

Apple Sauce.

Apple sauce, when the apples are of fine flavor, needs no spices, but when the fruit is of inferior quality ginger, cloves and cinnamon may be used to advantage. Sauce so seasoned also has the advantage of keeping sweet longer.

Wire.

Wire was first beaten out by hammers, but the artisans of Nuremberg in 1350 began to draw it, which was the great step forward in the process.

The Feminine Eye.

Women usually have better eyesight than men.

Spanish Marble.

The method of getting marble in Spain has not varied since the days when the Moors built the Alhambra, and the transportation is equally primitive.

Salting Almonds.

To salt almonds add a tablespoonful of sweet oil or melted butter to a big cupful of the blanched nuts. Let them stand for one hour in a moderately warm place. Then sprinkle a tablespoonful of fine salt over them and put them in the oven to stand for about five or ten minutes.

Cruel Punishment.

Cutting off the hands and feet as a punishment was practiced in every country in Europe but England two centuries ago.

EVIDENCE IN COLBORNE HOTEL MYSTERY CASE

Witnesses Testify at the Brimacombe Inquest That They Heard Voices Say "Keep Quiet"---Heard Someone Tell the Girl to Shut Up.

Colborne, Jan. 7.—It is as you were in the position of both the crown and defence after an all day's sitting at yesterday's session of the preliminary hearing into the charge of murder against Henry I. Matthews, jr., charged with the murder of Johanna Brimacombe on Dec. 17. John Mills, J.P., and Robert Snetsinger, J.P., are the presiding magistrates. E. Gus Porter, K.C., is conducting the case for the defence, and W. F. Kerr, K.C., crown attorney, is looking after the prosecution.

The evidence taken in the morning was largely corroborative of that taken at the inquest.

Helen Brisco, dining-room maid at the Bristol Hotel, sprung a sensation in the afternoon when she said that when Matthews came in for dinner she saw that he had been drinking. Later, when she invited Miss Brimacombe to come and sit beside him, placing a chair handy for the purpose, she ordered him aside, but Miss Brimacombe was inclined to accept the invitation.

Joseph McMurray said the noise he heard at the head of the stairs was loud, like a woman's voice. It sounded like a scream. He avoided Mr. Kerr's question as to whose voice it was.

"Was it not the dummy?" counsel asked.

"It was the dummy, I thought," was the answer.

The witness confirmed the previous evidence of Matthews being seen downstairs with his vest open and his watch dangling from a guard. He couldn't explain why he hadn't mentioned to Matthews the noise that had attracted his attention.

"Are you sure now, Mr. McMurray, that it was the dummy that made the noise?" asked Mr. Porter.

"No."

"You would not undertake to venture any opinion that might be relied upon?"

"No."

Nelson Murphy corroborated McMurray's evidence as to the noise, and of him ascending the stairs with Smith. While he likened the noise to that of the "dummy" he persisted in the thought that it came from Teasdale and his wife, engaged in a wrangle. Murphy firmly resisted Mr. Kerr's pressure that he might have heard a man's voice in the room, and repeatedly dodged the question as to whether it was the voice of a man or a woman.

"Did it sound to you like the voice of either Mr. Teasdale or Mrs. Teasdale?"

"No."

"Why didn't you go further?"

"I didn't want to get into trouble."

He could not tell whether the sound indicated pain or pleasure, but thought it meant distress. Contrary to his evidence at the inquest, Murphy said he did not know there was a "dummy" in the house.

Murphy told Mr. Porter that Matthews, when he came downstairs, did not look like a man who had come through a severe struggle. He did not look like a man who had just had a forcible encounter with a woman. In accordance with the testimony of Bert Rogers, the witness said that it was after eight when Matthews came down stairs, and that, under the circumstances, he might not have had supper.

John Smith, who went upstairs with Murphy to investigate the noise, said his attention was attracted by a squeaking noise. He thought someone was being hurt. The sounds were coming from the door of room 14. It kept up all the while he was in the house.

"Did you hear any other sounds?" asked the crown attorney.

"Yes, sir, I heard somebody speaking."

"Could you tell the words?"

"It sounded like somebody saying, 'Shut up, shut up, keep quiet.'"

He would swear it was a man's voice. He did not pursue the question further for fear of intruding. Under cross-examination, the testimony of Smith was unshaken.

Charles A. Post, barber, for the defence, cleared up the question of the scratch on Matthews' face. It had been made on the Wednesday prior to the 17th, and had been broken again at the rink on the following Monday.

The hearing will close Saturday morning when Teasdale's evidence will be taken. Matthews is still in Cobourg jail in striking contrast with his showing before his arrest, his face is wan and careworn. He is nervous, and at times during the hearing he perspired excessively.

Ontario Legislature will Get an Early Start and the Session Will Be a Light One

Toronto, Jan. 7.—To-day's Ontario Gazette will contain the proclamation of His Hon. Lieut.-Governor Gibson, summoning the members to attend the session of the twelfth Parliament of the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario on Tuesday, Jan. 24, inst., at 3 o'clock of the afternoon of the aforesaid date.

The announcement of this early date will not come as a surprise, as it is but one week earlier than the date considered to a few days ago as that looked for by the officials at the Parliament Buildings. The date, however, is in the nature of a bombshell to the members of the legal profession, who were relying upon a prediction given as semi-official in a Toronto newspaper, which named March 19 as the probable date for the opening.

Sir James Whitney stated last night that although the session was called at the earliest date that the progress with the completion of the west wing rendered convenient, it was not because of any expectation that the business of the session would be excessively heavy or its duration be prolonged. The indications were for an ordinary, useful session.

Delicate and difficult will be one issue to be dealt with by the Legislative Chamber, that of dual languages in the schools.

According to a statement from a well-informed source, the Provincial Treasurer has a measure well advanced for submission to the House for a graded higher license system with respect to the sale of intoxicating liquors.

Hon. Col. Matheson will again have a most satisfactory financial statement to make for the financial year, which closed Oct. 31. The returns will show that the current revenue and expenditures have been well balanced, and that the estimates presented last spring were prepared with an excellent appreciation of the year's outlook.

The Legislature will be asked to authorize an issue of bonds to the amount of about $400,000,000 for the purchase of certain license holders' extensive timber holdings in Algonquin Park.

Private legislation may not assume its full proportions, owing to the comparatively short notice of the session, which opens one day earlier than a year ago. The legal departments of the various railways holding Ontario franchises have, however, already a number of them, posted notices of applications for extensions of their lines.

Amendments to the Public and Separate School Acts are looked for as probable in relation to the French schools in Eastern Ontario, as well as the dual language problem in Essex County. The Sturgeon Falls situation is also likely to be dealt with.

The offices of the Inter-Trust Security Co., promoters of mining ventures, of Boston, were raided by Federal officers yesterday afternoon, in connection with the prosecution of an alleged fraudulent use of the mails.

Toronto's Bill of Health.

Toronto, Jan. 7.—There were 408 more cases of typhoid in Toronto in 1910 than in 1909. Dr. G. G. Nasmith, city bacteriologist, attributes it to the fact that more care was observed in reporting cases last year.

The figures for diphtheria in 1910 were 1,155 as against 1,292 in 1909, and in scarlet fever 1,484 cases were reported in 1910 in comparison to 1,264 in the previous year.

American Falls Almost Dry.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 7.—The American falls are almost dry, as the result of a jam in the rapids above Goat Island. The falls ran completely dry in February, 1909. The conditions of that time promise to be repeated if the present weather conditions continue.

INVESTORS PLEASED.

British Capital is Well Satisfied With Canada.

Montreal, Jan. 7. K. N. MacFee of the London financial firm of K. N. MacFee & Co., doing a very large business in Canadian municipal bonds, is in town and relates that there is a steady enquiry for new Canadian municipal securities. There has been no default in Canada, he says, for 50 years, except Brandon 15 years ago, and that city afterwards paid in full, so the British investing public have every confidence in the municipalities of the Dominion, especially when they are doing as at present, viz.: keeping their borrowing limit down to from eight to ten per cent. of the assessed values of the property of the municipality.

Mr. MacFee, who has been in the West, says that, during the coming six months, western municipalities will be in the market for at least from thirty to fifty millions, and they will be able to justify their faith in their town's ability to carry the tax. The credits of Halifax and St. John, as well as the Ontario towns, is, he says, first class, while Montreal and Quebec can be placed in the number one class, but the English investor knows less of the Quebec municipalities, and their bonds are consequently more difficult of handling. In conclusion, Mr. MacFee drew attention to the fact that in the British Trustee Act certain securities are specified as legal for trust investments, and while this includes the securities of the Dominion of Canada and the Australian states the Canadian provinces are not in the favored category, and while the credit of all the Canadian provinces is the best, their securities would be "better" if they were included in this list.

Carried Under the Ice.

Bathurst, N.B., Jan. 7.—A young man named Levasseur, from Amqui, Que., was drowned here at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. In crossing the bridge over Nepsiquet River to Intercolonial station, his hat blew into the water, and in attempting to get it, he broke through the ice and the strong current carried him under. His companion shouted for help, but it arrived too late to save him. Levasseur was 22 years old, and unmarried.

Protectorate For Honduras.

New York, Jan. 7.—A Washington special to The American says: American protectorate over Honduras, through an assumption of the national loan of that republic by a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan, it is said, will be effected within twenty-four hours.

Gen. Peredeux, Minister of Finance for Honduras, left New York Thursday night for Washington to complete the deal.

Farmers Appear in Force From Halton to Watch the Progress of the Case and Are Disappointed at Postponement

AGAIN REMANDED

Toronto, Jan. 7.—Considerable surprise was expressed yesterday morning when W. K. Travers was again remanded in police court for yet another week's delay. Crown Attorney Corley had announced at his last arraignment that the crown would be ready to open the case yesterday and witnesses had been summoned from the Finance Department at Ottawa to swear to the returns made to the Government by the former general manager of the Farmers' Bank, but these were not called, and Mr Corley once more declared that he was not ready to go on, and asked for a week's remand. This was reluctantly granted by Magistrate Denison.

At each previous appearance of Mr. Travers, H. H. Dewart, K.C., his counsel, has bitterly protested against the delay, but yesterday he smilingly concurred. Bail was renewed in sureties of $20,000 in each case, both of which were supplied by A. M. Orpen.

The public demand for a deep and searching probing into all the affairs of the bank is growing daily more strenuous and more insistent. Yesterday a number of farmers, shareholders of the bank, journeyed to the city from Halton County, where the stock is heavily held, to hear the opening of the case. These were bitterly disappointed when the "nothing doing" sign was put up for another week.

The question most discussed by those interested and which seems to be uppermost in the mind of the man on the street is as to the possible implication of others than Mr. Travers in the failure of the bank and the likelihood of the prosecution of Travers being postponed indefinitely. Mr. Travers, for the conducting of [illegible] cattle business, is [illegible] a fair and strong one, and [illegible] should [illegible]

It was a very, very happy time to me and it is delightful to think that I was any help to you. The book will always lie upon my table to remind me of the many kind friends on the other side of the Atlantic."

"I had dropsy, and was told by my family physician that there was no chance for me. My family also gave me up. My limbs and body were swollen one-third larger than natural, water collected around my heart and I had to be propped up in bed to keep from smothering. I took Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy until I was entirely cured. This was in 1902, and I am now able to do any kind of work on my farm. My cure was certainly marvelous."

"GRILLERS" OPEN LOCAL O.H.A. SEASON WITH EASY VICTORY OVER LINDSAY MIDGETS

SPEED BOYS LEAD BY 17-3 AT THE FINISH

Game Was Never in Doubt After First Few Minutes—The Grillers Had the Speed, Condition and Scoring Ability and Were Always in Front.

HALF TIME FIGURES 7 TO 3

Eight hundred fans, with memories of Lindsay-Peterborough games of last season fresh in their minds, howled themselves hoarse at Brock Street Rink last night, as they watched the Peterborough Grillers administer a complete and most artistic trimming to the Lindsay Midgets, in a junior O.H.A. game. The score, when it was all over, was 17 to 3, in favour of Peterborough.

Half way through it was 7 to 3, in favour of the Grillers.

The game was never in doubt.

Peterborough flashed in front at the barrier, galloped easily at the quarter, started to open out a big lead at the half, were running alone at the three quarter and came home by themselves.

After the first fifteen minutes it was only a question of the score.

Lindsay looked big and fast when they came out for practise and handled themselves so nicely that the fans settled back for a tight battle. It never materialized.

The Midgets opened fast, but it was Peterborough who scored first, and although Lindsay got as close as 2-1 and 3-2 in the early stages, they were never in the hunt afterwards.

The Grillers, individually, and as a team, played grand hockey. A weakness failed to develop anywhere. The defence was steady, hard to draw out, and both skating defence men travelled at a terrific clip, feeding their forwards continuously by brilliant rushing. On the forward line, Peterborough had, by very long odds, the best of the battle. The light blue advance guard unravelled an effective combination shot nicely, and at the right time, and checked back so fast and so continuously that the Lindsay forwards rarely were allowed to work down on the defence without a couple of white shirts sandwiched in between them. This coming back, on the part of the Peterborough forwards, was in marked contrast to the work of the Scugog line, whose back-checking was only spasmodic and lacked the speed to make it effective.

The score looks big, but the goals were earned. At that it was a pretty game of hockey to watch. With pretty combination and thrilling rushes the length of the rink, with hardly a let-up from start to finish, the crowd got their money's worth, and went away satisfied that the Grillers had lived up to their advance notice of being the best junior team that Peterborough has had since the memorable year the famous Colts spread sorrow and devastation among the scholarly populace of Stratford, by beating them for the junior title.

The Grillers won a warm spot in the hearts of the fans last night, and will not lack for followers from now on. They went the route without turning a hair and ended up going just as fast as they were when the referee's bell announced the commencement of hostilities. Trainer Billy Breen's work with the youngsters was easily evident in their superb condition and they were fit and willing to play another game on top if they had been required to do so. They had speed to burn, both defence and forwards skating like demons and a few more practices together, to round off the edges, will develop a combination that will make them about as awkward a proposition as any junior team would care to meet.

Patterson, in goal, had an easy night of it, but gave a good account of himself. All three that beat him were from close in and he had no chance with them.

Reynolds and Heffernan, at point and cover-point, unrolled a line of speed that opened the eyes of the fans. The doughty little Captain worked every minute and stopped many likely efforts, while his rushing never failed to relieve the situation. Heffernan tore down the ice with the rubber at a clip that easily carried him away from the Lindsay forwards and he gave the visitors' defence some very busy sessions when he sailed into their territory under a full head of steam. His rushing was one of the features of the game and was only equalled by his checking.

The four forwards played consistently good and effective hockey all through the engagement. They worked unselfishly, passing to advantage, and carried the rubber well in before shooting, with the result that the Lindsay defence had their hands full. Jerry Coughlin, the lanky youngster, at rover, was there with a beautiful turn of speed and clever stick-handling, and he checked back like a fiend. He was going like a whirlwind at the finish, and played a sterling, brilliant game all through. Hall played centre as it should be played. He was always camped in front of the Lindsay nets, waiting for a pass or a re-bound, and not many of either were allowed to go to waste, his shooting being quick and accurate. Both wings played grand hockey. Matthews, at left, fed his centre man steadily and effectively, and a number of counters followed his passes from the side or the corner. He worked into the combination perfectly and above all he was back with every rush, bothering the man with the puck, or grabbing off the passes. Sorel, at right, showed the same ability and willingness to check back and his shooting was a feature. His drives are always on the nets and they come through with a force behind them that keeps the defence busy.

Lindsay, who, by the way, have forsaken the blue and white for a green sweater, looked like a good team, but they lacked speed and team work—two very handy articles to have around the house at any time. The defence is big and fast. Norton, the massive point player, whose proportions were such as to earn him the title "Hackenschmidt," was the pick of the bunch. In physique, he looks like Leon Koyle, Lindsay's famous defence man of other years, and when he gets going the resemblance to Koyle is still more marked. He played a sterling defence game, playing an understudy role to the goal keeper, and picked off a host of shots. His rushing was all that kept Lindsay in the game at all and was directly responsible for their three goals. He rushed the rubber the length of the rink for one counter and on the other two occasions carried it through and handed it to some body to score. Henley, the cover-point, was fast and a good stick-handler, but not very effective in checking. The forwards were outclassed. Knowlson, the centre, was perhaps the best of the four, but they all seemed shy on condition, and either could not or would not give much assistance to their defence.

Lindsay ran an excursion for the game, and brought down about one hundred and fifty fans. They were not heard from very often. F. H. Sproule of Toronto, refereed the game and made a big hit with the fans. He was strict and impartial, and anything he missed would take a man with a powerful field-glass to detect. The teams were as follows:

LINDSAY

Newton
Norton
Henley
Callaghan
McConnell — Knowlson — Mercer
Matthews — Hall — Sorel
Coughlin
Heffernan
Reynolds
Patterson

PETERBOROUGH

The ice was lightning fast, probably the best of the season, and the pace was of a calibre corresponding. Lindsay won the toss and the play started at a clip that was an augury of a speedy exhibition. Honours were even for a few minutes. Peterborough forwards got an edge but Newton turned off the shot, and there was a hot scrimmage in front of the nets before Norton cleared with a rush. A little more than four minutes from the start, Heffernan broke away for a beautiful rush and passed to Matthews, who scored an easy shot from close in. Peterborough 1, Lindsay 0.

Peterborough counted again before half time. Heffernan tore off a pretty rush and passed to Sorel, who did the necessary. — Peterborough, 7: Lindsay 3.

A moment after Heffernan came back with another spectacular rush. Norton and Henley tried to sandwich him, but missed, and had a head-on collision with the result that Henley was nearly telescoped and took the count. Half-time was called a few moments afterwards.

At the beginning of the second-half Coughlin was sent away for loafing. Peterborough showed no let-up and in in a few moments Hall added to their score by batting in a re-bound from a shot by Sorel.—Peterborough 8. Lindsay 3.

Norton took a swing at Sorel under the eye of the referee with the usual sentence. Sorel followed him on after for a heavy body-check. Coughlin got the puck at centre and slipped down the boards and around the Lindsay defence for a pretty goal, unassisted. — Peterborough 9, Lindsay 3.

Forty seconds afterwards, Heffernan came down with a speedy rush and passed to Matthews, who found a leak between Norton and Newton, and scored.—Peterborough 10, Lindsay 3.

A neat pass from Coughlin to Hall resulted in another score a minute afterwards.—Peterborough 11, Lindsay 3.

Sorel tripped a Lindsay forward, and was penalized. McConnell followed suit for slashing. Norton increased the penalty list, a few moments afterwards for cross-checking Coughlin. Hall added to the score by a shot from close in, following a neat pass from the corner by Matthews.—Peterborough 12, Lindsay 3.

A rush by Heffernan, followed by a neat shot from outside the defence, was instrumental in the next goal. —Peterborough 13, Lindsay 3.

The old, reliable combination, Matthews to Hall, which was responsible for so many goals during the night, netted the next counter.—Peterborough 14, Lindsay 3.

Hall was detected loafing and was chased. Peterborough kept right on scoring, Sorel pushing one in on a pass from Coughlin. — Peterborough 15, Lindsay 3.

Coughlin started a rush, passed to Hall, who handed it to Mutthews, and once more the white flag waved behind Newton. — Peterborough 16, Lindsay 3.

McConnel drew his fourth penalty this time for tripping Reynolds. Just thirty seconds before time was up, Sorel scored again for Peterborough. Final score, Peterborough 17, Lindsay 3.

COULD NOT SLEEP AT NIGHT.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is rich in the lung-healing virtues of the Norway pine tree. It is a pleasant, safe and effectual medicine that may be confidentially relied upon as a specific for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Quinsy, and all Throat and Lung Troubles.

It will stop that tickling in the throat which causes the dry cough that keeps you awake at night.

Mrs. J. A. Smith, Marshville, Ont., writes:—"I had a very bad cough and that distressing tickling sensation in my throat. It was so bad I could not sleep at night and my lungs were so sore I had to give up work.

"Our doctor gave me medicine but it did me no good, so I got a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and by the time I had used two bottles I was entirely cured. I am always recommending it to my friends."

Do not be humbugged into buying the so-called Norway Pine Syrups but be sure and insist on "Dr. Wood's." It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, the price 25c.

PROFESSIONAL HOCKEY MAKES WORK FOR DOCTORS

Under the caption "Work for the Surgeon" this extract is taken from the Ottawa Citizen's report of the professional hockey match between Ottawa and Canadians, at Montreal, on December 31:

"Both teams, as was to have been expected from the slashing and heavy checking, were painfully battered when they limped into their dressing-rooms at the close of the match.

"Ottawa seemed the more unfortunate in this respect, every man in the visiting septet requiring attention. Two doctors were called into the Ottawa room at the conclusion, three stitches being necessary to close a gash in Darragh's lip. Darragh submitted to the medical attension without a whimper and was dead anxious to finish out the match. Pete Green decided, as a matter of fact, not to put Jack into action again, but the Stewarton boy pleaded, and was finally allowed to return. Darragh carried a long strip of plaster across his face, but will be in good shape in a day or two.

"Freddie Lake received more abuse, perhaps, than any man in the game. Lake bore the brunt of the hard going on the Ottawa defence, one eye being cut, swollen, and discolored, an dhis right hand bruised to such an extent that it was necessary to cut the hockey gauntlet off it. Lake's legs and hips were also bruised, and it was with difficulty that he was able to strut about.

"Marty Walsh discovered on removing his right boot that someone, Laviolette he thinks, had kicked him, whether accidentally or otherwise, in the sole of the foot, the point of his tube piercing through the leather an dopening up a cut that also required stitching.

"Hamby Shore was battered about the arms and knees, and Horace Gaul suffered many a hard bump. Gaul is a nold friend of the Pitre-Laviolette combination, and at the beginning they seemed to make a dead set for him. Lesueur did not escape the gruelling. Lalonde relieving himself near the Ottawa goal of a wicked swing that smashed Percy across the chest.

"Ridpath, curious to note, hardly got a scratch. The Ottawa bantam roughed it up with everyone, and it was amusing to see him slam Laviolette into the boards and skate off with a merry laugh.

"Pitre, Lalonde, and Delaire were likewise on the hospital list, the Ottawas, apparently, returning at least a good percentage of the New Year's greetings from the clubs of the Habitants."

Many Changes Of Boxing Titles In The Year Of 1910

There never was a dull moment in pugilistic circles last year. It was the greatest season in many respects in Britania during the last decade. It was particularly remarkable inasmuch as every championship from the heavy down to the bantam weight with the exception of the featherweight changed hands. This in itself tells just how great were the battles of the year 1910.

Apart from these issues among the boxers, but a valuable adjunct to it, was the change in the locations of the bouts. In 1908-09, boxing was practically at a standstill in this State.

The repeal of the Horton law had given a hard blow to the sport. For a time no man dared to put up his hands in the attitude of a boxer even though the hands were encased in pillow like gloves such as are being worn at the present day.

DRINK HABIT

The Gatlin Treatment Cures Liquor Drinking in THREE DAYS Under Contract—No Hypodermic Injections or Other Disagreeable Features.

The Gatlin Institute was established eleven years ago. More than seven thousand men and women have been cured of liquor drinking by the Gatlin treatment—there has been failure to cure in no case.

No hypodermic injections, no bad after effects, no poisonous drugs, no substitution treatments—a treatment so harmless that any child could take it.

Each patient is accepted for treatment under legal contract to cure in THREE DAYS—the cure to be entirely satisfactory in every particular or the fee paid is refunded when the patient is leaving the Institute and treatment costs nothing.

The Gatlin Home treatment is just as effective as Institute treatment if plain, simple directions are followed.

Call or write for books of particulars, copies of contracts to cure and other information.

to hold boxing, but were raided by the police. Even Simon-pure athletic clubs were not permitted to hold public sparring exhibitions. It was not until the points involved in the law were threshed out in the courts and favorable decisions were handed down that the boxers came into their own.

Then the turn in the tide came and settled in favor of little old New York. From California, where the boxers had found an asylum, eastward the wave rolled. It stopped for a period at Philadelphia, and for a time the City of Brotherly Love enjoyed many good bouts. But Philadelphia did not have a monopoly of the milling long, and soon the boxers were placed high and dry in Manhattan. To-day this city—which means Greater New York—is the centre of boxing exhibitions in the United States.

The statement that the heavyweight championship was won this year may arouse criticisms in some quarters from those hide-bound adherents of fact who will ise up and say that Jack Johnson won the title from Tommy Burns in Australia in 1909. True, the championship was won then, but it was merely a shell of words without any real substance to it. Everybody conversant with the affairs of boxing was aware that Jeffries had passed over the title when he announced his retirement from the ring. And the winning of it by Johnson from Burns was merely a technicality. Jeffries had been undefeated up to the time that Johnson obtained the title and in the minds of all men Jeffries was the real champion. It was to decide the mooted question as to who was the champion of champions that brought about the so-called battle between Jeffries and Johnson on July 4 in Reno.

The deaths of Joe Gans and Stanley Ketchel removed from the ring two of the greatest fighters that ever stepped within it. Joe Gans was the greatest lightweight fighter that this country or any other country has had for years. He was incomparable as a boxer and could punch hard—a most valuable asset to his calling in life. His record would have been without a flaw if he had served as his own manager as he did in the latter part of his career. But in his early years he was under the control of a man who did not scruple to tell him to lose a fight when more money could be made by so doing. He won battle after battle in recent years, but hard training and fighting sapped his strength and early in the spring he died of tuberculosis.

Stanley Ketchel was about twenty-four years of age, 5 feet 9 inches in height and weighed close to 160 pounds, when a shot from a six-shooter in the hands of Walter A. Dipley, on a Montana ranch, cut short his vital spark.

Up to the time of his death Ketchel had whipped all the middleweights, and was the champion of that class. That he considered himself invincible was proved by his battles with Billy Papke. In one of the bouts Papke knocked out Ketchel after a furious battle. Ketchel never rested until he obtained a return match. He found sweet consolation in that event by handing Papke a similar dose.

WOLGAST BEATS NELSON

It was on February 22 (Washington's Birthday) that Ad Wolgast of Cadillac, Mich., wrested the lightweight championship of the world from Battling Nelson at Richmond, Cal. After a long, hard battle Referee Smith stopped the bout in the fortieth round to save Nelson from bein gknocked out. Wolgast had cut up Nelson's face until it looked like a piece of raw beef. Both eyes were nearly closed and he was practically blind, nevertheless, he staggered around in the ring, vainly seeking Wolgast in order that he might turn the battle in his favor with a knock-out punch. This fight was next in importance to the Jeffries-Johnson affair. But as a real session of milling it excelled the latter event.

Nelson won the title from Joe Gans. In his long career Nelson had shown conclusively that he was a fighter and not a boxer, for he had won his championship after long, hard battels. After the fight with Wolgast Nelson tried to "comeback," but found he was unable to do so, and recently Owen Moran knocked him out.

Wolgast has dodged many a proffered battle since, claiming that his arm was broken in a boxing bout soon after his battle with Nelson.

Owen Moran by his victory over Nelson, is one of the chief aspirants for the championship title. Another claimant is Packy McFarland, who, in England before the members of the National Sporting Club, fought a draw with Freddy Welsh, the English champion. Although the referee gave the decision as a draw, all the English newspapers conceded that McFarland had the better of the bout. Welsh since then obtained a decision on a "foul" over Jem Driscoll. Other lads in the lightweight class who shine prominently are Tommy Murphy, Jack Goodman and K. O. Brown of this city, and young Sammy Smith of Philadelphia.

Billy Papke, who lost the middleweight championship to Ketchel recently, lost to Dave Smith on a foul after ten rounds of fighting at Sidney, Australia. This gives the title to a foreigner. Unless Papke can obtain another match it would seem as if Smith will be the champion for many days, for the best men in that class—Frank Klaus of Pittsburg and Eddie McGoorty of Michigan—are far below Papke as a fighter.

Harry Lewis, considered the best in the welterweight class, was passed out of the running in a recent bout in Boston when he lost to Leo Houck of Philadelphia in twelve rounds. Houck now has as good a claim as any one to the title. But he will have to meet Jimmy Gardner, Bill McKinnon, Tommy Quil and Jimmy Clabby before he can clinch the title.

Abe Attell is the best of the featherweights. He stands alone in that class. He is so far superior to all other "feathers" that he has held away for years as the champion. In order to obtain bouts Attell has had to concede many pounds to his adversaries. Frequently he has whipped men to whom he gave away from twelve to fifteen pounds. Once Driscoll was given the "popular" decision over Attell, but not at the regulation weight. Driscoll is Attell's greatest rival.

The bantamweight championship is claimed by many men. Johnny Conlon, who can fight at 118 pounds, awards himself the title. But as he will not fight at 116 pounds, the regulation weight in America many scoff at Conlon's contentions. Digger Stanley has won the English bantamweight championship at 118 pounds and insists on that weight. Frankie Burns of Jersey City, who fights at 116 pounds, is another protender to the title. He will soon meet Digger Stanley. Other clever boys in the bantamweight division are Joe Coster, Charlie Harvey, Joe Wagner, and Frankie Conley.

The bright particular star of the pugilistic firmament is "Knockout" Brown. From a raw, inexperienced lad of two years ago he has steadily climbed to the top of the ladder of fame. He has grown so rapidly of late that he is scarcely in any class, but he will soon be in the lightweight division. Like Abe Attell he has been frequently forced to give away big lumps of weight to obtain a match. After numerous victories he recently capped the climax of his career by whipping Tommy Murphy, the lad who administered a good beating to Ad Wolgast in a bout in 1909 in Pittsburg. During ten months he won twenty-nine fights, the greatest string of victories this year. Other good boys in the mixed classes who won numerous bouts are Battling Hurley and Cy Smith. There were several fatalities in the ring, most of them in Philadelphia. These deaths were not the results of severe punishment, but due to the poor and incomplete construction of the rings. Insufficient padding of the posts and the floor was directly responsible for the deaths. Since the fatal accidents these drawbacks have been remedied and boxing has been made safer for its participants.

HOCKEY NOTES

The Mercantile League will open its schedule this evening with a game between the Canadian General office staff and the Lock Works. Bill Rose will handle the bell.

Tony Sabatino, of last year's T. A. S. City League team and formerly of the Lakefield team, is playing with the St. Paul's intermediate O. H. A. team of Toronto.

The [illegible] Peterborough intermediate O. H. A. team to-night at Brock street rink between 6 and 7 o'clock. A full turnout is expected.

The Peterboorugh intermediates will be without the services of Capt. Charlie Ray on the line-up against Cobourg on Monday night. The gash in his foot inflicted by a skate in the Argonaut game has proved more serious than was anticipated. Bond is also on the injured list with a broken thumb, but will be able to play.

MAKE THE HENS COMFORTABLE

From Farm and Dairy.

C. H. Welch, Extension Division, Missouri.

One great essential in getting winter eggs is to make the hens entirely comfortable. The first thing to do is to get busy now and clean out the house thoroughly. Remove every useless article and leave the floors entirely free from anything that will obstruct their free use as a scratching place. Clean down the walls; and, if necessary, whitewash or spray thoroughly. Clean the dropping-boards and make repairs on them and the roosts, so that droppings can be easily removed at all times during the winter. Remove every bit of litter from the floor, and, if it is a dirt floor, take out at least a couple of inches of the old dirt, replace this with clean loam. Make ready a corner in each pen that can be used as a dusting box. This can be kept supplied with the fine siftings from hard-coal ashes, and will be much enjoyed by the whole flock. If it can be placed where the sun will shine on it, so much the better.

Do not close the windows until the weather gets really cold. Let there be one glass window for each pen of 10 by 12 or 16 feet, and one muslin-covered frame, with at least 12 square feet of surface for each pen. This may look like a cold proposition, but it will be found the muslin does not make the pen any colder than does the same amount of glass surface, and at the same time gives a steady supply of fresh air. This muslin will help greatly in keeping the poultry-house dry during the winter, and will make it much more comfortable than a closely shut-up house can ever be.

For colder nights, have a curtain of cheap sheeting running across the front of the roosting space. This does not need to fit tightly, except at the top, and may hang out some inches from the dropping board, giving plenty of room for the fowls to pass to and from the roosts. On the very coldest of nights the roosting-place will be found to be comfortable and in the morning the hens will come out ready to scratch and hustle for their breakfast.

A FEW THINGS TO REMEMBER

From Farm and Dairy.

Lights are left burning when not in use.

Cold cooked vegetables, which might acceptably appear in salads or hash, are thrown away, or at best improperly cared for.

Bread or cakes are put in air-tight receptacles while warm, and thus mold quickly.

One of the most difficult things to teach is economy of fuel. Nothing seems to satisfy but a continual piling on of coal. As soon as a little gas has been burned off, a vigorous shaking and raking out of ashes follows; then the stove is filled anew, touching and lifting the covers, which soon become red-hot, and the process is repeated again.

In the first place, make a study of the range and learn its requirements; some stoves require more draft than others. Shaking the fire banks it down into a solid mass and the air cannot circulate through.

When the fire for any cause becomes too dull, do not stir it over the top, and putting in wood is a needless waste; rake the ashes from below and open the drafts for a moment. The ashes must never be allowed to accumulate in the pan until they touch the grate. If this happens the grate will burn out. If the stove becomes red-hot the covers and centre will warp, and if a drop of water should fall upon it while in this condition, it is apt to crack. When the fire is not needed close the damper to prevent a waste of fuel.

Cut To Toronto Licenses.

Toronto, Jan. 7.—There is some talk around the city hall that the temperance aldermen may institute a measure to reduce the number of shop licenses in Toronto this year from 50 to 34, and to curtail the hours of selling liquor in both hotels and shops.

It is also noteworthy that the local hotel proprietors are anticipating some new move on the part of the license department that may affect their profits in some way. This uneasiness is aroused by the fact that the commissioners are demanding to know the average daily receipts over all bars; the highest day's receipts and the lowest day's receipts during the past year.

Mayoralty Protest.

Winnipeg, Jan. 7.—Mayor Evans yesterday unseated H. Whitham, who until recently was city commissioner, to represent him in the petition brought by the unsuccessful candidate, E. D. Martin, to contest the mayoralty election. The city commissioner is an appointee of the Provincial Government.

Fire-Chief Dead.

London, Jan. 7.—Captain Thomas Wheeler, ex-chief of the London fire brigade, on a pold superannuation, died yesterday at Glen Ayre, Calif.

Captain Wheeler was in command of the [illegible] Victoria the season before he went down on the River Thames with 200 persons.

THE TOOTHSOME CARROT.

Sadly Neglected in American Restaurants and Hotels.

"If people did but know it," said a man who has made a study of the food question, "carrots are among the most nutritious and delightful vegetables that grow, and yet it is almost impossible to get them in restaurants.

"Mashed carrots, to my mind, make a delightful dish, tasty and healthful, and yet I have failed to find this dish on any bill of fare so far, and I have examined a good many in the hope of finding the carrot recognized as it should be recognized. You can get mashed turnips almost anywhere you go, but the only use they have for carrots is to flavor soup or stews, although now and then one does meet them served in cream as a delicacy.

"But why not serve them like potatoes and turnips? Carrots are splendid for the blood, good for the complexion and at night are supposed to be quieting. Their digestibility if served mashed surpasses nearly all other vegetables. A delicate stomach will get away with them when other vegetables would work harm.

"And yet the carrot seems to be without a friend in the restaurant and hotels. You can't even find them in the list of vegetables to be cooked to order. It may be different with some other nations, but here apparently we have no use for them, and the person who wants mashed carrots will have to cook them at his own fireside."—Detroit Free Press.

FARMERS' BANK SANK $1,156,000 IN KEELEY MINE

This is One of the Developments of the Liquidators' Report Made Public To-day—Intimates That Most of the Claims Will be Met by Double Liabilities.

Special to The Examiner.

TORONTO, JAN. 9.—That the Farmers' Bank sank one million, one hundred and fifty six thousand into the Keeley mine instead of only five hundred and thirty-five thousand as thought, was one of the startling statements developed to-day in the report of Mr. Clarkson, interim liquidator. Of this indebtedness six hundred thousand appears under bonds in the issue of mine, and five hundred and thirty-five thousand in stocks. This indebtedness of the Keeley mine constitutes more than half the assets. It has been put in curator's report at its face value, but what it will bring on the market is questionable. Including this the assets of the bank are placed at two millions and the liabilities at two million, four hundred and thirty-six thousand. The liquidator intimates that with government deposits and other assets and the application of double liabilities, most of the claims can be met.

UNITED STATES EXPECT A GOOD BARGAIN IN RECIPROCITY CONFERENCE

Special to The Examiner.

WASHINGTON, D.C., JAN. 9.—There is a reciprocity meeting again this afternoon, but all are reticent as to the progress made. From unofficial sources it is learned that the members of Congress and others well informed are expectant of a treaty, which will work out advantageously to Canada. 'Tis pointed out that the United States' output is so great that neither manufacturers or farmers have need to fear the Canadian competition which might develop from such free trade.

The Chairman and Secretary were authorized to execute a conveyance from the Commissioners to the Corporation of the City of Peterborough of the land and rights conveyed by John Stothart to the Commissioners, by deed, dated Nov. 17, 1910.

WORKING COMMITTEES FOR THE YEAR OF THE NEW CITY COUNCIL

Inaugural Meeting Held This Morning—The Chairmen of the Various Committees Appointed.

THE MAYOR'S ADDRESS

The inaugural meeting of the City Council was held this morning at the City Council Chamber. His Worship Mayor Morrow presiding, and the following aldermen being present Butler, Duncan, Bradburn, Metheral, Edgar, Brown, Kerneghan, Graham, Anderson and Morgan. The meeting opened with an address from the Mayor. He spoke as follows:

Gentlemen of the Council,—It gives me great pleasure to congratulate you on your election, and to welcome you as members of the City Council for the year 1911. I am sure that each member of the Council will do his best for the advancement of the city and I feel confident that the members will work together pleasantly and harmoniously and I trust that the year will be a record one in the growth and property of the city.

As you are aware, there were two by-laws voted on by the ratepayers on Monday last, the first to assist the Bonner-Worth Company by loaning them up to $12,000.00 on their land and buildings and the other to grant Chas. E. Dittman and his associates a franchise for the purpose of supplying natural gas to the city. The Bonner-Worth while carried by a large majority did not receive the requiring assent of three-fifths of the total number of ratepayers. The Dittman by-law, while it carried by a large majority, contains a provision giving a ten year exclusive franchise and it will therefore be necessary to apply to the Legislature to have both of these by-laws confirmed.

There were several important works started by the city last year, which are still in an uncompleted condition. The sewer extensions and the storm drain on the south-west part of the city are under contract and should be completed early in the year. The Isolation Hospital building is now finished. This building should be furnished and equipped at as early a date as possible so that the city will be in a position to care for any contagious diseases that may require hospital treatment. The Smith street bridge will require more filling at the western approach and construction of side-walks and hand rails.

The matter of permanent pavements was taken up by last year's Council and owing to opposition encountered was not proceeded with. Owing to the fact that we have some sixty-three or sixty-four miles of streets I am strongly of the opinion that some policy should be adopted by the Council for providing permanent roadways and I believe it will be well for the Council to give attention to this matter at the earliest opportunity.

The Council have already given notice that they will apply for legislation at the coming session of the Legislature to enable the City to assist in defraying the cost of building for the Protestant poor of the city and empowering the Council to levy a rate on the Protestant ratepayers for the maintenance of such inmates as may be sent from the city and for the same power to levy a rate of the Roman Catholic ratepayers for the maintenance of such inmates in the House of Providence as may be sent from the city. This, if carried out, will provide the very necessary accommodation for the Protestant poor of the city.

I would like to emphasize a statement made in my address to the Council a year ago, in which I stated that the continued growth of the city depended to a very large extent on the securing of new manufacturing industries. The Council of 1910 made a grant of $2,000.00 to the Board of Trade for the purpose of engaging an Industrial Commissioner. An official, namely, Mr. H. V. Duggan, was engaged about the 1st of June last, who has been devoting his time to this work and as Mayor I have kept in close touch with Mr Duggan, and know that he has been doing his work in a very systematic manner, and I am strongly of the opinion that good results will accrue to the City from the expenditure of the above sum. I am of the opinion that the Council and the Board of Trade should act together in this matter for another year.

There is another matter which should engage the attention of the Council before very long and that is the disposition of a new city hall. The present building does not provide adequate accommodation for carrying on the city's business and in appearance it is not in keeping with the size and importance of the city or with other public buildings. It compares very unfavourably with civic buildings in other cities not so large as Peterborough.

The quarters now occupied by the police department are very inadequate and unsanitary. I think this question should be discussed with the City Trust Commissioners to see if some scheme could not be devised whereby this building could be erected without issuing debentures for the cost thereof.

I feel satisfied that the members of the Council will give their best attention to these matters that will come before them and that the endeavour of each one will be to transact the business expediently and in the interests of the city as a whole.'

The Committees.

Upon motion of Ald. Bradburn, seconded by Ald. Metheral, the Council went into the Committee of the Whole for the selection of committees. The following were appointed:

Board of Works — Ald. Metheral, (chairman), Ald. Graham, Anderson, Duncan, Brown and Butler.

Fire, Water and Light Committee—Ald. Morgan (chairman), Edgar, Graham and Kerneghan.

Property committee — Ald. Duncan, (chairman), Bradburn, Graham, Morgand and Brown.

Legal and Reception committee — Ald. Graham (chairman), Bradburn, Edgar, Kerneghan and Anderson.

Finance committee — Ald. Bradburn (chairman), Butler, Duncan and Metheral.

Special Power committee — Mayor Morrow and Alderman Bradburn.

On motion of Ald. Bradburn and Butler, the usual grant was made to Mayor Morrow for the year.

Mayor Morrow stated that the City Treasurer had informed him that there would be a surplus last year of from four thousand to four thousand, five hundred dollars. His Worship thought that this was indeed a very creditable showing and the chairman, Ald. Bradburn, was to be congratulated.

Mr. E. L. Goodwill, who Entertained the Peterborough County Bar Association to Luncheon To-day.

RECIPROCITY NEGOTIATIONS.

The reciprocity situation at Washington, whither the United States have invited the Canadian ministerial delegates does not show much advance. As to temperament, the attitude of the Canadians is one of extreme caution, while that of the United States is one of feverish anxiety to get ahead. For party political reasons, President Taft is anxious to have whatever is done, done before March 4th, when the session of Congress closes. He has rather failed in his promised scheme of tariff reform, and the insurgents of his party anxious for tariff revision, do not give him much aid. But the greater the anxiety of the United States to hurry negotiations, the more caution and deliberation are indicated as the cue of the Canadians. If me have something our neighbours badly want the more they want it the better terms we can make, if we find it advisable to make any terms. Our neighbours do not understand Canada's adherence to the British preference but they will learn that whatever else may go the British preference stays.

TUBERCULOSIS.

Tuberculosis has universally been accepted into the family of contagious diseases. The ravages of consumption, another name or form of manifestation of tuberculosis, are simply appalling, but as it is always sporadic—never epidemic, like many other contagious diseases, its destructive force is not seen or appreciated so vividly. Its deadly work is done with less display. It does not descend, like small pox, scarlatina, diphtheria, and other contagious diseases, in the form of an epidemic, and, for a time, collect a big death roll. But it works quietly and unobtrusively all around us, its victims fading away in lingering agony without attracting general attention. From what we see, from what comes under our observation, or to our knowledge, we are inclined to think that tuberculosis is nothing like so deadly and widely prevalent as the other contagious diseases just named. A concrete example to the contrary is as instructive as it is disquieting.

Dr. Louis Labarge, chief medical health officer of Montreal, has just issued his annual report on deaths from contagious diseases in that city; and the name of tuberculosis, for fatality, like Abou Ben Adam's, "leads all the rest." The total number of deaths from five contagious diseases—measles, scarlatina, diphtheria, typhoid and tuberculosis, was 1,378, and of these, 785 are to be credited to tuberculosis. In numbers the record of tuberculosis is nearly one hundred per cent in excess of all the other contagions. The four latter reported upon caused deaths of an average total of 129.80 per 100,000 population, while the record of tuberculosis is 172.22 per 100,000. The prevalence and fatal record of tuberculosis in Montreal is emphasized by contrast. Montreal has a notoriously bad water supply, a favourable condition for typhoid, yet in spite of her bad water, the deaths from typhoid last year in Montreal were only 102, as against 785 from tuberculosis. And what is more alarming is that the death rate from this disease shows a sharp advance over that of the previous year, in the metropolitan city.

There is reason to believe that the record of Montreal is a fair type of the conditions prevailing throughout the Dominion, including the Province of Ontario. With such alarming prevalence and power to kill of tuberculosis, one would think that the Government of Ontario would have its coat off, working over-time, to assist in allaying the onslaught of this scourge. But the Premier, Sir James Whitney, shows indifference. Science, experience and increasing prevalence show that tuberculosis is contagious; vacant chairs at thousands and thousands of firesides, and the new-made mounds in the graveyards, tell us that it is deadly. Science and experience have also shown us that, taken in time, and under proper treatment, consumption is curable. Our sanitaria records show this. But the two free sanitaria, which are the only means in reach of thousands, who have spent their all in the hopeless resort to medical treatment, cannot accommodate one hundredth of the sufferers from tuberculosis, who could be cured if treatment were available. Yet, Sir James Whitney, on hearing the request of a deputation asking for intelligent and humane cooperation of the Government, to stay the plague of tuberculosis, scoffed them out of the presence and jeered at the fanatices who absurdly exaggerated the gravity of the situation.

THE TAXATION OF INDUSTRY.

(London Advertiser)

By passing a by-law to provide for fixed assessments for manufacturers, London has placed itself in a position to grant favours, something in the nature of bonuses, to all its manufacturing industries. It will be interesting to wach how this system works out. The "bonus" and the "inducement" are ever with us in one shape or another; and the Legislature seems to lack backbone to deal with the question on principle. — Hamilton Times.

The Times is misinformed. The ratepayers have voted to grant fixed assessments to only eight manufacturers. In three or four cases these grants are merely renewals. It is no new policy. No such privileges will be enjoyed by any industry without an affirmative vote of the property-holders. Can the Times say that no special favours of any kind have been given to manufacturers in Hamilton? If favours have been extended have they been always sanctioned at the polls?

The Times is right when it says there ought to be a law which would prevent the competition of municipalities for industries by the offering of inducements which are equivalent to bonuses. The Times is also right when it says that there ought to be a reform of the assessment system, which would lighten the burden on industry and improvements by shifting a part of it to land values. The majority of the municipalities of Ontario have petitioned the Provincial Government for permission to levy a higher rate of taxation upon land than upon buildings. The demand was peremptorily refused by the Prime Minister, at the last session, but the municipalities are coming back, and it is likely that the Government will yield. The proposed legislation would be only a partial remedy for municipal rivalry, but the municipality that would stick to the old system of taxing buildings and improvements to the hilt would deserve to suffer.

TOPICS TO TALK ON.

(Montreal Herald)

The Dominion Parliament re-assembles in Ottawa next week after the Christmas recess, and amongst the matters likely to occupy attention soon after the House meets will be Sir Wilfrid Laurier's promised statements regarding the Canadian subjects to be brought before the Imperial Conference which meets in London in the summer. New Zealand and Australia have already announced the subjects to which they desire attention to be given. South Africa has given no intimation of her views, but her statesmen are so fully occupied with matters appertaining to her internal development in the first year of the life of that new dominion that she is not likely this year to submit original propositions.

It is expected that the question of Imperial preference will again come up at the conference, but there is no reason to suppose there will be any change in the position of Canada in regard to it. The result of the General Election in Great Britain certainly does not warrant the conclusion that the door which was "barred and bolted" in 1907 will be opened now, especially after what Mr. Balfour has done and said. It is not unlikely that the subject of the naval navies will come up for review, and it may be that the discussion will tend to show that, however wise and discreet the statesmanship navies are ticklish things to handle. It may be noted that the national consciousness which has developed in Australia expresses itself in pressing for discussion the principle of International Arbitration. New Zealand has a resolution urging the creation of an Imperial Council, but for the present, at all events, such a council, even though its function were purely advisory, is not likely to appeal to the Canadian or Australian imagination. Nothing with a tendency to impair the autonomy of the existing Cabinets is likely to be welcomed. Any movement likely to facilitate communication between the different governments would probably be considered in a different light.

Interesting Comparative Statements In Regard To Ontario Municipal Taxation

(Financial Post.)

For general municipal purposes, which means all purposes exclusive of schools, the two cities under review levied taxes in 1909 amounting to $7,607,264. Based on 1910 population and assessment, this sum represents an average per capita of $10.47, and a tax rate of 4.67 per cent., or 16.7 mills, equivalent to $16.70 per $1,000 of assessed value for taxation.

Assuming, for the moment, that the prevailing custom of exempting certain classes of property from taxation did not exist, the average rate would be 1.42 per cent. or 14.2 mills, equivalent to $14.20 per $1,000 of gross assessed value, instead of $16.20. The difference, $2.50 per $1,000, represents the extra burden that tax-paying property must bear in addition to its own in order that governmental property—municipal, provincial, and national,—may escape, and institutions,—religious philanthropic and educational—go free.

The average rate per capita, as stated, is not exorbitant compared with figures elsewhere, and is more or less favourable in comparison with some of the newer sections of Canada. The actual per capita for each city, however, as shown by the following table reveals most striking variations in the distribution of the average.

Table showing the municipal taxes of the cities of Ontario for 1909, arranged in consecutive order from low est tax per capita upward:

	Municipal taxes.	Prop. of Total p.c.	Tax per Head.
1 Guelph	$40,156	$0.5279	$2.71
2 Peterborough	106,102	1.3948	6.23
3 Woodstock	63,059	0.8289	6.82
4 Kingston	150,241	1.9749	7.82
5 St. Thomas	115,749	1.5216	7.85
6 Hamilton	622,036	8.1769	8.86
7 Stratford	131,766	1.7321	8.91
8 Belleville	90,363	1.1878	9.02
9 London	470,744	6.1881	9.51
10 Brantford	208,525	2.7411	10.06
11 Niagara Falls	84,681	1.1131	10.32
12 Ottawa	894,896	11.6323	10.62
13 St. Catharines	131,017	1.7223	10.64
14 Windsor	174,398	2.2925	10.80
15 Toronto	3,837,187	50.4431	11.18
16 Port Arthur	146,404	1.9245	11.38
17 Fort William	205,875	2.7063	11.40
18 Chatham	144,065	1.8938	13.96
	$7,607,264	100 p.c.	$10.47

Guelph, at the head of the list with $2.71 per capita, or a rate of .635 of 1 per cent., is but 25.8 per cent. of the highest, and 43.5 per cent. of the next lowest city. Such a rate would be nothing short of remarkable, if normal. It is well known, however, that exceptional conditions obtain in Guelph.

Per Capita Tax.

One half of the cities have a per capita in excess of the average, ranging from $10.62 to $13.96. No harm can and much good may be accomplished by these comparisons, and in the case of Chatham, the figure is so notably out of alignment that perhaps the cities might do well to seek out the reason why.

School Taxes.

For school purposes, the aggregate tax levied in 1909 amounted to $2,927,921 averaging $4.03 per head of population, or an approximate rate of .646 of 1 per cent., equal to 45 mills. The table following will show in what manner the average is distributed amongst the cities:—

Table showing the schools taxes of the cities of Ontario for 1909 arranged in consecutive order from lowest tax per capita upward:

	School taxes.	Prop. of Total p.c.	Tax per Head.
1 Kingston	$43,187	1.4750	$2.25
2 St Catharines	34,131	1.1725	2.77
3 Stratford	41,492	1.4171	2.81
4 Belleville	30,315	1.0354	3.03
5 Woodstock	28,037	0.9575	3.03
6 St. Thomas	49,364	2.3685	3.35
7 Brantford	69,348	2.3695	3.35
8 Hamilton	238,985	8.1622	3.40
9 Guelph	51,402	1.7556	3.46
10 Chatham	40,012	1.3665	3.87
11 Fort William	71,978	2.4583	3.90
12 Toronto	1,333,559	45.5462	4.10
13 Niagara Falls	34,873	1.1915	4.25
14 Windsor	69,144	2.3615	4.28
15 London	213,302	7.2872	4.31
16 Peterborough	76,905	2.6232	4.54
17 Ottawa	434,349	14.8347	5.21
18 Port Arthur	67,558	2.3074	5.25
	$2,927,921	100 p.c.	$4.03

Combining the two taxes, municipal and school, it is found that the average rate per capita is $14.50, and 2.325 per cent. on the assessment for taxation. This equals an average total rate of 23 1-4 mills or $23.25 per $1,000 valuation. The position of the several cities is shown in the table which follows:

Table showing the total taxes (municipal and school) of the cities of Ontario for 1909, arranged in consecutive order from lowest tax per capita upward:

Guelph, with the lowest assessment per capita of all the cities, still holds first place, by a heavy margin, and Chatham retains the same place as in the first table, though the excess figure over the next highest rate per capita, is considerably reduced. Of the four largest cities, Ottawa shows the heaviest total tax, being 55 cents per head higher than Toronto with $15.28. Hamilton and London are both below the average, with $12.25 and $13.82 respectively. The Lake Superior cities are both high, though Port Arthur with $16.61 is $1.21 per capita higher than Fort William.

Low Tax Not Always Good Sign.

It should not be assumed, however, that a low tax per capita proves of itself, that a city is well administered. It may, to an extent, be proof that it is behind the times. Public improvements cost money, and no credit is due to any municipality which secures a low rate of taxation by avoiding such expenditures as are necessary for the health, comfort and convenience of its citizens.

Tax Should Be Allocated.

More satisfactory analytical results would be possible if the municipal tax was sub-divided, instead of being shown as in a lump sum. The capital tax, or the amount required for the payment of interest on bonds and the maintenance of sinking funds, should be distinct from the general administrative tax. The levy for public improvements other than on capital account should also be separately shown, thus enabling a fairly accurate measure to be taken of the spirit of progressiveness and of the tendency of the administration towards extravagance or economy.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

It is reported that General Booth will visit Canada.

An official statement regarding the trade negotiations was issued.

Sidney Haycroft was caught in a thrashing machine in Aldboro' Township and killed.

During the visit of King Alfonso to Melilla a pastel enclosed in a box was exploded and caused some alarm.

Elaborate plans are being considered for the erection of a new Oddfellow's Hall in Port Arthur, which will cost about $50,000.

The schooner Emma H. was damaged in a great storm off the coast of Nova Scotia, and Captain Gullin was washed overboard and drowned.

Randolph Labelle, a clerk of Winnipeg, was hurt in a gas stove explosion in his home, one day last week, and on Saturday died in the hospital.

The students of the Ontario Agricultural College and the Macdonald Institute at Guelph have petitioned the Minister of Agriculture to remove the ban on dancing.

Sixty-eight mass meetings of the miners belonging to the Ruhr coal fields in Prussia adopted resolutions demanding higher wages, in sympathy with the Belgian strikers.

A man, supposed to be John Fishley of Saskatchewan, was drowned in Port Hope harbor. His cries for help were heard, but nothing could be done for him, as there were no life-saving appliances about.

The London Morning Post fears that if America and Canada join in some kind of commercial treaty, she might later declare that the proposal for a mutual preference within the Empire was virtually an infringement.

The Lord Selkirk Association of Winnipeg has decided to mark the centenary of that pioneer colonizer next year, regardless of the action of the Continental Association promoting the world's fair. It is intended to erect a suitable memorial to Lord Selkirk.

Shot by Litigant.

Caney, Kans., Jan. 9.—J. D. S. Neeley, president of the Wichita Pipe Line Co., president of the Lima (Ohio) Trust Co., and head of several large oil companies, was shot and killed in the Palace Hotel here yesterday morning by Al O. Truskett, a prominent business man of Caney.

The shooting was the result of litigation over an oil lease. Truskett surrendered to the county sheriff.

Truskett was taken by automobile to the county jail at Independence, Kansas.

The shooting occurred in the room of the hotel. Mr. Neeley had been sitting in the lobby reading a letter. Truskett, sitting opposite, had been watching him closely. When Mr. Neeley got up and walked toward the cashier's desk, Truskett hurried around to the opposite room. As Neeley passed the door of this room, Truskett fired a shot into Neeley's heart and the latter, through one left arm. When employees of the hotel reached the prostrate man, he was dead.

POWERS WILL UNITE.

Europe Plans Concerted Effort to Wipe Out Anarchy.

London, Jan. 9.—International action to stamp out anarchy will be, it is predicted here, a development of the near future. To the average Londoner, intensely excited over last Tuesday's sensational fight in Sidney street, the suggestion is welcome.

He is convinced that something more is needed than ordinary police measures and the conventional criminal codes of modern states.

Expression is given to the spreading sentiment by a forceful, but dispassionate writer who asks if all sensible men will not agree with him in thinking that altogether too little attention is paid by the great powers of Europe, America and Asia to the need and feasibility of concerted steps to stamp out enemies of order.

If the powers cannot arrange for concerted action, he argues, they might bring about simultaneous individual action to effect the "whole miserable brood of London's Peter the Painters" and Tokio Kotokus and Barcelona bomb hurlers, and Rome Mafia men, and New York and Chicago's Black Hand pests.

In Paris, where the prevailing view is that the duty of leadership in a campaign for international action against anarchy rests with France and the United States, because of their republican character, the point is made that "The mere existence of The Hague tribunal paves the way for indefinate multiplication of mutual defence measures."

Scarce in Montreal.

Montreal, Jan. 9.—The Anarchists appear to be at work, for, according to one Therien of this city, there is a conspiracy afloat to blow up the City Hall and the archbishop's palace. It appears that Mayor Guerin received a letter the other day signed T. Therien, written in French, saying that there was a conspiracy on foot, participated in by two men whose names were given in the letter, and which would result during the month of January in both the City Hall and the archbishop's palace being blown into the air.

His worship at once handed the document over to Chief Detective Carpenter, and it was learned soon after that his grace Mgr. Bruchesi had received a letter, also written by Therien, informing him of the alleged plot and of the coming destruction of the episcopal palace, as well as the City Hall. Both letters are now in the hands of the chief detective, who is endeavoring to find out what there is in it.

The mayor stated that he had received many letters during the progress of the Eucharistic congress some of the missives declaring that his worship would be done away with during the passage of the great procession in September last.

"Did They Pay?

Montreal, Jan. 9.—Le Pays wants to know what become of furniture costing $30,000, which the Hon. Mr. Tarte purchased for the Canadian pavilion at the last Paris Exposition? Where did the curtains go that were admired by everybody who visited the exhibition, and which cost 26,000 francs?

What has become, the same paper asks, of the carpets and the furniture de luxe which Mr. Tarte installed in the reception rooms?

"Who," asks Mr. Langlois, M. P., "inherited the curtains, the carpets and the magnificent furniture? It appears that some of these articles are installed in the residence of a very honest man in Montreal, consequently the question in our mind is, did those who divided the spoils of the Canadian building at the last Paris exposition, pay or indemnify the Government at Ottawa for which was taken? In fact, did they pay the duty on these articles de luxe? Light should be thrown upon this affair as an investigation would no doubt bring some very interesting revelations to the surface."

Woman Arrested.

Hamilton, Jan. 9.—Annie Mirfin was arrested on Saturday afternoon on the charge of shooting Mrs. Maud Lampman (Maud Mulholland) with intent. The shooting took place last week at the prisoner's home, where both parties live. The plaintiff was not seriously wounded, although she had a narrow escape.

Appointed Administrator.

Ottawa, Jan. 9.—A special edition of The Canada Gazette appoints Sir Charles Fitzpatrick administrator of the Government in the absence of Earl Grey.

By John T. McIntyre. Copyrighted and All Rights Reserved

"There is the place we want," said the investigator, pointing at an illuminated sign which hung out over the sidewalk some little distance away.

When they reached the place, they found it was rather a large building of the modern type; pushing open the swinging doors and making their way through a brilliantly lighted passage, they found themselves in an equally brilliant office.

Here they saw a dozen or more men seated in tilted chairs, all wore their hats, and for the most part, smoked cigars. Behind a polished counter on which rested a nickeled cash register and a huge book, stood a white-haired man with a smooth Irish face and a pair of gold eyeglasses hanging by a black cord. The air was heavy with disputation, long-tailed words boomed sonorously; red-faced and earnest, one of the occupant of the chairs assailed the man behind the counter with soft, sweeping, eloquent gestures the latter defended himself.

"And what," demanded he, placing his hands upon the shiny top of the counter and shoving his head forward inquiringly, "is all this that we do be hearing about your suffragettes? Who is she? What is she? The newspapers are filled to the top with her, but sorra the sight of her did I ever see. If she has any existence outside of the comic supplement, gentlemen, I'd like to have ye show me where. Did ye ever hear a whisper of her till she began to send herself by registered mail and chain herself to lamp posts? Niver tha one of ye! Is your wife a suffragette? She's not! Is your mother? No. Your sister? Yeam it's no

And Find Out if You Have Kidney Disorders. Also Make This Test.

Have you pain in the back over the kidneys?

Have you urinary disorders?

Do you suffer from severe headache, dizziness or defective eyesight?

Is the skin dry and harsh?

Are you failing in health and strength and suffering from rheumatic pains or swelling of the limbs?

If the urine after standing for twenty-four hours is cloudy, milky or has particles floating about in it, or if there is a sediment in the bottom of the vessel, your kidneys are diseased.

There is no time to lose in beginning the use of Dr Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. Delay means the development of Bright's disease, and you do not want to take any chances with that. Dr Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills will help you more quickly than any treatment you can obtain, and that is one reason why they are so successful and popular.

Mr W H Mosher, South Augusta, Grenville county, Ont., writes: I used Dr Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills and have to say there is no medicine to equal them. I was troubled for years with kidney disease, and this treatment has cured me. When I began the use of these pills I could not walk from my bed to a chair. Now I can go to the field and work like a man. Dr Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills are an excellent medicine. The statement is certified to by Rev E H Emett, Baptist minister of Brockville. Ont.

"Many's the time I've seen the governor of the state himself, sitting there with a mug in his fist. The liquors was of the best, do you see," with a pleased light in his eyes. "I know that, for it were meself that selected them. And a good sup of drink is a great attraction, so it is."

"I don't think that can be successfully denied," admitted the investigator. "Some very brilliant men have proved it to their sorrow."

"True for ye," said Tobin. "Don't I know it? We had actors and writers and editors—the cream of their professions—and every one of them a devotee, so to speak, of Bacchus. Sure, the finer the intellect, the greater the sup of drink appeals to them, if it does at all. One of the greatest frequenters of the club was a man whose inventions," with a grandiloquent gesture, "revolutionized the industries of the world. And when he was mellow with it, boys o' boys, but he could discourse! His name was Morris," added the speaker, "and he was the father of the young man whose name has been mixed up with this Hume affair which is so occupying the public mind just now."

"Indeed."

There was a pause. Tobin's mobile face looked upon the past; his eyes had an retrospective light in them.

"To think," said he, "how the natures of men differ. Some are like the gods of old, and others again are like—well, like anything you choose to call them. And yet," with philosophic speculation, "these two widely diversified types are sometimes friends. To the surprise of everyone they occasionally take up with one another. It's hard to say why, but it is so."

"I've noticed it myself," said Ashton-Kirk.

Tobin nodded.

"Never," said he, "did I see it so exemplified as in the case of Richard Morris and this folly who has just been killed. Never were two men more unlike; but sorra such an intimacy did I ever see afore, as there was between them. Morris, when he had the drink in him, was a poet. His ideas soared to the starry skies; he flew about upon the wings of the wind, faith! I believe he thought the sun was not beyond his reach. But Hume was a divil! God save us, that I should say the like about any human creature, but he had the imp in him, for many's the time I see it grinning and looking out at this two eyes."

"I've heard it said that he was an unpleasant sort of chap," agreed the other.

"Unpleasant," said Tobin, "does not do credit to his capabilities, though 'tis a good word enough. There was never a man came into the Coffin Club, barring the five years that I were there, that looked as though the place fitted him, but Hume. The others were like bad little boys who wouldn't take a dare. But Hume was just right. To see him lift one of the stone skulls to his lips and grin over it at you, would make your blood run cold. And likes us and says us gentlemen, how he would jeer and snarl and laugh all at the one time. Many's the time I've listened to poor Morris rave and paint his pictures of what he was going to do in times to come and on the other side of the coffin-table, Hume would urge him on, leerin' and gammin' like Satan himself, and making all manner of game of him. Bedad, me gorge rose at it more than once, and it was all I could do to keep from takin' him by the scruff of the neck and throwin' him into the street."

Almost every man has some spark of good in his nature, however faint," said Ashton-Kirk. "And Hume must have had one, too, though it was Tobin smiled and shrugged.

"As I was saying, always

Tobin had paused and stroked his [illegible] chin reflectively.

"He claimed descent from some one who was called a mad man in his [illegible]," he continued. "Twas an offshoot, I think, who fought with faith, [illegible] imprecation at the [illegible] than Washington [illegible]."

"but there is one thing that I remember hearing Hume tell about him; it seemed laughable at the time, and I suppose that's why it's stuck to me. It seems that the supposed ancestor were a great fellow for dress, and expected the like of all the men under him, and though he often had never a crust of bread to put into their mouths, he always managed to have a pouch of white powder for them to dress their hair."

Ashton-Kirk laughed suddenly, and leaned back in his chair. The gleam died out of his eyes, and a twinkle of satisfaction replaced it.

"That," said he, "sounds amusing enough to be true. Mr. Hume's ancestor was at least consistent. But," and his tone changed, "we must not keep you from your duties, Mr. Tobin, and so we'll get to the matter in hand."

"If it is not hurrying you," agreed Tobin.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

"DEAR MISS CAMERON:

I wonder if you would help me. I haven't any mother and very few friends, and none who could give me the advice I need. Please tell me the truth and I will be very grateful to you all my life. Should a woman tell a man her past if it does not harm him or concern him in any way, and the woman is innocent, or rather not to blame?"

That's the old problem—old as the apple, new as love, sad as lost happiness—that came to me in my mail this morning.

What shall I tell the little girl who "hasn't any mother"?

You know the story of "Tess of the D'Urbervilles"? Tess was a good girl at heart. Circumstances and a thoroughly bad man betrayed her against her will. Later, the right man, a fine strong man, came into her life, and Tess, trusting in his strength and fineness to understand that she had been wronged rather than sinful, told him everything. And then this man, instead of admitting that he had blacker sins on his conscience, said, "I cannot stand it in a woman," and turned against her.

Later, he realized what he had done, and suffered as he had deserved to, but that's another story.

A woman prison commissioner once told me the story of a girl she saved from the streets. She sent the girl out into the country to live on a farm. The girl became well and strong and a completely new girl mentally and physically. A young farmer, who knew *nothing of her history, fell in love with her and want*ed to marry her. The girl came and told the prisoner commissioner of her love affair and asked her this same question, and the commissioner said, "Use your own judgment." The girl married the young farmer, and on their honeymoon they came to see the old commissioner. When the girl started out of the room to leave, the man lingered behind as if he had something he wanted to say.

And this is what it was:

"I want to thank you, Miss ——— for all you have done for my girl. It's more than I kin ever thank you for. And I want to tell you something—I—I—ain't no angel myself."

That's a case where a man had a sense of justice, but that's only one case.

Myself, I am inclined to say, that if the woman knows in her heart that she is free from physical or moral taint, and that she will never be tempted that way again, she will do right to marry the man without telling him.

If there were a single standard of morals in this world for both sexes, and she were sure of the same justice from him that she should give, I should say, "Tell him," but she can't be.

If she doesn't tell him she will suffer enough penance by knowing that this secret will always be between them.

But maybe I'm all wrong in feeling this way.

Won't some of you people who are wiser than I tell me what to tell this little girl?

decent man."

"Then perhaps your friendship extends to the son as well."

"Perhaps it does," and a note of perceptible caution crept into Tobin's voice.

"I am glad to hear it," said the investigator. "He seems badly in need of friends of the right sort just now; and I am confident, Mr. Tobin, that you are of that sort."

MUSIC AND DRAMA

He—"I'm going to join the Lindsay Hockey team."

She—"Why you can't play hockey."

He—"You don't have to to be on that team."

This was one of the hundred things that the two big audiences who saw "The Cat and the Fiddle" at the Grand on Saturday found to laugh at. The production styled on the programme as "A Jolly Musical Jingle" was one of the most entertaining and amusing attractions of the season. Magnificently staged, with an endless variety of surprising effects that were strongly reminiscent of Haddon's "Superba" or "The Devil's Auction" there was not a dull moment throughout, and at times the laughter was uproarious. The scene investure was surprisingly sumptuous, no less than eighteen scenes being required to tell the story.

Harry B. Watson as "Happy" the hobo, was responsible for the greater part of the comedy, and proved himself a very clever comedian, his antics keeping the audience in gales of laughter. The dancing of the Boylans was, perhaps, the brightest and cleverest features of the production, their dance number "The Dance of the Roses," in the third act bringing down the house. The production teemed with a number of bright specialties that did not fail to please, and was altogether most enjoyable. The music was not out of the ordinary, the hit of the score a "moon" song, with a haunting melody that is being whistled all over town, being alone worthy of special mention.

The chorus ran something like this:

"Although your station's far above me,
Yet to win you I will try.
For I know that you will love me,
By the twinkle in your eye.
If you get Mars' consent, dear,
I'll be up there with you soon.
In my new airship, I'll take a little trip,
To my maid up in the moon."

Sermons by CHARLES T. RUSSELL Pastor Brooklyn Tabernacle.

When God Was Alone Before Creation

Pastor Russell's on "Before the Beginning."

St. Petersburg, Fla., Jan. 8.—These and other Scriptures tell us of a personal God, the Father of Life Giver of all, the Great One who inhabiteth Eternity. St. Paul declares that to the heathen "there are lords many and gods many, but to us there is but one God, the Father," and one appointed Agent of his in dealing with humanity—one Lord Jesus Christ—"and that every tongue shall confess that Jesus, Messiah, is Lord, to the glory of God the Father," (Philippians ii, 11).

The Scriptures tell us of "the beginning of the creation of God," hence there was a time before that beginning of creation when Jehovah God was alone—"he that inhabiteth Eternity." Not even the great Michael was with him, the great Messiah, whom he hath so highly honored and whom he declares he will still further honor throughout a glorious eternity. He was not with the Father before the beginning of creation, because he himself was "the beginning of the creation of God—the first-born of every creature" (Revelations iii, 14; Colossians i, 15). He was the first expression or manifestation of the Divine attributes (John i, 18).

This mighty God, Jehovah, self-centered, self-contained, is ours, the same yesterday, to-day and forever, he changes not.

Every attribute of the Divine character was the same millions of years ago that it is to-day, but that character was unrevealed. Every step of creation has tended to display the Divine character more and more, and each successive step and development of creation has brought forth new creatures capable of comprehending the Eternal One. We deem it not unreasonable to assume that Jehovah's creative power will continue to be exercised throughout all coming time.

Astronomical photography now reveals nearly 125,000,000 suns, around which circle systems such as the one which circles around our sun, and of which our earth is a part. We deem it not unreasonable to assume, from the Scriptures, that the great work of ordering all those hundreds of millions of planets stretches forward into eternity, and that the work of Divine grace, begun on the planet "Earth," will be continued throughout the Universe, not only in conjunction with the planetary systems we can discern, but probably with millions of planetary systems too far removed from us to be discerned even by photography.

Doubtless Divine methods in connection with other worlds and other inhabitants will display the manifold wisdom of God. For instance, we understand the Bible to indicate that while the permission of evil in the earth was wise, it will not necessarily be wise or expedient for any reason to permit a similar reign of Sin and Death in any other of the millions of worlds, in connection with their ordering or development and their peopling with glorious creatures who will show forth the praises of the great Creator without their passing through experiences with sin and death such as have been permitted in connection with the humanity of earth.

Can we not see a broad reason for the permission of the reign of Sin and Death, which for six thousand years has apparently disgraced the Creator, degraded humanity, astonished the angels and constituted our race a groaning creation? Only when we discern that Messiah's Kingdom will surely bring order out of this confusion, do we begin to get the proper focus upon our subject and realize something of the greatness of our God.

From the standpoint of the completion of the Divine purposes in connection with humanity, and from that standpoint alone, can we see illustrated Divine Wisdom, Justice, Love and Power. The primary lesson was Justice—that sin brings suffering and eventually death.

The second lesson was that of Divine compassion, sympathy—Love. This lesson was manifested in the sending of the Redeemer and his subsequent reward of exaltation, and his gathering of an "elect" Church to be his associates in glory and in the blessing of the redeemed race. The reign of glory, the reign of Messiah, soon to be introduced, will lift up poor humanity from sin and sorrow, from degradation and death, and give to each and all the fullest opportunity to return to human perfection and to Divine favor and everlasting life.

In all that work of human restitution, which will include the awakening of mankind from the sleep of death, the one great lesson will be the greatness of the Divine Power which will be exercised through Messiah, the God-like One, the Prince of Life, "the Prince of Glory," the Redeemer, the Regenerator of Adam and his race.

And finally, from the standpoint of the completion of Jehovah's great purposes and dealings with man and in respect to him, will stand revealed the foreknowledge and Wisdom of God who knew the end from the beginning and who foresaw how even the permission of a reign of sin and death could be made eventually to work out to his own glory and to the blessing and instruction of his creatures on both the human and the angelic planes. Then will be revealed to all the glorious character of their Creator, and the necessity for his requirement of absolute righteousness and perfection.

Surely, the result eventually will be, as the Scriptures declare, that all shall learn righteousness and shun iniquity, and that every creature in heaven and in earth and under the earth shall acclaim both Jehovah, who sit, both upon the Throne of the Universe and the Lamb, the Redeemer, forever.

Next week [illegible] our pastor respecting the future [illegible] the plans of world [illegible]

our speculations would run thus: Those instructed and used of Jehovah in conjunction with the initial development of the Divine Plan in the earth will thereby be fitted and prepared to be the Divine Agents to other worlds. The Great Redeemer and his "elect" associates, after dealing with humanity for their uplift out of sin and death conditions, will surely be qualified for further service in other worlds: to "show forth the praises of him who called them out of darkness into his marvelous light."

And what shall we say of humanity when perfected at the end of Messiah's glorious reign? Will not all be well prepared, not only to approve righteousness in themselves, but to tell in other worlds, to other races, the story of the fall and of the reign of Sin and Death resulting; and of the redemption accomplished by God's love; and of the great restitution; and of the lessons thus learned?

The qualities of the Divine character which we have just considered—Wisdom, Justice, Love and Power—belonged to our Creator in the great eternity preceding creation. But there was no one at that time to appreciate God—it requires a full view of the perfected Plan of the Ages to make known to any and to all the glory of the Lord. As we have just seen, thus far the secret of the Lord and the glories of his character are known only to his "sons," begotten of his holy Spirit. But the time nears when "the whole earth shall be full of the knowledge of the glory of the Lord as the waters cover the great deep." He and his glorious government will then be "the desire of all nations"; "The glory of the Lord shall be revealed and all flesh shall see it together" (Haggai ii, 7; Isaiah xl, 5).

St. Paul assures us that every feature of the Divine Plan which we see in process of execution was known to Jehovah from before the foundation of the world. He declares that these things God purposed in himself before the foundation of the world. The creative processes, which have been operating for thousands of years, were all surely elaborated in the mind of Jehovah before the creative work began. In that purpose angels had a part—of how many grades we may not surely know, but they are variously designated in the holy Scriptures as "angels, principalities and powers." Later came the creation of man, "a little lower than the angels" and crowned with earthly honor, dignity and power, in the image and likeness of his Creator's glorious power.

These creations varied not in degrees of perfection and imperfection. Each was perfect on its own plane. Each intelligent creature was a free, moral agent, and hence, whether on the angelic or human plane, was created in the likeness of God, unblemished, but with different capacities and abilities. Almighty God, infinite in Wisdom, Justice, Love and Power, purposed the orderly exercise of his infinite powers, as a great Father, desirous of giving life and happiness to his creatures.

These intelligent ones were designated "Sons of God" so long as they maintained their attitude of perfect loyalty to him, their Creator and Father. Not only was it the Divine intention thus to give pleasure to millions of creatures to be created, but it was also the Divine will to manifest to his creatures his own greatness and the perfection of his own goodness that they might enjoy him and he enjoy them everlastingly.

We are not to understand that Almighty God was lonely in that great Eternity before creation began. On the contrary, human loneliness is largely because of human deficiency. What we lack we seek for in others; But the great Jehovah lacked nothing; he was complete in himself; he needed not companionship to complete or to supplement his happiness. It was his pleasure to create that his creatures might have joy by reflecting as a whole his Divine qualities implanted in their constitutions.

The wreck of the human race produced by sin he well foreknew. Nor did this wrecking of human hopes defeat, nor was it in danger of defeating, the Divine purpose. It merely demonstrates to angels and to men the graces of the Divine character and shows unto all the more fully the qualities of God proper to be appreciated and copied.

When God would illustrate to us his own great personality, when he would show to his creatures how he is working all things according to the counsel of his own will, he pictured it symbolically in the Book of Revelation. In that vision the Throne of the Eternal One is graphically portrayed as the seat of Divine power and authority for the Universe, with angels as ministering spirits. Then is described a scroll, in the right hand of Jehovah—in Divine power and keeping. That scroll, written inside and outside, was "sealed with seven seals," representing the complete secrecy of the Divine purposes related in that scroll. From before the foundation of the world it had been in the hand (in the power) of the great Eternal. He had given hints respecting it and had caused it to be symbolized in the Law and to some extent to be described by the Prophets. But still it was a Hidden Mystery, because the prophets understood not the things which they wrote, nor could any understand them until the Father's "due time," which he had purposed in himself.

Not only was the Divine Program thus sealed and safely secreted, but it was the Divine determination that it should be given only to the one who would demonstrate his worthiness to be Jehovah's honored Agent for the carrying out of those parts of [illegible] the world was. The Repre[illegible] great Messiah, the great Deliverer, the great Prophet, Priest, Judge, King of Israel.

High as the Redeemer stood in the Divine counsels and fellowship before he came into the world to be man's Redeemer, it was not then granted even to him to know all the mysteries of the Divine Program. But by virtue of his high station, his perfection, his obedience, the privilege was given to him first to become man's Redeemer, at the cost of personal humiliation and death, and then, if faithful in this redemptive work, it should be his to be glorified, exalted to the divine nature, and to execute the Divine Program to its completion. First, he must manifest his devotion and loyalty to the Father, ere he could be trusted even with the knowledge of the Divine Program.

All this is declared in the account (Revelations v). The proclamation was made, Who is worthy to receive the scroll and to break its seals and to execute the wonderful purposes of God? None was found worthy! Finally, one demonstrated his worthiness—he left the courts of glory, he humbled himself, he "was made flesh." More than this, being found in fashion as a man, he consecrated his all to the doing of the Father's will, even unto death, the death of the cross. Wherefore, says the Apostle, "God also highly exalted him" and gave him a standing, a rank, a title above all others (Philippians ii, 7, 8). He commissioned him to execute all the Divine purposes and to him he handed over the scroll with the privilege of opening its seals and comprehending to the full its message.

In the symbolic picture John saw a freshly-slain lamb at the same time that the angelic messenger declared that the Lion of the tribe of Judah had prevailed. Jesus proved himself worthy and therefore the privilege of understanding the things of the Divine Plan, and the privilege of executing them rightfully belonged to him. The Lamb slain represented the work of Jesus from the day he was thirty years of age and made his consecration. There he became dead to self and to the world. When he successfully finished this great contract, he cried on Calvary, "It is finished."

This glorious victor was then acknowledged by God and by the holy angels to be the worthy One to whom the Father would entrust the execution of every feature of the Divine Program. "Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive glory and honor, dominion and might." He has not yet completed his great work there and then entrusted to him. The Father glorified him and set him at his own right hand—the place of Divine favor—when he finished his demonstration of loyalty even unto death. As yet he has only begun his great work. The blessing of the Church as "the Bride, the Lamb's Wife," is the first step in the glorious Program, and it is not yet completed. Following it will come the blessing of the world, all the families of the earth, not only the living but the dead. His declaration to those now called to be his Bride is, "To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with me in my throne even as I overcame and am set down with my Father in his throne" (Revelation iii, 21).

"To us there is one God," says the Apostle. All wisdom and power are his. Recent electrical inventions assist us greatly in apprehending his greatness. What man can do limitedly with the telephone and wireless telegraphy merely hint to us of the infinite resources of the Eternal One—from everlasting to everlasting, God. But our knowledge of the Divine Justice and Love satisfies our hearts—our Great Creator becomes "Our Father, who art in heaven."

Next Lord's Day D.V. I will have something more to say to the large congregation of millions whom I address weekly, respecting the methods by which the Almighty God is working all things according to the counsel of his own will, using his glorious Son, Messiah, his First Begotten, as his honored agent in the prosecution of every feature of the great Plan which he purposed in himself before the world was—when he was alone.

I suggest to interested readers of my sermons participation in the "Laymen's Home Missionary Movement" of bringing them to the attention of their friends and neighbors who do not attend church services.

So remarkable is the healing power of Dr. Chase's Ointment that the results of a single application are often a marvel to persons who witness them for the first time. Mrs. C. MISS LENA ASHWELL, England's Foremost Emotional Actress, Who comes to the "Grand" next Wednesday, January 11th, in the New Problem Play "Judith Zaraine," founded on Capital and Labour. The Seat Sale Opened This Morning

Notable English Artiste Coming To Peterborough
Lena Ashwell's Appearance

Miss Lena Ashwell in "Judith Zaraine" will be the Wednesday, January 11 attraction at the Grand Opera House. The celebrated English actress comes here with a new play and a company far above the ordinary. The drama is by C. M. S. McLellan, the author of "Leah Kleschna." Miss Ashwell will be assisted by Mr. Charles Waldron; who is both temperamentally and physically suited to the strenuous role assigned him. Others of notable importance in the cast are John E. Kellard, Howard Kyle, Gordon Johnstone, Walter Cluxton, Edward Langford, Charles Dowd and Donald Gallagher. The scenes of Miss Ashwell's new play are laid in Pennsylvania, and its subject matter is an industrial strike and the incidents arising therefrom. The tone of the story is distinctly Anglo-Saxon. It breathes life, strength, and is of strong people.

Miss Ashwell does not come to Peterborough as a stranger. As a girl she attended the Bishop Strachan School for Girls on College Avenue and Yonge street, Toronto, and she has a host of friends in the city. Her father was Captain Pocock, of the Royal Navy, who resigned his commission just before his daughter's birth, and who then took orders in the Anglican church. In London Miss Ashwell has the largest following of all English players. Her best known creations are those of "Leah Kleschna," Mrs. Dane in "Mrs. Dane's Defence" and "The Shulamite." Her leads with Sir Henry Irving, Sir Charles Wyndham and Sir Berrbohm Tree gained her great prominence. Altogether it would look as though Peterborough would have a dramatic festival supreme in Miss Ashwell's engagement.

Liebler and Company, under whose direction she is appearing have provided four complete sets of scenery, which illustrate the play to the best possible advantage.

The company supporting Miss Lena Ashwell in "Judith Zaraine," is one of the strongest acting organizations sent out of New York this season. Miss Ashwell is primarily assisted by Mr. Charles Waldron, and the other supporting players include John F. Kellard, Howard Kyle, Gordon Johnstone, Walter Cluxton, Edward Langford, Charles Dowd, Donald Gallagher. The action of the piece is distributed in four acts, as follows:

Act I—The Executive Office at the Temporary Headquarters of Col. Pontifex, Minetown, Pa.

Act II—Conrad Borinski's Shoe Shop, Minetown.

Act III—Col. Pontifex's Private Apartments at Headquarters.

Act IV—Judith Zaraine's Lodging, Minetown.

Miss Ashwell's engagement here is for Wednesday evening, Jan. 11th. The seat sale opened at the box office this morning and was one of the largest of the season.

"Christian Politics" The Subject Discussed By Good Fellowship League

There was a very enjoyable men's meeting, under the auspices of the League of Good Fellowship at the Princess Theatre on Sunday afternoon. The Rev. C. C. Carpenter took for his subject, "Christian Politics, Part I, the Duty of the State."

In opening, he said he wished it to be made perfectly clear that what he had to say, had no reference and has nothing to do with any one country or city or local politics. And further, in speaking of Christian politics, he regarded them as not applying to any particular church or denomination but to the great body of believers in the world.

The word politic really means the life of a city, outwardly, inwardly and spiritually. The ancient fathers [illegible] of our Lord set up the Sacraments and their ceremonies did not appeal to government, [illegible] officers who have crippled their bounds. IS THINNESS EMBARRASSING?

Undoubtedly It Is to Many a Maiden and Youth—While Even Those Well Along in Years Prefer Well-Rounded Figures.

Prescription Increases Weight.

A scrawny, sangling youth or maiden is almost invariably slighted, over-looked or ridiculed in any social gathering. There is something about a plump or well proportioned figure which attracts not only friendship, but love and adulation as well.

People with a proper amount of flesh are favoured in all walks of life, while the thin are unblessed, unwelcome and frequently miserable for life. The difference lies in the power of the digestive functions and the ability of the blood and nerve to absorb and distribute over the body the nutrition extracted from the food eaten.

The thin person is abnormal and lacks the power to absorb and retain the flesh and fat elements which the gastric juices in the stomach and intestines should extract or separate from all kinds of food and drink.

A recent accidental discovery has proven that tincture cadomene when blended with certain other drugs, will add from one to three pounds of flesh per week during treatment, while the general health and strength also improve wonderfully.

Get at any drug store a half pint bottle, three ounces of Syrups of Jayson and three ounces of extract of thubert, then add one ounce compound essence cardine, shake and let stand two hours. Then add one ounce tincture cadomene compound and cardiamomi. Shake well and take a teaspoonful before each meal, taking plenty of water between meals and when retiring.

Tariff Negotiators Begin Their Sessions In Ottawa---Will Make No Statement

Washington, Jan. 9.—A determined effort to lay the foundation for a reciprocity treaty between the United States and Canada was initiated Saturday, when Secretary of State Knox explained to the envoys the powers conferred upon the representatives of the Department of State, and the purposes of the United States Government in entering into the negotiations. There were just six members of the conference assembled in the snug little office in the State Department assigned to the committee.

Among the negotiators are Chas. M. Pepper and John B. Osborn for the United States, and Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, and Hon. W. Paterson, Minister of Customs, for Canada. Secretary Knox himself gave up his afternoon to the conference. Indications are that the negotiations will consume at least a week's time. There is an enormous amount of detail to be considered and the tariff schedules of both countries will be subject to most careful study, in the light of elaborate figures showing the extent of the exports and imports and the capital invested in various lines of industry likely to be affected by any changes in the customs duties.

As usual in the negotiations of a treaty, the participants are bound to absolute secrecy. It is, therefore, improbable that there will be anything in the nature of an authoritative statement available before the close of the negotiations beyond a mere announcement as to what progress is being made.

It is said that the conference will result in the addition of a few raw products to the free lists, reductions of duty on American manufactured articles not now largely made in Canada and reduced duties on some Canadian agricultural staples largely used in the United States. Even this much will be regarded by the State Department as a satisfactory accomplishment, as the opening wedge for the extension of the idea of reciprocity in supplementary conventions to be drawn in the future.

The first conference lasted about two hours, and an adjournment was then taken until Monday afternoon at three o'clock. Beyond the mere announcement that the conference had met to renew the negotiations, "initialled by the President some months ago," the only formal statement to be had was the following:

"It was decided that no statements would be given to the press until the results of the negotiations should become definite; thereupon an authoritative statement will be made jointly by the representatives of both Governments, and will be issued through the Department of State. Meanwhile, anything purporting to be information as to the progress of negotiations will be the mere speculation of individual writers, and the negotiators will not feel called on to confirm or deny any such reports."

Guest of Roosevelt.

New York, Jan. 9.—Earl Grey, the Governor-General of Canada, arrived here Saturday from Ottawa, and late in the afternoon motored down to Oyster Bay, where he was the guest Saturday night of Col. and Mrs. Roosevelt at Sagamore Hill.

"My visit to New York, said Earl Grey, "is purely a social one."

At the Hotel Plaza, where the earl spent Sunday, he said he would be unable to accept the invitation of President Taft to attend the state dinner to be given at the White House for the representatives of the Dominion who are in Washington in negotiation with Secretary Knox regarding the proposed new reciprocity treaty between the United States and Canada.

IS SENT TO TRIAL

Hotelkeeper, Serving a Term for Selling Liquor Without a License, Testifies to Conversation With the Prisoner, Who Is Accused of Murdering Miss Brimacombe—Trial Begins on April 10.

Cobourg, Jan. 9.—Henry I. Matthews, jr., was on Saturday committed for trial on a charge of murdering Miss Brimacombe, a deaf mute, in an hotel at Colborne. The final hearing was held in the Cobourg jail for the purpose of taking the evidence of George M. Teasdale, in whose hotel the murder was committed. Teasdale is serving a term for selling liquor without a license. Teasdale bore testimony as to the good character of Miss Brimacombe. He said he had gone to bed early on the evening of Dec. 17. He was roused about eight o'clock by hearing somebody in the dining-room. He heard the clock strike eight, and said to his wife that they were having a pretty late supper. He didn't hear any noises except that. The next morning he heard the waiter go up to the third floor and knock on her door. He then got up. The room in which Miss Brimacombe was murdered is directly opposite that in which Teasdale and his wife slept. He went over to the door and opened it.

This was O'Rook's room, and he was away. He saw Miss Brimacombe lying on the bed, and thought she was asleep. He didn't know who she was, and walked over and took her by the arm. He found her cold and stiff. He thought it might be his wife and went back to his room. His wife rose up in bed, and he asked her if she had put anyone in that room. Then he went down stairs and told Don Haynes.

The evidence which the crown had come to get referred to a conversation between Matthews and Teasdale on Monday afternoon.

"Did you have a conversation?" asked Mr. Kerr. "Yes."

"What was said by Matthews?"—"Well, he asked me why I hadn't told him about the papers being served on him. He was wanted as a witness in my liquor case, and I was going to plead guilty. He said if I had told him, he could have been away."

"Anything else?"—"Yes, he said it wouldn't look well to have two papers served together."

"Why did he say that?"—"I'm sure I don't know," was the reply.

"Now, Mr. Teasdale," said the crown attorney, "was there anything said about this other affair?"—"Yes, he wanted me to get the old man, Torose McDonald, to keep his mouth shut."

"Why did he say that?"—"I asked him why and he said because the old man had seen him in the kitchen when Joey was there." For the first time Mathews smiled, then his face grew grave again.

The evidence given at the inquest by Matthews was read. In it, he had said that he had heard no sounds, such as some of the other witnesses had described. He denied having put his arm around Miss Brimacombe in the kitchen, saying that he hardly even knew her by sight. He said he had not seen her upstairs. This having been read, Mr. Kerr asked for a committal on the evidence, saying that he had no alternative. He pointed out that the doctors had stated that death had been the result of strangulation.

"There is no doubt that Matthews and the woman were in the kitchen together, and they both disappeared. Smith went upstairs, and heard the moaning, and a man's voice saying, 'Shut up.' Matthews was not seen again until the sound had ceased, and he came downstairs with his vest open.

"Walking home with Edward, he exclaimed what fools we married men are."

The crown attorney also referred to Teasdale's evidence with reference to the conversation with Matthews as to the talk of "getting the old man to keep his mouth shut."

"There is sufficient evidence before you to charge the man in the dock," declared Mr. Porter in speaking for the defence.

"It would be entirely impossible to convict a man on the evidence before you." He stated that Matthews be discharged for lack of evidence. He spoke at length as to the nature of the charge, and the fact that if committed, Matthews would have to lie in jail until April, whether he be guilty or innocent. If he were innocent, it would be a great injustice; if guilty, the crown could at any time prosecute.

"On all points he is corroborated by the other witnesses. There is nothing else, but some slight suspicion, on which to make a committal," declared counsel. "You can't even say that the woman was murdered, for the doctors say that she might have choked to death. Now, in the face of that, can you commit him?"

The two magistrates deliberated for some twenty minutes, and ordered a committal. The trial will be held in Cobourg on April 10.

Had Hip Bone Crushed.

Smith's Falls, Jan. 9.—Alexander Johnston, 76 years of age, was walking along the C.P.R. track when he saw No. 3 express train coming. He stepped to another track when onlookers warned him of the Ottawa express coming. He just cleared the track, but the buffer struck him. He escaped with a crushed hip bone.

Dynamite Exploded.

Ottawa, Jan. 9.—Felix Dosans, Van Rhijn, residing in Ottawa, entered a shack on the Canadian Northern Railway at Shannonville on Saturday, when five sticks of dynamite exploded from an unknown cause. The small shack was blown to pieces, and the young man was killed.

Perilous Voyage.

Halifax, Jan. 9.—Battered by gales during a 4,000-mile voyage, with less than three days' coal in her bunkers, and her food supply almost depleted, the tiny Government quarantine boat Alva, from Dartmouth, Eng., made Halifax via the Azores and Bermuda, yesterday morning. The net tonnage of the Alva is forty-eight tons. She left Dartmouth on Nov. 22, and after nine days' rough weather made the Azores, where she was detained thirteen days on account of storms. After leaving the Azores, the next port of call was St. George's, Bermuda, which was made in eighteen days. The Alva sailed from St. George's, last Monday. Soon after the port was cleared she encountered rough weather, and on Wednesday night the little craft nearly foundered, when a great sea swept over her. It was with the greatest difficulty that Capt. Tucker kept his boat afloat, and it is remarkable that the voyage was made without serious damage or loss of life. The Alva was built at Dartmouth for the Dominion Government, to be used in quarantine service in Halifax harbor.

Demanded Bilingual Ticket.

Quebec, Jan. 9.—The first conflict respecting the Lavergne law, passed at last session, occurred on Saturday last, and as a result actions of damages will be instituted by Mr. Trudel, notary of St. Roche, against the Quebec and Lake St. John Railway, and against Conductor Richards. Mr. Trudel resides at Charlesburg, but comes to town every day, and on Saturday morning he asked the railway agent at Charlesburg for a ticket printed in both languages. As there were no such tickets to be secured, Mr. Trudel refused to purchase any other, and got on board the train. When Conductor Richards came along, Trudel informed him that he had no ticket, and the conductor offered to sell him one, but as it was not printed in French, refused to accept it. As a result he was ordered off the train at Limoilou station, and had to walk into the city, and gave his counsel instruction to issue actions against the company and the conductor.

Cartoonist Suicides.

Montreal, Jan. 9.—Alonzo Ryan, aged 36, hanged himself at his home in this city early on Saturday morning. An inquest was held later in the day and the coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide. The evidence was to the effect that deceased had lately been suffering from acute depression, brought about, it is understood by business worries. The deceased, who was the son of the late Carroll Ryan, was well known as a newspaper cartoonist, but he had recently been interested in the moving picture business.

Expelled for Twenty Years.

Lisbon, Jan. 9.—A Government decree issued on the subject of the property rights of the religious orders contains a clause forbidding monks and nuns of the order to wear a distinctive dress, and prohibits the return to the country of expelled Jesuits until twenty years have elapsed following their expulsion.

The decree permits any person to arrest an offender against either provision of the law.

Doctor Told Her She Did Not Have A Pint Of Good Blood In Her Body.

Mrs. Dosithe P. Cormier, Middle Sackville, N.B., says:—

"In the spring of 1897 I was all run down, and the doctor told me I had not a pint of good blood in my body. I took different remedies from doctors, but they did not seem to do me any good. After having taken a lot of different other kinds of medicine, and they did not seem to benefit me, I was almost in despair and did not know what to do until my husband met a lady and told her about my sickness and she told him to try Burdock Blood Bitters as she had received the greatest benefit from using it. My husband went and bought me a bottle, and after having taken it I felt better, so I kept on using one bottle after another until I had taken six in all and then I was strong and well. I am positive that my being alive to-day is due to the use of Burdock Blood Bitters. One spring since then I was not feeling very well and had a lot of work to do. I thought I would procure a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and after I had taken two I was able to do a lot of hard work all the summer, and I never felt better in my life. In the winter of 1905 I had Pneumonia, and it left me with a severe pain in the left side. I kept guessing when I could get out of bed. I had to sit up for a while it was so painful. After I had used Burdock Blood Bitters a couple of days the pain disappeared completely. It has cured me of bleeding piles. I have received so much benefit from Burdock Blood Bitters that I may publish this as it may help others as it has me."

does not contain a trace of these dangerous drugs, but is an absolutely safe and scientific preparation of Nature's own remedies—Herbs, Roots and Balsams.

It entirely removes the irritation that caused the cough, by cleaning out the mucus, stopping the inflammation and healing the delicate membrane of throat and lungs.

Moreover, it tones up and strengthens the whole system, particularly the lungs, and protects against future coughs and colds.

Ontario Totals 3 Times As Much Timber As Any Other Province

Ottawa, Jan. 9.—In a report on the forest products of Canada for 1909, issued by the forestry branch of the Department of the Interior, compiled from statistics supplied by operating sawmills, trade papers, prominent lumbermen, provincial, county and township officials, Ontario leads all the provinces in the value of lumber cut by the magnificent total of $30,650,344. British Columbia is second with $11,374,989, Quebec comes third with $9,48,9236, and the following provinces in the order named. New Brunswick, $5,336,974; Nova Scotia, $3,373,177; Saskatchewan, $1,448,079; Manitoba, $1,025,368; Alberta, $798,320; Prince Edward Island, $22,940. In the case of Quebec and Saskatchewan a decrease is shown over the figures for 1908, while Ontario shows an increase both in quantity and value of 17.3 per cent.

The number of mills operating in Canada, with the exception of a few small plants in Quebec, is 2,065, the quantity of timber cut, 3,814,942,000 feet board measure, and the total value $62,819,477. This is an increase for the Dominion of 13.9 per cent over 1909. The return from the Department reads: "The 1909 reports are, without doubt, close to the truth and the most accurate yet received in Canada. There are still a number of small mills not reporting, particularly in the Province of Quebec, but the recommended annual cut is only a very small percentage of the total."

For whatever the comparison is worth, it is noted that the total cut in Canada for 1909 is a little less than one-ninth the lumber cut of United States for 1908, and a little less than the lumber cut in the State of Washington for 1907. The per capita lumber production in Canada for 1909 was 468 board feet, or 27 per cent. greater than the per capita lumber cut production of United States for 1908.

In respect of Ontario the report says: "It holds this position (top) by virtue of its great annual cut of white pine, and by reason of its diversified forests, which give it a small annual cut of almost every wood produced in Canada. Ontario has been Canada's greatest lumber producer for a great many years; it produced over one-third the lumber cut in Canada in 1909, and the increase over 1908 cut was 17.3 per cent., or a greater increase per capita than that for the whole of Canada.

Spruce leads all other woods in quantity and value of cut. For 1909 the cut was 1,124,949,000 feet board measure, representing a value of $16,365,720; white pine, 1,046,447,000, value $22,663,417; 10 species for, 469,658,000, value $6,860,579.

ENGLISH ELEVATORS.

Warehouses Planned For Old Land, Says Grain Growers' Guide.

Ottawa, Jan. 9. The Government is considering the question of terminal elevators facilities in British ports for the handling of Canadian grain exported via the Hudson Bay route. This is the strong statement made editorially in the Grain Growers' Guide, the official organ of the Grain Growers' Association of the prairie provinces, and the editor of which was one of the farmers' representatives who remained behind to confer with the Premier after the recent delegation had gone. The editorial says:

"Sir Wilfrid very frankly told the committee the attitude of the Government towards the undertaking. He stated that the Government was prepared to build the road and the necessary terminals for the handling of grain, and own them in perpetuity, but that the Government was opposed to operating the road after it was built, but gave the committee distinctly to understand that the question of operating would be left in abeyance until the road was well under way.

"The Premier also assured the committee that the Government, either through the board of Railway Commissioners or some other commissioners, was prepared to keep complete control not only of the freight charges on the land portion of the system, but would also control the rates of any steamship companies that formed a part of the through export charges on grain from the prairie provinces to Liverpool and that was also contemplated by the Government to provide the necessary elevator and terminal facilities at Liverpool or some other English port for the handling of Canadian grain exported via the Hudson Bay route."

Express Car on Fire.

Winnipeg, Jan. 9. The express car on C.P.R. train, 97, which left the city for the west, took fire a short distance west of Poplar Point, about 40 miles west of Winnipeg, Saturday night. The car was run back to Poplar Point, but the fire gained such headway that it was impossible to subdue the flames. It is stated that the contents of the cars were completely destroyed.

Threaten Federenko's Family.

Winnipeg, Jan. 9. M. J. Finkelstein, who conducted the defence of Sayio Federenko, has received a letter from a friend of the latter in Russia who says that the police have raided Federenko's home, seized all his papers and personal belongings and threatened his family that every member will be thrown into jail unless the Federenko agitation is immediately stopped.

A Long Season.

Ottawa, Jan. 9. F. T. Congdon, M.P., says a record was made last season in dredging in the Yukon. It extended over 220 days. It is remarkable that a gold dredge can work for every day in the year, but weeks of Christmas, there are difficulties in the Yukon not experienced in other countries, but it is being proved that they can be overcome.

STOMACH LIVER LUNGS

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the Chain of Life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of stomach, liver or lungs, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of weakness or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases and weaknesses of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the weak or diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

The strong man has a strong stomach. Take the above recommended "Discovery" and you may have a strong stomach and a strong body.

GIVEN AWAY.—Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, new revised Edition, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

WORTH THE MONEY JUST TO SEE THE GRILERS PLAY

This is the Lindsay Warder Man's Opinion of Friday Night's Junior O. H. A. Game---Peterborough Team Skated Faster, Combined Better and Were in Better Condition Than the Midgets.

The Lindsay Warder has the following to say of Friday's game:

The Lindsay hockey special left the G. T. R station last night at 7:05, with over 150 passengers. The crowd was dropped at Brock St., Peterborough, and all rushed to the skating rink to see the hockey game. Although the Midgets were beaten, the score being 17 to 3, the large crowd that gathered got the worth of their money, because it is worth it to see the "Grillers" go. They are fast skaters, good stick handlers, and, being a very husky junior team, use their weight with effect. Hefferman, their cover point, and an intermediate man, too, plays splendid hockey. He is a strong check, and has everything—speed, stick-handling and a good shot. Hall, Matthews and Coughlin played a good game, and figured in the combination. As a whole, the team skated faster, were in better condition, and combined better than the Midgets. When the Midgets forwards got away with the puck they were often caught by fast back checking on the part of the "Grillers." Several good chances to score were missed by the local boys.

For the Midgets, Norton, the heavyweight at point played a brilliant game, figuring in the scoring of the three goals, and stopped a great many shots on goal. Newton was a trifle frightened, but did well considering the number of shots sent at him. Callaghan, at rover, was not as effective as in the game on Thursday night, probably owing to late injuries. Knowlson played persistent hockey and sent wicked shots at the Peterborough goal tender. Henley played exceptionally well, breaking up several combinations and starting rushes. McConnell held his check well and worked hard. Mercer seemed to be lost on the large ice and a few hard checks probably took the courage out of him. With more practice on combination play, the Midgets will give Peterborough a hard battle here in Lindsay. The game was decidedly clean, most of the penalties being for accidental trips. Referee Sproule of Toronto, did his work well.

FRED DENISON
of last year's City League Champions the Strathconas, who is playing cover for the Peterborough Intermediate O.H.A. Team in Cobourg to-night and amongst them will likely be seen the familiar face of Percy Bond, a well-known Cobourg player. The Cobourgs have got together a good bunch of town boys, and are showing up well, and we can expect them to give a good account of themselves. This should prove a rattling good game.—Cobourg World.

Cobourg Juniors lost the first game of the season here on Monday night to Peterborough in a Junior O.H.A. fixture. Peterborough brought in a pretty husky looking lot for juniors, and the soft ice favoured size more than speed. The local lads, with the exception of Gliddon and Niles, played their first league game and most of them showed up well—Freeman doing good work. He scored the first two goals for Cobourg and Gliddon the third. Cobourg had the score 3 to 2 at the end of the first half. Peterborough showed better form in the last half, and got the only three tallies making the final score 5 to 3. With good hard ice the locals should have won out as they showed better combination and were faster skaters. Peterborough did not show much team work, but depended on individual work.—Cobourg World.

The Peterborough Grillers will run a special train to Lindsay for the return game with the Midgets, a week from to-morrow night and a big crowd of fans will undoubtedly accompany the team. Keep the date open.

Patterson had an easy night of it in goal. He stopped a few hot ones.

That man Sorel is some player alright—lots of speed and checks back well.

Hall played a stellar game in centre ice and got his share of the goals scored.

Harvey Sproule was right there on offsides, and allowed no roughness on either side. Eight penalties for each team, and all for minor offences. Peterborough are proud of their Grillers and turned out in large numbers.—Lindsay Warder.

There will be a practice of the Peterborough Junior O. H. A. team at the rink to-night between 7 and 8 o'clock. Only the following players are requested to be out: Patterson, Reynolds, Coughlin, Hall, Matthews McMartin and Anderson.

INTERMEDIATES IN COBOURG

The Peterborough Intermediate O. H. A. team left on the noon G. T. R train to-day for Cobourg, where they will play their first O. H. A. game of the season to-night against the lake shore seven. Charlie Ray, the captain of the seven, is off the line-up on account of the injury he received in the Argonaut game a week ago, but otherwise the team is in good shape, the practises the last week having been well attended. Ray's place will be filled by shifting Hefferman up to rover, while Fred Denison, of last year's Strathconas, will play cover-point. The team will line up as follows:

Goal—Derocher.
Point—Bond.
Cover—Denison.
Rover—Hefferman or Giroux.
Centre—Dobson.

President Sam Ray, trainer Billy Breen, and Harry Munro a committee of the team.

G. T. P. EXPECTS BUSY SEASON

Immigration Will be Heavy --Many Will Settle on the G. T. P. Lines Next Spring

The large number of enquiries that have been received by the Grand Trunk Pacific during the late fall, and which are on the increase, indicate that there will be an extremely heavy immigration, especially of Americans who will settle along the G. T. P. in the coming spring.

Increased Travel.

Further increase in travel is expected next year when a passenger over a number of branch lines will be undertaken. A line from Tofield to Calgary is expected to be completed next fall, but it is likely that a train service will be given over a considerable portion of the line early in the summer. The line from McMillan north through Yorkton to Canora, which is ultimately to form part of the Hudson's Bay line has been completed, as has also a large section of the line between Melfort and Regina.

Track Laying.

Track laying has been carried a considerable distance beyond Battarres and the steel should be carried into Regina during the early summer. From Regina a branch of considerable importance is being built easterly to meet the international boundary. This will afford a more direct route to a large part of the immigration to Alberta and Saskatchewan from the western states. From Regina to Moose Jaw the preliminary work has been done this year on a branch line, ultimately to be extended through the southern portions of Saskatchewan and Alberta to Calgary.

Further Work in Spring.

These branch lines will require some further work in the spring to bring them up to the high standard of road bed that is being insisted on by the Grand Trunk Pacific, but the train service is to be looked for over them at an early date. West of Edson, work is being rapidly pushed on the main line as far as the crossing of the Athabasca river, a short distance this side the Yellowhead Pass by the early spring. This will afford access to the Jasper Park country to the tourist and the mountain climbers who have been eagerly waiting to get up an opportunity to get into that district.

Progress of Towns.

Progress and development of towns has been more rapid throughout the year. The divisional points especially, have claimed great attention. On the average, the divisional townsites, Rivers, Melville, Watrous, Biggar and Wainwright, have added at least one-third to their population.

The other towns which have shown considerable activity are Tofield, Scott and Holden, as all are situated in the rich agricultural country. Early this fall the government section, that portion of the Trans-continental railway which is being built between Winnipeg and Lake Superior Junction, a distance of 230 miles, was put in operation by the G. T. P. and used for carrying a large quantity of grain.

Improving Main Line.

If all accounts be true the G. T. P. are laying plans for further extensive improvements on its main lines already built as well as issuing short construction a large number of branch lines. Applications for these have already been made at the present session of the Canadian parliament.

During the present year the G. T. P. have received a large number of passenger coaches, cafe parlour cars, dining cars and baggage cars. These have all been built in the most modern times. A fair number of each class have yet to be received, but will be delivered early in the spring. The railway has also added a number of locomotives, both passenger and freight, to its equipment, and these have been put in service on the company's steamship service on the Pacific coast.

HEATED ARGUMENT

Two local gentlemen had a rather heated discussion in front of the police station this afternoon. It appears that the leading character in the case had been boarding by the week at the other fellow's home, and last week an altercation took place, which resulted in his moving his luggage to another hang-out. The boarder would only pay for the part of the week that he had been there, which amounted to $1.50, while the other insisted on having the full week's board, $4.00. They used some "very high flowing language" in front of the police station, much to the mirth of those around, and finally marched inside, where they insisted on the Chief to settle the matter, which he frankly declined to do. "Your a liar" was the frequent expression of one of the men, while the other one protested that the lying was on the other side. It will likely be settled before Magistrate Dumble in the police court.

WAS TERRIBLY AFFLICTED WITH LAME BACK.

Three Boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills Cured Her.
It is hard to do housework with a weak and aching back.
Backache comes from sick kidneys, and what's lot of trouble sick kidneys cause.
But they can't help it. If more work is put on them than they can stand it is not to be wondered they get out of order.
Weak back is simply a warning from the kidneys and should be attended to immediately so as to avoid years of terrible suffering from kidney trouble.
Mrs. N. Larmour, Smith's Falls, Ont., writes:—"I take pleasure in writing you, stating the benefit I have received by using Doan's Kidney Pills. About a year ago I was terribly afflicted with lame back and was so bad I could not even sweep my own floor. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, which I did, and with the greatest benefit. I only used three boxes and I am as well as ever. I highly recommend these pills to any sufferer from lame back or kidney trouble.

ANNIVERSARY OF ST. PETER'S T. A. S. WAS OBSERVED YESTERDAY

Attended St. Peter's Cathedral in the Morning and at Vespers Rev. Dr. O'Brien, Former Spiritual Advisor, Addressed Them.

REVIEW OF THE WORK

The anniversary of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society was celebrated by the members yesterday in a fitting and successful manner.

The members met at St. Peter's school in the morning and marched to the Cathedral to attend the eight o'clock mass. There was a very large turn-out in line and the procession was marshalled by Messrs. Joseph Allin and Daniel Cushing.

Mass was celebrated by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, and, after mass His Lordship addressed the society, congratulating them upon their fine turnout and urging them to be faithful to their pledge and to persevere to the end. His Lordship instanced the number of criminals in different institutions, for whose downfall the drink evil was responsible, and again congratulated the society upon what had been, all things considered, one of the most successful turnouts in its history.

At Vespers last night at St. Peter's Cathedral, Rev. Dr. O'Brien, rector of the Sacred Heart Church, delivered a strong temperance sermon, on the occasion of the eleventh anniversary of the founding of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society. He reviewed the work of the Society since its foundation and expressed a hope that greater things would be accomplished in the future.

WEDDING BELLS

PAQUETTE—PREVOST.

A quiet wedding was solemnized this morning at six o'clock at St. Peters Cathedral, when Miss Sarah Prevost was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Alphonse Paquette. The young couple will reside in Peterborough.

FRENCH-SEABROOK.

The marriage took place at the residence of her father, Mr. Samuel Seabrook, 285 Dalhousie street, on Saturday evening, December 31st, at six o'clock, of Miss Elizabeth Seabrook, to Mr. Arnold French, late of Birmingham, England, but now of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. R. Webb of Murray Street Baptist church, in the presence of about forty invited guests. To the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Seabrook of Havelock the bride entered the drawing room, which was tastefully decorated for the occasion, leaning on the arm of her father, who gave her away. The bride looked charming in a gown of cream lace over cream silk. She wore the customary bridal veil and carried white carnations. She was assisted by her sister, Miss Jennie Seabrook, who was attired in white mulle, with pale blue sash. She carried pink carnations. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Harold French. After the ceremony, hearty congratulations were bestowed on the young couple, after which the guests sat down to a sumptuous supper. The bride and groom received a large number of beautiful and costly presents, testifying to the high esteem in which they are held by a wide circle of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. French will reside in Peterborough.

SPECIAL SERMON TO YOUNG MEN AT ST. PAUL'S

In a special sermon to young men last night in St. Paul's church, Mr. [illegible] speaking from the words—"[illegible]ked" not in the counsel of the ungodly" had some helpful words to say. He said in part: "You will notice that the ungodly man has his counsel. He may complain, oftentimes, about the Church's counsel, about the Church's creeds and doctrines; and yet the inconsistent thing about him is that he has his own creed, and his own opinion, and his own counsel. There are no men in a community who seem to know as much about religion as the men who make no profession of religion themselves; and there are none freer to give counsel to young men as to what they ought to believe. Do not walk in their counsel. When you want to know anything pertaining to matters of higher education you do not go to the man who boasts of the fact that he has never been to school in his life. When you want to know anything on matters of business or of scientific knowledge, you go to men who are specialists in these matters. Ought we not to do the same in things religious? Who are better capable of giving counsel and imparting information on the doctrine of Divine things than the men who all their lives have been living for God and in fellowship with God, and who, all their lives have been sitting at the feet of the Divine Master and learning of Him? Is it not folly infinite to accept the counsel of men on religious matters who, by experience, know nothing of the things of which they speak, and who boast of the fact that they know nothing of them? The days of the blatant infidel are past. The unbelief with which the Church has to deal is a much more subtle thing. She has to contend to-day with it from men who are sometimes within her own ranks—from men who are teachers in our public institutions, from thoughtful, educated men, who tell us that there is an irreconcilable warfare between science and religion, between the latest results of scientific investigation and the religion of Jesus Christ. I shall not attempt here any lengthened refutation of this assertion. But I can say this much without fear of contradiction, that the leading scientific men of to-day are not only sincere believers in Jesus Christ but that they assert that there is not one scientific discovery of the age that invalidates a single doctrine of revealed religion. My advice to the young men who hear me is that you do not accept the counsel of men on the subject of religion, who are not religious men, and who do not know the things of God and of religion experimentally.

POST CARD COLUMN

Editor Post Card Column.

Dear Sir,—I enclose the scores made by the Peterborough Colts during 1901, when they won the Junior championship:

Won from Cobourg	15—0
Won from Belleville	10—3
Won at Cobourg	6—2
Won from Barrie	21—0
Won from Stratford	12—0
Lost to Stratford	0—7
Winning by	64—12

After winning the championship they were tackled by the Excelsiors of Toronto, made up of such players as Birmingham, Fraser, etc., and they were, like all other teams of that year, snowed under by 40 to 2. This is, perhaps, the largest score ever made in a match. Why should our Juniors discard the name of Colts for Grillers?

MAYOR MORROW ENTERTAINS AT THE INAUGURAL BANQUET OF THE COUNCIL

Many Topics of Supreme Importance in Peterborough's Upbuilding Were Discussed by Speakers Last Night---Aesthetics of a City, Municipal Government by Commission, Sanitation, Municipal Advertising, Were Some of the Points Touched Upon.

Many topics of supreme importance to the city were discussed at the banquet in Hooper's Palm Parlours last night, tendered by His Worship Mayor Morrow to the City Council for 1911, and members of the other civic bodies. The function was an enjoyable and altogether successful affair, featured by a wholesome and frank discussion of some of the most important particulars in which Peterborough might be benefitted.

His Worship Mayor Morrow presided and Ald. Bradburn was vice-chairman. The others present were His Honour Judge Huycke, Police Magistrate D. W. Dumble, Jas. Kendry, ex-Mayor; H. Rush, ex-Mayor; Mr. W. H. Moore, of the Water Commission, and City Trust Commission; Mr. Vincent Eastwood of the Board of Education, Alds. Buller, Duncan, Metheral, Brown, Edgar, Graham, Kerneghan, Morgan and Anderson, City Clerk S. R. Armstrong, Medical Health Officer Dr. MacPherson, Industrial Commissioner Duggan, Chief of Police Dan. Thompson, City Tax Collector W. J. Green, Fire Chief Howard and representatives of the press.

His Worship the Mayor proposed the toast to the King, which was heartily honoured by the singing of the National Anthem. He then called upon His Honour Judge Huycke to address the gathering.

His Honour thanked His Worship for his kindly invitation to be present at the inaugural banquet of the City Council for 1911. He had been invited to speak about whatever he liked, and did not relish this, not that there were not many things that he liked, but rather that there were not many subjects that he liked to speak about. It was a pleasure for him to have anything to do with the City of Peterborough, his adopted home. When he came here a year and one-half ago he knew very little about Peterborough and he wanted to take this opportunity of thanking the representative gentlemen present for the kindly welcome he had received.

He congratulated the members of the City Council on their election. There was an honour in being elected to be Mayor or Alderman of the City of Peterborough, but there was a higher motive than that of honour, and that was duty. If a man sought election only for the honour there was in it, he was not impelled by the higher sense of duty. He understood the time and attention necessary in connection with council work. He had some experiences himself, having been connected with the Council of Cobourg for ten years, four of which he had acted as Mayor.

His Honour pointed out that the aldermen should not look only to this year, but to the other years to come. The city of Peterborough had done well in the past, he was sure it had a glorious future before it, and, if the affairs were wisely administered it would be even more successful in the years to come. The Council should not only concern itself with the tax-rate of the city for 1911, or what work was to be done on the streets for this year, but should take up what would be of benefit in the future years. Peterborough was destined to become, he was sure, the capital in manufacturing, and education, of Eastern Ontario. However, he thought that something should be done to beautify the city. He did not think that the city officials had done all that they could do to beautify the place. Nature had done a great deal—the officials had not done so much. There were ugly billboards, ugly posts, ugly back-yards, ugly everything, in fact, everywhere in the city. There should be, too, some athletic grounds for the children of the city. They could not sleigh ride on the hills; they could not play in the parks. There was no place that they could play in, unless they went away out in the fields. His Honour instanced the improvements that had been made at Ottawa. What had been done there could be accomplished in Peterborough. He wished the Council one and all a year of usefulness and success in the position to which they had been respectively elected.

Government by Commission.

Mr. W. H. Moore delivered a most interesting and enjoyable address upon the subject of "Municipal Government by Commission."

Before commencing his subject he expressed his appreciation of the idea of holding an annual banquet by the City Council and also of the invitation he had received to be present.

No form of Government would, he said, successful of itself give good results, unless there were capable men to carry on the business and devote themselves to the affairs of the city. The word Commission was a misnomer. It was applied to the City Trust which was appointed by the Council, and not by the people. This same condition exfsted with other commissions.

Mr. Moore traced the growth of the government by commission plan in the United States. He showed how the first agitation had taken place in the city of Galveston Texas, where it was brought about by the fact that the city was in a deplorable condition. It had been robbed of everything it possessed; had an immense debt that was not provided for by debentures or in any other way. He instanced the City of Washington in the district of Columbia, which was governed by a Commission of five men, who controlled education, sanitation, health; in fact, every branch of the city's affairs. These men were, of course, paid large salaries.

He contended that the trouble in Peterborough, as other Canadian towns, was that the Council was too

TERRIFIC GALE ON THE ATLANTIC COAST

Three-masted Schooner Goes Ashore---Barge Goes Down with Seventeen on Board---Life Boats Went to Rescue of Sailors and Nothing Has Been Heard From Them ---Loss of Life Will be Great.

Special to the Examiner.

BOSTON, MASS., JAN. 10. All along the coast of the northern Atlantic, from Chesapeake Bay to Halifax Harbour, there raged last night a fifty-mile gale, which is known to have sent two or three vessels and their crews to ocean graves, and it is feared that the list of lost will be great when the full reports are in from the stations along the shore. The three-masted schooner "Harold Cousins" went ashore near Atlantic City. Life boats put out to rescue the crew, but at a late hour this morning nothing had been heard of either rescuers or those they went to save. From Highland Light, Mass., comes the news that one barge was sunk, with seventeen of a crew, and two others are on the rocks. Efforts are being made to raise several stations along the coast by telegraph and wireless, but no replies are forthcoming. All sea ports along the coast and headquarters of coasting vessels express great anxiety for over-due crafts.

West In Grip Of Worst Blizzard It Has Known Many Trains Stalled

Special to The Examiner:

WINNIPEG, JAN 10 With one or two transcontinental trains stalled in the mountains, with telegraphic communication with the Pacific Coast cut off for nearly two days, with the thermometer in this neighbourhood twenty degrees below zero, the whole of Western Canada, from Winnipeg to the Coast, is in the grip of the worst storm in the memory of the oldest inhabitants.

It was reported at the Canadian Pacific headquarters here today that every transcontinental train between here and the Coast was from seven hours to one day late. The railway officials are facing an unprecedented situation. The blizzard is still blowing and shows little sign of abatement. Great anxiety is felt for the trains lost in the mountains. Efforts to reach Vancouver and Victoria via San Francisco have been found unavailing, presumably because the upper Pacific Coast suffered severely in the Prairie Provinces of Canada.

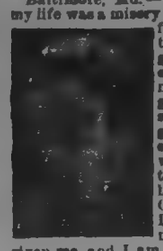
AFTER FOUR YEARS OF MISERY

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Baltimore, Md.—"For four years my life was a misery to me. I suffered from irregularities, terrible dragging sensations, extreme nervousness, and that all gone feeling in my stomach. I had given up hope of ever being well when I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Then I felt as though new life had been given me, and I am recommending it to all my friends."—Mrs. W. S. FORD, 1938 Lansdowne St., Baltimore, Md.



The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has stood the test of years and to-day is more widely and successfully used than any other female remedy. A GREAT REVENUE.

The continuance of national prosperity as indicated by commercial activity, is reflected in the increasing revenue returns of the Dominion. The most recent financial statement, that for December, 1910, issued at Ottawa, is one of the most satisfactory for a long time. The revenue for that month was $9,790,587.14, by the way in excess of the yearly revenue of the largest and wealthiest province in the Dominion $1,050,816.09 in excess of the revenue for the month of December, 1909. In the nine months of the fiscal year ended, with the last month of the calendar year, the revenue showed an increase over the figure of last year of $12,275,752.86, the total for 1909 being $73,380,080.97, and for the year 1910, the figures were $85,655,833.83. The biggest daughter of the Imperial family can join hands across the sea with the Mother, in mutual congratulation upon an ever flowing revenue and a grandly increasing trade.

A MAGNIFICENT SHOWING.

There are, in spite of the "tariff reform" pessimists, few indications that burly and sturdy John Bull's waistbelt is becoming slack. The hale old gentleman is, according to jealous rivals, the floor walker of a nation of shopkeepers, and in this capacity he can afford to regard such a sheet with complacency. The trade of Britain is as surpassing in its extent and character as her naval power is preeminent among the nations of the world. The British Board of Trade returns for the year 1910 repeat the story of other years in the matter of growing trade, the figures for that year being in advance of the year 1907 which was regarded as a banner year, the total for 1910 [illegible] effete monarchy. In the year 1910 the imports were $3,392,200,865, an increase of $268,676,686, over the total of 1909. The exports amounted to $2,671,829,575, a gain of $2,671,829,575, an increase of $324,203,745. This brings Britain's total trade up to the tremendous figures of 6,065 millions of dollars. This is not a bad showing for a benighted land that still bows down to the free trade fetish, one achieved in competition with protectionist rivals. This seems to shew that while certain conditions indicate a protective policy, as suited to some nations, free trade is the best fiscal policy for Great Britain. It is such figures that plant thorns in the path and roll stones in the way of the tariff reform—protection—party in the Mother Land. And, with a tariff adjusted so as to produce a fair incidence of taxation and make tributary to the national revenues, interests that from time immemorial have escaped or evaded the duty of bearing their share of the national tax burden, the tariff reform cry will have less of justification and appeal.

NEED FOR PRACTICAL METHODS.

The Dominion Department of the Interior has issued a report on the forest production of Canada for 1910. This report is compiled from statistics furnished by operating saw mills, prominent lumbermen, trade journals, etc. It is stated that Ontario leads all the provinces with "the magnificent total," in value of forest products, of $30,050,344. The suitability of the expression, "magnificent total" depends upon several things—on whether in the process of cutting as much waste—or, at least, a great deal of waste—has been made as commercial wealth created. If immature timber has been sacrificed, timber that has many years of rapid growth in bulk and value, before it; if careless methods have led to the destruction of other timber; if the resulting refuse has been left in such a condition and position as to invite forest fires that might easily work thirty millions of destruction—if these things have been done there is small warrant for applying the term "magnificent" to the total value of production; it would indeed apply more properly to the "magnificent" total of destruction. In the past history of Canadian forest exploitation, it is safe to say, that the waste in various forms has far exceeded in amount the commercial value created. Canada's immense wealth of forest stand, derives its greatest value from the use made of it. While it is very great it is not inexhaustible, especially if extensive commercial exploitation go hand in hand with wasteful and destructive methods, to double the destruction, from a resource point of view. We have not entered upon a forest conservation policy, a year too soon; but we can yet redeem the situation; by more careful and scientific methods of cutting and disposition of debris, and, above all, by a vigorous and general application of reforestry operations. If a policy were applied of planting one or two timber trees for every one that is cut with attendant careful methods of exploitation, preservation of immature and growing timber, in the course of time Canada would have as magnificent a stand of timber as she has to-day. We expect much from the work and influence of the Conservation Commission in the way of education and wholesome influence, but their activity must be supplemented by practical work.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

During the year 1910, fifteen miles of urban pavement alone have been constructed in Western Canada.

With the Canadian Pacific Railway raising its rate of dividend from eight to ten per cent., Mr. Macleod of the World, will feel encouraged to energize his demand for a two-cent passenger rate.

In Western Canada, during the year 1910, there have been 1,265 miles of new railway graded, and 684 miles laid with steel. The total railway mileage of Western Canada is now 11,472 miles nearly half the railway mileage of the whole of Canada and much of it built within the past twenty years.

The students of the Ontario Agricultural College and of the allied educational institutions, have sent to Hon. Mr. Duff, Minister of Agriculture a 285 name-power petition asking that "mixed dancing be permitted at social meetings of the students." This seems to us reasonable. There are easily more undesirable forms of social amusement than dancing, especially than dancing connected with the students' society should be done under official chaperonage on two or more occasions during the winter. If the wishes of the students petition [illegible] students, will be [illegible] grammatical phrases [illegible] the minister's name [illegible] objection.

New Transatlantic Cable Merger May Accelerate All-British Line

(Manitoba Free Press.)

The recent agreement entered into by the Anglo-American Telegraph Company with the Western Union Company, by which the latter obtains control of the former, guaranteeing absolutely and unconditionally 3 1-2 per cent. in perpetuity on the $35,000,000 of Anglo-American capital, marks the transference into American hands of the control of what was the sole remaining British cable across the Atlantic. The Anglo-American Company, owning four cables, together with the Direct United States Cable Company, owning one cable, has long been in partnership with the Western Union, owning two cables, in a traffic pool, but the new arrangement will mean a practical unity of management.

There are at present nominally sixteen cables between Europe and this continent—nominally, because all of them are not in use, or capable of use in their present condition. Of these the new combination which is presently to be formed, the preliminary arrangements being already made, by the union of the above-mentioned companies with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, will control seven, and with the laying of a new cable for which the last-mentioned company has given orders, will control eight. Of the remaining nine, five are owned by the Commercial Cable Company, the Mackay-Bennett system of the New York Herald, two are owned by a German company, and two by a French. The German cables, which are subsidized by the German Government, work in close co-operation with the Mackay-Bennett system. The French cables, which are also subsidized, carry only a very small proportion of the total Trans-atlantic business. The cable companies are ranged in two camps, each with its land telegraph connections, the Commercial having the Postal Telegraph and the C.P.R., and the other group having the 10,000,000 miles of Bell Telephone and Western Union land wires.

It is announced that the British Government has made an arrangement with both groups of the American cable companies for the transmission at half rates, that is, at sixpence a word, of "deferred" cablegrams in "plain language." Full-rate messages will have right of way ahead of them, of course, but it is understood that they will be delivered within twenty four hours at most. No distinction will be made in respect of the character of these half-rate messages; they may concern either business or domestic affairs, but the sender of such a message will be required to sign a declaration that it does not contain a code in disguise. The advantage of this arrangement will be felt in Australia; the present Atlantic cable rates being the main obstacle to the doing of a much greater business between Australia and Great Britain via the Pacific cable from Australia and New Zealand, by way of Norfolk Island Fiji and Fanning Island, to Vancouver.

Announcement was made in the London Times some time ago, that the British Government had in contemplation the plans for a State-owned cable between this country and Great Britain, along the route surveyed some fifty years ago by H. M. S. Bulldog from Labrador, via Iceland and the Faroe Islands, to Scotland. The route is said to possess many advantages for the purpose, and the calculations set forth in the Times went to show that a rate of 4 1-2 pence a word would be about what would likely have to be charged on ordinary messages, the rate on Government, press and "deferred" messages being 2 1-2 pence a word. At these rates, it was calculated, the cable would pay all costs of operation fixed charges, a liberal allowance for contingencies and 5 per cent. annually on the original outlay. The announcement of that project was received with great satisfaction in Australia and New Zealand, as such a cable would give our antipodean fellow citizens of the Empire cheaper cable connection with Europe, than they will have even by the new arrangement which the British Government has made with the American cable companies. The advantages which would result from such a link of Empire are so important that it is to be hoped that the arrangement with the American cable companies does not mean that the project of the cable across the Atlantic from Labrador to Scotland along the route surveyed by the good ship Bulldog has not been abandoned.

DOWN WITH THE POLES.

Under the above heading, the Ottawa Free Press continues its onslaught on the hideous poles that disfigure the streets of the Canadian Capital, as they similarly do the streets of Peterborough, and other cities. We have, perhaps, become accustomed to the poles on our streets, and, to some extent, indifferent to the deformity they constitute, but, aside from appearance, there are very material objections to the presence of these poles. Being placed in the gutters, they interfere with proper street drainage, and, on the business streets, the net work of wires, in case of an outbreak of fire in a business building, might well interfere with the work of firemen in a manner to make all the difference between an easily and quickly-extinguished fire and great loss of property. The following from the Free Press applies so well to Peterborough conditions that it can be read into our situation with profit—if the facts presented provoke action:

During the last few days the Free Press has been hammering at the necessity for action looking to the removal of the unsightly electric poles on the main business thoroughfares in Ottawa, and the statement of Mayor Hopewell printed in our news columns yesterday is very gratifying. As he says, the time has arrived when the drunken poles must come off Sparks, Rideau and Bank streets.

The people of Ottawa had got so accustomed to seeing these obstacles that they scarcely noticed them until the new electric illumination made them stand out in all their hideousness. They now appear to us as they have appeared to every stranger visiting the city—simply disgraceful. About a year ago the Free Press tried to get a good photograph of the corner of Bank street. No matter where the camera was located the most prominent future in the foreground of the picture was a ghastly wooden pole, and from some positions poles almost completely hid the view.

Mayor Hopewell's latest statement, as we have said, is very gratifying, but what we are afraid of is that history will repeat itself, and that instead of action we shall only have promises of action for years to come. What is required is that the mayor and controllers shall show as much energy in getting this terrible defect remedied as the Municipal Electric Commission displayed when it finally decided to instal a "great white way".

Steps toward the desired end should be taken next week, not next month; and the poles should come down now, not next year. "Next month" and "next year" are too will-o'-the-wipish to suit the temper of the people of Ottawa.

The offending poles belong to the G. N. W. Telegraph Company, under lease from the Bell Telephone Company. These Companies claim certain rights, obtained years ago, when Ottawa was a one-horse town. We cannot believe that they are so looking in public spirit as to stand in the way of eliminating an obstacle to civic development; but if they are, then the people of Ottawa will know how to deal with them. They may find in the end that it is more costly to resist progress than to get into the band wagon with the procession.

And while we are on this subject, there ought to be a more strict superintendence by city officials of the erection of new poles in residential districts. What sort of justice is it that permits a corporation to erect an ugly, crooked pole right in front of a man's house or on his lawn, as in some cases? We have been closing our eyes to these things too long. We are, on the one hand, spending hundreds of thousands of the people's money on the beautification of Ottawa, and on the other, allowing the [illegible] of valuable franchises [illegible] by the people. [illegible] that beauty.

CURED OF CONSTIPATON

Mr. Andrews praises Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Mr. George Andrews of Halifax, N.S., writes:

"For many years I have been troubled with chronic Constipation. This ailment never comes single-handed, and I have been a victim to the many illnesses that constipation brings in its train. Medicine after medicine I have taken in order to find relief, but one and all left me in the same hopeless condition. It seemed that nothing would expel from me the one ailment that caused so much trouble, yet at last I read about these Indian Root Pills.

That was indeed a lucky day for me, for I was so impressed with the statements made that I determined to give them a fair trial.

They have regulated my stomach and bowels. I am cured of constipation, and I claim they have no equal as a medicine."

For over half a century Dr Morse's Indian Root Pills have been curing constipation and clogged, inactive kidneys, with all the ailments which result from them. They cleanse the whole system and purify the blood. Sold everywhere at 25c. a box.

By John T. McIntyre. Copyrighted and All Rights Reserved

"A man who has disappeared as completely as this one has done," stated Tobin, "is out of the reach of even the best of friends."

"Have you not heard from him since the murder?"

"No," replied the other with a readiness that carried conviction.

"Then you will, and before long." Ashton-Kirk arose and stood looking into the old man's face. "Perhaps it will be to-night; but it will be by to-morrow night at latest. And when you do you can best show your friendship for him by telling him not to be a fool."

"You mean," said Tobin, shrewdly, "that I'm to advise him to give over hiding."

"Exactly."

"I'll do that willingly enough, if I hear of him. An innocent man has no call to hide himself like a rat. But," inquiringly, "after I tell him that, what will I do?"

Ashton-Kirk took out a card, handing it to the other, he said:

"Ask him to come see me."

Tobin gave the card one glance, then his face lit up and his hand went out.

"Let me shake your hand, sir," said he. "And I'll tell the lad what you say with a heart and a half."

CHAPTER XXI.

ASHTON-KIRK BEGINS TO PLAN

As Ashton-Kirk and Pendleton left the "Raugnow" the latter said:

"You surely do not suppose that Morris will call on you?"

"Why not?"

"It does not sound reasonable."

"A day or two ago I would have said the same. But things are taking on a different aspect. And with their change, Morris will change. He had no idea of what was to come, or he would not have done what he has done."

"No criminal would," said Pendleton.

Ashton-Kirk shrugged his shoulders at this, but made no direct reply.

"And now, if these newspapers, with all their pointed references to Edyth Vale, do not make the man come forward," he went on, "what is about to happen—say within the next forty-eight hours—will be sure to do so."

Pendleton turned a surprised look upon him.

"You think, then, that something unusual is about to happen?"

"I know there is," was the quiet reply. "To-night, old chap, has been most prolific in results. It has indicated why the murder was done; it has suggested the identity of the actual murderer; it has even pointed out the spot upon which we shall finally take him."

"You really mean all that?" cried Pendleton, incredulously.

"I do."

"Then you must have learned it at some time while I was not—" here Pendleton paused, and then proceeded in another tone, "But you have not been out of my sight since dinner. Everything you have heard, I have heard; all that you have seen I have seen."

"Just so," said Ashton-Kirk.

There was a pause; they walked along toward the place where they were to get a street car. At length Pendleton spoke once more.

"And from the rather bald reports of your two assistants, and the talk of this man, Tobin, you have gathered these most vital facts?"

"We can hardly call them facts as yet," said the other; "but I have every confidence that we can do so within the time specified."

A gong sounded sharply and a car crossed the street. Pendleton placed his hand upon his friend's shoulder. "Look," said he, "I am not going to ask another question. I'm just going to wait, and if it turns out as you say, I'll never question a statement of yours as long as I live. I'll swallow them all as the Musulman swallows the Koran."

They boarded the car and Ashton-Kirk settled himself in a corner. His arms were folded across his chest, his head gradually sank forward. To all appearances he was asleep; but Pendleton knew that he was merely turning over some plan of action that would, in a little time, begin to reveal itself.

However, he was not prepared for such quick action as resulted, for suddenly Ashton-Kirk jumped up, glanced out at the car window, then darted to the platform and leaped off. Pendleton followed at once, and came up with him part way down an intersecting street.

"Where to now?" he asked.

"City Hall," replied Ashton-Kirk, curtly.

It was no great distance to the municipal buildings; they shot up the elevator and entered the police department.

MAYOR MORROW ENTERTAINS AT INAUGURAL BANQUET OF COUNCIL

large, too unwieldy to accomplish the best results. If much smaller in numbers it would expend the city's money much more economically. The expenditure controllable by the Council was not large; of the $180,000 taxes, only about $30,000 was directly controlled by the Council, the rest went to the schools, interest and sinking fund, the payment of officials, etc. In one town, not more than thirty or forty miles from Peterborough, the controllable expenditure was not over $3,000 a year. The term of office was too short. Two years were better than one, but he thought four or five years would be better than two. The men chosen should be paid adequate salaries. It was most absurd for the people to ask men to give their talent and to give good streets and take care of important matters without any recompense whatever. The township councils and the large cities were given power to pay their representatives, why should cities of 17,000 not have the same opportunity.

Mr. Moore took up the Des Moines plan of Government by Commission, and dealt with the law in this case in force in the State of Iowa. He showed that the interests of the people were safe guarded in three ways—by recall, initiative and referendum. Such a system, however, might not be much better than the Ontario law in this respect, provided the size of the Council was reduced, the term of office made longer and the Commissioners were paid.

Civic Aesthetics.

Mr. D. W. Dumble, followed with an address upon "Civic Aesthetics," his remarks being followed with great interest by the gathering. Twenty years ago, he said, he stood before the Council and beseought them with all the eloquence at his command, when lands were cheap, to buy a number of little half-lots for the children to play on. This request had not ben complied with, and so it was the case that children had no place to play. If they walked half a mile or more to Nicholls' Oval they would find it in possession of the older children. What was wanted was play-grounds right in their midst, where the children could walk in and take possession, and tell you to keep off the grass. Strangers often commented upon the good houses Peterborough had for its working class. There was no slum district, but the speaker wanted to know why the houses were all alike. Roofs were alike, the verandahs alike, the paint and gables alike. Row after row, and street after street of the same identical house—the uniformity was becoming obnoxious.

Strangers coming to Peterborough were impressed with the natural beauties of the place. The city had its seven hills, like old Rome, and if these would do for nothing else they would, perhaps, some day, serve for fortifications. There were hills and valleys, a beautiful river, and other requisites of a beautiful city. There was one thing lacking, however, a pretty, safe drive-way around the city. There were so many railway crossings in the city that it interfered considerably with the pleasure of driving. The speaker suggested that a committee, composed of men of judgment, skill and taste be selected to act in conjuction with members of the City Council to arrange a driveway. He pointed out that such a drive-way might commence on McDonnell street, along that thoroughfare to Park St. then to Jackson Park, through that pretty spot, along the Boundary Road to Homewood avenue, or Gilmour street; from there down to Romaine street to the cemetery, and then across the Locks'-bridge to Downer's Corners, up through the East Ward, towards the lift lock, along Concession street to Nicholls' Oval, across the Smith street bridge to Barnardo avenue down past the Normal School and back to the centre of the city again By judicial, wise methods of planting trees, making good roads and boulevards, the work could be cheaply and satisfactorily accomplished.

To Boom a City.

Industrial Commissioner Duggan was called upon to give an address upon the subject of booming a city.

There was nothing more injurious he said, than a boom in the ordinary conception of the word. Booms are their reaction had been in Canada before, the Commissioner instancing the boom in Toronto in 1888 and in Winnipeg in 1906. What was wanted was to build up certain economic conditions.

In the first place it was necessary for a city to be a good distributing point. Geographically, Peterborough was ideally situated near the centre of poulation with plenty of railway facilities. The city needed all the railways that she could get. The Canadian Northern was to come within thirty miles of Peterborough and at earnest effort should be made to convince the company that they should come to Peterborough. The possible development of a suburban trolley system was also to be taken into consideration. Labour conditions were another point in the growth of a city and Mr. Duggan pointed out that for the same wage many people living in crowded tenements in cities like New York could live much more comfortably in Peterborough.

A third great element was power The city had power from the Electric Power Co. at $20 per horse power It seemed to him that the council could very profitably devote their attention to an investigation as to whether or not they could provide power cheaper than $20. He was not prepared to say that they could; at the same time he was not prepared to say that they could not. There had been opportunities in the past which if taken advantage of would have enabled the city to furnish power less than $20. The Commissioner pointed out the manner in which industries decided upon their location. They had to consider the questions of where they would get their raw material, where their market would be the shipping facilities, the power prospects, the labour conditions. For instance Peterborough could not expect to land iron and steel industries but on the other hand was a logical location for milling companies, woodworking concerns, etc. In conclusion the Commissioner remarked that the city was often offered impossible propositions by manufacturers who wanted all kinds of unreasonable help.

Sanitary Requirements.

Dr. A. W. McPherson, the city's medical health officer spoke on Sanitary Requirements. In commencing his address he pointed out that while a great deal of this work fell upon the Board of Health, there were certain points in which the Council had to take the initiative and he was glad they had recognized the importance of the work by inviting the medical health officer to address them Dr McPhgrson showed the awakening everywhere to the necessity, if only from a monetary standpoint of a still better system of sanitation. He exampled the methods of the Japanese in the Russian-Japanese war, the conditions along the Panama Canal, and the Commissions appointed by the Ontario Legislature and the Dominion government. The health of a city had a definite relationship to the water supply and Peterborough was fortunate in having good pure water. There had been little or no typhoid fever in the city for the past year, good evidence that the water supply was all right However the health authorities had to see also that the people who did not use city water were protected in their water supply. Landlords were often careless in such matters and the health officials had to act.

The health department should look after the bread, meats, fruit, ice cream plants Bakeries should be inspected, fruit stores examined and other places where foods were prepared and offered for sale thoroughly looked after The supply of milk was perhaps most important of all, as it was so largely used for food not only for infants but by adults as well It was so easily contaminated and boiling altered its nutritive value and the eggs with which it was dosed. The inspection of the milk supply from the cow until it was delivered at the door was an absolute necessity the health officer contended.

Mr MacPherson strongly urged the appointment of a medical officer for Peterborough who could look after these important branches of work and the general question of sanitation and health. He also recommended the printing of health by-laws so that the citizens would know just what they were.

An Ex-Mayor Speaks.

Mr. Jas. Kendry, one of the city ex-Mayors was next called upon. He expressed his pleasure at being in such good company and hoped that the present year would be the most successful and prosperous that the city had ever had. He had been a manufacturer in Peterborough for a good many years and thought that this city had a good many advantages that other places had not. While other places might supply power at $10 per horse power still Peterborough was fortunate in being able to procure it at $20 because it must be taken into consideration that in the other cases the power was only used during the day time while here power was supplied for twenty-four hours. Peterborough was centrally located had never had any serious labour troubles, and had admirable shipping facilities. He hoped the Council would be successful in securing many new industries during the year.

Toast to His Worship the Mayor.

The vice-chairman, Ald. Bradburn, proposed the health of His Worship, Mayor Morrow, which was enthusiastically honoured, the gathering singing "He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and giving three cheers and a tiger for the Mayor.

Mayor Morrow in response thanked the speakers of the evening for their addresses. Many helpful points had been touched upon which he hoped would bear fruit during the year. However it should be taken into account that while there were a great many things that the council would like to see accomplished they had to take into consideration the fact that there was only a certain amount to spend and this had to be used as economically as possible. In the last three years the tax rate had increased from 18 to 22 1-2 mills, chiefly caused by expenditures upon the schools. In 1907 the demand for schools was $35,000; in 1911 it was $62,000, nearly double. Peterborough had spent money wisely and well on sidewalks and sewers. They had forty miles of pavements out of 64 miles of streets The yearly expenditure on sewers was about equal that on sidewalks. His Worship took up the question of the necessity of a new city hall for Peterborough. The City Trust Commission had accumulated some $40,000, mainly from a mortgage held by the city on the old Midland railway and by using this and selling some of the city property the new building could be constructed without much increase in the rate.

The banquet was brought to a close with the singing of the national anthem.

Funeral Of Veteran Of The Crimean War And Long Resident Of This City

The funeral of the late Mr. Thomas Theobald was held yesterday morning from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. E. J. McDonnell, Romaine street, to St. Peters cemetery, after a requiem service in the Church of the Sacred Heart The deceased was one of Peterborough's long resident citizens. His was the first house on Albert street which a half century ago was, like the most of the other streets in the south ward, a mere path in the unbroken woods. For practically forty-seven years the late Mr. Theobald resided continuously on Albert street until a few years ago, when his property was absorbed with that of his neighbours', for the C. G. E. extension scheme. Four decades ago, all the land adjacent to the C.G.E. was a marsh or swale and was of little or no value until what was known as the Edison drain was built. Present dwellers hardly appreciate the fact that it is only a short time since the land on which the city has risen was cleared of its primeval wilderness and the old guard who laboured in the task are fast disappearing.

The late Mr. Theobald, was born at Faversham, in the county of Kent, Eng., in the year 1825. In his early life he saw eighteen years' active service as a regular soldier, the most strenuous of which was in the Crimean war. The engagements at the Alma, Balaklava and Inkerman and before Sebastapol were among his most vivid recollections, and during one winter he was detailed to hospital duty, where he was an eye witness of the awful and fatal work of cholera which raged through the ranks He was also at Quebec, Halifax and Kingston with the garrison and at the latter place was married in 1851. His wife predeceased him Feb. 17th, 1904. At the conclusion of the war in the Crimea, Mr. Theobald retired from the service, a corporal, and in 1857 emigrated to Canada, settling in Peterborough. For many years the deceased was an employee of the Peter Hamilton Mfg. Co., until 1907.

The surviving children are John and Charles of Peterborough; Thomas, of West Union, Iowa; Edward, of Hawk Eye, Ill.; Mrs. Jas. Finn and Mrs. E. J. McDonnell, of Peterborough and Mrs. M Welsh, of Campbellford

ROCHESTER NEWSPAPER MAN SEEKS INFORMATION OF HIS MISSING WIFE

Is Supposed to be In or Around Peterborough and Definite Intelligence of Her Whereabouts is Being Sought---Thought to be in the Company of a Jewess Who is a Hair-dresser.

Any person who is in a position to supply information in regard to the matter referred to in the following letter is asked to communicate with the Examiner: :

Editor, Daily, Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir and Brother,—I am a newspaper man. Will you help me to find my wife?

Last July a Hebrew, named Philip Wolberg committed suicide at Lindsay, Ont., as a result of receiving a telegram from Sorah Bernstein, the runaway wife of Joseph Bernstein, a produce merchant, of 158 7th ave., New York city, in which she said she did not "love him any more." On his person was also found a telegram dated July 15, at Peterborough, from my wife, signed J. M. H., warning him.

The Bernstein woman was accompanied by a Jew named Hyman, at the time these telegrams were sent from Peterborough. All followed the hairdressing business, and my wife was a pupil, when she was induced to run away with them. They were traced to your town by Joseph Bernstein, but disappeared after the scandal. I firmly believe that my wife, from quixotic notions of love and friendship for the Jewess and her lover, and maybe from a mistaken notion of shielding them, is in hiding with them, not far from Peterborough.

The Bernstein woman is a Juno Jewish dark type, voluptuous, and lustrous eyes. Hyman is of the same type. My wife, Jean Mac Hemming, is petite, black hair, brown hazel eyes, Roman nose, small mouth shell ears, not 5 feet tall, and may pass under the name of Beck.

The only question I want answered is whether or not they attempted to open hairdressing parlours in your town. I am a British subject, as is my wife. If you can recall anything from your files on the suicide, let me know, as it may lead to a clue. I want to save my wife's soul, if I can. Nothing else. Will you help a newspaperman?

Very truly yours,

Charles Davidge Hemming,

839 Granite Building, Rochester, New York, January 9, 1911.

CITY WILL FIGHT THE PROPOSITION OF C.P.R.

Railway Proposes to Close Up Four Streets and Build a Subway at Park Street---The Council Understood the Company Had Agreed to the Closing of Chamberlain St. and a Subway at the Boundary.

At last night's meeting of the City Council a letter was read from the Board of Railway Commissioners calling attention to the fact that the Canadian Pacific Railway desired to close up Stewart, Chamberlain, Townsend and Park streets and construct a subway on Park street. This letter was somewhat of a surprise to the members of the council inasmuch as they had understood that the C.P.R. had agreed to another proposition which was to close up Chamberlain Street only and construct their subway at the Monaghan road. The first proposition received from the company was to close the four streets named and construct their subway at Park street. Later the matter was gone into again between the council and the C.P.R.'s representatives and at that time the city understood that the company had agreed to the closing of Chamberlain Street and the building of a subway at the boundary.

"It looks as if the C.P.R. has taken the matter out of our hands entirely and placed it in with the Railway Commission," remarked Mayor Morrow.

Ald. Duncan moved that the City solicitor and the Mayor be instructed to take the necessary steps to oppose this application of the C.P.R. and at the same time to endeavour to secure better protection for the Aylmer St. crossing. Ald. Graham seconded the motion which was carried.

A communication was also read from the Railway Commission in regard to an application made by the C.P.R. to have Romaine Street diverted so that its crossing with Monaghan road would be south of the C.P.R. tracks and do away with a dangerous crossing at this point.

Correspondence between the City Solicitor and the Commission on this point was read and it was decided on motion that the Mayor and City Solicitor oppose this application before the Railway Commission and also to secure information as to the traffic at this point.

MISS BARBARA TENNANT TO GIVE RECITAL HERE

Miss Tennant (Mrs. Wadeley) Has Consented to Appear in Aid of the King's Daughters—She is a Most Promising and Accomplished Artiste.

HER PUBLIC CAREER

The people of Peterborough are shortly to have a treat, for Barbara Tennant (Mrs. Harold Wadeley) is to give a dramatic recital in the Opera House early in February, to aid the King's Daughters in their work. Miss Tennant previous to coming to Canada, had already made a great reputation in England as an actress, particularly in Shakesperian repertoire, in such leading parts as Juliet, Oberon, Miranda, Puck, Hermia, etc., and Marguerite in "Faust", Lady Teazel in "The School for Scandal". One of the critics, speaking of her as a new Ellen Terry.

She is at the present time giving a series of recitals in the larger Canadian cities and in New York, and we congratulate the King's Daughters in securing the services of so eminent an artist as Barbara Tennant, and the fact of her being a local lady, enhances the interest and encouragement in the work and will insure a bumper house.

Though but young Miss Tennant is one of the most versatile actresses on the stage to-day. Whether she is portraying Shakespeare or Kipling, or Service, or even low comedy, her work is always the same—great. She enthuses a scholar, she grips the men, she sweetens life with her beautiful womanliness, and her splendid voice vibrating with passion or tingling with humour, makes her character live again. One critic wrote of one of her recitals, "How can woman with little or no stage surroundings could portray character after character from Shakespeare to Kipling, from the highest and noblest passion to low comedy, without a leading up to, depending alone on her genius to grip at once, is beyond me. No one but Barbara Tennant could do it."

Miss Tennant made her first public appearance at the very early age of five, at seventeen she was playing the leading part, Gallathea, in the revival of the old play "Gallathea," which was first played before Queen Elizabeth, in 1592.

All that time she had been training under the hardest of masters, to perfect herself in the art which she loves so well, though all her training would have been useless without the great gifts she is endowed with. Her work seems so natural that one may say of this gifted lady—"Her's is the art that conceals art."

Miss Tennant's recital will not be in the form of readings, or mere elocutionary work, but will be a series of dramatic situations, acted as only Barbara Tennant can do.

On July 12th, 1910, after only 19 days' attendance, we placed Mr. Appelle in a splendid position as stenographer in the offices of Mr. Powers, Resident Civil Engineer, of the G. T. Railway offices, Room 401, Union Station. We have since had no less than 14 calls from different officials in the Union Station building, for our stenographers. Is 30-day stenography a dream? Is it a poor, cheap substitute, as some may tell you? If we cannot prove the above to be absolutely true we pay you $500.00 in cash. Moon College, 282-286 Yonge street, Toronto. Mr. Appelle knew nothing of stenography when he enrolled with us.

Lena Ashwell, England's Famous Actress Was Born In Canada

The world is full of queer coincidences—especially the stage world. The coming of Lena Ashwell to the Grand Opera House to-morrow, Wednesday, Jan. 11, brings vividly to mind the fact that the three most prominent women stars in America at the present time, Margaret Anglin, Viola Allen and Lena Ashwell, are bred in the bone, dyed in the wool and Stationers' Hall stamped Canadians.

Miss Ashwell, a daughter of the late Captain Pocock of the Royal Navy, was born at Brockville. Miss Anglin's history is a matter of record and of pride to all Canadians, while Miss Allen received her education at the Bishop Strachan School for Girls College at Yonge street, Toronto. It is another singular coincidence that Miss Ashwell, attended the same school as did Miss Allen, and that many of the amateur entertainers during their tutelage were jointly managed by the two young girls afterwards destined to be such luminous theatrical stars. On the other hand coincidence declares itself again in that when under Charles Frohman's management, Miss Ashwell and Miss Anglin appeared jointly in New York in a series of special performances, alternating by Miss Ashwell's courtesy in the leading roles in "Mrs. Dane's Defence" and "The Shulamite." It is yet another coincidence that all three of these stars, Miss Anglin, Miss Ashwell and Miss Allen, are now under the one and same management, that of Liebler & Company. The coincidence may be still further carried out in that May Irwin, another Canadian product and brilliant stage adornment, is likewise under the Liebler management, and still further there can be added the English names of Olga Nethersole, and Gertrude Elliott the wife of the famous English actor Forbes Robertson. Liebler & Company have also exploited, both in the United States and Canada, Miss Ellis Jeffreys and Mrs. Patrick Campbell. In fact, it would seem as though they had a monopoly of the famous women stars upon the English speaking stage especially those of English birth or present English fame. But if Liebler & Company could be induced to tell their special favourites, the three A's Anglin, Allen and Ashwell, would not be far out of the reckoning. Canada knows and loves both Miss Anglin and Miss Allen, and it is to be hoped that Miss Ashwell as a veritable daughter of the Dominion, will find the same favour at local theatregoers' hands to-morrow evening.

ROCHESTER NEWSPAPER MAN SEEKS INFORMATION OF HIS MISSING WIFE

Is Supposed to be In or Around Peterborough and Definite Intelligence of Her Whereabouts is Being Sought---Thought to be in the Company of a Jewess Who is a Hair-dresser.

Any person who is in a position to supply information in regard to the matter referred to in the following letter is asked to communicate with the Examiner:

Editor, Daily, Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir and Brother,—I am a newspaper man. Will you help me to find my wife?

Last July a Hebrew, named Philip Wolberg committed suicide at Lindsay, Ont., as a result of receiving a telegram from Sorah Bernstein, the runaway wife of Joseph Bernstein, a produce merchant, of 158 7th ave., New York city, in which she said she did not "love him any more." On his person was also found a telegram dated July 15, at Peterborough, from my wife, signed J. M. H., warning him.

The Bernstein woman was accompanied by a Jew named Hyman, at the time these telegrams were sent from Peterborough. All followed the hairdressing business, and my wife was a pupil, when she was induced to run away with them. They were traced to your town by Joseph Bernstein, but disappeared after the scandal. I firmly believe that my wife, from quixotic notions of love and friendship for the Jewess and her lover, and maybe from a mistaken notion of shielding them, is in hiding with them, not far from Peterborough.

The Bernstein woman is a Juno Jewish dark type, voluptuous, and lustrous eyes. Hyman is of the same type. My wife, Jean Mae Hemming, is petite, black hair, brown hazel eyes, Roman nose, small mouth shell ears, not 5 feet tall, and may pass under the name of Beck.

The only question I want answered is whether or not they attempted to open hairdressing parlours in your town. I am a British subject, as is my wife. If you can recall anything from your files on the suicide, let me know, as it may lead to a clue. I want to save my wife's soul, if can. Nothing else. Will you help a newspaperman?

Very truly yours,

Charles Davidge Hemming,

A FEW DOSES WILL REGULATE KIDNEYS

Most Severe Backache, Bladder and Urinary Misery Vanishes

The blessed relief that follows the use of Pape's Diuretic is a revelation to sufferers from backache or kidney bladder and urinary disorders.

The way to cure kidney trouble is while it is only a trouble. Before it settles into Dropsy, Gravel, Diabetes or Bright's Disease.

Pape's Diuretic acts at once upon the kidneys, bladder and urinary system, cleanses, vitalizes and regulates those organs, ducts and glands and completes the cure within a few days. The moment you suspect any kidney or urinary derangement, or feel a backache, dull backache, or the urine is thick, cloudy, offensive or full of sediment, irregular or passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, you should begin taking Pape's Diuretic as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other remedy at any price, made anywhere else in the world, which will give so thorough and prompt a cure.

Misery in the back, sides or loins, sick headache, inflamed or puffy eyelids, nervousness, rheumatism and darting pains, heart palpitations, bilious stomach, Prostatic trouble, dizziness, sleeplessness, Restless, weak, worn-out feeling and other symptoms caused by disorder disease kidneys, simply vanish. Uncontrollable urination (especially at night), scarding, discoloured water and all bladder misery ends.

Your physician, pharmacist, banker or any mercantile agency will vouch for the responsibility of Pape Thompson & Pape of Cincinnati, Ohio who prepare Pape's Diuretic in 50 cent treatment, to be every druggist in the world.

A POEM ON THE RUSH-BAGOT AGREEMENT

Dear Editor, Examiner, City.

The within is a few comments some of my sentiments upon the famous Rush-Bagot Agreement, between the British Empire, Canada, especially included, and the United States. I hope you will be pleased to publish my poem, as I believe it to be in the interest of good morals, and our Empire at large especially Canada.

Believe me, sincerely yours,
John Bell, Peterborough, Ont.

Rush Bagot Agreement

I am your young Dominion,
I'm just a baby now,
If you give me good protection,
A big man I will grow,
Great Britain is my fatherland,
An Empire without end,
My lands are situated grand,
And easy to defend

I am your young Dominion,
Don't take me for a clam;
I give you my opinion,
Beware of Uncle Sam,
His low acts of violation,
On the Great Lakes should cease,
In the honour of his nation
And century of peace,

I am your young Dominion,
No reciprocity,
Rush-Bagot situation,
Is a warning to me,
Warships on the Great Lakes are seen
I count them three times three,
Uncle Sam's acts are low and mean,
As far as I can see.

My Ministers will build just so
A deep Welland Canal
So that warships from Buffalo
Will pass through big and tall,
My Ministers seem to work right well
I think for Uncle Sam,
I cannot help my whining mood,
All seems to me a sham.

MR. SIFTON'S OBJECTIONS TO TRADE TREATY WITH U. S.

If Honestly Carried Out Would Lead to Annexation---Otherwise Might Prove a Cause of Serious Friction.

MONTREAL, JAN. 9—That the present is not the time to let down the bars of trade and turn Canada's natural resources over to the United States, was the opinion expressed at the weekly luncheon of the Canadian Club today by Hon. Clifford Sifton, Chairman of the Dominion Conservation Commission, and a former member of the Laurier Government. His audience was composed of the leading bankers and business men of Montreal, as well as Senators and members of Parliament, and they cheered the sentiment to the echo.

Mr. Sifton was careful to state that his views on reciprocity were simply his own—quite apart from political affiliations, and possibly out of harmony with the views of many in both of the great parties.

"If it is true," he said, "that it is essential in the interests of this Dominion of Canada that we should conserve our resources and work out carefully, painfully, and slowly the best method of making them available in order that we may have a strong, virile and well-nourished population, it must be clear that this is not the time to take down the bars and turn these resources over to the United States. It would be altogether apart from my duty to discuss the political or national aspects of this question, but perhaps you will pardon me if I express my own conviction. It is this: 'If we enter upon trade relations of an extensive character with the United States, and if the most favourable anticipations which can be entertained turn out to be well-founded, and our friends south of the line use us well and give us the necessary time we ask for, what is the inevitable conclusion? Must not our trade and business and very life become mixed with theirs, so that we shall become increasingly dependent upon them, with the ultimate end of political union? If this favourable anticipation is not realized, and they will not treat us well, and want to grab and quibble on the interpretation of any reciprocity treaty, what will that mean? It will simply mean that ten or fifteen years from now we shall have to begin all over again, just where we are now, and start once again to put ourselves right. I do not hold with those who say that those who are opposed to a trade treaty between Canada and the United States are opposed to good relations between the two countries. On the contrary, my view is that the best way of continuing good relations between Canada and the United States is that each should do its own business independently and have no entanglements—nothing in the world to quarrel about.'"

POULTRY SHOW BIGGEST SUCCESS ON RECORD OVER 1,000 BIRDS SHOWN

And All the Entries Are Not Yet In —Mr. John Bennett, of Toronto, the Judge—Enthusiastic Over the Quality of the Birds.

SHOULD NOT BE MISSED

The Peterborough Poultry Association are holding their annual show in the Market Hall today, being the first day of the open show. This is the third annual exhibition, and is a brilliant success, even greater this year than the two former years. There are already over 1,000 birds on exhibition and further entries are rapidly being made. This is over 400 more entries than last year, besides what has yet to come. The Buff Orpingtons and White Wyandottes are so far among the more popular entries, and are being much more largely represented than the other fowl. There is no lack of variety, however, all the different breeds being well represented. There is ample accommodation for 1500 birds in the show room, and the spare one new coops are also adding much to the showing off of the birds. The fowl will be judged by Mr. Joseph Bennett, of Toronto, who has officiated at the former shows. Mr. Bennet's keen interest in poultry and his judging ability makes him very popular among the poultry enthusiasts and no doubt the exhibitors will be glad to learn that Mr. Bennet is the officiating judge again this year. Many local entries are being made, including a fine representation of White Rocks from the Peterborough Fire Dept. Several dressed birds are shown, as an example of "How the turkey should be dressed, starved and undrawn, with head, flight and tail feathers left intact."

The judging did not commence today on account of all the birds not being cooped and all entries not being made, but this will be proceeded with to-morrow. School children will be admitted from 4 o'clock until 7 o'clock for 5c. No doubt a large number will take advantage of the opportunity.

Expressing his opinion on the whole of the birds, the judge, in conversation with an Examiner representative today, stated that they were of a far higher class than former years and that the show in general will be a great success. Everybody should grasp the opportunity of seeing this fine exhibition of birds and poultry enthusiasts especially should not miss it.

Is it true that Alderman Bradburn is directly or indirectly interested in the success or failure of three liquor businesses in Peterborough?

If this be so, is this the reason why he exhibits such animosity to the T. A. S. a society which has done, and is doing, so much for temperance in Peterborough and the lessening of the drink evil and its terrible consequences.

It was moved by Ald. Graham, seconded by Ald. Duncan, that this committee recommend that the Council do not object to the Canadian Pacific Railway reconstructing the overhead bridge over their track at George street on Plan 12A at right angles to their track instead of diagonally across it as at present, provided the property owners are satisfied and without recognizing George street as a public thoroughfare.

PETERBORO' INTERMEDIATES' GOOD START BEAT COBOURG IN AN UP-HILL BATTLE

Blue and White Team Had to Come From Behind to Trim Lake Shore Bunch—Game Was Fast All the Way and Not Overly Clean.

THE STORY OF THE PLAY

Believe us and the Big Seven that went to Cobourg yesterday intent on upholding the honor of the old blue and white, that game last night was a corker.

That 5-4 score at half time with Georgie Scott's old war horses on the big end was earned only after thirty minutes of real hockey, fast and furious and the final count 9—7, tells of another half hour featured by some more of the same kind of winter sport.

The great finish of the Peterborough septette in the last twenty minutes of the game, after it had been tied in two sevens, on a terrific rush by "Bud" Kelly, was expected by the players themselves right up to this period. Not a dismal note was heard during the half time breathing spell. It was all—the game is ours, and it was.

The summary shows a saw-saw scene and such was the contest.

Cobourg got off to a good lead right off the handle, taking the first three goals. They checked the visitors to a standstill, and rarely did a player get away for any distance. For nearly 20 minutes Paton, in goal, wasn't called upon to handle a shot. Then Denison put one over at him, which he blocked. The next however, by the same player, went right on through. This was followed in two minutes by another by Dobson, and then the unlooked for happened. Derocher, who was stopping every old kind and in every old way, went down after a low one. Referee McCord chased him to the timekeeper for one minute on a decision that Laj. went down on his knees. He didn't, though, but while he reviewed the battle two scores went in, giving the enemy a healthy 5-2 count. Right here, however, the locals didn't fall down even a little bit. They kept pegging away, and "Denny" took another and Heffernan made it 5—4.

Denison tied the score one minute after resuming play, and Doheny sent his bunch ahead again. "Dobbie" got it back, and Cobourg took the lead again on a score by Lavis, but the team were now being chased to cover. The combination of the locals which in the earlier stages of the game were lacking came to the front and with the fading of the opposing line they had the game cinched.

The contest was truly a great one for the spectators, who were kept on edge for every minute of the hour's play, but it wasn't a healthy one for the players, particularly those of the visiting team. With the exception of Derocher every man was marked up. Cobourg's chief inclination was to unload a bunch of tricks at which each was proficient, and in the sleight-of-hand order. They got away with most of them too and yet for the smallest offence the Peterborough team suffered. It looked just a little like a case of rubbing it in but such is the game.

Derocher certainly deserves a hand for his work last night. He was at his best. In front of him, Bond, despite an injured thumb, played a strong game, getting in the line of a number of shots, turning well meant and combined plays into the corner, and also taking an occasional rush. Heffernan started off at rover, but in the second half went back to cover, Denison taking the position. These two players were great although there was a tendency on their part to roam and leave Bond alone. With the fierce checking of the Cobourg line this was rather disastrous. Each, however, rushed and handled himself in a way that would bring a yell from any crowd outside of one from Cobourg.

Dobson never played a better game in centre ice. For his effective work at his position much credit is due him. He had a hard man in Payne to work against, but he never let up for a minute and his back checking was classy throughout. Sorel and Kelly were watched by pairs in the first half but in the second period had it on their checks and once the team got going each showed his class. Kelly's shooting in the closing spasms went all to the good.

For Cobourg Paton in goal picked off a lot of hard ones and Hand at point, was always in the game, tearing away for a number of long rushes. Payne and Lavis at centre and rover were the two to watch and their work throughout was always in evidence. Of the two wings Doheny was the stronger man.

The teams were:—

	COBOURG
	Paton
	Hand
	Nicholson
	Lavis
Doheny	Payne	Crowther
Kelly	Dobson	Sorel
	Heffernan
	Denison
	Bond
	Derocher
	PETERBOROUGH

It was 8.47 when the referee started the teams away, Bond and Kelly started off with rushes but there was nothing but excitement. Denison took the first shot of the game, but the rubber went wild. Payne drew first penalty for getting Heffernan as he rushed the boards and he was joined by Sorel after play was resumed. Kelly was doing a lot of work but his check was watching him closely, in fact the checking of Cobourg was the best. Bond started into and blocked a three-man rush, chasing the play into the corner. Lavis became unruly and took the boards. Derocher stuck out his chest against a couple of hard ones and appeared to be right on. Hand tried a loner from his position, but was sidetracked by Bond and in working against the return the former drew a penalty for slashing. Very little combination was being worked as a result of the close checking in which the home team were starring. So far Denison was the only man to put one over at Paton in the nets. "Denny" stopped Crowther and went off. Paton made a pretty stop of Dobson's choice one and finally Payne got away, taking the puck to Peterborough goal, where Crowther scored in a scrimmage.

Kelly went to the penalty men for tripping and Denison and Dobson combined in vain the play going to the bad with the Cobourg defence men beaten. Derocher was kept busy but it was up to Payne from another scrimmage and the score stood

Cobourg 2. Peterborough 0

After the face off Denison and Heffernan too roughty and Sorel bourg couldn't score. The game was very fast and Referee McCord had a busy session. Peterborough were shy on combination and their opponents had the better of the shooting. Dobson missed a chance and Hand securing tore off a lone rush and the nets bulged Cobourg 3, Peterborough 0.

Doheny had a great chance to add another, but fell down in front of the goal. Derocher pulled off a clap winning stop and to keep up the excitement Denison started the play and scored the first goal for the Peterborough team. He passed to Heffernan, who returned and the disc connected with the netting. Cobourg 3, Peterborough 1.

Payne took a penalty for handling Heffernan too roughly and Sorel's shot went wide. Denison, Dobson and Kelly figured in the next score, Dobson, who was working at his position as never before, finding the net. Cobourg, 3; Peterborough, 2.

The Petes kept on pressing and turned the assault on the Cobourg goals. The team was working together better. Bond stopped one with his nose and Derocher used his pads on the next and Dobson and Sorel combined in a pretty play, but Nicholson and Hand were in the road. Another shot, which Derocher went down after and he was sent to the box by the referee for one minute. During his absence Lavis got two counters in and the score stood Cobourg, 5; Peterborough, 2.

With Derocher back in goal, Denison, who was playing a star game, sent the brace of counters into a couple tally. Cobourg, 5, Peterboro, 3. Heffernan, Kelly and Sorel tore away, but the former missed the nets. Hand went to the box after pulling off one of the many tricks of the game assortment, in the possession of the Lakeside crew. "Denny" tried it alone and in losing, behaved wisely but not well. He was followed by Crowther. Sorel made a pretty board rush and shot dead on Paton who blocked neatly. Payne was chased for acting too strenuously and Heffernan, who had now gone back to cover shot from the side and his team was once one behind.

Half time another. Get Denny got the nod and was penalized. Paton was called upon to save badly on two shots. Sorel and Kelly tied the match. Heffernan, Kelly and Sorel even up but half-time was called with the play in Cobourg territory.

SECOND HALF

Bothe teams started in again at a fast clip, and in one minute from a hot scrimmage in front of Paton, Denisen tied the score and there was joy in the hearts of the faithful few. Lavis had a great chance to put his team ahead again but the puck missed the nets in his shot by inches. The pace was a hard one and the attendance was being treated to an exciting exhibition of the winter game. Combination work was becoming more in evidence ,but the nifty work of Denison and Heffernan and the defence of Cobourg, placed tallies at a premium. Both goal tenders were working in good trim and it had to be a good clean shot to beat either. Referee McCord had warned the players during the half-time period that he intended shutting down on lenient penalties for infractions and the teams were behaving better although Cobourg put over a whole lot of fancy work that doesn't figure in the rule books. Doheny sent his team to the front again with a shot into the corner of the nets.

This made the Petes all the more aggressive and an assault was made on the opposing nets. Dobson got nicely away, but there was nothing doing. Sorel took a rest for a minor offence. Lavis returned the puck and shot wild. The rubber was worked up again and Dobson was right in front and on the job during a lively scrimmage, batting the puck and the score was tied again. Cobourg, 6; Peterborough, 6.

The Blue and White were slowly but surely winning the day, despite another tally by Lavis on a neat rush. Cobourg, 7; Peterborough, 6. Peterboro looked the team to win. Denison was keeping up his good work, with Heffernan doing his prettiest, ly was pegging away at his wing, not in the least bothered by the terrific going. He secured and what looked like a score, went to the bad, when Denison missed the pass in front of the nets. On the return Crowthers missed with his scoop and Kelly took the puck from in front of Derocher, and tearing up the boards, let drive one of those hot ones which went a little high. Lavis went off for tripping. Payne missed a nice chance and then Kelly took possession, went up the ice again alone and shook the netting with a wicked shot. Again the score was tied for the last time.

Sorel, Heffernan and Kelly were in thenext counter, which Kelly secured and number nine went to Dobson. The teams kept at it hard, right up to the finish, but the play was in favour of Peterborough till the bell rang.

SOME HOCKEY HAPPENINGS

Off to the flying start in the Intermediate district as well as in the Junior.

The Petes showed their class by winning an up-hill fight in Cobourg last night. They had to come from behind in the face of a lot of rough work, and won out on the bit. Most of them have a souvenir or two of the trip.

Two of Cobourg's goals were scored while Derocher was on the fence. He was given a minute for kneeling, but the Peterborough people who were present say that he did not earn the penalty.

The Intermediates followed the example set by the Griffers of winning away from home. Like the Griffers, too, they were behind at the half, and had to pull out in the second half.

The Junior O H A team will practice to-night at 7 o'clock. The following men and these men ONLY are asked to be out—Patterson, Reynolds, Heffernan, Coughlin, Hall, McMartin, Matthews and Anderson.

A very interesting game of hockey took place last night at the Brock street rink between the Pillpounders and the Never Sweats of the C G E works. The game resulted in a tie one goal being 1-1. The teams lined up as follows:

Never Sweats.

Ground Hog Condon—point.
Spud Artist Coughlin—Cover.
Heart Crusher Hillier—centre.
Box Car LeBar, rover.
Big Noise Baird, left wing.
Handsome Tin Ribs J. Mahoney.
The time-keepr was there with his eight-day clock.

Pill Pounders.

The Pill Pounders lined us as follows: McAfee, Ross, Brady, Halpin, Thompson, Mein.

BELLEVILLE, JAN 9.—(Special.)—A close game was played here this evening between the Trenton and Belleville intermediate O. H. A. teams. In the first half, when the score was 5 to 2, in Belleville's favour, it was thought to be an easy win for the locals. In the second half Trenton came up the ice strong, and in a few minutes scored four goals, not only tieing the score but having one goal to the good. Belleville then secured an additional goal, making the score 6to 6. Shortly before time was up Trenton again found the net, winning the game by a score of 7 to 6. It was a fast and fairly clean game, the penalties being about evenly divided. A large crowd of spectators were present. At half time the Trenton backers had such confidence in their team that they wagered money that they would win out. The line-up.

Referee—Sproule, Toronto.

SIX PEOPLE WERE BURIED

In the Big Fire at Cincinnati Yesterday —Slow in Getting Out

Special to The Examiner:

CINCINNATI, OHIO, JAN. 4.—Later reports indicate that 6 bodies were buried under the ruins of the seven story steel and granite chamber of Commerce building, destroyed by fire while two banquets were in progress last night. The casualties resulted from people being slow in getting out, thinking that the building was supposedly fire proof and couldn't collapse.

MONTREAL, JAN. 11.—After a long conference between the Rev. Dr. Shearer, secretary of the Presbyterian moral reform and the local church authorities it has been decided to establish a system of church settlements in an endeavour to redeem the lower sections of Montreal. In an interview Dr. Shearer declared that the white slave traffic was deplorably existent to a great extent in various parts of Canada.

CLEVER GOATS

Do a Variety of Wonderful Tricks at the Royal Theatre

The splendid act by Mr Herb. Kendry's troupe of trained goats at the Royal theatre this week has earned the unqualified admiration of all who have seen them. The clever animals are in charge of Master Prince and Miss Wynn and perform a score of tricks that bring down the house. They roll barrels backwards and forwards and jump through them, one of them sits for his photograph while another manipulates the camera, and a third butts into the game by upsetting the fixtures. One goat walks up a flight of steps backwards and then completes the astonishing feat of walking across a narrow pole high over the stage. A more clever animal act has rarely been seen here and no one in Peterborough should miss the opportunity of watching the goats at work.

"PAPERS VULGAR, LOW LYING, SENSATIONAL"

Honourable John Burns Says Was the British Press Treatment of Premier Asquith During the Recent Election Campaign---Important Utterance of the Cabinet.

LONDON, ENG., JAN. 11.—A scandal, amounting almost to a national crime, was the way Honourable John Burns characterized the British press for its treatment of Premier Asquith during the recent campaign. Many papers, he said, were vulgar, low, lying and sensational. He declared that the elections had destroyed forever the Lords' veto and side-tracked all pretensions of tariff reform for twenty-five years.

This is the first important utterance of the cabinet since the conclusion of the elections and it is thought presages a vigorous application of veto-destroying legislation, Home Rule and other Liberal principles in the British House of Commons.

OVER 500 MORE ENTRIES THAN LAST YEAR AT THE POULTRY SHOW

Demonstration by Miss Yeats Was a Feature Last Night That Greatly Interested the Gathering.

NOTES OF THE SHOW

The judging of the poultry at the Exhibition in the Market Hall, was begun this morning and a fine array of red cards are showing. A great number of peaple had their most brilliant expectations fulfilled, although the judging is made very difficult, owing to the splendid class of birds. Those who took first prizes may consider their birds as first-class ones, as a bird had to be an exceptionally fine one to do this. The Peterborough Fire Department are to be congratulated upon the success their exhibits attained, taking, as they did, a first, second, and third prize, respectively, for White Rock pullets. Mr. Frank Head of Smith also had a fine showing of Barred Rocks. He got 1st and 3rd for a cock, 1st and 3rd for a hen, 1st, cockerel, and 3rd, pullet. He also got a silver cup for a cockerel, special, and also a special for cock and hen.

The members and officials of the Peterborough Poultry Association are greatly elated at the brilliant success of their exhibition, and some are of the opinion that if the Association continues to prosper that it will require two judges next year; and some venture to remark that if the representation next year expands as it has this year, that the Market Hall will not be large enough. These are no idle fears, as the growth of the Association shows. Nearly five hundred entries have been made this year, more than last, and the people are showing more interest and enthusiasm in the progress and exhibition of the Association. The lighting arrangements are also a great improvement on last year, and the improvements in general are a credit to those in authority.

Last Night's Crowd.

A large crowd of people attended last night. The exhibition of how to kill and clean fowl, by Miss Yeates, was much appreciated, and a lot of valuable information was imparted. She took a hen out of a box and killed it by placing its neck between her fingers, putting her thumb underneath its bill and giving it a wrench. After she had broken its neck, it still continued to struggle, but this, she claimed, was not due to any life in the bird, but simply an action caused by the nerves. She immediately pulled all the feathers off and singed the down off, after which she proceeded to dress it. The whole proceeding was very interesting and several of the ladies went forward and made a thorough examination of the dressed bird.

INSURING FAIRS AGAINST RAIN

Department of Agriculture Submits a Plan to the Societies—Not to Exceed $10,000 a Year

TORONTO, JAN. 10.—A plan for insuring the agricultural societies of the Provinces against loss by rain at their annual shows has been submitted to the various secretaries by Mr. J. Lockie Wilson. This will be considered by them at their annual meeting, which will be held in a few weeks, and if the verdict is favorable an Act bringing the scheme into effect will be presented by the Minister to the Legislature during the coming session.

The proposition is as follows: 'In case of the guaranteed by an agricultural society through rainy weather or snowstorms, the Department of Agriculture may, on satisfactory proof, pay the society so affected, an additional grant equal to 50 per cent. of the loss sustained, which shall be payable out of the annual grant to agricultural societies, and such sum shall not exceed $10,000 in any one year. The loss shall be based on the average gate receipts for the three previous years, but in no case shall the grant to the society for this purpose exceed the sum of $300, and it will not be paid until the joint affidavit of the president, secretary and treasurer has been received by me as superintendent, showing that their gate receipts had fallen below the average of the three previous years on account of such bad weather and that the rain, or snow, had fallen previous to 3 p.m. on one of any day of the fair."

The total grant to the fairs has been increased to $75,000, and it is expected that in some seasons the payments for losses by rain will not exceed $1,000. The annual convention of all the societies will be held in the City Hall, Toronto, on February 8 and 9.

SOME QUICK WORK

By the Roy Studio--Photograph of Canadian Club

Mr. Fred Roy of the Roy Studio took a flash-light photograph of the members of the Canadian Club at the dinner at the Hotel National last night and in exactly thirty-five minutes after the flashlight was taken, the finished photograph was on exhibition at the Hotel, and many of the members gave orders for photographs one of which is on exhibition in the Studio window to-day.

KNOX CHURCH.

There will be a mid-week service at Knox church to-night. It will be in the nature of a progress meeting and the presidents of the different organizations will report for the New Year. There will be a meeting of session at 9 o'clock.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet on Thursday in the ladies' parlours at 3 o'clock.

"My education has been interfered with and my eyes have been my handicap all my life long. My parents did not realize this and I did not myself until too late, but I see now that if I could have had suitable glasses in my boyhood, life would have been very different to-day." Many a child is considered slow at school, when suitable glasses is all that interferes with his or her education.

A Tribute To Miss Blodgett

Toronto, Jan. 5th, 1911.

My Dear Madam,—I have been requested by Miss Little, secretary of the Dominion Council of the Y.W.C.A. to state to you that Miss Blodgett, who is to visit Peterborough and hold meetings for women in your city, is personally and most favourably known to me. I met her frequently during the latter part of June and the early days of July last summer while she was conducting a Bible class for young ladies at the Eight House, Lake Joseph, Muskoka, where I was myself doing similar work during the summer convention of the Y.W.C.A. Miss Blodgett is a most careful and acceptable Bible Class teacher. I am sure that all who help forward her work in Peterborough, when they know her personally and see the results of her work will be glad that such a privilege was afforded them. Miss Blodgett has been a guest in my home, and I can speak most favourably of her and her message in every way possible.

Trusting that her visit to Peterborough may accomplish much good,

Believe me,
Very faithfully yours,
T N O'MEARA.

WEDNESDY, JANUARY 11, 1911

HYDRO-ELECTRIC ASKED TO EXPLAIN.

The London Advertiser has found even Jupiter nodding. The Hydro-Electric Commission, in which its admirers find the greatest possible human approximation to perfection and infallibility, is held by the Tiser as guilty of the astigmatism that puts a wobble in the lights o' London. The Advertiser says:

The illumination of the city by Niagara power has been capricious on every windy night since the system was installed. There is no scientific necessity for this. Toronto, which is only 40 miles nearer the Falls than London, has suffered few inconveniences. Syracuse, which is about 40 miles further from the Falls than London, finds Niagara power dependable in all weathers.

The hydro-electric commission should take Ontario municipalities into its confidence. Have there been radical errors in construction? Is it true that the towers are too far apart, and that the transmission wires are blown together in high winds? These defects, if they exist, can be remedied, but the municipalities cannot be asked to defray the cost. Neither can they be fairly required to bear any financial loss until the service is satisfactory. The story of criminal interference with the wires seems incredible. At all costs, the hydro-electric commission must find the cause of the trouble. The present situation is a very anxious one for the municipalities tied to the present scheme. They are entitled to frank explanations.

MR. SIFTON AND CONSERVATION.

The right man in the right place rightly indicates Hon. Clifford Sifton's relation to the Conservation commission, of which he is chairman. He has the breadth of outlook and fairvision of the statesman, the well balanced ardour and courage of the patriot and the executive ability of the minister and man of affairs. His address before the Canadian Club last night, gave his hearers the measure of the man. His effective oratory, his strong grip of his subject, his logical development of it and the soundness and significance of his deductions, all combined to make listening to him a pleasure and a profit. With such a man at the head of the Conservation Commission, its work will not be perfunctory and superficial. Mr. Sifton is a man of mind and a man of deeds combined in forceful proportions. He has keenness of perception, a fine judgment of effects, and the courage to express his convictions. It needs some courage, for a man in so important a position, whose words attract heed and carry weight, to express himself so strongly and unequivocally in relation to a matter of international importance—on reciprocity, even if he only expressed his personal opinion. His references to this subject, may be held to bear a logical relation to his duties as chairman of the Conservation Commission, he perhaps feels as much interest in, and regards as much his duty, the conservation of our trade and, as he sees it menaced, that of our national autonomy as he does the conservation of our pine and, our spruce, of our water power and our minerals. Though in this regard his ideas may be subject to criticism, they give room for thought. Mr Sifton has been one of the makers of Canada. On taking office as Minister of the Interior, he found the Canadian west stagnant and unpeopled. He inaugurated a policy that made Canada and its resources known to the world as it was never before in the matter of potentiality and promise, and started an inflow of population that has continued in growing volume to the present day, with results that can yet be only partially appraised. In this respect, so far as development of natural resources can be associated with conservation, Mr. Sifton began the more specific work of conservation to which he has been called. Mr. Sifton made good in the fullest sense as a cabinet minister, and there is no reason to doubt that he will make good as minister of the most momentous interests of the country — our great national resources.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The farmers of the West had their innings at Ottawa recently, and now the western manufacturers are to have a shy at the Government.

The Mail and Empire thinks "the man with the bomb ought to receive no quarter". Just so; and he should have no quarters in any civilized city, especially London, which has been his resort and refuge too long.

Mr. Borden, leader of the Conservative Opposition, on the principle that a man is known by the company he keeps, is in a way of becoming a great man. He takes rank with Sir James Whitney in escaping responsibilty," by being misquoted by the newspapers.

The Hamilton Spectator thinks Mr. Borden, leader of the Opposition, "a bigger and broader man than the ordinary politician." He would need to be a big man and a conspicuous object to catch the eye, in the course of his kaleidoscopic changes of position in the matter of policy, and a broader man than the ordinary to cover the diverging range of policies he affects.

The Mail and Empire reduces Mr. Borden's proposal of a referendum on the naval question, to reference t othe people at a general election. If Mr. Borden's amendment to the address in reply meant only that, it was flippant and superfluous, for in the course of events it would automatically become subject to popular judgment at a general election without a null and meaningless amendment, born of party tactics.

The Toronto Street Railway Company incurs a risk of being hanged, drawn and quartered. A Toronto grand jury has returned a "true bill" on an indictment charging it with being negligent in avoiding destruction of human life, neglecting to provide careful operators and proper fenders, etc., to the danger and loss of life of citizens. In the three past years sixteen deaths are attributed to this neglect—seven in 1908; four in 1909, and five in 1910. Before 1921 the Toronto Street Railway will find somebody or something to put the brakes on it.

TWO CONSTITUTIONS.

(London Advertiser)

The present trade negotiations between the Ottawa and Washington Governments have again brought to general attention the intrinsic differences between the Canadian and the American constitutions. In the United States the acceptance of a draft treaty by the President and his Cabinet is no assurance that it will go on the statute books. It must be first ratified by a two-thirds vote of the Senate, and the United States Senate has a reputation as a treaty-wrecking body.

The division of powers which was originally intended to give a conservative bias to the American constitution has very serious drawbacks. The electors cannot concentrate responsibility upon any one branch of government, and hence cannot bring to task the men who are really to blame for blocking the will and purpose of the people. It is different in Canada. If the Canadian Government accepts a trade agreement, negotiated by its representatives, it is morally certain that the agreement will be translated into law. The Government stakes its existence upon the adoption of the treaty. If Parliament will not pass it, there is an immediate appeal to the people. The executive and the legislative powers must be in harmony.

Prof. H. J. Ford, of Princeton University, contributes a pertinent article to the January Scribner's, in which he declares that the separation of these powers in the United States is intrinsically undesirable and harmful. Entrenched, as this doctrine is, in long tradition, it has become a baneful superstition, which paralyzes initiative, diffuses where it ought to concentrate responsibility, and becomes a serious drag on legislative progress. Moreover, Prof. Ford urges that it is an active source of political corruption. The New York Nation says the theory is breaking down, adding:

"We see it here quietly abandoned, there openly ignored. The commission form of municipal government, of which the vogue seems to be steadily on the increase, is a direct denial of the sacredness of the separation of powers. And in state administration we more and more intrust [illegible] executives [illegible] to take part in the work [illegible]

Relative Rights Of Manufacturers And Members Of Farming Community

(Manitoba Free Press.)

Elsewhere the Free Press publishes a fairly complete reoprt of the address to the Canadian Club of Toronto by T. A. Russell, chairman of the Tariff committee of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, which was intended to be a reply to the representations made to the Dominion Government by the farmers, with respect to the tariff and reciprocity. Mr. Russell is not to be congratulated upon the tactful manner in which he set about his task of demonstrating to the farmers that they are mistaken in their demands upon the Government. He pleads for a better understanding between the manufacturers and the farmers, but his address is not likely to be effective in furthering the desired understanding. There is a portion of Mr. Russell's address, in which he discussed the propositions submitted to the Government by the farmers on their merits, which suggests that Mr. Russell could, if he set about it, make a formidable argument in support of the thesis that a moderate protective tariff such as we have at present in Canada operates to the greatest good of the greatest number, and makes possible an all round national development not obtainable under any other system. Mr. Russell gave himself, however, very little space for an argument of this character, by devoting the opening part of his speech to a criticism, which was by no means tactful, of the right of the farmers to make the representations they did; while he closed his address with a lecture to the farmers on the need of intensive cultivation and mixed farming, declaring that this is of more importance than the suggested modification of the tariff. The farmers will resent Mr. Russell's language and will thus be the less ready to give due weight to the arguments which he makes in support of the maintenance of the existing order of things.

It is quite apparent that we have embarked in a tariff discussion which will go to great lengths and will not be without its influence upon the future politics of the Dominion. If the discussion is not to become so embittered as to be valueless, it will be necessary for the disputants to discard some methods of controversy which have become outworn. We particularly urge Easterners who are alarmed at the possibility of fundamental changes in our tariff policy to abandon a line of argument to which they have been prone in the past. It is useless and worse than useless to suggest, as they do, ad nauseam, that the farmers in the West have been specially favoured, and must therefore accept without question the national policies which have been put into operation through the influence of the East. To say that the western farmer ought to be obedient and grateful because he has been given his land by the Dominion; because the East has built railroads to his door; because the whole development of the West, which has resulted in his prosperity, has been the result of eastern enterprise can have only the effect of hardening him in his views. This argument is inapplicable and impertinent; it should be definitely and finally discarded.

In these national discussions of the tariff or of any other great matter of public policy we must start with the recognition that every Canadian citizen, no matter where he lives nor what the conditions under which he earns his livelihood, is the equal of every other citizen, and has the same right to express his views as to what should or should not be done. The western farmers were absolutely within their rights in going to Ottawa to urge a tariff policy which, while frankly intended to benefit themselves, is believed by them to be in the interest of the Dominion as well. In doing so they have done nothing that the manufacturers of Canada have not done time and again during the last thirty years. If their arguments are unsound; if the cause they advocate would lead to commercial disaster and national injury, it is open to Mr. Russell and other exponents of the manufacturers views, to controvert them. But it is not, desirable in the interests of national harmony that there should be the assumption, which is to be found in Mr. Russell's address, that the western farmers, owing to the peculiarities of their position, have no business to assert their opinions in contradiction to the convictions of the eastern manufacturers, who, as everyone knows, are chiefly responsible for the tariff policy which has been effective in Canada for many years past.

COST OF LIVING IN THE ARMY

WASHINGTON, JAN. 11. The House Committee on Military Affairs has been finding out something about the cost of living in the army and how it is going up. It appears that that extremely well known bugaboo, the high cost of living, has struck the army as hard as he has folks in civilian life.

Commissary General Sharpe, before the committee, gave some comparative figures in the cost of the army ration that show a rapid and heavy increase in the cost of food articles. He submitted a comparative statement showing the average cost of the army ration for the first four months of the fiscal year 1911, against the same period for the year 1910, also against the average cost for the entire year of 1910.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE

WHEELING, W. VA., JAN. 9.—All arrangements have been made for the trial of Mrs. Laura Farnsworth Schenk, charged with administering poison to her wealthy husband, John O. Schenk, and the case will be called [illegible] trial on the criminal court of Ohio County at 9 o'clock on Monday morning.

County Prosecutor J. B. Hanland will have charge of the case for the State, and Attorneys O'Brien and Boyce will defend Mrs. Schenk.

It was learned that Mr. Schenk will not be called as a witness for the State, but will be put on the stand by Mrs. Schenk's attorneys as a witness for the defence.

So much publicity has been given the case it was feared some difficulty would be experienced in getting a jury satisfactory to both sides and an unusually large panel of talesmen have been called.

Mrs. Schenk, who has been in jail since her arrest, on November 9, when she was taken from her palatial home on Wheeling Island, is reported in good health, and confident she will soon rejoin her husband and children.

IS IT A HOODOO?

Is there a fatal hoodoo stalking in company with the position of first baseman on the Milwaukee club?

The sad ending of Dan McGann in Louisville recalls to mind one fatal and one nearly fatal accident to two other players who labored where the lamented Dan played during the seasons of 1909 and 1910. Five to six years ago while the Milwaukee club was barnstorming through Iowa after the close of the season, Quate Bateman became involved in a quarrel with Dexter, an old-time ball star. Dexter in a moment of anger pulled a knife and stabbed the Brewer first baseman in the back. He hovered between life and death for a couple of weeks but finally managed to pull through.

Four winters ago Hynes, who was slated for the first base job the following season, became involved in a saloon row in St. Louis and was murdered. And now comes McGann's untimely end.

Accidents of this kind usually run in three, so the men slated for the first base job on the future Brewer teams need have no fear.

"ASHTON-KIRK, INVESTIGATOR"

By John T. McIntyre. Copyrighted and All Rights Reserved

"Oh, I have had a little interest in it as an outsider, that is all," returned the other. "However," as he was passing through with Pendleton. "I can give you a piece of official police news on the case, which I just got from the superintendent. After to-night the guard will be removed from Hume's place. Wengle thinks the regular policeman on the beat is all that is needed from now on."

As they left the building by the main door, Pendleton said:

"A little while ago, I rashly promised to ask no more questions. If you'll release me from that, I'll unburden myself of one or two which will otherwise keep me awake to-night."

"Go ahead," said Ashton-Kirk with a smile.

"Why," asked Pendleton, "do you want the police called off at Hume's, and why should we place ourselves on watch instead?"

"At the very first we made up our minds that the men who murdered Hume were in search of something, didn't we? Up to this time I have been unable to say whether they had succeeded or not. Now, however, I am convinced that they failed."

"Ah!"

"To-morrow the newspapers will announce that Hume's place is to be no longer guarded. It may be that the criminals are desperate enough to venture another visit in order to gain possession of the thing they covet. If they do, we shall be awaiting them."

"But how do you know that they failed of their object on the night of the murder?"

"You and I," said Ashton-Kirk, laughingly, "are perhaps going to spend considerable time in Christie Place, beginning with to-morrow evening. And while there we may find it dull enough, old boy; a little amusement of a practical sort might not be found out of place. So I'll not answer your question now; I'll allow it to stand until to-morrow night; and then I'll give it to you, compact and complete, with practical illustrations as I go along."

CHAPTER XXII.

ASHTON-KIRK IS ANNOYED.

On the following day, at about noon, Ashton-Kirk's big French car glided up to the curb before the Vale house. A man with a thick neck and a small head nodded to the investigator; another waved a hand from across the street.

"Plain-clothes men," he murmured, "and at watch upon the house. That means that this matter can be brought to an end none too soon for Miss Vale's comfort."

He was getting out of his car when a brace of eager reporters accosted him.

"The Standard would like to have you say a few words for publication," said one.

"The Herald will give you what space you require for a statement at any time you see fit to make use of it," declared the other.

"I'm very sorry," said Ashton-Kirk, brushing a speck of dust from an immaculate sleeve, "but I have nothing to say that would interest your city editors, or the public. I have no doubt but that the police officials will be glad to acquaint you with anything new that has transpired—if there has been anything new."

The newspaper men pulled wry faces.

"The police hang onto the Italian musician and profess to think he's the guilty party," said one. "If they have taken any steps beyond this before to-day, we have not known of it."

"Why have the detectives been placed to watch Miss Vale's house?" asked the other. "And what has Osborne gone in to talk about?"

"Ah," said Ashton-Kirk, with interest, "Osborne is within, is he?"

"Yes, and why are you going in? What has been learned regarding Miss Vale's connection with the case that has not already been made public?"

"I would hardly undertake to answer that last," laughed Ashton-Kirk. "So much has been made public in one way and another that I haven't been able to keep track of it all. My own visit is merely a friendly call. Why Mr. Osborne is here I, of course, cannot say."

Leaving the newspaper men disappointed and dissatisfied, the investigator rang the bell and was admitted. In the hall, pulling on his gloves, was Osborne.

"Hello!" exclaimed the latter. "So you thought you'd have a try, too, eh?"

The big magazine owner showed that he was none too well pleased with his own visit; he jerked at his gloves nervously, and his brow was clouded with vexation. And, seeing that the other [illegible]

"Hardly," said [illegible] I've met a time on the thing. We scarcely like to go to extremes, as you perhaps know; but unless a clean breast of the matter is made, as far as the party knows," modifying his language because of the listening servant, "the same party will know what the inside of a cell is like by this time to-morrow."

"You really mean to make an arrest?"

"If we are forced to—yes."

Ashton-Kirk followed him to the door.

"Extend the time limit," suggested he. "Make it the day after to-morrow, and," elevating his brows, "I don't think that you'll need to do anything unpleasant."

"Ah," said Osborne, "you're onto something?" He regarded the other questioningly for a moment, then broke into a grin. "No use to ask what it is, I suppose? I thought not. Well," reflectively, and in a lowered tone, "it won't do any harm to oblige you, if the front office is willing. The party can't make a move that we won't know about; and the fact is, I've just advised that no going out of any kind be ventured on. So long, and good luck."

The door closed behind Osborne, and then Ashton-Kirk followed the soft-footed servant down the hall, up the stairs and into the presence of Edyth Vale.

The girl received him smilingly.

"I'm getting to be a regular occurrence," said he, as he sat down.

"But a welcome one, nevertheless," she returned. "Indeed, if it were not for certain other depressing circumstances, I'd find your visits dreadfully exciting."

"I suppose Osborne is one of the circumstances referred to. I just met him in the hall, and he seemed to be quite in a state of mind. What have you been saying to him?—or rather?" smiling, "what have you not been saying to him?"

"He came on what he calls 'police business,'" smiled Miss Vale. "I considered it quite an alarming expression, and said so; but that made no impression on him, for he proceeded with a string of wonderfully conceived questions that must have occurred my life from birth to the present time."

"The police have about the same method for each case—a sort of bullying insistence that breaks down denial by sheer weight."

"I have read of it frequently, in complaining articles in both magazines and newspapers. I think I have even seen it very earnestly compared to the Inquisition." The smile was still upon the girl's lips, but as she continued her voice shook a little. "However, I never thought to go through even a part of it myself."

"What the police say may be embarrassing and mortifying," said Ashton-Kirk, gravely, "but it is nothing at all, compared with what they might do."

Miss Vale drew in her breath in a little gasp of terror, but she made an effort to conceal it with a laugh.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

"THAT which we call a rose by any other name would smell as sweet" Was there ever a more glaring misstatement than that?

Surely as great a poet as the one who said that must have been perfectly well aware that if you called a rose a peony it couldn't possibly smell one-half so fragrant.

Surely he must have known that there is a warm flushed sweetness in the sound of the word "rose" that peony or petunia doesn't suggest at all.

Tell you what made me think of it.

Molly, the little stenographer, is decidedly thin, and for such a reasonable person she is rather sensitive about it.

The subject came up last night and Molly was particularly bitter.

"Why is this?" we questioned. "Have you lost any of those precious 102 pounds?"

"No, 'tisn't that," explained Molly, "but my aunt was out to the house last night and she said, 'Isn't it a shame, Molly, when the rest of your family are so good sized that you should be so terribly skinny.'

"I don't mind being 'thin' so much, but oh it's awful to be skinny."

I don't believe there is a thin girl in the land who couldn't shake on it with Molly.

Would even Mr. S. dare to say that it doesn't make a vast difference whether you call a state of body—

"Slender" and "slim."

Or

"Thin."

Or

"Skinny," "lean" or "poor?"

Would even he dare to assert that it doesn't make a lot of difference whether you describe the lady with the much embonpoint as:

"Plump."

Or

"Large,"

Or

"Stout," "corpulent" or "fat?"

And there's a few more questions for him:

Which would he rather go "autoing" or "motoring" or tout in the machine?" For his benefit, as they may not have motor cars where he is just now, I will explain that whereas once on a time we were all proud to go "autoing" or "automobiling" and later "motoring" nowadays only the hoi polloi do any of those things. The select folks "go out in our machine."

Which would he rather ride in, a "parlour car," which is what folks from the country call it, or a "chair car" (which is what the people who would be horrified to have to ride five miles in a "day coach" denominate it)?

Which would he rather spend at his friend's house, Saturday afternoon and Sunday or "the week end?"

"A rose by any other name would smell as sweet."

Go along, man.

I know that every little scribbler since your day has made copy by disproving that statement.

But surely you laid yourself open to it.

And anyway, that opportunity makes just one more debt that we all owe to the immortal William.

CHESTER JORDAN TO DIE IN MARCH

BOSTON, JAN. 11.—Chester S. Jordan, convicted of the murder of his wife, is under sentence to-day, to be electrocuted during the week of March 12. He has exhausted his last resource as far as the courts are concerned, and only executive clemency can save his life now.

The crime with which Jordan is charged was one of the most revolting in the history of this State. Its discovery was accidental.

Mrs. Jordan was twenty-three years old. Her maiden name was O'Reilly and her home was in Somerville. She was a widow when Jordan married her in September, 1904 and her name was Mrs. Eddy. The couple went on the vaudeville stage, Jordan taking the part of a tramp and his wife that of a nurse. Her stage name was Irene Shannon.

They first went to Butte, Mont., four years ago, but remained only three or four weeks, as the climate did not agree with them. Later they went to Chicago and appeared in some of the theatres there, remaining about three months. About three years ago they returned to Somerville and took the first storey flat in the house at No. 56½ Melford Street.

Neighbors, to the [illegible] told the police of Jordan, his wife became insanely jealous of him. He declared that on the night of the final quarrel his wife upbraided him for associating with other women, but that he denied her charges. [illegible] quarrel ended in the usual manner, and [illegible] to find that she was dead."

CUTS UP BODY OF VICTIM

Jordan, acording to the District Attorney, went to sleep in the same room with the body of his wife, and in the morning cooked breakfast while he decided what he should do with the remains.

Fearing that he would be charged with the murder of his wife if he notified the authorities of her death, Jordan resolved to dismember the body. This he did and packed away most of it in a trunk. The head he burned in the kitchen stove.

Jordan booked passage on the steamer Harvard, from Boston for New York, and went there with the trunk. Upon arriving at the docks he found the ship had been delayed in starting because of some accident to her machinery. He then instructed the driver of the hack, George W. Collins, to drive him to No. 7 Hancock Street, Beacon Hill, Boston, where he hired a room.

The hackman, finding the trunk heavy, and thinking that Jordan might have it full of stolen silverware, as many robberies had been reported about that time, notified the police of his suspicions.

WAS GOING TO SINK TRUNK

Sergeant Michael Crowley went to the house and Mrs. John Haley, the landlady, allowed the officer to enter Jordan's room and wait for him. Jordan, who had been out for several hours, returned with several pieces of lead and wire, which he afterward admitted he was going to place around the trunk after getting it on board a steamer. He planned to sink the trunk overboard during the trip, and then declare that his wife had deserted him.

Crowley made Jordan open the trunk, and the crime was revealed. Jordan was indicted on September 11 and pleaded not guilty to a charge of murder in the first degree. His [illegible] Mr. Livermore, went [illegible] to the assistance of Jordan. [illegible] 25th inst. to [illegible] his defence ever since.

LIFE SENTENCE CUT TO EIGHTEEN YEARS

AUGUSTA, ME., JAN. 11.—The sentence of Mrs. Clara Emma Getchell, of Sidney, who in 1896 was committed to State prison for life for the murder of her husband, has been commuted by the Governor and council to eighteen years. It will expire on December 20, 1914.

Mrs. Getchell was the wife of William H. Getchell, a farmer who died suddenly on December 19, 1903. His body was exhumed the latter part of the same month, and some of the organs were sent to Bowdoin College for analysis. Mrs. Getchell was arrested, and after a trial of ten days she was convicted of murder in the first degree. Experts testified that a total of, from three to four grains of strychnine was found in the body, twice as much poison being found in the stomach as in the other organs. Getchell had died soon after drinking some gin at dinner time.

Mrs. Getchell's relations with another man were alleged by the State to furnish a motive for the crime. Mrs. Getchell denied all the allegations and has stoutly maintained her innocence.

9 FOOT BED SHEETS WANTED BY TRAVELERS

DAYTON, O., JAN. 11.—Elongated travellers who measure more than the ordinary hotel bed sheet and consequently suffer from "cold feet" during the wintry months had a champion here in the person of R. F. Somerville, secretary of the Ohio Commercial Travellers, who, in a speech before the Ohio State Hotel Association, urged the hotel men to use 9-foot bed sheets.

Mr. Somerville, in addition to pleading for this relief, urged the managers to provide individual instead of roller towels.

The hotel delegates went on record to-day as opposed to the parcels post idea, holding that it would prove a detriment to their business by decreasing the number of commercial travellers. They also considered a number of the legislative acts now in force pertaining to the Rose County local option bill and the Wilson weights and measures bill.

Most Canadians Have Catarrh

Our Changeable Climate is Responsible.

Where the atmosphere is damp, with sudden changes in temperature, almost everybody has Catarrh, in some form or other. The ordinary cold in the head inflames and weakens the membranes lining the nose and throat, and starts a discharge. The next cold is more easily caught, and soon the patient is never quite free of it.

As Catarrh develops the discharge increases—drops into the throat, especially at night—and takes on an offensive odor. Besides being exceedingly disagreeable, there is great danger of the disease extending to the lungs, stomach, or bowels.

Though it is very difficult to cure, Father Morrisey devised a combined internal and external treatment that has cured thousands. The Tablets tone up and invigorate the system, and assist Nature in throwing off the disease, while the salve, applied up the nostrils, clears out the discharge and heals the membranes. Combined treatment, 50c at your dealer's, or from Father Morrisey Medicine Co., Ltd., Chatham, N.B. 20

SOUNDS THE NEED FOR SAVING CANADA'S GREAT RESOURCES

Hon. Clifford Sifton's Able Address Before the Canadian Club Last Evening on "The Conservation of Our Natural Resources"---Our Lumber Will be Done in Seven Years if Export is Not Stopped.

The tremendous importance of preserving the resources of Canada, if the country is to hold the position among the nations to which it has attained, and to reach the position it desired, was the dominant note of a most interesting address on the conservation of our natural resources which was delivered by Hon. Clifford Sifton, chairman of the Conservation Commission, before the Canadian Club at the Hotel National last evening. The attendance at the dinner last evening was perhaps the largest of the season, which evidences a growing interest in meetings and an appreciation of the efforts of the officers in securing the best speakers available. After the recherche dinner provided by Mine Host Denison was enjoyed, the chairman called the gathering to order, and introduced the speaker of the evening. Dr. Cameron stated that the Club was particularly fortunate in securing the Hon. Clifford Sifton to address them. The subject on which he was to speak, he was sure, was one that was dear to the hearts of every Canadian, namely, "The Conservation of our Natural Resources."

The speaker of the evening first gave a concise summary of the conditions faced by the Canadian Conservation Commission in its efforts to bring about a better appreciation of the values to present and future generations of the wonderful national wealth the Dominion possesses in forest, stream, mine and fisheries.

"Unless we are to follow the fate of Babylonia, Assyria and Egypt — that of utter extinction from the physical earth—we must keep to ourselves and protect this heritage Providence has given us," was the keynote of the speaker.

Hon. Mr. Sifton's Address.

Hon. Mr. Sifton, on rising to speak was greeted with applause, and in his opening remarks he thanked the president for his kind words of introduction. Although he had travelled through Canada many times, this was the occasion of his first visit to Peterborough, but although it was his first visit, he had some warm friends here who made him feel very much at home.

"It would be a very poor compliment to you and a very poor return for the honour you have done me if I were to refrain from expressing my own opinions, and were to express those of somebody else; so, whatever I may say to you this evening, you may rely upon it that I am expressing my own views,' remarked Mr. Sifton at the outset.

Facts About Conservation.

"We have passed through several different stages in connection with the discussion of the conservation of our natural resources. When I was a little boy I used to attend lectures upon Canada and its natural resources. Then it used to be the forte of all the speakers to descant upon the illimitable nature of the resources we possessed. Later on, and within the last few years, we have been accustomed to hearing a somewhat different kind of discussion. We have quite frequently heard people say that the natural resources of Canada were nearly all gone—that they were seriously depleted, and that there was very little left.

"Now neither of these two views is correct. Our natural resources are not illimitable. No matter how large the natural resources of any country may be when a large and active population sets itself to work and develop those natural resources it very soon becomes evident that they are far from being illimitable.

"Neither is it true, on the other hand, that our natural resources are now seriously depleted. We have in our timber wealth in Canada, sufficient for ourselves, so long as it is properly handled and properly conserved. Our fisheries are depleted in some respects, but may yet, by thorough and scientific methods of culture be restored to their former prolific condition. Our mines, we know, are as yet hardly touched. And the fertility of our farming lands has not as yet been seriously affected.

Differ From Other Countries.

In that respect we differ very materially and very fortunately from other countries which, unfortunately for them, are depleted, because their lands which were formerly fertile have become useless for cultivation purposes. Our resources are not in such a parlours state that we have any fear or need to despair of their continuing to be sufficient, with care, for any population Canada is likely to have.

"In fact, we have under-estimated our resources in some respects. Of our great North lands, very little is known, but we know that there are vast fertile expanses as yet untouched. Far-off Uganda contains very great natural resources. That territory known as the mythical clay belt of Northern Ontario, north of the height of land, alone contains from fifteen to twenty millions of acres of fertile lands. The land along the route of the Hudson's Bay Railway, contains a tract almost as large in area as the whole of the cultivated area of Belgium, which sustains in comfort a population of over five and a half millions, is immensely fertile. The great district between Hudson's Bay and the Peace River Valley is far from being a howling wilderness, and the Peace River Valley itself and the northern parts of British Columbia Bay, as yet hardly been touched. Canada yet contained an Empire in the natural resources of her great north lands.

Things to Consider.

"There are some considerations which I should think should appeal to the business men of Canada in connection with the great trust reposed in them as administrators of this magnificent heritage. If we look to the south of the boundary line, we shall see perhaps the only people who had a similar endowment to ourselves, so far as modern history is concerned.

"Much as I admire them for their progressiveness, their energy, their ingenuity, and the magnificent method with which they have developed in the arts, in sciences, and in civilization, yet it seems, after a careful consideration of the social condition of the United States at the present time, the enormous rapidity with which its population is developing, and with which its natural resources are being used up —it would seem that unless some radical change takes place, within fifty years' time, when the population of the United States will probably be some 150,000,000, there is no possible future for its people — for the great mass of that vast population, save grinding poverty of the most wearisome and miserable description.

"I used to think some years ago that the two things Canada most needed to develop were transportation and immigration. We have dealt pretty well with transportation in the past ten or twelve years. We have met, and we are still meeting, the reasonable requirements of the country—and so far as immigration is concerned, that is a question which is being solved.

"But we require time in which to assimilate the immigrants we have brought into this land. We require to educate them. Municipal districts must be established, and schools must be built. You in Peterborough and other great centres of population must deal with the problem of the proper housing of the masses. As your population increases by thousands and thousands you must provide for this vast increased population a proper and substantial system of living.

Power Exploitation.

Continuing his remarks on extravagant water power exploitation, Mr. Sifton said: "You must stop it. It may be that I cannot stop it, but I want to say that the business men of Peterborough can stop it, if they make up their minds to do it.

"The object of the Commission is not to interfere with private ownership of water powers, but it asked that wherever water power was alienated under a limited franchise that the public authorities control the rates at which it is sold. The Commission is strongly opposed to the export of power to the United States."

Referring to the Long Sault power scheme, the speaker termed it an outrageous grab. He was strongly opposed to handing over the natural gifts of the great St. Lawrence to the United States.

"I need not talk in this city about the necessity of the protection of our forests. You know how important it is. You know that the regularity of our climate, you know that our commerce is dependent upon the proper preservation of the forests of Canada, surely you must admit that the record we possess in this respect is a most discreditable one. In the last ten years—I am not speaking of the times when we could not fight big fires—but within the last ten years we have destroyed by fire more timber than has been cut by the axe of the lumberman, and last summer was the worst season we had in the last ten years.

"We are endeavouring to arouse public opinion on this subject. But you cannot make progress without breaking some heads, without somebody having to do something that he was not doing before. We have been following a policy—let it go. But at present there are two methods we are adopting. First, we are endeavouring to get the government to make large forest reserves — national parks in the hands of competent wardens so that they may take such steps in advance so that there will be no possibility of the forests being destroyed by fire.

In Ontario Hon. Mr. Cochrane is making much progress. He has made provision for increasing the size of Algonquin Park. In the northwest there is a stretch of land that runs from the international boundary line up to the boundary of British Columbia, covered with forest growth. Very much of the timber is of great value, but the main essential of this immense tract of territory is that it is the reservoir of the rivers that run through Alberta and Saskatchewan, and on that forest depends the fertility of those two provinces. If that forest is not protected, the east slope of the Rock Mountains will be cleaned off as bare as this platform. There is nothing more certain. It is like a tinder box in dry season. What then—Floods and drought, lack of fertility in those two provinces which are to-day the pride of the Dominion. Is it worth while that we should protect those forests? Why a school boy would know that that at least is an item of good business.

Railways and Forest Fires.

I want to say a word in connection with the railways. Last fall when it became perfectly evident that the previous season had been the worst in some years in respect of fires, I sent out to find out what were the causes of the fires. Our men found it very difficult to get definite information. But this was the result. There were last year, outside of Quebec for which we could not get returns, in Ontario Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, 2,400 forest fires which did an appreciable amount of damage. Of these 52 per cent are known to have been set from the locomotives of railways. The fires have spread from sparks, and 24 per cent. of the fires were directly caused by railways. As to about 500, we have been unable to ascertain the cause.

"I think it is a safe position to take, that the duty of protecting the forest wealth of Canada is a tax charge upon somebody. And we are going to ask, and in fact we have asked the Parliament of Canada to pass a law which will penalize the railways for every fire which spreads from the right-of-way. The only plea which the railway can make in answer to a prosecution under that act will be first that they have had all necessary appliances in case of fire. They are always ready to show that now. But they must show in addition to that that they have an efficient fire-fighting organization upon their line. This is, in fact, being done now. The Temiskaming and Northern Railway is owned by the Ontario Government. They have a valuable pine timber. They do not have any railway fires of any kind because they own the timber and the timber is worth millions."

Speaking of the work of the Commission in regard to public health the speaker referred to the Public Health conference which was recently held at Ottawa, when questions of national importance were discussed. The idea of establishing a Federal Laboratory where antitoxin, and various other sera required in the medical profession could be supplied in their proper strength and purity. Mr. Sifton referred to the splendid work that was being done in the fight against tuberculosis, and spoke of the self-sacrificing efforts of citizens in lending assistance to institutions for the care of tubercular patients.

In conclusion Mr. Sifton stated that the work of the Commission was absolutely non-partizan, made up of the members of both political parties, who were faithfully endeavouring to do the work allotted to them. He urged the members of both parties to take an advance stand in assisting the work they were endeavouring to do.

A hearty vote of thanks was then tendered the speaker of the evening it being ably moved by Mr. R. R. Hall, ex-M.P. and seconded by His Honour Judge Huycke.

ARE YOU READY FOR WINTER?

Able to Stand the Cold?

"Fruit-a-tives" Will Build Up the Whole System.

The reason why some people cannot stand our Canadian climate is because their bodily health is not good. Heavy clothing cannot take the place of animal heat, generated by the normal body. These wonderful fruit juice tablets do more than regulate the bowels and kidneys. They keep the whole system at its best—make every vital organ do its proper work—and thus give health, strength and vitality. Those, subject to chronic Rheumatism and Sciatica, stubborn Constipation and Bilious Attacks, Pain in the Back, Headaches and Neuralgia, should make it a point to take "Fruit-a-tives" and cure themselves completely before the severe cold spells come on.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold by all dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c, or will be sent to any address on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

PALE, ANAEMIC GIRLS

The languid, semi-invalid girl is no longer popular. Firm flesh, rounded form and a healthy glow to the complexion are the results of using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food. Mrs. Goodson, 104 Sebastopol St., Montreal, Que., writes: "My daughter's appetite was bad and she was pale and bloodless. Since using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food there is a marked change in her condition. She is stronger and healthier in every way."

DUG UP COIN OF 800 B.C.

SPRINGFIELD, OHIO, JAN. 11.—A Jewish coin, minted approximately 800 years before the birth of Christ, and known as the "Syracuse Medal," has been found in a mound builders' cave on the farm of W. H. Barber, a farmer on Bond Hill, east of Springfield.

With the coin were found two skeletons, which from their position in the cave showed that the people had been about eight feet in height. The receding skulls and wide jaws clearly indicate that they were members of the mound builders.

The coin in question has been definitely fixed as one of the class of medals that later were turned into coins by the people who lived in Syracuse, a city on the island of Ortygia, off the eastern coast of Sicily, for several centuries before the birth of Christ.

BACHELOR BRINGS 2c LB.

ST. LOUIS, JAN. 11.—St. Louis bachelors, uncrated, are worth less than 2 cents a pound. The market value was established at the St. Vincent de Paul Church carnival when Martin Casey, wealthy head of a broom manufacturing concern, who weighs 267 pounds, was bid in for $5 after the young woman who had won him as a prize refused to accept him. The winner was Miss Dora Kohler, of St. Charles.

"He is very nice," she told Father Nugent when she saw her prize, "but I don't think I want him."

"Then I'll sell him to the highest bidder and I'll start the auction with a bid of $5," said Father Nugent.

CONFESSION OF REAL CRIMINAL RELEASES MAN WHO IS INNOCENT

OGDEN, UTAH, JAN. 11.—Court records here bear out the confession of Edward Hoeven in Chicago, when Hoeven declared that he had held up a clerk in an Ogden hotel a year ago, secured $90 and later discovered that the clerk had been sentenced to eight years in prison for the theft of the money. The matter preyed on Hoeven's conscience to such a degree that he gave himself up in Chicago.

According to the records of the District Court here, George Smith, twenty-three years old, formerly a clerk at the Ogden House, was sentenced to the penitentiary for eight years on January 11, 1909, for the theft of money from funds entrusted to him by the hotel.

At his trial Smith declared that a man had held him up and secured $90 of the hotel's cash and a gold watch. He contradicted himself a number of times in his testimony and his conviction followed.

Hoeven will be brought here, and if his confession stands up, steps will be taken for the release of Smith.

WOULDN'T TAKE DARE

LAWRENCEBURG, IND., JAN 11.—"Anyone who will take a dare is a coward," said Mrs. Mary Porter Batchelor, twenty-five years old, and a handsome widow, to her late husband's nephew, Walter R. Batchelor, twenty-three years old. They were standing in front of the court house at the time.

"I'll dare you to marry me," replied the nephew, with a good deal of feeling.

Something in his eyes made his aunt realize he was in earnest.

"Why, why, how can I do that?" she asked.

"I want you. We want to keep you in the family. And it's a dare," he answered.

Twenty minutes later they were married.

TWICE WEDDED SAME WIFE

WELLINGTON, KAN., JAN 11—Miles Park, his wife's first and third husband, is dead here at the age of eighty, and the facts of his life came to light to-day. Park was in Washington County, O., in 1852 in 1876 he left his wife and three children and went in search of fortune to the Black Hills of Dakota. He was reported killed by Indians.

Miner Harrod, a Kansas farmer, visiting in Ohio in 1884, met Park's supposed widow, married her and came to live near here. Park, returning to Ohio in 1901, learned his wife still was alive. He did not, however, make known to her the fact that he also was alive until in 1907, when Harrod died.

HOST GIVES A FINE TREAT

COLUMBUS, IND., JAN. 11.—Roy W. Emig, attorney, who is something of a practical joker, invited some friends to stay over night with him at his camp on White River, and he housed them under a tent and blankets.

When morning came he said he had something in the way of a treat and presented them with fresh meat, which they decided was opossum. After breakfast was over and they were complimenting Emig on his ability as host and cook he told them the truth. They had been eating fried skunk.

The men insist that fried skunk is excellent, but they do not wish any more.

VAGRANT TELLS INTERESTING STORY OF LOVE AND INTRIGUE

LOS ANGELES, CAL., JAN. 11.—Juan Gacias, who says he once served on the bodyguard of King Alfonso XII. of Spain, is under arrest here charged with vagrancy.

Gacias, sixty-five years old, in the tattered garb of a hermit and with feet clad in crude sandals, arrived at Long Beach during the morning. Even here where a Spanish patois is spoken Gacias had trouble finding anyone who could understand him, because his Castilian Spanish was pure. His general appearance led to his being arrested on the charge of vagrancy. After having been sentenced to serve thirty days in the chain gang here, he told his story through an interpreter.

He says that because of his attention to a woman of the Spanish court he was exiled. Later he returned, only to be cast into jail, where he remained until the breaking out of the Spanish-American war. He was then permitted to show his loyalty to his country by enlisting as a soldier for service in Cuba.

Upon his return from exile he heard Terresa Poralta, the woman who enchanted his affections, had been compelled to take the veil and had been sent to one of the old Franciscan convents in America.

At the conclusion of the war Gacias says he decided to seek her, and he visited nearly all the convents in South and Central America and Mexico. He still has hopes of finding her, and he believes she is Mother Terresa, said to be connected with one of the missions north of here.

MAYOR'S FUN COST $40,000

DETROIT, JAN. 11. — Mayor Philip H. Breitmeyer, who retired from office on January 1, was asked in what light he now viewed his policy of making his office a universal social club during his two-year incumbency, and how much it had cost him. The Mayor's chief object seems to have been to be a jolly good fellow to everybody. He has given banquets and other entertainments galore, and the invitations to the same have been sent out with a free hand.

The Mayor said he had kept no account whatever of what it had cost him, but when different figures were suggested to him he admitted that it might have been in the neighborhood of $40,000.

"Do you think the fun was worth the price?" he was asked.

"Young man," he replied, "I would have paid just three times as much for the honour of being Mayor of a city like Detroit. It has been a great experience. These have been the two happiest years of my life."

Enjoyable Affair Was Held Last Night in Hooper's Palm Parlours —Speeches and a Musical Programme.

A GREAT SUCCESS

The annual banquet tendered by the G. Walter Green Company to their employees was held last evening in Hooper's Palm Parlours and was a most enjoyable event. The management and employees of the Company are on the best of terms, with each other, and the esprit de corps was manifested in the entirely enjoyable nature of last evening's gathering. It is refreshing, indeed, to be able to note such pleasant relationships and the G. Walter Green Company and its employees are alike to be congratulated. An excellent supper was served, after which a programme consisting of speeches and musical numbers, was given. Mr. Green was chairman and started the programme by making a short, introductory speech, in which he stated that he was pleased to see so many present; also to see so many of the same faces which appeared at last year's banquet. Will Hear Complaints Against System Of Conducting School Business

An appointment has been made with the Inspector of County Public Schools, as provided by the Statute, for Saturday, Jan. 14th, at 2 p.m., by the Protestant ratepayers of P. S. S. No. 8, Otonabee, for the hearing of complaints against the system of conducting the business of the school ratepayers in that section.

The object of the ratepayers of Public S. S. No. 8 Otonabee, is:

(1) By petition to the Legislature to show the desirability of having the teaching of religion wholly done away with in mixed (Public) rural schools. This petition has been despatched, signed by all the resident Protestant ratepayers of the section, and approved by officials, to the Legislature of the Province.

(2) To call the Inspector's attention to the wholly unsatisfactory manner of conducting the election for trustees in the said Section.

At the meeting held by the ratepayers [illegible] for that purpose [illegible] it was proposed to [illegible] it was passing for [illegible] in attendance [illegible] Roman Catholic [illegible] in a word, there was no guarantee that the ratepayers were allowed to manage their own affairs, and it is believed and asserted that the election was irregular as a consequence. Those in attendance should not be allowed to vote unless on the list.

(2) That no record was kept of those who voted and no proper count made.

(3) That the Board of Trustees was not called together during the year.

(4) That the complainants are willing that the same trustees (two Roman Catholics and one Protestant, with a Roman Catholic Secretary) should be re-elected, and they propose to move to that effect if a new election is granted, but they are desirous of replacing the "system" or lack of system by the usual proper method of doing business elsewhere.

(5) That no agreement has been signed by the Board with the teacher as required by the Act.

(6) That the minutes of the annual ratepayers' meeting of 1910 were not signed by the Secretary as required.

(7) That the Inspector's report to the Board on condition of school was never made known or read to the Board.

(8) That there is no personal ill-feelin on the part of complainants what ever towards the other ratepayers, but the loose way of conducting the ratepayers' school business is eminently prejudicial and unsatisfactory and in conjunction with the opportunity afforded by the Act for the teaching of religious dogmas and customs is producing a condition of affairs that can easily be remedied, and should not be allowed to continue.

(9) That the teacher, Miss Ward, a Roman Catholic, is considered painstaking and satisfactory.

HEIR COLLECTS BURIAL LEGACY IN A MONTH

KANSAS CITY, JAN. 11.—A month ago, Mrs. Mary T. Piper, a wealthy woman of Kansas City, died. In her will she bequeathed her nephew, Rollins Bingham, $250, and this $250 was to be used only to pay his funeral expenses. He spoke jokingly of his legacy, and said it was a long time to wait for it.

But it was not so long after all. He collected this morning when an attack of pneumonia caused his death.

Rollins Bingham died in Missouri, and that was the hope that sustained him during the twelve years he was a fugitive from justice.

Bingham was the son of General Bingham, who painted the famous "Order No. 11." With the start that his family connections gave him, the son attained a high position in Kansas City twenty years ago.

In 1890 Bingham disappeared. Soon it was found that he was a forger to a large amount, and he was indicted.

Twelve years later Herbert S. Hadley, now Governor, but then Prosecuting Attorney of Jackson County, found a letter from Bingham from Dallas, breathing a longing for home, a longing that braved the prospect of a term in the penitentiary. He finally went free.

WANTS TO BE "COP"

LOS ANGELES, JAN. 11.—Wanted—a job on the police force. The unfeeling interference of his parents, and the embarrassing fact that he happens to be probable heir to $100,000,000, may handicap the applicant somewhat in his ambitions.

There is no doubt in the mind of William Andrews Clark III., the eight-year-old grandson and chum of Former United States Senator Clark of Montana, as to which way destiny points her finger.

Unless he can carry a billy club in his powerful right hand, a gun in his back pocket, and a pair of handcuffs hooked into his belt as he prowls the street by night, capturing bad burglars and such, there is going to be a sad blight upon the ambitions of a young millionaire.

The "millionaire baby"—it's the seventh deadly sin to call him that, by the way—wants to be a policeman.

"What are you going to be when you grow up?" asks the visitor.

"Well," he says, brightening bravely, "I might be a soldier, do you think that would be all right?"

That seems to be a good compromise, still he doesn't appear to be very happy over it.

Pretty soon he comes back and says softly, but with grim determination, "Excuse me, but I think I will be a policeman anyhow."

His mother tells her friends that she doesn't care what he is—whether it's a policeman or something else—if he only turns out to be a brave, simple-hearted, unostentatious American gentleman.

Owing to his unusual intelligence, the whole family have high hopes for the boy. His grandfather, the copper king, adores the ground he walks on and the baby is quite as devoted to his grandfather.

ROD AND GUN

Variety, and plenty of it, is the keynote of the January issue of Rod and Gun in Canada, published by W. J. Taylor, Limited, of Woodstock, Ontario. The opening article deals with the outfit required for the backwoods and though sportsmen may differ on many of the trimmings, there will be a general agreement as to the essentials. This is followed by a number of personal experiences in hunting, fishing, canoeing and mountaineering throughout Canada, while a paper on the birds of Manitoba and some light verses add materially to the interest of the number and recommend it as one in which sportsmen of all tastes may find something which cannot fail to prove both pleasurable and profitable to themselves. There are a number of items recording occurrences out of the common, showing how vastly experiences in the woods may differ and others reminding sportsmen of similar events on their own trips. The whole is redolent of the outdoors and must act like a tonic in the wintry weather, reminding sportsmen of the joys they have had and those which they are anticipating with the keenest of pleasures in the not far distant future.

Gold Prospector Strikes It Rich, Is Injured And Plans To Die Alone

GRANITE CITY, ILL., JAN. 11.—A message from a lone gold prospector in the Far North, telling of approaching death and great wealth, discovered by the writer in the wilds of the Yukon, was found tied to the leg of a strange species of wild goose shot by Fred Wanton, a farmer residing near here, according to Wanton. The note was enclosed in oiled paper.

Wanton was hunting at Horseshoe Lake, when he shot the bird. He had fired into a flock of water fowl, which he thought were ducks. One was wounded and came fluttering down. Then Wanton discovered the bird was a species of wild goose rarely seen in this vicinity.

He found the small package tied firmly to the goose's leg, he says. When he opened it a ragged sheet of yellow wrapping paper was found. It was a note signed with the name George Powers. The writer said he was from Memphis.

The note was dated July 8, 1910, and the writer said he was 215 miles north of White Horse Pass, on Pine Creek.

In the note is described a marvellous find of gold, not in nuggets, but seemingly a sheet, such a find as would mean great wealth to its discoverer. Since June 15, the note says, the writer has been sick. He broke his arm in a fall on the side of a mountain and he was hardly able to walk, the note says.

The writer said he knew he was doomed; that he was unable to even cook the food he had in his cabin, and that winter was fast approaching. A mountain storm was raging, he wrote, which would soon cut off his existence.

How the goose could have been raptured by a man in a condition such as described in the note, is more than persons who have considered the matter can surmise. It is admitted, however, the bird may have been captured long before the prospector was injured, and that he tied the note to its leg and liberated it in the hope it would bear his last message to the world.

"Good-bye" was the closing term of the missive.

A dispatch from Memphis states that George Powers left that city two years ago. He had served five years as a member of the police force there. He wrote to a sister a year ago, saying he was going to Alaska.

FIREMEN INJURED IN SECOND GREAT FIRE AT CINCINNATI YESTERDAY

Roof of Great Chamber of Commerce Building Collapsed Sending Spectators Into a Panic and Many Were Trampled---Loss Will Be More Than a Million Dollars.

Cincinnati, Jan. 11.—Entailing a loss of more than one million dollars, this city suffered it's second great fire within three weeks, when the Chamber of Commerce Building at Fourth and Vine streets was destroyed last night, adjacent property damaged, a dozen firemen injured, and possibly lives lost.

While several firemen still are unaccounted for up to a late hour, reports of fatalities among firemen and spectators who were caught in the wreckage of the collapsed roof have not been confirmed. It is known that there were a large number of employes at work when the fire started.

The Cincinnati Stock Exchange and the Louisville & Nashville Railway offices, both of which contained records almost invaluable, were consumed in the conflagration.

Only the bare walls of what was Cincinnati's most magnificent architectural building remain. The building had a valuation of $1,000,000, while the fixtures in the various offices were valued at $50,000.

The stocks of several business houses in the block were damaged, but the fire was confined to the Chamber of Commerce Building.

Full 5,000 persons were crowded directly outside the fire lines when the roof collapsed. Smoke and flying sparks filled the streets for two squares, and a panic followed. Men and women fought to escape, and many were trampled in the rush. Many sustained bruises and cuts, but no one was reported seriously injured.

Owing to the density of the smoke, the police were powerless to cope with the situation for fully ten minutes, and nearby office buildings were turned into hospitals for the injured and shelter places for the panic stricken.

PERSIA'S APPEAL

Asks Help Against Great Britain and Russia—They Are Unable to Pay Back the Russian Loan

PEOPLE IN REVOLT

New York, Jan. 11.—Out of the tangled web of diplomacy, plot and counter plot that has wrapped it about for centuries, the Persian Government has raised its voice in appeal to the whole world, an appeal for which it styles justice against England and Russia. The first cry reached the country yesterday with a document of sixteen thousand words, bearing the seal of the empire and the full signature of Mostofe-El-Mamalik president of the council. It is addressed to the American people, through H. H. Topakyan, consul-general at New York.

In brief, the Persian Government states that, through a loan made to it by the Russian Government some years ago, and which it has found itself unable to repay, because England and Russia have thrown every obstacle in the way of repayment, it is almost helpless and unable to maintain order in certain provinces, where Russian troops have been quartered to enforce collection. England, it is charged, expressly agreed that no other than civil means would be used for collection, yet now stands idly by while Russia pours regiments over the borders.

The presence of these foreign troops has aroused Persians to fury. Three provinces have been thrown into revolt. Russia and England have demanded that the disorders be repressed, yet the Persian Government declares itself helpless while Russian troops are within its borders. The appeal declares that Persia stands ready to shed her blood to defend British subjects, and would defend them if allowed to act without the Russian troops.

All last year Persia was the storm centre of European international politics. In October it was reported from London that the British Government had addressed an ultimatum to the Persian Government, demanding that order be restored in the southern provinces within the British sphere of influence. Three months' grace was allowed, after which time Britain held herself at liberty to assume the work herself by occupation. Persian revenues, it was said, would be used to pay the cost, and Russia, it was added, contemplated similar measures. The declaration followed months of unrest in Teheran, and repeated outbreaks of hostilities between the insurgents and the Government troops. Turkey also threatened invasion, apparently jealous of the Russian and British movements, and Persia was threatened, and for that matter is still threatened, on three sides.

Woman Physician Collapses In Cell.

New York, Jan. 11. Dr. Louise E. Rabinowitz, sister of Jos. G. Robin, [illegible] collapsed in her cell in the Tombs yesterday afternoon [illegible] appeal to her other brother, Edward L. Robin, to get bail for her.

The woman physician passed a sleepless night. The shock of having to go to jail was too much for her. She had expected, it is understood, that she would be paroled until the time of her trial on a charge of perjury, or that friends would come to her aid by furnishing the necessary bonds.

She is in cell No. 7, which has housed many famous women prisoners, among them being Hannah Elias and Nan Patterson.

Against Reciprocity.

Victoria, Jan. 11.—The Central Farmers' Institute, in annual convention here yesterday, with 40 delegates from all parts of British Columbia, unanimously passed a resolution viewing with alarm the movement of the grain growers of the prairies for reciprocity in natural products with the United States, and asking, on the contrary, that the duties on fruit entering Canada be raised so as to make them equal to the duties now levied on fruit entering the United States.

Six-Year-Old Child Burned.

Lindsay, Jan. 11. Arastus Anderson, the six-year-old son of J. J. Anderson of Harvey, six miles north of Bobcaygeon, was burned to death in his cot Monday night at nine o'clock. He was in bed with his little sister, whose life was saved by W. Laird, who noticed the fire. The flames were too fierce to allow him to return for the boy. The cause of the fire is unknown.

$20,000 for Church.

Montreal, Jan. 11.—A bequest of $20,000 from the late Mr. John H. R. Molson, was announcement made at the 69th annual meeting of the Church of the Messiah Monday night. Mr. John W. Loud was elected president of the church, and Messrs. Dakers, Cameron and E. G. O'Connor as secretary and treasurer respectively.

Will Command "A" Battery.

Kingston, Jan. 11. Major D. I. Y. Eaton will take command of A Battery R.C.H.A., in place of Major H. A. Panet, who goes to England, to be attached to the Royal Horse Battery at Aldershot, for a course. Capt. E. Panet of the R.C.H.A. will go to the staff college in England.

Re-elected Socialist President.

Paris, Jan. 11. The Chamber of Deputies organized yesterday with the re-election of President Henri Brisson, Radical Socialist, who received 270 votes, against 197 for Paul Deschanel, Republican, and 50 for Jules Guesde, United Socialist.

Chief of Police Dead.

Sarnia, Jan. 11.—Jack Crawford, chief of police of Sarnia, died yesterday of pneumonia, after a few day's illness. Crawford was 15 years ago prominent in pugilistic circles and was in line for a battle with Kid McCoy for the middleweight championship. Previously to this he was on the London football team when it won the intermediate championship of Canada. Dr. Walter Crawford and Rev. Edward Crawford, both missionaries to Africa, are brothers.

The Deadly Hat-Pin.

New York, Jan. 11.—Long hat-pins, a subject which has agitated other city councils, were discussed at a meeting of New York's board of aldermen yesterday. An ordinance providing a fine of not more than $50 for any woman whose hat pin, unless suitably guarded, protrudes more than half an inch from the crown or other part of the hat, was referred to the committee on laws and legislation.

Fortune Telling

Does not take into consideration the one essential to woman's happiness—womanly health.

The woman who neglects her health is neglecting the very foundation of all good fortune. For without health love loses its lustre and gold is but dross.

Womanly health when lost or impaired may generally be regained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This Prescription has, for over 40 years, been curing delicate, weak, pain-wracked women, by the hundreds of thousands and this too in the privacy of their homes without their having to submit to indelicate questionings and offensively repugnant examinations.

DISFIGURED FOR LIFE!

Mothers Should Realize What Neglect of Skin-Troubles May Mean to Children.

A lifetime of disfigurement and suffering often results from the neglect, in infancy or childhood, of minor affections of the skin and scalp. A mother overlooks a little rash or attempts some simple treatment and in a day, perhaps, the little one is covered with severe eczema or a similar distressing eruption. Then the struggle for a cure begins.

A multitude of remedies are tried, doctor after doctor consulted and hospitals visited, but too often the suffering extends, without substantial relief, from days to weeks, weeks to months and months to years. Added to this is the ever-present fear that the itching, burning and disfiguration will become chronic, marring future welfare and making life miserable.

In the prevention of the simple skin troubles from which all this suffering so often arises and in establishing a condition of skin health that makes eruptions impossible, mothers are assured that nothing is purer, sweeter or more effective than Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. And greater still, if possible, is the success of these simple household remedies in the treatment of the severer skin affections themselves. With the first warm bath with Cuticura Soap and gentle application of Cuticura Ointment, the itching and burning of eczema cease, the child falls into a refreshing sleep, the mother rests and for the first time, possibly, in many weeks peace falls on a distracted household. Frequently a single cake of Cuticura Soap and box of Cuticura Ointment are sufficient.

Positive as is this statement, it is justified by more than thirty years of pronounced success. To quote but a single instance, Robert Mann, of Proctor, Minnesota, says:

"Our boy was born in Toronto on Oct. 13, 1908, and when three months old a slight rash appeared on his cheek. What appeared to be a water blister would form. When it broke, matter would run out, starting new blisters until his entire face, head and shoulders were a mass of scabs and you could not see a particle of clear skin. We tried about every advertised remedy without avail, indeed some of them only added to his suffering and one in particular, the —— Remedy, almost put the infant into convulsions. The family doctor prescribed for him and told us to bathe the baby in buttermilk. This did not do any good, so we took him to a hospital. He was treated as an out-patient twice a week and he got worse, if anything. We decided that it could not be cured and must run its course and so we just kept his arms bandaged to his side to prevent his tearing his flesh. We left Toronto and shortly after our arrival in Duluth, the Cuticura Remedies were recommended. We started using them in May, 1909, and soon the cure was complete. You would not think he was the same child for Cuticura made his skin perfectly clear and he is entirely free from the skin disease. There has been no return. We still use only Cuticura Soap for baby's bath."

TO CODIFY MINING LAWS.

J. M. Clark, K.C., of Toronto Will Undertake the Task.

Ottawa, Jan. 11.—There will be a federal codification of the mining laws of Canada. The work will begin at once. The Minister of Mines has placed in the hands of J. M. Clark, K.C., Toronto, the work of preparing the statute, which is to be drawn up on the basis that the disposition of mining lands will be vested in the Department of Mines.

This is the result of the agitation of the Canadian Mining Institute and particularly of the action of the special committee of the institute of which G. C. S. Lindsey was chairman.

The selection of J. M. Clark, K.C., to prepare a federal mining law to deal with all mining rights is a tribute to his capacity, and a recognition of his identification with notable mining litigation for the past decade.

In quite a number of constitutional cases, reaching through the Canadian courts to the Privy Council, Mr. Clark has figured and invariably with success. The same is true regarding large mining cases in which a long and extended experience has given him such mastery as few of his compeers possess.

Quite recently the Ophir mining case, which he brought to a successful conclusion through a tedious and tortuous course of litigation, ending in the Privy Council, has excited the attention of the legal profession and of the public, both because it decided the question of the Indian title so far as Ontario is concerned, and because a similar situation is becoming acute in British Columbia.

Commissioner Called to Washington.

Ottawa, Jan. 11.—Mr. John McDougald, commissioner of customs, the Government's leading authority of tariff matters, left Monday for Washington, having been summoned presumably to render expert assistance to the Canadian Ministers in the reciprocity negotiations.

Hon. James McMullen, in the days when he was not a Senator, but a member of Parliament and a militant member of the Liberal Opposition, believed firmly in reciprocity with the United States as a panacea for Canada's trade infirmities. His opinions, like those of many of his old-time colleagues, have undergone a change. Senator McMullen, who has returned to Ottawa to resume his sessional duties, speaking of the negotiations now in progress at Washington, expressed the hope that no treaty of reciprocity would result. He quite endorses the stand taken by Hon. Clifford Sifton in his address on Conservation, namely, that this is no time to take down the bars.

May Sue For Breach of Trust.

Pingal, Ont., Jan. 11.—Yeomen of this neighborhood, who had $50,000 on deposit in the Farmers' Bank, will meet this week, to decide upon some plan to protect their interests. A deputation of shareholders will wait on the Attorney-General to ask for intervention, in case any move is made to sacrifice the substance of the bank, or undue haste to realize the assets. Civil action against the directors and officials for breach of trust is talked of.

TO HELP SETTLERS

North Ontario to Have a Home Market for Pulpwood and Concessions Will Be Sold to any Company who Will Install Mill

AREA IS 2360 MILES

Toronto, Jan. 11.—With a view to supplying the settlers in an extensive area of Northern Ontario with what they have most desired since the country was opened up—a convenient market for their pulpwood — the Provincial Government has decided to offer for sale two important pulpwood concessions, one in the Abitibi, and the other in the Rainy River District. Orders in Council were passed by the Government yesterday authorizing the Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines to ask for tenders. A bonus in addition to the regular dues will be asked for the tenders.

The right to cut pulpwood over five area of 2,360 square miles contained in the Abitibi and Rainy River concessions carries with it an obligation to erect pulp and paper mills capable of handling the output of spruce, not only from the concessions, but from the surrounding country as well.

When Hon. Frank Cochrane visited the north country in September last he was requested by the settlers to try to secure for them a better market for their pulpwood. The land in the districts named is heavily wooded with spruce, which goes to the settler when he completes his settlement duties.

In the Temiskaming district farther south, and within reasonable distance of a market, the pulpwood upon a settler's section is an important factor in maintaining him and his family until he gets his land cleared and under cultivation. Further north in the district around Cochrane settlers are going in upon the land, but the long haul necessitated and the consequent heavy freight charges make the pulpwood of little immediate value to them and the district has been seriously handicapped for that reason. Hon. Mr. Cochrane promised the settlers that their request would be considered, and the present action is an endeavor to meet their wishes.

The Abitibi Lake concession, which is the largest, contains an approximate area of 1,560 square miles, and when the pulp and paper mill is established and in operation an excellent home market will be afforded for the pulp products of the settlers along the line of the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway and the Grand Trunk Pacific in the neighborhood of the junction at Cochrane.

A Land of Liberty.

Quebec, Jan. 11.—The Quebec Legislature opened yesterday afternoon. In the absence of Sir Alphonse Pelletier, Lieutenant-Governor, who is ill at Old Point Comfort, Va., Sir L. A. Jette, Chief Justice of the Court of King's Bench, presided. The speech from the throne makes mention of the striking success of the International Eucharistic Congress held in Montreal. It says:

"This success affords you another proof that the Province of Quebec is not only a land of faith, but preeminently also the land of liberty. On that occasion the Protestant population of the metropolis displayed admirable kindness, for which we cannot too heartily thank them."

Germany's Dreadnoughts.

Berlin, Jan. 11.—Germany will establish a record in 1911 by launching six Dreadnoughts. The announcement is made in last night's Deutsche Tages Zeitung, which points out that the new year will not only witness an unprecedented expenditure on the German fleet (312,500,000 marks), but the flouting of the greatest number of new vessels which has ever taken the water during a single twelvemonth.

Pays Landlord's Grocery Bill.

Toronto, Jan. 11.—In the absence from Divisional Court yesterday of Edward E. McIntosh, who is badly wanted on a charge of stealing $25,000 in unsigned Traders' Bank notes, the man who is renting McIntosh's Gailey avenue house, paid $26 of his rent to the court to cover bills for groceries for which C. A. Cressin and W. F. Blackburn were suing.

DYSPEPSIA Can Be Cured.

This disease is the all prevailing malady of civilized life, and one which oftenest baffles all ordinary treatment. It gives rise to a great variety of distressing symptoms, such as distress after eating, rising and souring of food, wind in the stomach, heartburn, etc.

Nearly everything that enters a weak dyspeptic stomach acts as an irritant; hence the great difficulty of effecting a cure.

The long train of distressing symptoms, which render life a burden to the victim of dyspepsia, may be promptly cured by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters.

B.B.B. regulates the stomach, liver and bowels, stimulates secretion of the saliva and gastric juice to facilitate digestion, purifies the blood, and tones up the entire system.

Mrs. Herman Dickens, Benton, N.B., writes: "I have used Burdock Blood Bitters and find that few medicines can give such relief in dyspepsia and stomach troubles. I was troubled for a number of years with dyspepsia, and could get no relief until I tried Burdock Blood Bitters. I took three bottles and became cured, and I can now eat anything without it hurting me. I will highly recommend it to all who are troubled with stomach trouble."

AFTER TREATMENT

Peter E. Summers relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indigestion and excesses in youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Many a time I dreamt at night was accused me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, bowels were sluggy, eyes blurred, hair began to fall, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, were electric belt for three months, but got no benefit. I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I consulted the NEW METHOD TREATMENT and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and continue to do so.

HEFFERNAN REMAINS JUNIOR SOREL FOR INTERMEDIATES

This Was the Decision Arrived at by the Executive of the Peterborough Hockey Club Last Night---Lineup for Trenton Same as That in Cobourg with Substitution of Capt. Ray for Heffernan.

At a meeting of the Executive of the Peterborough Hockey Club last night it was decided to keep Coverpoint Frank Heffernan on the line-up of the juniors for the season, and not use him in any more Intermediate games, which would make him ineligible for the Junior O. H. A. Sorel, however, will be used against Trenton on Friday night, and will therefore be unavailable for the Grillers in any more games. This decision clears up the situation considerably and was harmoniously arranged. The Intermediates needed a right wing player, and were given Sorel; the Juniors wanted a defence man and got Heffernan, so that both teams will be well balanced, and neither sacrificed for the other.

The line-up against Trenton in the game in Rev. Armstrong's town, on Friday night, will, therefore, be the same as that which defeated Cobourg on Monday night with the exception that Capt. Ray will be at rover, instead of Heffernan. Ray's foot has healed sufficiently to allow him to practise to-night for the first time since the game with the Argonauts a week ago Monday.

LAST NIGHT'S WINNERS IN THE NATIONAL LEAGUE

OTTAWAS TRIM RENFREW

RENFREW, JAN. 10.—Ottawa won a well-earned victory over Renfrew to-night by 5 to 4 in the most exciting hockey match that the Creamery Town has ever seen. After the score had been tied three times the visiting seven finished in magnificent style, running in two goals in as many minutes and getting a lead that Renfrew failed to overcome.

At the close of the first period the score was 1 to 1. Ottawa went ahead one minute after the commencement of the second, Walsh making it 2 to 1. Smith made it two all, and just before the teams left the ice Kerr batted one in for Ottawa, the team from the Capital leading by 3 to 2. In the final period Rowe scored for Renfrew, and for the next eleven minutes the teams fought hard. Man after man took the trail to the penalty box for slashing and tripping, in which the gruelling game abounded. Kerr's stick gave Ottawa a one-goal lead. Kerr dashed in a minute later and raised the figures to 5 to 3. Renfrew tried desperately to again equalize matters, but the best they could do was one goal, Smith lacing a long one in the nets behind Lesueur.

The biggest crowd of local record saw the game, five hundred coming up from Ottawa. It was fast hockey at all stages, played on a soft sheet of ice. Kerr was the star of the game the light-haired Brockville lad playing the finest hockey that he has ever put up.

Taylor was again in the limelight. The eccentric product of Listowel took sick in Ottawa last night, but decided to play. He was weak and ill in the first period, however, showing none of his usual brilliancy, and before the second session had concluded was taken out, Gilmour replacing him. The change weakened Renfrew, for Gilmour was off five or six times when most needed by his team, whereas Taylor did not draw a solitary rest. The line-up:

Referee—Desse Brown, Montreal.

WANDERERS BEAT QUEBEC

MONTREAL, JAN. 10.—There may have been faster hockey games in the Arena, and there may have been contests in the past where there was more skill exhibited, but it is doubtful if there ever was a match which furnished a more exciting finish than to-night's game between the champion Wanderer seven and the team from Quebec. Wanderers were leading all through the game, and were one point to the good five minutes before the end of the third period, when Oatman put the Quebecers even the score standing at 4 to 4 when the referee's whistle blew for time. It took thirteen minutes of over-time play to decide the matter, Glass winning the game for his team amid as much excitement as the Arena had seen for some time.

The game was just as close as the score would indicate, neither team having a remarkable advantage over the other. Both were strong in defensive play. During the first few minutes the Wanderers had a shade the better of the play, but neither team seemed able to strike their gait. In the second period the play was very even, and the quality better. In the last session the visitors were slightly the stronger. The crowd was not as large as that which turned out to the Ottawa-Canadiens game, but there well over 2,500 present. The line-up:

Referee, Russell Bowles; assistant referee, Duncan Campbell.

EXCURSION TO LINDSAY

Grillers Will Have a Special Train for the Important Game With the Midgets Next Tuesday Night.

BIG CROWD GOING

The Peterborough Hockey Club has made arrangements with the Grand Trunk Railway for a special train to Lindsay next Tuesday night, when the Grillers play the return game with the Midgets. Cobourg's victory over Lindsay on their own ice makes it imperative that the Grillers should repeat the trick, and undoubtedly a big crowd of fans will make the trip to Lindsay to see them do it. The train will leave Peterborough, it is expected, at 7.15 o'clock and will return immediately after the game. The fare will be $1.05 for adults and 55c. for children.

HAILEYBURY WON FROM NEW LISKEARD

Special to the Examiner.

HAILEYBURY, ONT., JAN. 11.—In a fast game of hockey last night Haileybury defeated New Liskeard, by a score of two to one. Ronan and Throop were the stars.

SOME HOCKEY HAPPENINGS

	Won	Lost	For	Ag'st Goals
Peterborough	2	0	22	6
Cobourg	1	1	10	9
Lindsay	0	2	7	24

Intermediate.

	Won	Lost	For	Ag'st Goals
Peterborough	1	0	9	6
Trenton	1	0	7	6
Belleville	1	1	16	11
Cobourg	0	2	11	19

Under the heading "a good arrangement,' the Toronto News states that owing to the fact that the senior schedule does not start until the end of the month, the Eatons will be able to use Preston, Rankin, Moffatt and other senior men on their intermediate team during the whole of the first round. It may be a good arrangement for Eatons, but not for the other clubs of the district. At that, it does not look from the outside that Eatons could win the intermediate championship with the whole of their seniors.

The interest the Peterborough fans are taking in the juniors this year was strikingly illustrated by the anxiety to know the result of last night's game between Cobourg and Lindsay in Midgetville. The Examiner telephones were worked overtime last night and this morning answering the question, "How did the game in Lindsay come out?" Cobourg's win in Scugogville seemed to be a surprise to the majority of those who heard the result.

Both Peterborough teams are strong finishers. In their three O. H. A. games only two goals have been scored against them in the second half. The Grillers have not been scored upon after half time in either game.

Percy Bond stopped a shot in Cobourg with his face with the result that he had to have three stitches put in his cheek after the game to close up the gash.

Peterborough players say that Cobourg handed out the gad unmercifully in the game on Monday night and McCord let them get away with most of it. Some one slashed Kelley over the knee so hard that his thick pad was cut in two and a bad gash inflicted, but no penalty was handed out. "Bud's" Knee is badly swollen, but it is hoped that he will be all right for the Trenton game on Friday.

There will be a full practice of the Peterborough junior and intermediate O. H. A. teams at the Brock street rink to-night. The players who have received season tickets are expected out.

CANADIAN NIGHT

Most Enjoyable Lecture Given by Mr. F. D. Kerr

The St. John's A. Y. P. A., which met on Monday night, had the pleasure of listening to a most interesting and instructive address from F. D. Kerr, Esq. Entitling his subject "A Canadian Evening," Mr. Kerr reviewed the past history of Canada, with especial reference to reforms brought about by leading politicians and lawyers, and pointed out some most absorbing items of interest.

In a skilful and scholarly way the lecturer showed that the present system of legislation was the outcome of a real desire to see the country flourish, and to obtain this result private prejudice had been overcome, and men of different political opinions had stood together especially during the period preceding Confederation. The outcome of the public-spirited action was an internal unity, of which we of to-day reap the benefits.

He also reviewed some of the laws on the Statute book, and contrasted the uniformity of the criminal law of Canada, with the different interpretations of the same law in various American States. Finally, the learned lecturer reminded his hearers that a noble heritage must be maintained intact, so that posterity, profiting by the past, may be able to advance all along the line, looking for the truest progress in the strength of Canada's manhood. An extract from Emerson to the effect that the nation wants broad men, rather than broad acres, brought a most enjoyable and instructive lecture to a close.

The thanks of the Association was tendered to Mr. Kerr, and the hope expressed that he would continue his remarks on another occasion. A large number will certainly look forward with pleasure to his lecture, judging by the comments heard after the meeting.

THE LAND HUNGER

Seventy—that's right, stranger;
Three score and ten—and lame—
A queer old sort of a nestor
To be stakin' a prairie claim.

But the land hunger has got me—
I must call some acres my own,
And that's why I drove my homestakes
Out here in the prairie loam.
I wanted to come at twenty,
But the old folks took on so
That I stayed in that down-east village
Where a man don't seem to grow.

At thirty I near persuaded
My wife that I ought to start
But she was the sort that's timid
And her fears made me lose heart.

And so through the years I lingered;
The old folks passed away,
There was kids of our own to hold us
But my dreams lived, day by day.

It held till the kids had left us
To paddle their own canoes
Then wife gave consent to wander
To the lands of the sunset hues.

She's comin' a little later,
I kin see how her smile 'll leap
When she sees me here in the sagebrush
A-drivin' our homestakes deep.
—Arthur Chapman in Denver Republican.

"THE PATAGONIA"

SANTA ROSA, JAN. 11.—One of the notable creations perfected this year by Luther Burbank, announcement of which has just been made public, is a strawberry of a new type, "The Patagonia." Some of the features of the new strawberry are that it commences to ripen first and continues to bear the longest.

Burbank worked on this strawberry for a number of years until this year he has pronounced it perfect.

Commenting on the strawberry, Mr. Burbank, in the announcement he has just prepared, says:

"The strawberries of the present time are about where the potato was forty years ago.

"Twenty-five years ago the work of improving the strawberry was commenced on my grounds; all the popular varieties of that time and also the wild strawberries of New England, Alaska, Norway and the far better ones of the California seashore and mountains were used, but no striking results were obtained until the second generation, when among the very numerous hybrid seedlings under test was found this unique berry, which was at once recognised as the grand prize."

Pains or Cramps

"I carry Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills with me all the time, and for aches and pains there is nothing equals them. I have used them for rheumatic pains, headache, and pains in side and back, and in every case they give perfect satisfaction."
HENRY COURLEN,
Boonton, N. J.

Pain comes from tortured nerves. It may occur in any part of the head or body where there is weakness or pressure upon the nerves.
Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills

Could Not Rest at Night.
Back Was So Weak.
Weak, lame and aching backs are the primary cause of kidney trouble. When the back aches or becomes weak it is a warning from the kidneys that everything is not right with them.
Heed the warning: cure the weak, lame, aching back and dispose of any chances of further trouble.
If you don't do this, serious complications are very apt to arise and the first thing you know you will be troubled with Dropsy, Diabetes or Bright's Disease, the three most deadly forms of Kidney Trouble.
On the first sign of anything wrong Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken. They go to the seat of the trouble and strengthen the kidneys, thereby strengthening the back.
Mrs. John Puigh, Parkdale, Man., writes: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and find nothing to beat them. I could not rest at night my back was so weak. I tried everything, but could not get anything to do me any good until I was told by a friend to use Doan's Kidney Pills. I tried them and I am not the same weak woman I was before. I am very thankful to have found so speedy a cure."
Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.
If ordering direct specify "Doan's."

WEDDING BELLS

FAIRBURN—PEARSON.

A quiet, but pretty, wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pearson of North Smith, on Wednesday afternoon of last week when their daughter, Alice Edna, was united in marriage to Mr. L. A. Fairburn of Peterborough. At 2.30 the bride, dressed in white silk mulle, with overlace to match, entered the parlour, leaning on the arm of her father, and took her place beside the groom, the couple being unattended. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. W. I. M. Cline, pastor of the Methodist church, at Lakefield.

After the congratulations had been received the bride led the way to the dining-room, where a sumptuous dinner had been served. After dinner, the happy young couple left to take the train at Peterborough for Toronto, Niagara, and other points west. The bride's going-away dress was green caplin. Mr. and Mrs. Fairburn will, upon their return, take up their residence at 220 London street, and a host of friends join in wishing them health and prosperity.

JOHNSTON—SISSON.

A quiet, but pretty, house wedding was solemnised at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the bride's home on Pearl Ave., when Miss Annie Sisson and Mr. Geo. Johnston of Peterborough, were united in the bonds of holy matrimony, by Rev. H. R. Trumpour. The wedding march, from Lohengrin, was played by Miss Beatrice Stark. At the close of the ceremony a dainty luncheon was served. The bride looked charming in a suit of cream San Toy.

The happy young couple left on the 4.38 train for Toronto and points west. The bride was attired in a becoming travelling suit of navy blue, with velvet hat to match. They will reside in Peterborough.

TRADES AND LABOUR

The Trades and Labour Council will meet to-night in their hall on Simcoe St., at 8 o'clock sharp. Business of importance.

Fear for Safety of Barge.

Owen Sound, Jan. 11.—Fears are entertained for the safety of the captain and crew of the barge Isabella Sands, which came into the Carney Lumber Co.'s dock late Sunday evening with a load of lumber taken from the steamer Alaska, which was burned at Tobermory some time ago. The Sands tied up safely, but when morning broke she had disappeared, and has not since been seen or heard. It is thought that stress of weather caused the captain to seek to run across the bay to a less exposed position and that the wind forced him out into the bay.

Linking Up the Hydro.

London, Jan. 11.—Hon. Adam Beck said last night that it was probable that the St. Mary's station would be sufficiently advanced to-day to permit of the connection of the loop from London with that from Berlin and the east. This will do away with the breaks in the service occurring here and at Berlin.

Keeping Out Anarchists.

Ottawa, Jan. 11.—Anarchists driven from England will find difficulty in landing at Canadian ports from now on. Special instructions were issued yesterday to immigration officials at Halifax and St. John to keep a sharp watch for suspicious characters, and refuse them entry to the country.

New President for U. S. Steel.

New York, Jan. 11.—James A. Farrell of Brooklyn, is the choice of the finance committee of the U. S. Steel Corporation to succeed Wm. Ellis Corey as president of the corporation. Wm. Farrell has been the president of the United States Products Co. ever since its organization in 1903, and has been connected with the manufacturing and commercial departments of iron and steel industry for more than twenty-five years.

It is understood that when elected to the presidency of the corporation on Jan. 24 he will confine his activities to the practical and technical sides of the vast organization.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

The presbyteries of Montreal, Ottawa and Orangeville voted in favor of church union.

Hon. Sydney Fisher and Mr. C. C. James addressed the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union meeting at Guelph.

A bull dog kept a dozen London policemen at bay when they tried to enter the room in which its master had committed suicide.

The question of church union was decided by the Ottawa presbytery at a meeting yesterday. The vote showed 36 in favor and 5 against union.

Restitution to the amount of $1,300,000 was made yesterday by men who were indicted in connection with the Pennsylvania state capitol frauds.

It is announced King George will open Parliament on Feb. 6. He will be accompanied by the Queen, and there will be a full state ceremony.

Dr. Tremblay of the Quebec Board of Health, left for Allumette Island, on the Ottawa River, where some two dozen cases of smallpox are giving a great deal of trouble to the local authorities.

According to a report the Ontario Powder Co. has gone into a merger, with head office at Montreal. C. A. MacPherson, interviewed in regard to the matter, would neither confirm nor deny the report.

Boy Refused Admission.

London, Jan. 11.—Much astonishment and indignation were expressed by members of the Liverpool Cotton Exchange yesterday at the fact that the American immigration officers had refused to allow Charles Heape, the thirteen-year-old son of Frederick Heape, a prominent cotton broker and member of the Exchange, to land in America with his uncle, H. J. Munn.

A cablegram from New York states that in spite of Mr. Munro's energetic protests, the lad was sent to Ellis Island to be dealt with by the Immigration Board. The Cunard Company, by whose line Mr. Munro and his nephew crossed the Atlantic, and Mr. Wilmer, mayor of Birkenhead, who is Mr. Heape's partner in the firm of Wilmer, Stephens & Heape, have cabled a message of protest to the American Secretary of State.

Both Want C.N.R.

Brockville, Jan. 11.—Brockville was invaded yesterday by deputations from Newboro, Westport and North Crosby, en route to Ottawa, for the purpose of interviewing the Minister of Railways and Canals in reference to the location of the proposed route of the Canadian Northern Railway, which will touch that section of the country on the line that is being constructed from Toronto to Ottawa via Smith's Falls. There is great rivalry between Westport and Newboro for the station that will connect with the B., W. & N.W.R. The line, as at present surveyed, goes via Chaffey's Locks, crossing the B., W. & N.W.R tracks between Crosby and Forfar, and does not touch either place. North Crosby is supporting Westport's claims.

Ticket of Leave System.

Ottawa, Jan. 11.—The Department of Justice has decided to put a stricter application on the ticket of leave system for criminals. Heretofore many criminals have left the country and gone over to the United States on being released on ticket of leave. This, the Department has decided, is not to be allowed to pass unpunished wherever possible in future. To that end, they are in communication with several cities on the American side where the Canadian ticket-of-leave men are known to reside, and will have them arrested and extradited to Canada, when they will be sent back to prison to complete their sentences.

Movement Against Mormons.

Liverpool, Jan. 11.—A strong movement, supported by the Bishop of Liverpool and prominent churchmen, has been started against Mormon activity here. At a meeting which was attended by many influential people, resolutions were adopted asking the Home Secretary, Winston Spencer Churchill, to take action against Mormon proselytising as already has been done in Germany.

Censured Sims.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—President Taft yesterday decided that Commander W. W. Sims, the U. S. naval officer, who at a recent dinner given in London by the mayor of that city, declared that if Great Britain ever were seriously threatened, she could depend on "every man, every dollar, every drop of blood" in this country, should be publicly reprimanded.

Storms Bother Trains.

Toronto, Jan. 11.—The recent storms in the Northwest have affected the passenger service between Winnipeg and Toronto, and C.P.R. train No 94, from Winnipeg, due here at 3.30 yesterday afternoon, did not arrive at the Union Station until 10 o'clock last night. The same train was over four hours late on Monday.

Will Pay Off Church Debt.

Kingston, Jan. 11.—St. James' Church was left $5,000 by the late Miss Fowler, a former member of the congregation, who recently died in England. The amount is to be applied to any purposes necessary for the church, and is about sufficient to clear the debt off the church.

Ask License Reduction.

Blenheim, Jan. 11.—At the inaugural meeting of the Town Council a strong deputation from the W.C.T.U. headed by Rev. A. J. Bowen and Rev. Mr. McAllister, asked for a reduction of licenses from three to two. They were asked to secure signatures to a petition.

Threaten General Strike.

Kingston, Jan. 11.—Another big strike in spring is freely talked among labor men. This will not be merely a strike among carpenters or masons, but will be a general one among all classes of labor.

MONEY FOUND ON SOFA ON WHICH FENTON WAS SITTING AFTER MURDER

Murdered Man Had Drawn $100 From the Bank Shortly Before His Death and Merchants Testify That His Son Was Spending Freely Afterwards.

BIG CROWD PRESENT

Special Wire to The Examiner.

HAMILTON, JAN. 12. — Crowds tried to get into the Tom Fenton murder trial this morning and several panes of glass were broken and other damage done during the crush. A neighbour witness told of going out with Tom to see the body of his father lying in the barn and Tom said his father frequently had a lot of money about him. Wilbert Fenton, a brother who lived some distance away, told how sixty dollars in crisp Traders Bank bills was found secreted in a lounge on which Tom was seated on the afternoon of the murder. The manager of the Traders' Bank at Stoney Creek, testified that Elijah Fenton, the murdered man, had drawn one hundred dollars previous to the murder. Merchants in Hamilton told of Tom spending a lot of money two weeks after the murder.

SON OF THE BANDIT

KANSAS CITY, MO., JAN. 11.—Stella F. James was granted a divorce from Jesse E. James, son of Jesse James, the famous bandit, in the Circuit Court here last night. James did not contest the suit. Mrs. James was given the custody of their four children and $100 a month alimony. Mrs. James testified that she and her husband had separated three times since their marriage eleven years ago.

ARRESTED FOR FRAUD

Man Accused of Working a Land Scheme in Canada

MANCHESTER, N. H., JAN. 11 — Unable to get bail of $4,000 Joseph De Champlain, President of the New England Investment Company, and a resident of this city is in the lockup charged by United States postal officials with using the mails in a scheme to defraud. Champlain was arrested in the railroad station as he alighted from the Montreal express, and was about to greet his wife who had been waiting in the station five hours for the delayed train.

He was on his way to Providence to attend a meeting to-day of the investment company at which it had been planned to oust him from the presidency, and reorganize the concern.

De Champlain is charged with having obtained at least $660,000 from credulous investors, mostly people of small means through alluring circulars sent through the mails.

This was to be Champlain's last day as President of the company, as it was planned, it is said, to oust him and all other officers at the annual meeting and to mortgage the property for $60,000 to secure a working capital and pay some of the outstanding debts.

De Champlain while in Canada inaugurated a new land scheme, it is said, the working of which is not known to his friends.

ATTACKS HIS WIFE AND CUTS HIS OWN THROAT

Man Attempts to Murder His Wife With a Hammer and Then Tries Suicide---Defies the Police Until He Was Overcome by Loss of Blood.

Special Wire to the Examiner.

SALAMANACA, JAN. 11.—After attempting to kill his wife with a hammer yesterday and then cutting his own throat, from the effects of which he will die, Edward B. Smith, of Little Valley, upon the approach of an officer who had been summoned to the scene by a daughter, who had made her escape from her father's murderous rage, ran to the head of the stairway of his residence and from that vantage point, held at bay for nearly 20 minutes Sheriff Wheaton of Cattaragus County and two officers. At length, becoming exhausted from the loss of blood, he surrendered and was taken to the jail, where medical attention was given him.

His death is but a matter of a short time. Mrs. Smith was terribly injured about the head, but in the opinion of Dr. Fred C. Beals, of this place, will survive.

In the struggle with her husband two bones in each of her hands were also broken.

The terrible affair occurred as the culmination of domestic troubles which have existed in the Smith home for the past few weeks and in which Smith has persistently been the aggressor. Drink had been largely a contributing factor, having made Smith quarrelsome and led to his demanding money to satisfy his appetite, which his wife refused.

Several weeks ago Smith left home after abusing his family and nothing more was heard of him until yesterday, when he returned.

He went to the Cattaraugus cutlery plant, where he told a workman that he had a notion to kill his wife. Soon he went to his home. Shortly after entering the house he procured a hammer and began his fiendish assault upon his wife. In the house also at the time, was a daughter, Winnifred, who managed to get out of the house and ran to the home of a neighbour, where she told of what her father was doing. Constable Thomas was at once summoned and was soon at the house.

Upon entering, the constable was seen by Smith, who ran upstairs, a hammer in one hand, a razor in the other and blood from a terrible gash in the throat.

Here he defied the officers until weakness compelled him to surrender.

"May Be Able To Do Without Newspapers, Churches And The Theatre In Time"

Special Wire to the Examiner.

MONTREAL, QUE., JAN. 12. — Laudislaus Dedoory, representing European capitalists is here arranging for the installation of a system of sending news, sermons and theatre plays over the telephone. The system has worked out well in Europe and Chicago. "We may be able to do without either newspaper, churches or theatre in time," said one enthusiast here.

EXPLOSION DURING BARGAIN RUSH KILLED FOUR

Special Wire to The Examiner.

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., JAN. 12 — Four persons were killed and a number injured in a gas explosion in the 5c and 10c store here this morning during the bargain rush. Fortunately the walls held for several minutes after the explosion, giving most of the clerks and customers time to get out. Fire followed and the damage will be $100,000.

A DEMONSTRATION WILL BE HELD ON LABOUR DAY

At the meeting of the Trades and Labour Council last night, it was unanimously decided that a Labour Day demonstration be held in this city. Committees will be formed and will get to work at once.

There is no doubt but that the demonstration will be a big affair, and the Trades Council will get support and encouragement from the citizens.

CLAIM WATER FLOODED ROOM AND DID DAMAGE

Yesterday morning a case for damages was heard before His Honour Judge Huycke, at the County Court room. This case was brought by Mr. John Green against Longo & Sons, the Hunter street fruit dealers.

It seems that Mr. Green had occupied rooms, sublet from Longo, over the latter's store. The charge was that Longo had allowed the water works system to become plugged, overflow and destroy furniture belonging to Mr. Green. Mr. Green put in a claim for damages to the amount of $100. Witness in the case said Mr. Green's rooms were flooded by water which overflowed from the apartments of Mr. Longo. Witness said Mr. Green owed him for rent. UNJUST TO WORKMEN.

The hours for polling in Dominion elections discriminate unjustly against person s employed in factories and stores — against the great body of workingmen and clerks whose time is not their own, says the Toronto Globe. The man whose office day begins at half-past nine may cast his vote before he leaves his home. The heads of institutions and those whose position entitles them to take absence without leave may arrange to take an hour or two at some part of the day between nine and five.

But the mechanic in a factory or the clerk in a store is bound to remain at his post from seven or eight o'clock in the morning until five or six at night. He must either vote during the noon hour or get leave of absence, for which he is liable to be "docked." There is in the Ontario law provision that a voter within a city or town may absent himself from noon until two o'clock, for the purpose of voting, and shall not have his wages deducted. There is no such provision in the Dominion law.

Mr. Macdonnell, member for South Toronto, proposes that the day of Dominion general elections shall be a public holiday, and that in cities, towns and incorporated villages the poll shall be opened from six in the morning until eight at night. The latter provision, at least, should be made law, in justice to a large ly of voters. Mr. Macdonell also proposes to abolish the law forfeiting the deposit of a candidate who receives less than half as many votes as the person elected. It is a bad law, intended to burk independence in the electorate, and it ought to be wiped off the statute book.

THE MAN WITH AN IDEAL.

On this particular day, says the Ottawa Citizen, the last of the first week of the New Year, when many of us are engaged in clearing away the broken fragments of the resolutions we made a week ago, it is especially fitting that we consider the value of the ideal. Last week we were all ready to welcome with high acclaim any shiny ideal that glowed in the twilight of the dying year.

But now, in the normal light of a week after, when the varnish of virtue has become somewhat stretched by our accustomed sins, and the glamor has gloomed into the habitual, we may rightly attempt to appraise an ideal at its real and practical value. We are in much better condition to do it now than we were amid the sentimental surges of the New Year.

It may be stated in sober truth that the man with an ideal is the man with a future. More than all others, he is the citizen who is able to contribute most to the welfare and uplift of Canada. Without him, our country has no future, no promise, no grip upon the eternal. With him, we have the new hope and promise, and surety of progress that alone can make this a happy and prosperous New Year, and this land of ours a happy and prosperous New Nation.

Unhappy the man who has no ideal! He is like the artist who keeps on applying the colours to the canvas without a copy or a definite design. He is like a carpenter who keeps on sawing and chiselling and nailing without having conception of the ultimate product or usefulness of his toil. Or he is like a demented traveller, who takes any train in any direction to go anywhere.

An ideal of personal life and character is absolutely essential to success and good citizenship. Whatever man is facing the year of 1911, without facing also the never-forgotten picture of the man that he ought to become and desires to become is seriously handicapped for any effort to attain the larger and finer fruitions of the year. He it is who becomes a nobleman, a drifter with the crowd, a human flunk of the inert lump of humanity that has ever resisted the forces of evolution and progress.

The first duty of a citizen is to the highest conception of consciousness of the powers that are his, and the latter will be much at loss if it does not talk about loyalty to one's native land if one is not first loyal to his own faculties. How shall any man make Canada what it ought to be when he has not first made himself that strong and pure man that nature made it possible for him to be?

The peril of democracy is poverty of idealism. Under modern conditions of equality it is so easy to become groove-runners. And in the complexity of social relations we are more and more at the mercy of our fellows, swung along in the currents of opinion and habit, and moulded by the forced contacts of social and industrial life.

The man, who, amid such surroundings, can hold himself true to the ideal, and who struggles valiantly towards it, becomes a live centre of progress and human betterment. His struggles shall, in time, become new, popular impulses toward the right. Just as a very small tug can in time overcome the inertia of a very large ship, so one man, moved by the power of an ideal, can at last move the multitude in the right direction.

And equally important is the possession of an ideal of the future Canada. In this stage of nation-forming, when the future takes shape under our hands, there is an imperative demand for the men who dare to dream of a country greater and nobler than any that has yet taken its place among the nations of the world. There is a demand for dreamers, who shall catch the vision of the Land-to-Come, whose brave song shall thrill us erect from our commercial crouch, and make us lift our eyes to the beauty our wiser work may bring to be?

Canada! Have you had no dream of what the word will some time come to mean? Have you as a Canadian had no vision of a land nobler, greater, stronger, truer than any other? Have you given rein to your imagination in an attempt to compass its wide reach from sea to sea, and yet again to sea? Have you never thought of a Canada where right shall be regnant, where business shall be brotherhood, where justice shall be real and universal, where the tyrannies of the old worlds shall be lost and forgotten in the triumphs of the new?

If you are a citizen with this ideal, and set forth upon this year's pilgrimage with it glowing before you, you will give hope and promise to our common homeland. In the name of Canada, think high and broad, and then live to the limit of your thought!

A PRODIGIOUS PROGRAMME.

(London Advertiser.)

The formal opening of the new British Parliament takes place on Monday, February 6. First and foremost will be the bill to limit the veto of the House of Lords. The programme for the session is a stupendous one, as follows:

1. Veto Bill.
2. Local government for Ireland and possibly home rule all round.
3. Electoral reform, including:
(a) A redistribution according to population. The basis will be about 12,000 voters for one member.
(b) One man, one vote.
(c) Elections on one and the same day.
(d) Payment of members—£300 a year.
(e) Reduction of legal expenses of elections.
(f) Three months' residence to qualify for a vote. (It now takes about eighteen months.)
4. State insurance against:
(a) Unemployment.
(b) Sickness.
(c) Invalidity.
5. Disestablishment of the Church of England in Wales.

The proposed electoral reforms are not far from the law as it is in Canada, but in Great Britain the principle of "one man, one vote" has been combatted by all the power of the Unionist party. Mr. Harcourt's bill to establish it was carried in the House of Commons on May 14, 1906, by 403 votes to 95. It was rejected by the House of Lords by 143 votes to 43. That the hereditary Chamber should presume to fix the electoral basis of the popular chamber, and defy the latter's wishes in the matter, is not the least of the outrages for which the peers are now about to be punished.

A session that will deal with the veto of the House of Lords, home rule, electoral reform, state insurance, and Welsh disestablishment, will rank as one of the most momentous in the history of the mother of parliaments.

Stole Oats From Neighbor.

Cornwall, Jan. 12. The winter assizes closed here last evening, after a two-days' sitting before Sir Glenholme Falconbridge, chief justice. There were two civil and one criminal case on the docket. In the case of Joshua G. Fetterly of Matilda, charged with stealing about 60 bags of oats from a neighbor, the prisoner pleaded guilty after the grand jury had returned a true bill against him. He was sentenced to two and a half years in Kingston Penitentiary.

ULCERS AND SORES

Cannot Resist Zam-Buk's Healing Power

An illustration of the way in which Zam-Buk cures even the most serious and chronic cases of ulcers, eruptions and sores is provided by Mr. R. H. Barker, of Glencairn, Ont. He says:

"I would not have believed that any remedy could cure so quickly, and at the same time so effectively, as Zam-Buk cured me.

"My face began to be covered with a kind of rash, which itched and irritated. This rash then turned to sores, which discharged freely and began to spread. I first tried one thing and then another, but nothing seemed to do me any good, and the eruption got worse and worse, until my face was just covered with running sores.

"Apart from the pain (which was very bad), my face was such a terrible sight that I was not fit to go out. This was my state when some one advised me to try Zam-Buk. I got a supply, and, marvellous as it may sound, within little under a month every sore on my face was healed. I was so amazed that I have told the facts to several persons, and I have no objection to your stating my experience for the benefit of other sufferers."

Zam-Buk is purely herbal in composition, and is the ideal balm for babies and young children, for whose tender skin coarse ointments are so dangerous. Zam-Buk is a sure cure for cold sores, chapped hands, frost bite, blood-poison, varicose sores, piles, scalp sores, ringworm, inflamed patches, babies' eruptions and chapped places, cuts, burns, bruises and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price.

New York, Jan. 12.—Geo. W. Perkins, former member of the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co., has been chosen by Mr. Morgan, it was reported yesterday, as one of the three trustees for the Equitable Life Assurance Society. Should Mr. Perkins become a trustee, he will fill the position held by the late Grover Cleveland.

No Plural Voting.

Montreal, Jan. 12.—It was announced yesterday that the Mutual Reform Club intend to inaugurate a vigorous campaign in Montreal for the abolition of the plural vote in the Province of Quebec.

Senator Hughes Dead.

Denver, Col., Jan. 12.—U. S. Senator Charles J. Hughes, junior Senator from Colorado, died in his home here yesterday after a long illness. Death was due to a general breakdown.

Reciprocity In Dairy Products.

Stratford, Jan. 12.—The dairymen in attendance at the Western Ontario Dairymen's Association convention yesterday afternoon passed the following resolution though not unanimously.

"That the Government of Canada be respectfully but most strongly urged in the negotiations now pending between Canada and the U.S., to provide for complete reciprocal free trade in all lines of dairy produce."

COUGHED ALL NIGHT

Till This Recipe Was Tried. Cure Followed in Five Hours

A prominent medical man who suffered with a severe cough and cold on the lungs, often, being kept awake all night, and weakened by loss of sleep, finally discovered a simple formula, which will cure any cough in five hours by the clock. It is a laxative tonic cough syrup which can be made at home by anyone, and the formula is here given for the benefit of those who pass sleepless nights in painful paroxysms. Those who have tried it say it is magical and beats any high-priced, slow acting cough medicine ever sold.

Mix in a bottle one-half ounce fluid wild cherry bark, one ounce compound essence cardiol and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Take twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then take one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times a day. Give children less according to age. This will tone up and rid the system of deep-seated coughs every time.

Increases the Schedule.

Ottawa, Jan. 12.—There is talk in the capital of asking reciprocity with the United States on a point where none now exists.

All shipments of goods from Canada to the United States of value of $100 or over must have attached to them a document from the U. S. consulate. To obtain that document it is necessary to pay $2.50, which to all intents is an increase in the regular schedule of duties. There are no Canadian consuls in the United States, so there could not be any corresponding arrangement.

A Chilly Fire.

Winnipeg, Jan. 12.—With the thermometer 35 below zero Tuesday midnight, some twenty or thirty persons occupying apartments in the Parrish block, corner Gertie and Notre Dame streets, were forced to choose between jumping down the burning stairs or climbing down the outside fire escapes, few of them being clad in more than their night clothes. Several small children were in the block, and a number of persons were badly frost-bitten or burned, but no lives were lost.

Church Union.

Kingston, Jan. 12.—Rev. W. T. Wilkins, clerk of the Kingston presbytery, speaking regarding the objection to the meeting re church union, holds that the presbytery has a right to discuss the question at the January session. The opinion of some of the local members of the presbytery is that all the protest against the January meeting is passed, while they might discuss church union at the majority vote would not be legally taken at a [illegible]

Cattle Killed by Gas.

Chatham, Jan. 12.—In the Division Court at Wallaceburg Tuesday, an action was brought by David Eberts of Dover Township, against the Fuel Supply Co. of Sarnia to recover damages for live stock killed by the fumes of natural gas from the mains of the defendant company, which pass through Ebert's fields. Judgment was awarded the plaintiff, $60 damages being allowed.

The plaintiff put up the claim that a peculiar and deadly effect of this gas is that the animals do not become sensitive to it, and suddenly are overcome and die. They are not repulsed by the odor, and consequently do not avoid the vicinity of the leaking pipes.

Collision at Welland.

Welland, Jan. 12.—A small wreck occurred at the Grand Trunk Depot here about 8 o'clock yesterday morning, when a Wabash engine with caboose, southbound, smashed into a freight train standing at the depot, partly wrecking the Grand Trunk caboose and crushing the front of a freight car. The locomotive was badly damaged, the front trucks being torn off the tracks.

The engineer was slightly injured, the rest of the trainmen being unhurt. A bad curve in the road here badly obstructs the view. It is claimed that the semaphore was partly down.

Stepped on Matches.

Ottawa, Jan. 12.—Accidentally stepping on some matches in the match factory of the E. B. Eddy Co., Miss E. St. Louis, of Hull, an employe, had a narrow escape with her life yesterday. The matches ignited and caught her clothings, the girl running screaming from the mills. Charles De Repentigny, a timekeeper, managed to get hold of the girl and tearing off her clothing probably saved her life.

De Repentigny came away with badly burnt arms and hands, while the girl escaped with minor injuries to her limbs.

Sudden Death.

Chatham, Jan. 12.—While walking along William street Tuesday evening about a 5.15, Mrs. Louisa Parsons, wife of Francis Parsons, Queen street, became suddenly ill, and after she had been carried into an adjoining building, expired of heart failure. She had not been ill previously.

Trade Representative in Venezuela.

Ottawa, Jan. 12.—It is understood that Sir Richard Cartwright will appoint in the near future a Canadian trade agent to Venezuela. Flour is selling in that country at $16 gold, and a great many articles produced in the Dominion will find a ready market in Venezuela.

ECZEMA FOR 20 YEARS

What is so annoying and disfiguring as itching Eczema? Mr. Frod W. Clark, Petworth, Addington Co., Ont., writes that his mother suffered from Eczema on both legs for 20 years, unable to get relief or cure from doctors or medicines. She found that Dr. Chase's Ointment brought great relief and it soon made the cure complete. He states that no one could have the disease worse or suffer more.

P.A.Y.E. in Ottawa.

Ottawa, Jan. 12.—For an hour and a half Tuesday night during the rush between 5 and 6.30 o'clock, Messrs. A. B. Ingram, vice-chairman of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, F. H. Wise, chief engineer of the board, R. McRae, master mechanic of the Toronto Street Railway Co., and McCullough, Cousens, and Campbell, Toronto experts, stood at the corners of the main intersections, their watches in their hands, watching Ottawa's working population hurry home via Ottawa Electric Railway Co. cars. All the cars that passed this corner, which is the busiest in the city, are equipped with the pay-as-you-enter system, and despite the thousands of passengers boarding the cars there the average time taken by each one to enter the car, pay his or her fare, and take a seat, was only from one and one-quarter to two seconds.

Died at Ninety.

Ottawa, Jan. 12.—The death occurred Tuesday night in L'Original, at his old home, of ex-Judge Peter O'Brian, of the united counties of Prescott and Russell. The late judge was 90 years of age, and retired from the bench several years ago going into private life in L'Original. While suffering from the effects of weakness due to old age the deceased had always been up and about the old homestead and his death was very peaceful.

Y.M.C.A. for Pekin.

New York, Jan. 12.—John Wanamaker has just promised to erect his sixth Y.M.C.A. building in the Far East. It was announced yesterday at the international headquarters here that he had pledged $60,000 to provide a Y.M.C.A. building for Pekin, China. It was also announced that, of the $2,000,000 fund recently started to erect fifty or sixty association buildings in strategic centres in foreign lands, $1,800,000 has been pledged.

Killed by Snowslide.

Nelson, B.C., Jan. 12.—Fred E. Bartlett, a resident in the Slocan district for 17 years, was killed Tuesday at Silverton by a snowslide from the roof of one of the buildings at the Galena Farm Mines. He was an ordained Congregational minister, but deafness had compelled him to leave the ministry, and for eight years he has been caretaker of the Galena Farm mines.

For Church Union.

Montreal, Jan. 12.—Church union was the paramount question discussed at Tuesday's meeting of the Montreal presbytery, held in Knox Church, a decision being finally reached in favor of the general assembly's remit embodying the proposed basis, the voting being 33 in favor and 25 against.

Portuguese Railway Strike.

The Government had long been warned of the movement and took active measures to maintain the service, with partial success.

A Bigger Proposition.

Brantford, Jan. 12.—Representatives from Preston, Berlin and Galt recently confirmed here with local hospital representatives in reference to the establishment of a tuberculous hospital for the adjacent counties on a large farm at Galt. As a result, the movement here for a Brant County hospital has been delayed, and the medical association has been asked to consider the bigger proposition.

Hotelkeeper Prosecuted.

Brantford, Jan. 12.—Local hotelkeepers have inaugurated a campaign to prevent minors from getting liquor under false pretences as to the statement that they are of age. The Kirby House on Wednesday prosecuted a young man who had been ordered away. Other cases are to follow. The license inspector is assisting the hotelkeepers in the movement.

By John T. McIntyre. Copyrighted and All Rights Reserved

"I know what you mean," she said, lightly. "You think that they might go so far as to take me into custody as an accessory to the crime, or even as the actual criminal."

"Mr. Osborne told me that such was their intention, if you do not explain clearly your connection with the case. I dont' think that the Department is at all anxious to draw you into the matter; but some of the newspapers, as you no doubt have noted, have grown very insistent. They say that a poor musician is jailed instantly, while the woman of fashion, who is, perhaps, equally guilty, is allowed to go free. Such ways of putting things have a great effect upon public opinion; the politicians who conduct the municipal departments know this, and always move to protect themselves, no matter in what direction the movement takes them."

"Then," said Miss Vale, "you really think they will do as Mr. Osborne said?"

"I have no doubt of it—if the matter is not cleared up before the time arrives for them to act."

The girl arose and went to a window as though to look out; the investigator saw her hand pressed to her heart, and noted the trembling that had seized her. Yet, when she faced him once more, a moment or two later, she made a brave attempt to smile as before.

"I think this is too bad of you," she said. "Your point of view is almost as pessimistic as the detectives, or the newspapers. I had expected comfort and encouragement."

"And I came to give it—if you'll allow me," said Ashton-Kirk, quietly.

She looked at him for a moment, then both hands went out in a mock despairing gesture, and she laughed. But the laugh was unmistakably forced and a keen ear for such things would have detected a pathetic little catch in it.

"Now," she said, "you are becoming mysterious. However, I suppose I must not complain, for it is entirely in character with your profession, isn't it?"

He disregarded both the observation and the tone; there was a slight pucker between his keen eyes that spoke of impatience and resentment.

"Mr. Osborne has been very plain with you, Miss Vale," said he, "you have perhaps become accustomed to it in a measure. So I shall not hesitate to follow in his footsteps. I am going to make you face some very plain facts."

"Mercy!" She laughed. "Mercy, Mr. Ashton-Kirk. I had not thought that you could be so deliberately cruel."

"In the first place, Miss Vale," he began, paying not the slightest attention to her laughter or the mocking light in her eyes, "if you had continued as you began, this matter would have been cleared up before this, the newspapers would never have printed your name in connection with it, and you would have been spared the mortification of a detective at your doorstep."

"Is there one outside?"

"There are several. If you venture out you will be followed wherever you go."

The girl sank into a chair in a limp, rumpled sort of way; somehow the idea of surveillance affected her more than anything else. Her face became ashen; her hands shook distressfully as she clasped them tightly together.

"When you allowed the fears and desires of Allan Morris to cloud your reason, you made a mistake. You admitted as much when you came to me after the murder; but instantly, upon seeing him again, you were as before. He was struck with fear, and he communicated his terror to you: as before you dreaded to trust anyone—even myself."

"I think you are inclined to take a great deal for granted," said Miss Vale. But in spite of the words, her eyes were wide with alarm.

"He told you of the deaf-mute, Locke," said Ashton-Kirk; "and also other things, which seem to have induced you to visit Locke at the Institute near Cordova on the night before last."

Miss Vale elevated her brows in surprise; her attitude was one of wonderment.

"I don't think I understand."

"And you did not seem to understand yesterday when I called upon you. You fancied that I was not sure that I had seen you, and had come expecting you to admit the visit to Locke. And as I went away, you also fancied that you had thrown me off the scent." He smiled at the recollection, in spite of his evident resentment of her position. "But the fact of the matter was that I knew your fiance had been the cause of your visit to the mute. You had seen Morris, you knew where he was, and I thought it would be a useful thing for me to be also acquainted with his whereabouts."

"But," protested Miss Vale, in a faint voice, but still acting her chosen role to the best of her gifts, "if I had known and desired to conceal his whereabouts, surely you did not expect me to tell you of it."

"Not directly. But, if you remember, I dropped a hint that his hiding place was about to be discovered. This was true; you were about to disclose it. I had only to wait and follow as you rushed off to warn him."

She leaned back in her chair and regarded him strangely, but he proceeded with evenness:

"Your work upon the road was very clever; I congratulate you upon it. But it was scarcely sufficiently inspired to deceive an old hand."

Here he waited, apparently expecting her to speak. But as she did not take advantage of the pause, he went on:

"I called this morning to acquaint you with these things and to advise you on your future course. I must admit that I rather admire your steadfastness in following out what Allan Morris has desired of you; however, it is a great mistake for a strong nature to submit to the clamorings of a weaker one."

She sat suddenly erect; protest was in her eyes, and one hand went up in denial. But, though her lips opened as though she were about to speak, no words came; once more she sank back in the chair with the air of one compelled to admit a bitter truth.

"I am not so sure as to how deep Morris is in this murder," continued the investigator, "but I have some ideas on the subject. On the other hand I am quite sure that you are promised to aid him, and that you feel duty bound to do so to the end, according to his not very wise instructions."

He arose and stood looking down at her kindly.

"My advice to you," he went on—"and I speak with a fair knowledge of the facts—is that you do nothing more. Be content with what you have attempted; allow me to act for you in anything further which you have in mind. Or, if you cannot give me your confidence, let me carry the thing on in my own way, as you proposed at the first."

There was a pause of some length; then the girl spoke.

"I am just a trifle bewildered at all this," she said, "and I really cannot say, Mr. Ashton-Kirk, that I altogether follow you."

He smiled, but the disapproving wrinkle still showed between his eyes.

"I see that you are still determined to hold to your attitude," he said. "I am sorry, of course, but then one is called upon at times to do as one thinks best, and I suppose that is what you are doing." He turned toward the door, and she arose and touched the bell. "Good-by."

"Good-bye," she returned.

He stood for a moment in the doorway regarding her with mingled annoyance and admiration. As he caught the steps of the approaching servant in the hall, he said:

"Possibly I can save you some little trouble. You need not call at the Rangnow Apartments. Up to last night, Allan Morris had not notified Mr. Tobin as to his new hiding-place. However, if you feel that you must see him, you can call at my place at this hour on the day after to-morrow. I am not sure, of course, but it occurs to me that he will be there."

CHAPTER XXIII.

THE SECRET OF THE PORTRAIT

The morning papers had an-nounced the fact that the detail of police would be withdrawn from the scene of the murder in Chester Place. With them it had been a matter-of-fact news item [illegible] was different. They [illegible] the matter [illegible] of [illegible] Two [illegible] of this feeling [illegible] headlines of some [illegible] comment [illegible] ...ly.

[illegible] Weagle had been [illegible] ...ted that he [illegible] maintain a [illegible] with [illegible] Kirk [illegible] this with some satisfaction in the late afternoon.

"They have given the thing even more publicity than I had hoped for" he said, as he helped Pendleton in the details of a rough-looking costume which that worthy was donning. "It must be a bad day for news, and they have plenty of space. At any rate, anyone who is at all interested in the fact, is now aware that after six o'clock this evening, 478 Christie Place will be unguarded except for the regular patrolmen. Of course," with a glance at Pendleton and another in a mirror at himself, "if a brace of rough-looking characters are hidden away within, there will only be a few who know it."

He opened a drawer and took out two black shining objects; the short barrels and blocky shapes told Pendleton that they were automatic revolvers.

"They will throw ten slugs as thick as your little finger while you're winking your eye as many times," said Ashton-Kirk.

They each slipped one of the squat formidable weapons into a hip pocket; then they made their way out at the rear of the house. With the collars of their sack coats turned up and their long visored cloth caps pulled down, they hurried along among the dull-eyed throngs that bartered and quarreled and sought their own advantage.

And when, in the uncertain dusk, a wagon drew up at 478, and two sack-coated, cloth-capped men began carrying parcels up the stairs, is it any wonder that Berg, watching from the window of his delicatessen store, said to his clerk:

"Dot furrier that rents der rooms by der third floor is putting some more things in storage over the summer, yet."

And when the waggon finally drove away, neglectfully leaving the two men behind, it is not surprising that the fancy grocer did not notice it. And, then, when the two policemen who had been on duty during the afternoon, came out, carelessly left the door unlocked, looked up to make sure that they had left none of the windows open, and then strode away with a satisfied air that follows a duty well done, who so keenly watched as to suspect?

The shadows on the second floor lengthened and grew grayer; they thickened in the corners; pieces of furniture grew vague and monstrous as the darkness began to cling to them and their outlines became lost; suits of armour loomed menacingly out of the gloom, the last rays of light striking palely upon helm or gorget, hideous zeal of wood and stone smiled evilly at the two watchers.

"There was food in the bundles which we carried up, then," commented Pendleton, as he lay back on the old claw-footed sofa.

"Yes," answered his friend. "The person or persons whom we expect will hardly come to-night, though we, of course, don't know; if they fail to appear we shall be forced to stick close to these rooms during the whole of to-morrow and also to-morrow night. Perhaps it will even be longer."

"In that case," said Pendleton, a little disconsolately, "the eatables will be very welcome. But I hope we won't have to stay long enough to finish them."

"Perhaps," said Ashton-Kirk, "I've let you in for too hard a task in this, Pen?"

The other rose up instantly.

"You couldn't give me too much to do in this matter," declared he, earnestly. "I would do it alone if you were not here, and I had brains enough, Kirk. The thing must end. If it goes on much longer and I keep seeing those infernal insinuations in the papers, I'll go complete-ly off my chump."

There was a little silence; then Ashton-Kirk said:

"I never knew that you were—ah—this way, old chap, until the other day. How long has it been going on?"

"Why, for ever, I think," answered Pendleton. Then very distantly [illegible] and I [illegible] ...ad [illegible] ...ion of [illegible] Ashton-Kirk. [illegible] ...ndle Kerrill. DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

The kidneys are often the first organs of the body to cause trouble. Their work of filtering the blood is greatly increased by excessive eating or by the use of highly-seasoned foods and alcoholic drinks.

As advanced age comes on most people suffer more or less from derangements of the kidneys. With some there are years of pains and aches, with others Bright's disease is soon developed and the end comes quickly.

Fortunately a great many have learned about Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills, and are enabled by their use to keep the kidneys healthy and active.

HALF MILLION MAY BE SAVED FROM THE WRECK OF THE ONTARIO BANK

(Toronto Star.)

That the shareholders of the defunct Ontario bank may receive something over $500,000 after they have paid the double liability call is the hope held out at present. This is still a possibility only, but it is contended that the double liability calls have been responded to so liberally that a large amount of property, owned by the bank, will not have to be sold until it realizes its full value.

Out of 600 shareholders over 500 have already responded to the calls, and 65 per cent. of the liabilities have been paid.

The remaining 35 per cent. of the liabilities will be paid off without the sale of considerable property, and this will be nursed along for favourable sale, and the price revert to the shareholders. There are between 20,000 and 25,000 acres of wild land to the north of Fort William and fifty acres of land near the city, which, it is said, are very desirable for timber mill sites. That within two years this property will be valuable is claimed in some quarters, so that the shareholders may receive a large percentage of the money which they have been forced to pay since the failure of the bank.

The subscribed capital was $1,500,000, so that if they do realize $500,000 on this property after the liabilities are paid, each shareholder will receive about 33 per cent. It will be some time before the properties will arrive at the value named.

INSANITY PLEA WILL BE USED IN SCHENK CASE

Defence Admits Packer Was Poisoned and May Drop Conspiracy Charge---Doctor Swears That Wife Said She Would be Better Pleased if Husband Died.

WHEELING, W. VA., JAN. 11.—Is the defence in the Laura Farnsworth Schenk poisoning case willing to discard its "family plot" and rely wholly upon the plea of hereditary insanity?

There is reason to believe that credence can be placed in the reports that such a course was practically decided upon at the conference of Mrs. Schenk's counsel last night.

The cross-examination to-day of the State's star medical expert, Dr. Frank Lemoyne Hupp, will indicate whether hypothetical conspiracy will figure prominently, if at all, in the defence of the millionaire's wife.

When Dr. Hupp left the stand, at the conclusion of yesterday's session, he had established the first direct evidence against Mrs. Schenk. The family plot theory was roughly handled from the time the physician began his testimony.

The defence can hardly hope to shake Mr. Hupp's deliberate recital of his conversation with Mrs. Schenk, in which he quoted her as saying: "Perhaps I would be more satisfied if John were to die."

The defence late yesterday hurriedly summoned two more physician witnesses, Dr. S. L. Jepson and Dr. J. J. Osborne. They are to be used, it was announced, in combatting certain points of Hupp's testimony, especially with regard to the effect of arsenic on the human system. But the Schenk defence has declared it will not deny that some one, who, it does not know, gave the packer poison. With that in mind, the belief that the two doctors would be used in bolstering up the insanity plea seems more likely.

Mrs. Schenk will go on the stand. This definite announcement was made by her attorneys to-day. She will not be subjected to cross-examination until near the trial closes, however. "We are not in the least afraid of any questions the State cares to ask." Attorney O'Brien said to-day.

Precautions were taken this morning to prevent a repetition of yesterday's confusion in the court room, when one woman was knocked down, a man robbed, and another woman's shoe lost in the fight for seats.

Wife Suggested a Nurse.

From Dr. Frank Lemoyne Hupp, the State's chief medical expert in the Schenk poisoning case, the defence to-day drew these points:

That Mrs. Schenk was the first to suggest a nurse for her mysteriously afflicted husband.

That Mrs. Schenk was ill, presumably as the result of fatigue from constant care of the sick packer.

That one medicine prescribed by Dr. Hupp contained lead and arsenic, and that in the six days previous to removing Schenk to the hospital nearly one grain of arsenic was administered through regular doses.

When court adjourned for the noon recess Dr. Hupp was still on the stand, and Attorney J. J. P. O'Brien, conducting the cross-examination, said: "I have not started in on him yet, believe me."

The prisoner was obviously pleased with the progress of the examination. For the first time since the trial started she was in a cheerful humour when she followed the deputy sheriff to the "bridge of sighs" connecting the courtroom with the jail.

Dr. Hupp said Schenk rapidly improved after he was taken to the hospital from his home.

O'Brien tried to get the doctor to acknowledge that mercury and iron in medicines tends to produce a dark line on the gums similar to the mark on the packer's gums which Hupp claims indicated his poisoning.

O'Brien attempted to produce from Schenk's statements to the physicians evidence that the packer was sick on his European trip, Dr. Hupp declared the millionaire was only slightly ill on two occasions, once from a chill and again from nausea. The frequency of arsenic and lead in commonly used compound medicine was then brought out by O'Brien.

O'Brien spent much of the time bringing out the fact that many commonly used medicines contain a solution of arsenic, and that the symptoms of lead poisoning, such as Schenk showed might come from other sources, or probably from one dose of lead.

ENNISMORE NEWS NOTES

ENNISMORE, JAN. 12—Everyone is pleased to know that John P. Flood our esteemed cheese maker at the Myrtle, has decided to instal a butter plant in his capacious cheese factory. This ought to prove a great boon to the community at large.

Patrick O'Connor, who for the past six years has been assisting Mr. Flood at the Myrtle, is at present attending the winter session of the Dairy College at Kingston.

The schools are all reopened, and no more cases of scarlet fever have appeared. Every effort was made to stay the progress of the dread disease and these efforts have proved successful. Much credit is due to Drs Galvin and McNulty, and the three or four trained nurses in charge of the fever.

Mr. W. H. Crough is the only member of last year's township council, who came out of the recent fray wearing his scalp. All the others went under. The new council is as follows: Reeve, Samuel Killen; Councillors, Stephen O'Connor, W. H. Crough, Cornelius O'Reilly and John Geary—all good, careful, honest men. But will they give satisfaction? Well!

Mr. Paul Costello, a student of Philosophy at St. Michaels, Toronto, was home for Christmas looking able and hearty. Paul is giving excellent satisfaction in his studies and is a great favourite with teachers and students.

The following teachers from Ennismore spent Christmas at their homes, Miss Mary Costello, Miss Annie Quinlan and Miss Catherine Meloney.

Dr. Meloney with his family spent Christmas at the home of Mr. John Scollard.

Mr. Frank Young, of Campbellford, a brother of Samuel Young, spent Christmas with his father and sister, Mrs. Jas. Mahoney.

Miss Gertrude Crowley, of Otonabee, has been engaged as teacher for S. S. No. 1, to replace Miss Katie O'Donoghue, who has retired from the teaching profession.

About three weeks ago, St. Martin's choir waited on their pastor, when Mrs. Dan Crough, on behalf of the choir, presented the Rev. Father with a beautiful picture of the choir members. Last week the choir made another presentation in the shape of a magnificent bed room set, in quartered oak, accompanied by the following address:—

To Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, Pastor of St. Martin's Church, Ennismore, Ont.:—

Dearly Beloved Pastor,—We, the members of St. Martin's choir, joyfully remembering that this is the occasion of the sixteenth anniversary of your ordination to the holy priesthood, and the ninth year of your ministry among us, join in conveying to you our sincere congratulations on the completion of such a long and faithful period of service, in the vineyard of the Divine Master and we shall ever pray that you may long be spared to continue the good work with which the past years have been filled.

When we glance back on the past years we cannot fail to be impressed with the vast amount of work you have accomplished and with your untiring zeal for the good cause. The duties of your exalted office have always been attended to with the greatest care. Many graceful acts of kindness and charity have been dispensed by your hand, and in the temporal order there has been a marked increase in social and educational activity among your people, due we believe, to the hearty encouragement which you have always given in these matters.

But while your parish as a whole shows unmistakable signs of advancement, we feel that this is especially true in the case of your choir. Our members have increased, and our enthusiasm has been enlivened by the many kind words of praise which you have from time to time uttered. The efficiency of our singing has, in full, been greatly improved as a result of your kindly criticism. The members of our choir have been attending practice with great punctuality and regularity, and have striven, however feebly, to assist you to have a choir, second to none.

But, aside from the aid you have given us, in the performance of our duties, we are still indebted to you, for the interest you have shown in us, as a social unit. In this respect we feel that you have left nothing undone to promote a spirit of harmony and good feeling among the members of the choir as a whole. Whether by means of social gatherings, little pleasure trips or amusements of various kinds, you have always provided means to that end.

It is then, dear Father, with a desire to give some slight expression of our esteem and gratitude, that we appear before you, on this, the feast of your ordination, and beg you to accept these small gifts, as a token of our sincere love and respect, and our earnest prayer is that you may long be spared to work in our midst.

Signed on behalf of St. Martin's choir,

AGNES SCOLLARD, Organist,
J. K. GALVIN,
MRS. D. SULLIVAN,
J. P. FLOOD.

In replying to the address, Father Fitzpatrick pointed out the real reason for their great success as a choir. It was not, he said, from any extraordinary musical ability of individual members, but from the unity, harmony and good feeling which always existed among them, as well as their constant attendance at practice. One of a priest's great difficulties in many parishes, is the management of the choir. Jealousies, petty spites and enmities often creep in and do untold harm. Such, he was pleased to say, was not the case with St. Martin's choir. They sang at divine service for the honour and praise of God, and not for any selfish motives. He was proud of his choir, and trusted that they would continue in their fidelity to practise regularly once a week.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

JUDITH ZARAINE.

Despite the fact that one of the principal members of her supporting cast was in a condition that might charitably be styled "illness" to such an extent as to seriously endanger the fate of the presentation, Miss Lena Ashwell, the celebrated English actress, created a most favourable impression upon a large audience at the Grand Opera House last night in C. M. S. McLellan's powerful new play "Judith Zaraine". The member of the cast, who was entrusted with the role of Col. Pontifex, one of the most important male parts, was in no condition to appear before the public, and as the action called for his almost continuous presence on the stage during the first act, the opening was, to say the least, not very auspicious. However, the magnificent acting of Miss Ashwell, and the finished and artistic work of the other members of the cast, pulled the presentation out of the fire, and the triumph scored was all the more pronounced in view of the obstacle that had to be overcome.

"Judith Zaraine" is a vivid picture of the everlasting struggle between capital and labour, and is a powerful, well-written play that grips one with the intensity of its situations and the force of its lines. The characters are clearly lined and are representative types of modern American life, and the play should be well received when it makes its New York debut.

Miss Ashwell, in an emotional role that made most exacting demands upon her talent, was magnificent throughout. Her wonderful voice, her charming presence and the intensity with which she enveloped her part made her work most pleasing indeed. Mr. Charles Waldron, in the leading role, supported Miss Ashwell most admirably, making the part of the capitalist, who has seen the error of his ways, realistic and convincing. The support was excellent. Howard Kyle as Conrad Borinski, the old shoemaker, and Donald Gallagher, as Carl Borinski, the timid boy, who was afraid of "soldiers and machinery," being especially successful. Mr. Walter Cluxton, an old Peterborough boy, gave a finished portrayal of the role of Lieut. Trench, and, in addition, acted as stage director for the presentation.

Canadian Automatic Transportation Co's Plant To Locate At Welland

A number from here attended the general stockholders' meeting of the Canadian Automatic Transportation Co., Limited, which was held yesterday at their head office, Confederation Life Chambers, Toronto, and were loud in their praise of the careful management and great prospects in store for the Company.

The company have recently secured a very desirable factory site, consisting of several acres in the progressive town of Welland. The location is an ideal one for their business, situated as it is on almost adjacent property to the large steel plant there, which can take care of the rolling out of their rails, posts, etc, and thus save unnecessary transportation charges on this heavy material. It also gives them easy access to seven railroads, besides water transportation for shipping facilities.

Necessary capital has been secured to justify the Company to start in active operation and the Executive Committee was instructed yesterday to get out the plans and specifications of their first factory building, which is to be a modern concrete structure.

The American Co., whose plant is in Buffalo, N.Y., have had for several months, roads in active operation, which are earning large profits to the stockholders in that Company. They have in their factory, and on their grounds in Buffalo nine miles of track, all completed and ready for shipment for the Montezuma and several other mining companies in Colorado to carry their total product to the steam line at Keystone. This line, when completed, will have an earning power of about $1,000.00 per day.

It will be worth your while to call at the local office of the Company, 18 Bank of Commerce Building, and see photos of roads and cars operated by this marvellous system in actual operation, working among the mountains of Pennsylvania and learn how you can secure stock in the Canadian Company before it is all taken up.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

I HAVE received a much deserved rebuke.

It was so much deserved and so much worth while that I am going to print as much of it as my space will allow to-day.

This was the way of it. I wrote about the spoiling of a child and ended with the prophecy that "some day maybe that son will run away and marry a chorus girl or disgrace his family by stealing a few hundred thousand from some bank."

I am justly taken to task as follows:

"It seems incredible to me, Miss Cameron, that a woman of your education and experience should consider marrying a chorus girl a disgrace and compare it in such a cold, hard way with the stealing of money. Don't you know that there are some chorus girls as pure and clean as the best of our girls? And don't you know that we have some who are by far sweeter, stronger and braver than some of our society girls?

"Believe me, Miss Cameron, some of those poor little girls work harder, longer and just as honestly for their daily bread as you and I do. Strangers in almost every city they come to, they must grope their way alone. I would like to enlighten you if I had time on just what these girls have to do. I've watched them rehearsing. I've talked with them, and I know.

"You might ask why girls take up such work. For the reason that there is no other profession in the world which educates and pays so well at the same time. Then if one really has talent the rewards are very great indeed.

"I know of one girl who took up chorus work as a stepping stone to greater things. The training in the chorus is very essential. One of these girls had to support her father, mother and two little brothers out of her twenty dollars a week. She became ill, but worked on until her frail constitution was worn to the snapping point. The manager, learning of the burden this slight girl carried, very mercifully allowed her a month of complete rest, paying her salary just the same. This is just one instance of the girls who, while appearing to have such a delightful time, are really carrying heavy weights on their often cruelly tired shoulders. There are many such.

"It's true that we have chorus girls of the other class. But we have girls with immoral tendencies in every walk of life—yours and mine. There may be much immorality on the stage, but one doesn't have to follow the crowd, you know. Those who do, find it a double sap of strength and very soon fall by the wayside. Those who are strong and brave and true, as many are, survive and sometimes realize their fondest dreams. The early training in the chorus plays a faint but very sweet accompaniment in the symphony of memories. Mascagni says: 'How flat and uninteresting would be the retrospect, if there were no shadows to bring out the high lights.'

"Many, very many of our most famous actresses have had their training in the chorus, actresses who are not only great actresses but great women.

"Anybody that works honestly, Miss Cameron, patiently enduring hardship and adversity, sacrificing comforts for the sake of the aim kept steadily in view, that person deserves the respect of God and man and it doesn't matter what the occupation is. Sometimes a word goes very, very deep. How many of us are cut by that cruel knife—the tongue. How many of us through a little prejudice condemn all as you have done, Miss Cameron, simply because you do not understand."

Dear "Reader," as she simply signs herself—I stand corrected. It is one of my beliefs, as it is yours, that so long as the man or woman is good, the occupation does not matter, provided, of course, it be honest work. And I also realize fully that those who keep to high ideals and clean lives, under trying circumstances, deserve the more praise.

I was thinking, of course, of the gay-and-easy-way kind of chorus girl, but I should not have made her the type of the whole profession.

I ask the pardon of those of the profession who have a right to grant it to me.

SOME WINTER GAMES FOR THE BOY SCOUTS

Human Burden Race---Hawks and Doves---Some Advice From Sir Baden Powell on Animals and What Can be Learned From Them.

Following are some good games for scouts this winter weather, and also some words from Sir Baden-Powell, one of the leaders in the scout movement:

HUMAN BURDEN RACE

Racing games are always popular, and this, which might also be termed the human potato race, resembling as it does that diverting game, ought to be of interest, especially to the bigger and physically stronger class of school boys.

Two squads are formed, and these line up facing each other in parallel lines about 30 feet apart. A chosen member of each squad then crosses to the opposite side, and at the given signal either rushes back to his squad, picks up the first of the line and carries him over to the other side of the open space.

No interference is permissible. Having carried one over, he goes back for another.

HAWKS AND DOVES

This also belongs to the racing variety of games, and to get the fullest amount of fun and physical recreation out of it a fair amount of space is required.

Two enclosures, the dovecotes, are marked out some 40 or 50 paces apart, and in one of them gather the doves. The hawk takes up a position midway between the two enclosures. The hawk claps his hands violently to scare the doves, who start to run, one at a time or three or four together, just as they choose, to gain the other dovecote.

Any that the hawk may touch during the flight become hawks and assist in the catching of other doves. But when there are more than one hawk, they must pursue with their hands joined, otherwise touching a dove does not mean capture.

At the same time the non-observance of this rule leads to greater excitement, providing there be not more than two hawks, and one of these may not take up a position beside a dovecote.

JUMP THE ROPE

To play this game requires a rope about 20 feet in length, to one end of which a light weight is fastened. The players stand in a circle with arms outstretched and hands clasped.

In the centre stands the rope-holder, and he, keeping the rope low down, begins to sweep it around the circle until he has got up a fair rate of speed. He then lets the rope fly out so that in swinging, as the players successively jump over it, it passes under their feet.

If a player miscalculates and gets struck by the rope, he drops out of the circle. Or, what is perhaps better, since swinging the rope is rather exhausting work if kept up for long, such a player should change places with him in the middle.

As the speed of the rope increases, or it is raised higher, if all are able to clear it, a good deal of healthy exercise as well as a lot of fun are obtainable. It may, perhaps, be found advisable for those in the ring not to clasp hands, and to stand sideways to the inside of the circle.

BOY SCOUTS AND ANIMALS

If you want to watch the habits of animals and birds, it is very useful to be able to imitate their calls. You can begin by calling chickens or by talking to dogs in dog language, and you very soon find you can give the angry growl or the playing growl of the dog. Owls, wood pigeons and curlews are very easily called.

Hunting or going after big game is one of the best things in scouting. I did not say that shooting or killing the game was the best part of it; for, as you get to study animals, you get to like them more and more, and you will soon find that you don't want to kill them for the mere sake of killing, and the more you see of them the more you see the wonderful work of God in them.

No scout should ever kill an animal unless there is some real reason for doing so, and in that case he should kill it quickly and effectively, so as to give as little pain as possible.

My brother was lately big game shooting in East Africa, and had very good sport with the camera living in the wilds and tracking and stalking, and finally snap-shotting elephants, rhinoceroses and other big animals.

One day he had crept up near to an elephant and had set up his camera and got his head under the cloth focussing it, when his native cried "Look out, sir!" and started to run. My brother poked his head out from under the cloth and found a great elephant coming for him only a few yards off. So he just pressed the button and then lit out and ran, too. The elephant rushed up to the camera, stopped and seemed to recognize that it was only a camera, after all, and smiling at his own irritation lurched off into the jungle again.

I have often laid out on moonlight nights to watch the animals, especially the wild boars, in the jungle and it is just as good fun as merely going after them to kill them. And I have caught and kept a young boar and a young panther, and found them most amusing and interesting little beggars.

I think one gets to know more about animals and to understand them better by keeping them as pets at first, and then going and watching them in their natural life. It would be a very good thing if every S. P. B. kept some kind of animal, such as a pony or a dog, birds or rabbits, or even live butterflies.

Every boy scout ought to know all about the tame animals which he sees every day. You ought to know all about grooming, feeding, watering a horse, about putting him into harness and putting him in the stable, and know when he is going lame, and should not, therefore, be worked, whether he needs shoeing, etc.

Other tame animals to understand are, of course, dogs. And a good dog is the very best companion for a scout who need not think himself a really good scout till he has trained a young dog to do all he wants of him. It requires great patience and kindness and genuine sympathy with the dog.

If you are lucky enough to own a camera, you cannot possibly do better than to start making a collection of photos of animals and birds taken from life. Such a collection is ten times more interesting than the ordinary boy's collection of stamps or crests or autographs, which any boy can accomplish by sitting at home and bothering other people to give.

And cameras can be got very cheap now: it only means saving up money in a money box for a short time.

Every article is interesting to watch, and it is as difficult to stalk a weasel as a lion.

Besides stalking animals, a good scout likes stalking birds and watching them. He discovers in this way where and how they build their nests. He does not, like the ordinary boy, want to go and rob them of their eggs, but he likes to watch how they hatch out their young and teach them to fly and feed themselves. Then learn the species of bird by its call and by its way of flying, and he knows which birds remain all the year around and which come at certain seasons, and what kind of food they like best, and how they change their plumage, what sort of nests they build, when they build them and what the eggs are like.

A good scout enjoys learning the ways and habits of all dumb creatures. I know boys who by patient study have become familiar with the habits of the most shy fishes, reptiles and insects. Even flowers have many of them, decided habits, and are well worth watching. Time that is spent studying nature is not to be considered lost time.

This is manly knowledge for any boy, and it is the sort of thing that will help him to grow up to be a fine, ob. rvant, understanding, alert man.—Lieutenant-General Sir Baden-Powell, K.C.B., in "Woman's Home Companion."

NEW YEAR DINNER

Very Pleasant and Enthusiastic Gathering of Red Rose Tea Staff

(Special from Toronto, Jan. 10.)

The New Year dinner of the Ontario branch of the Red Rose Tea Company was held at the offices and warehouse in this city on Saturday night. About fifty of the travelling, office and warehouse staffs and their wives sat down to an excellent repast, spread by Coles, in the board room. Marking the close of a very successful year's business, and every indication pointing to a very large increase in the sales of "good tea" this year, much enthusiasm pervaded the gathering.

Mr. Geo. E. Campbell, the manager, presided. A telegram of greeting was read from T. H. Estabrooks, of St. John, N.B., who was unable to be present and he, with was drunk with great heartiness. The progress of the toast list was enlivened with a few line of narrative and yet, and there was a ball throwing contest for the ladies, which created much amusement. It was an evening of great conviviality and thorough enjoyment, augurring well for good results for Red Rose Tea.

Building Permits In City Show A Decrease---"Construction's" Figures

The winter season let up in building operations held in anticipation by the more pessimistic, has as yet failed to put in its appearance. Judging from the present state of activities, the Canadian builder no longer cares the snap of his finger for the frost, the snow, or the sweep of the wind. Experience has taught him to meet weather conditions as they come, and his work is no longer confined to specific seasons, but one that keeps him busy from one end of the year to the other. Nothing more clearly demonstrates this than the comparative figures for the month of November, submitted to "Construction" from 24 important centres throughout the Dominion. These figures show a most gratifying state of progress on practically all sides, with individual gains in some cases such as has never before been attained in the history of the community they represent.

An average gain of 64 per cent., representing an investment of $8,051,419, as against $4,719,564 in the corresponding year of 1909, tells them the story of the month's progress recorded, and while the amount noted is slightly less than that recorded in October it nevertheless indicates a growth that is well in keeping with the remarkable development that has characterized the season throughout.

Possibly the most pronounced feature of the month was not so much the universal activity that obtained in general, as it was the heavy proportionate gains made in all parts. Toronto, as is its usual wont, stands well at the head of the list with an amount of $2,040,030, a splendid total to top off the heavy successive gains already to her credit; while Vancouver registers an amount for permits issued of $1,897,895, which is a most remarkable showing in view of this city's past performance. These totals are the largest reported for the month, and the gains are 5 per cent. noted than in the previous month, it

Although three more losses are and 211 per cent. in order named must be remembered that the number of cities reporting a gain one-third as great. Apart from Halifax's loss of 7 6per cent. and the decrease in Lethbridge of 27 per cent., the falling off, collectively, but little affects the exceedingly active conditions which otherwise prevailed. The largest increase for the month goes to Port Arthur, whose mighty development is reflected in a gain of 1,263 per cent., representing an investment of $182,016 as compared with $13,350 in the month of November, 1909. Ontario, in fact, turned itself to good account in practically every direction. Berlin recorded an increase of 365 per cent., Hamilton a gain of 44 per cent., and Brantford is ahead by 162 per cent. A big advance is also noted in the case of Fort William, which registered 198 per cent., and this is equally true of St. Thomas, which annexed a gain of 432 per cent. Fort William's total amounts to $111,480, which is $73,515 in excess of her previous corresponding figures. Again, Ottawa, which witnessed operations to the extent of $230,100, has an increase of 12 per cent., Windsor records a gain of 27 per cent., and Kingston, which does not submit comparative figures, reports operations to the extent of $23,965. The only two reversals noted in this province occur in the case of London and Peterboro, but considering the investment in either cases these declines are of very small proportions.

In the western section of the Dominion the headway made was equally pronounced. Aside from Vancouver's phenomenal upturn previously mentioned, many of the cities reporting forged ahead in a most substantial manner. Especially can this be said in the case of Calgary, which undertook new work amounting to $500,804, equal to a gain of 179 per cent. This total, which is slightly in excess of that noted in the previous month, speaks volumes for the wonderful development which this city is experiencing. Edmonton, where a falling off of 16 per cent. is noted, was, however, less fortunate; as was also the city of Lethbridge, whose decrease has been previously stated. In Saskatchewan, both Regina and Moose Jaw slightly topped their figures for the same period of 1909, the investment in each case being approximately $50,000. Prince Albert sends in a stated amount of $240,000 without corresponding figures for the previous year; while Saskatoon, which issues permits aggregating $184,210, shows a gain of 647 per cent. Substantial strides were also made in Winnipeg and Victoria, which have to their credit gains of 27 and 94 per cent. in the order named.

OUTLOOK IS BETTER FOR RECIPROCITY NOW

Tariff Negotiators Spend Three Hours in Session and the Experts Are Now at Work---United States Not Worrying About the Objections of Individuals to the Proposals.

Washington, Jan. 12.—The outlook for a successful termination to the Canadian-American trade negotiations now pending is considerably brighter to-day. Hon. Mr. Fielding and Hon. Mr. Paterson conferred with Secretary Knox for almost three hours yesterday afternoon, and when they separated there was a much more optimistic tone in the little circle of diplomats. For the first time since the conference started the Canadian Ministers called to the meeting their two department-al assistants—namely, Mr. John McDougall, Deputy Minister of Customs, who was summoned from Ottawa, and Mr. James A. Russell, the tariff expert of the Finance Department. The progress of these negotiations that have passed the initial stages, and are on a basis more likely to lead to something definite.

It is stated in Washington circles that the American proposals were found by the Canadians to be unexpectedly broad and comprehensive, giving substance to President Taft's seriousness in opening up the whole subject. In harmony with this the President has told recent callers at the White House that for the present the Americans are not worrying over what the personal or sectional opposition may be to their proposals.

Expressions of opinion at the capitol yesterday was rather more favorable to the principle of freer trade with Canada. Inasmuch as legislation affecting national revenues has to be passed upon by the House of Representatives the attitude of the leaders of that body on this question is of importance. Champ Clark of Missouri is billed for the Speakership of the next House, and as such will be House leader. At present he is the minority leader, and speaks with authority for the Democratic party.

"I am, and always have been, in favor of reciprocity with all the nations of the world, especially with Canada and Central and South America," declared Mr. Clark. "They are our neighbors, and we ought to have the bulk of their foreign trade. One of the most foolish things that ever happened was the abrogation of the treaty between Canada and the United States in 1866.

"I am in favor of anything in reason," said Mr. Clark, "that will make closer relations between Canada and the United States. We are the same sort of people, the same breed."

COMMONS REOPENS

First Day After Session Is Given up to the Private Members—National Issue of Bank Notes Proposed

FIRST DAY'S BUSINESS

Ottawa, Jan. 12—After a three weeks' recess over the Christmas holidays the House of Commons was revivalized into life yesterday afternoon. It was private members' day, and a number of matters of more or less public importance were discussed.

As aftermath of the Farmers' Bank failure, was a notice of motion given by W. F. Maclean (South York), that when the revision of the Bank Act came up he would propose a clause providing for the public inspection of bank returns, for an issue of national bank notes, properly secured, to take the place of the present bank note issue, and for the repeal of the double liability clause.

R. S. Lake (Qu'Appelle) gave notice that on Thursday he would make reference to what he thought was a particularly offensive article on immigration to Canada, which recently appeared in an English paper, John Bull.

C. L. Owen (E. Northumberland), called the attention of the Minister of Railways and Canals to the pollution of the Trent River and the consequent destruction of game fish. Mr. Graham promised attention.

W. D. Staples (Macdonald, Man.) took exception to an article in the Grain Growers' Guide, under the caption, "The Need for Decided Action," which stated that the farmers elected men to Parliament who simply laughed at them after election day was over. Mr. Borden had outlined the very policy on terminal elevators which the farmers' delegation had advanced, and had divided the House upon it. He himself had moved a resolution asking that the vacancy on the Railway Commission be given to a practical farmer.

R. L. Borden made an allusion to the reciprocity negotiations now in progress at Washington, and asked if the Government could give the House any further information on what basis the negotiations were being conducted, and why Sir Wilfrid changed his mind "not to go to Washington again."

The Prime Minister replied that Mr. Borden was in possession of as much information as he had about the negotiations. The Government would be judged by their action, and any policy adopted would have to be submitted for the approval of the House. "We never went to Washington," declared Sir Wilfrid. "But we are always ready to receive an invitation and to act upon it; we are always ready to improve our trade relations with our neighbors."

In reply to Richard Blain (Cons., Peel) Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King said that Judge Barron, Stratford, had been appointed to investigate the matter of the re-appointment of G.T.R. striker whose reinstatement had been deferred.

Major Sharpe (N. Ontario) asked if the attention of the Government had been called to the failure of the Farmers' Bank, and the irregularities alleged to have been connected with the securing of the charter. He asked if it was the intention to appoint a royal commission to investigate, in the public interest.

"In the absence of the Finance Minister, I would not like to give an answer one way or the other," replied Sir Wilfrid.

"Has there been any petition for a royal commission?" pressed Major Sharpe.

"Not to my knowledge," said the Prime Minister.

The Very Eight-hour-day bill occupied the attention of the House for some time in committee, a few clauses and amendments being passed.

A supplementary return, tabled in the Commons yesterday at the request of Hon. Geo. E. Foster, gives the details of the resolutions adverse to reciprocity with the United States, passed by Boards of Trade and other public bodies throughout the Dominion; also letters of protest which have been addressed to the Minister of Finance on the subject.

The latter include a number of letters from companies objecting to the idea of reciprocity in coal. These are from the Dominion Coal Co., the Acadia Coal Co. the Intercolonial Coal Mining Co., and the Nova Scotia Steel Co. Seventeen P.W.A. lodges of the Maritime Provinces likewise object to reciprocity in coal. Other bodies which have sent in their protest to the Government include Toronto, Stratford, Welland, Deseronto, Hamilton, Kingston and Victoria, B.C. Boards of Trade, the Sydney, C.B., Trades and Labor Council, and the citizens of Stellarton, N.S.

A return, tabled at the request of A. B. Ames, shows that the total cost of the enquiry into the Lumsden charges as to over-classification on the N.T.R., which was conducted last session, was $11,103. Of this amount $9,899 was paid for legal services and reporting, the remaining sum being paid to witnesses as fees. Smith, Markey & Skinner of Montreal received $3,800, F. C. Moss of Toronto, $2,850, and F. H. Chrysler, who was public counsel, $2,500.

A return was presented to Parliament by Hon Mackenzie King, detailing correspondence which has taken place in connection with the settlement of the Grand Trunk strike. One of the features of the return is a letter penned by Sir Richard Cartwright, in his capacity as acting Premier, to Mr. Hays, pointing out the effect the strike was having on business throughout Ontario, and urging that, if a settlement could not be effected through conference between the parties the matter should be left to arbitration.

How Hans Holmer Went To Power Hall Marathon

It was in a rather strange way that Hans Holmer, of Halifax, heard of the Scottish classic, and in a still odder way that he happened to know the very man that would fit him for his enterprise.

Holmer was sitting one day in the little shop run by Tommy Robertson on Beekman Street, New York, with a crowd of athletes, old cronies, dopesters, and athletic hangers-on, when he overheard some talk about the big event across the water. Robertson, who is better known as "Sparrow," was busy mending some worn track shoes for an anxious novice who could hardly wait for the shoes to be finished, when the magic words of "Powder Hall" fell upon his ears, and immediately he was all attention. "Powder Hall," he exclaimed; "why my father used to be ground-keeper at Powder Hall, and let me tell you that this run is the biggest event of its kind on the other side of the pond."

Holmer was seated on an old box which was pressed into service for lack of chairs, and although he was all attention to the conversation, he did not vouchsafe a word, but calmly listened for more details of the big run.

"Say," he said, as the door closed on the last departing figure, "tell me about that Powder Hall affair, will you?"

"Why, my boy, that is the biggest affair of its kind in Europe. It attracts all of the big distance cracks from the Continent as well as the British Isles. Too bad," he added, after a moment of hesitation, "that you are not over there."

Holmer did not reply, but left the office and counted his money. He found after careful compilation of the figures that he had an even $100. He immediately went and bought his ticket and some other little necessaries which he was forced to procure, and with everything in readiness he again counted his roll and discovered that it had dwindled to $37.

After his inventory he made his way to the Sparrow's again. "Say," he said to Robertson, "I am going, and have just a few dollars to spend for meals and other necessary incidentals. I am going to enter that Marathon and try and win, and if I win, there will be something doing. If I lose," and he paused, "well, I will have to work my way back to Beekman Street on a cattle boat."

"I will make your shoes, so don't worry on that score." And he did, one pair for protection against rain and fog, with thick soles and high uppers, another pair for half muddy conditions, and still another pair for travelling over smooth roads in good weather. With these packed in his grip, Hans silently shook the Sparrow by the wing and without any further ado headed for the pier.

Well, the Marathon was run. Competing against him were famous runners from England, Ireland, Scotland, and the Continent, and his greatest competitor was a Frechman by the name of Bouchard. From a one to five shot he tumbled the odds to even money, and finally piled in a winner by three-quarters of a mile in 2.32.21; a new record for the distance. At every mile he made new records, and won the purse, which was only $400. The purse wasn't much, but Holmer made a reputation that will be worth a fortune, and it isn't likely that he will be a valet de chambre on the cow ship.

CHAMPION TOURIST IS McGREGOR

ALMONTE, JAN. 11—When it comes to getting over a given piece of territory in a given time, "Mag" McGregor, the Almonte boy, who played with the Tecumseh Lacrosse team, has old man Euclid beaten to a frazzle. "Mag" got a hurry-up call to go to Port Arthur to play with the Lake City team on Christmas Day. He made the jump played two games with the Port team, the last on Jan. 2, being instrumental in winning both matches. He clambered aboard the train Wednesday and arrived in Almonte last Thursday morning, after two days' travel, played with the local team Thursday night, drove to Carleton Place, caught the night train, arriving in Toronto Friday morning. He made connections with the Berlin hockey team by train the same evening and after travelling over half the continent and playing hockey everywhere, he jumped on the ice, and was the star man with the Berlin team against Galt. He played in Berlin again Monday night, and last night played for Port Hope. Tonight he will play with Berlin at Galt. "Mag" holds a long distance hockey record that will hardly be broken for some years to come.

"Consumption"
Three Doctors Attended Her. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup Cured Her.
It has long been known that the balsamic odor of the newly cut pine tree heals and invigorates the lungs and consumptives improve and revive amid the perfume of the pines. Since but few can command the luxury of a visit to the pineries, it will be good news to many to know that the essential healing principle of the pine has been separated, and refined, and combined with other absorbent, expectorant and soothing medicines of recognized worth in the manufacture of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.
Mrs. Charles McDermott, Bathurst, N.B., writes: "I thought I would write and let you know the benefit I have received through the use of your Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. Three years ago I had Consumption and had three doctors attending me, and they were very much alarmed about my condition. I was so weak and miserable I could not do my housework. While looking through your B.B.B. almanac I saw that Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup was good for weak lungs so I got a bottle and after taking ten bottles I was completely cured. At that time I weighed 135 pounds and now weigh 172, a gain of 37 pounds in three years. I now keep it in the house all the time and would not be without it for anything as I owe my life to it."

Boston Tar-Baby Eliminated Joe Jeanette From the Heavyweight Class

BOSTON, MASS., JAN. 11. — All chance of Joe Jeanette's meeting Jack Johnson has been eliminated, according to Boston fight fans to-day, by the decisive beating Sam Langford, the "Boston Tar Baby," gave the other big black from New York, in their 12-round meeting at the Armory last night.

The biggest crowd that ever packed the Armory saw Langford give the New York negro such a hammering as was rarely been seen here. Langford knocked Joe down for the count of nine in the first round.

The one thing the fans could find in Jeanette's favour was his gameness in taking the punishment and sticking through, when from the fifth round he was always on the defensive.

SOME HOCKEY HAPPENINGS

"Buck" Irving went through Toronto to-day to attend an emergency pro hockey meeting in Galt. The three-cornered league is said to be shaky, and "Buck" has been called to help things out. Another effort will be made to get a team in Brantford.

Trainer Billy Breen of the Peterborough Hockey Club, has unearthed the famous old blue and white box that used to accompany the Peterborough team on all their trips, as a storage place for their sticks, skates and uniforms, and it will take its first jaunt for some years with the team to Trenton to-morrow night. The old Peterborough club carried the box with them for years. It has accompanied the blue and white team to Galt, Goderich, Stratford, Midland, Parry Sound, Kingston, Smith's Falls Brockville, Toronto, and many other places within the jurisdiction of the O.H.A., but for the past three years has been in the discard. Let us hope that its old love for travelling will not be appeased until a couple of championships come back to Peterborough.

The Intermediate and Juniors had a great practise at Brock Street Rink last night, when two full lineups were out. The players are turning out to practise as never before—a very encouraging sign.

Charlie Ray, Captain of the Intermediates, was enabled to get in harness for the first time since the Argonaut game, last night, and he was going great guns after his enforced rest.

As the Intermediates will be out of town to-morrow night the Grillers will have their practise hour, and every member of the Junior O. H. A. team is requested to be out. The Grillers next game is next Tuesday night, in Lindsay.

The Peterborough intermediate O. H. A. team will leave for Trenton where they will play an O. H. A. game to-morrow night on the 1.40 G. T. R. train to-morrow. The following players will make the trip: Derocher, Bond, Denison, Ray, Dobson, Sorel, Kelly, Coughlin, McMillan.

POST CARD COLUMN

Editor Post Card Column.

Dear Sir,—The executive administrators of our city, as represented by the Boards of Aldermen and Education, have a year of great possibilities before them.

It is impossible to forecast the results of their acts, but we may, with a certain amount of propriety, born of distressing experience in the past offer a few admonitions of a general nature, for their guidance in the future.

Any fish can swim down stream.

The strength of a chain lies in its weakest link.

Strength of will is the test of a man's abilities.

It is the positive man, the man of decision, who says "yes" when he means yes, who says "No" when he means no, who is the power in the world.

Do not be too confiding in others, be confident in your own resources. Every man has a weak side. Every wise man knows where it is and keeps a double guard there.

When a plausible friend (?) is trying to persuade you to your own disadvantage, vield, and you win only his contempt.

A straight line is the shortest in morals as well as in geometry.

Men prefer a backbone to a wishbone.

When in doubt don't plan — for — to — with without a compass.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Jan. 11.—At the Canadian Pacific Live Stock Market the receipts were 500 cattle, 200 sheep and lambs, 825 hogs and 100 calves.

A feature of the trade was the continued strong undertone to the market for cattle and prices scored a further advance of a quarter cent per lb. for all grades. This is attributed to the small supplies coming forward and the good demand for stock for local consumption, as buyers generally were well cleaned out of supplies. At the higher range of prices the trade was active and everything was cleaned up long before noon.

Choice steers sold at 6½c to 6¾c; good, at 6c to 6¼c; fairly good, at 5½c to 5¾c; fair, at 5c to 5¼c, and the lower grades at 4c to 4½c per lb. There was also a good demand for cows and bulls and sales were made freely at prices ranging from 4c to 6c per lb., as to quality.

Another feature of the trade is the very strong feeling in the market for hogs and prices since Monday have made a further advance of 50c to 60c per cwt., which is due to the scarcity of stock and the keen competition between buyers for supplies. The demand was active and a brisk trade was done with sales of selected lots at $8.35 to $8.60 per cwt., weighed off the cars.

The market for sheep was also stronger and prices show an advance of ¼c per lb. Supplies coming forward are small, for which the demand is good and sales were made at 4½c to 4¾c per lb. Lambs were firm under a good demand, at 6¼c to 6½c per lb. A fairly good trade was done in calves at prices ranging from $3 to $12 each as to quality.

SHOW CLOSES TO-NIGHT HAS BEEN GREAT SUCCESS

The Judge Will Remain Over and Will Discuss His Awards With the Exhibitors—A Magnificent Showing of Poultry.

SOME OF THE FEATURES

The close of Peterborough's most successful poultry show will be at 10 oclock to-night. The exhibitors will be interested to know that the judge will be kept over to-night to answer any questions they may ask as to why they did not get a prize. The special attractions at the show this afternoon were a raccoon and an owl, also some rabbits. The firemen also were so elated at their good luck, that they placed on exhibition this afternoon a pair of pigeons. As well as the 1st, 2nd and 3rd prizes won by the firemen, they won the special prize for the White Rock pullet. The stock was purchased from Dr. J. B. Pentland, who also scored a triumph in the prize winning, 2nd prize cock and 1st prize for pullet; also a special prize for White Rock pullet. Mr. E. C. Srigley won 3rd prize for Wyandotte cockerel and 3rd for pullet, Mr. W. F. Dummitt had a fine showing of Black Orpingtons. They won the $10 prize at Napanee and the silver cup was won by the same bird here. Also 1st prize cockerel and 1st and 2nd prize for hen.

A large crowd is expected at the hall to-night, it being the last night of the show. The management deserve credit for the pains they have taken in keeping the judge over, in order that the exhibitors would be thoroughly satisfied. No doubt many of the exhibitors will take advantage of the opportunity and by doing so will get a lot of useful knowledge they would otherwise have to learn by experience. M any special attractions are being put o nto-night and a large crowd will in all probability be the result.

OBITUARY

A MORTON YOUNG.

A very sad death occurred with startling suddeness yesterday morning about 8 o'clock, when Mr. A. Morton Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Young, Almonte, Ont., passed away in the hospital in Toronto. The deceased young man was in his nineteenth year and previous to this had never been seriously ill. Death was due to appendicitis, and resulted from this disease, after only three short days of illness.

Mr. Young came to this city from Almonte a couple of years ago, and worked in the test department of the C.G.E. until last autumn, when he went to Toronto to attend University. While in the test department he was a general favourite with the young men and the sad news of his death will be received with deepest regret by them.

The deceased leaves to mourn his loss one sister and two brothers. The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at Almonte.

CHILD BURNED TO DEATH

Special to the Examiner.

BOBCAYGEON, JAN. 11.—Erastus Anderson, the six-year-old son of J. J. Anderson, of Harvey, six miles nort hof Bobcaygeon, was burned to death in his cot last night at nine o'clock. He was in bed with his little sister, whose life was saved by W. Laird, who noticed the fire. The flames were too strong to allow him to return for the boy. The cause of the fire is unknown.

COULD YOU USE THIS MONEY?

Believing that we can save the student from $100 to $250 on the cost of a course in stenography (even though it necessitates going from his own town or city) and still give him an education which is fully the equal of any, we offer to pay fare up to $10 to the first person enrolling from any municipality. This is done to convince out-of-town persons that 30-day stenography is really and truly genuine. We can afford to do this. We have enrolled 17 students from Orillia this year although they have their own Pitman College. We have enrolled five from Lindsay, four from Galt, etc., etc., because one satisfied graduate carried home the truth. Write for full particulars. Moon College 282-286 Yonge street, Toronto.

42 BELOW ZERO

A Strange Likeness.

An extraordinary resemblance has recently been discovered at the London Natural History Museum between a specimen of the huge African elephant and the pygmy shrew mouse. Sir E. Ray Lankester suggested comparison of the two, and the result has been that practically every bone, muscle, blood vessel and nerve of the giant beast has been found identically reproduced in the little animal, which is scarcely two inches in length. In the museum a stuffed mouse has been placed between the fore feet of its enormous mounted prototype for the purpose of showing the curious likeness.

Costly Cigars.

The Rothschilds smoke the most costly cigars that are made—the Henry Clay sobranos, which cost $1.50 each. These are wrapped in gold leaf and placed in little inlaid cedar wood cabinets.

Teeth.

All decay of the teeth begins from without consequently if the teeth's surfaces be kept scrupulously clean [illegible]

SEVEN PASSENGERS KILLED AND EIGHTEEN INJURED IN AN AWFUL RAILWAY WRECK

Westbound New York Central Train Crashed Into Rear End of Pullman Boston-Buffalo Express Just Before Daybreak This Mornidg.

SWITCH WAS WRONG

Examiner Special.

BATAVIA, N.Y., JAN. 13.—Seven was not set right. The passengers killed were asleep in their berths when the great engine struck the car at high speed, telescoping the Pullman and grinding its victims to death under its iron wheels. Owing to the bodies being fearfully mangled the recovery and identification passengers were killed and eighteen injured, when a west-bound train. No. 23, New York Central, crashed into the rear end of a Boston-Buffalo express, standing on the siding here this morning, just before daybreak. The wrecked train, No. 49, was ahead of time, and was giving the other train an opportunity to pass it, but apparently, the switch is difficult. The engine also telescoped the day coach ahead of the Pullman, which was full of passengers.

Supt. Everett, of the Western Division of the New York Central, made this statement in reference to the wreck:

"From such preliminary investigation as I have been able to make, J. R. Lydell, of Buffalo, engineer of train 23, was responsible for the accident, in that he disobeyed the signals. Lydell has been with the road forty years and had a perfect record.

Mr. C. E. Dittman to Commence Boring as Soon as Weather Will Permit

Mr. R. H. Leary received a letter from Mr. C. E. Dittman in Wainsburg, Pa., stating that it was his intention to commence to bore for gas just as soon as the weather will permit. He would like to meet the farmers of the surrounding district at a public meeting, the date to be announced later.

THIS SOUNDS LIKE BUSINESS.

We positively guarantee, in writing, to refund every cent paid by any student who, at any time during the first two weeks in our College, will stand in the presence of the class and state that we have misrepresented facts or that he or she is dissatisfied with our college or system. To Toronto pupils this would hardly be required, as they are in a position to personally investigate, but to out-of-town persons, who are to be pardoned for being suspicious of 30-day Shorthand, the above written guarantee will dispel all doubt. Enclose this advertisement for full particulars of an actual cash saving of $75 to $100 and four or five months' time (or wages). Address Moon College, 282-286 Yonge street Toronto.

FARMERS' BANK MANAGER PLEADS GUILTY TO 3 CHARGES

Examiner Special:

TORONTO, JAN. 13.—To the surprise of a crowded court room this morning W. R. Travers, former manager and Vice President of the Farmers' Bank, now in liquidation, pleaded guilty to three charges, one of the theft of $40,000, another of fraudulent returns to the Government, and a third one of issuing false documents. H. H. Dewart, K. C., made a plea followed by the statement of "Guilty", by Travers himself, in a firm voice. Magistrate Denison then heard the details of the investigation into the accounts, etc., and postponed sentence until Monday.

MANUFACTURERS TRY TO OFFSET FARMERS AT OTTAWA

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, JAN. 13.—This was manufacturers' day at the Capitol. The big committee room was crowded with senators, members of parliament and manufacturers from every manufacturing city and town in the Dominion. It was intended to offset the big farmers 'delegation the other day, and while not quite so strong numerically, probably represented as much or more actually invested capital. They came from east and west, from the shores of the Atlantic and Pacific. D. A. Gordon, Liberal M.P., for West Kent, formally introduced them to Sir Wilfrid Laurier and assembled legislators.

W. H. Rowley, President Canadian Manufacturers' Association and general manager E. B. Eddy Co., Hull, was the first spokesman. He said the manufacturers had been seriously misunderstood and misrepresented. He pointed out that they had done a great deal for the general public's good. They had brought about the cheapening of the cost of insurance transportation and had worked out a scheme of technical education. Canada had very much to thank manufacturers for.

There were received long memorials setting forth the well known protectionist arguments of manufacturers. Then let it be known that, from their standpoint, the present tariff was all right. There was not need for a change. They were also opposed to any increase in British preference.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier made an appeal in a diplomatic reply, assuring the deputation that the government's intention was now as it ever was, to safeguard all varied interests of Canadians of every class. At the same time, he hoped on the return of Messrs. Fielding and Patterson from Washington, that some reciprocal agreement favoured by manufacturers, might be announced.

TORONTO WOMAN SUICIDE SAID TO HAVE ONCE LIVED IN PETERBOROUGH

Believed to be Same Person Who Tried to End Her Life During Her Residence Here, by Asphyxiation---Lived at Corner of Aylmer and McDonnel Streets.

TORONTO, JAN 12 With but three words finished of a letter, Mrs Samuel G. Ball was found in a dying condition in an upstairs room in her home at 681 Crawford street, and beside her on the table was an empty two-ounce carbolic acid bottle.

After writing the three words, "I have taken——" the woman collapsed, and was found later by some neighbours who had called.

Mrs. Ball was a woman about 45 years of age, and the only occupant of the house at the time, her husband being out.

The only motive which can be given for her act is ill-health, the woman having suffered from nervousness for some months past.

Though Dr. John E. King, of Dovercourt road and Dr. W. H. Robertson were called in immediately, the case was so far advanced that they were unable to save the woman's life. Death occurred about two hours afterwards.

It is learned that this unfortunate woman is the same Mrs. Ball, who was at one time a resident of Peterborough, having resided at the corner of Aylmer and McDonnell streets, and it will be remembered that she attempted suicide during her residence here. A year ago last July she tried to end her life by asphyxiation, but was discovered before it was too late.

BOY MURDERED BY KIDNAPPERS MAY BE A CANADIAN CHILD

Body Found at Albany Resembles Young Scott of Windsor the Child Kidnapped There Last May---Suicide Theory is Not Believed.

ALBANY, N.Y., JANUARY 12. While the police and detectives work [illegible] for ransom had been refused by the parents.

[illegible] face downward in a swamp on the outskirts of this city yesterday an autopsy was being held to determine if not he had been poisoned. There were [illegible] around his mouth.

When the body was found the shoes were missing. A baffling feature of the case was the fact that no report of a boy being missing is in the hands of the police. Captain Hanson declared today that no one had been [illegible] and that to [illegible] acid, which were poured up to the dead boy. The suicide theory is scouted.

May Be Windsor Boy.

The police to-day advised Windsor, Ont., to find if a boy named Scott who was kidnapped there on May 25, 1910, has been found. Information concerning the lad was discovered in a circular sent out by the Windsor authorities at the time. In this the boy is described as about four years old, light-haired and plump, [illegible] roughly, which agree with the description of the [illegible] child here. The circular says that the Scott boy was taken from his home [illegible] by a man and a [illegible] woman.

What a Young Man Says:

"My education has been interfered with and my eyes have been my handicap all my life long. My parents did not realize this and I did not myself until too late, but I see now that if I could have had suitable glasses in my boyhood, life would have been very different to-day." Many a child is considered slow at school, when suitable glasses is all that interferes with his or her education.

DEFENCE IS OPENED

Examiner Special.

HAMILTON, JAN. 13.—The case for the defence in the trial of Tom Fenton, charged with murdering his father, Elijah, was opened this afternoon, when Mrs. Tom Fenton was called to the stand by George Lynch Staunton, K.C.

She said he had been married three years and there was no trouble between herself and the dead man, or husband. She left Fenton home because Mrs. [illegible] John came to live there. At one time Elijah gave Tom seventy-five dollars for her.
